discovery from May and June to September and October of 2011 due to delays in inspecting evidence until January of 2011. It is not clear why the original deadlines set in May and June of 2011 would be insufficient. Moreover, the parties propose moving the discovery deadlines to be after the dispositive motions would be heard and any opportunity to serve motions in limine would have passed. In fact, they propose that expert discovery end on the Saturday before the pre-trial conference is schedule. The Court finds that this proposed schedule is not conducive to orderly trial preparation.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
