Julio,
I have no problem with that.

As requested in my email dated November 9th, and in light of the Plaintiff's pledge to abide by the terms of the agreed-upon protective order prior to formal entry by the Court, please confirm whether or not Facebook is willing to respond to Plaintiff's discovery requests now that the parties are in agreement.

Brian,

I think we're just about there on the protective order. However, I wanted to get your thoughts on Section 8(e) regarding source code inspection logs.

As currently drafted, the provision reads:

(e) The Receiving Party shall maintain a record of any individual who has inspected any portion of the source code in electronic or paper form. The Receiving Party shall maintain all paper copies of any printed portions of the source code in a secured, locked area. The Receiving Party shall not create any electronic or other images of the paper copies and shall not convert any of the information contained in the paper copies into any electronic format. The Receiving Party shall only make additional paper copies if such additional copies
