Hi Yaowei,

We have recently received the following email/letter regarding your "Chain Rxn" application. As you know, the Facebook Developer Terms of Service prohibits applications that infringe the intellectual property rights of a third party. If your application does contain infringing content, you must remove it immediately.

As you are solely responsible for the operation of your application, we request that you promptly resolve this issue directly with the complaining party. We reserve all rights in regard to this matter, including all of our rights under the Developer Terms of Service.

Thanks,

Kieran

Hi Yaowei,

We informed you on 05/22/2009 that Facebook recently received a claim of alleged rights infringement regarding your "Chain Rxn" application. The complainant has since notified us that you have not responded to their concerns and as such, we request that you address this matter with all due urgency.

Again, the Facebook Statement of Rights & Responsibilities ("SRR") prohibits applications that infringe the intellectual property rights of a third party. We continue to reserve all rights in regard to this matter, including all of our rights under the SRR.

Thanks,

Kieran
