United States District Court
For the Northern District of California

1 Currently before the Court is defendants’ motion for summary judgment on claims related to
2 sales by undisclosed conspirators or affiliates. MDL Master Dkt. No. 8921. For the reasons set forth
3 below, the Court GRANTS IN PART AND DENIES IN PART defendants’ motion.

5 LEGAL STANDARD

6 Summary judgment is proper “if the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any 7 material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). The 8 moving party bears the initial burden of demonstrating the absence of a genuine issue of material fact.
9 Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). The moving party, however, has no burden to 10 disprove matters on which the non-moving party will have the burden of proof at trial. The moving
11 party need only demonstrate to the Court that there is an absence of evidence to support the non-moving
12 party’s case. Id. at 325.

13 Once the moving party has met its burden, the burden shifts to the nonmoving party to “set forth,
14 by affidavit or as otherwise provided in Rule 56, ‘specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for 15 trial.’” T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. v. Pac. Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987) (citing
16 Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324). To carry this burden, the non-moving party must “do more than simply show
17 that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts.” Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co., Ltd. v.
18 Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 (1986). “The mere existence of a scintilla of evidence . . . will
19 be insufficient; there must be evidence on which the jury could reasonably find for the [non-moving 20 party].” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 252 (1986).

21 In deciding a summary judgment motion, the Court must view the evidence in the light most 22 favorable to the non-moving party and draw all justifiable inferences in its favor. Id. at 255.
23 “Credibility determinations, the weighing of the evidence, and the drawing of legitimate inferences from 24 the facts are jury functions, not those of a judge . . . ruling on a motion for summary judgment.” Id.
25 However, conclusory, speculative testimony in affidavits and moving papers is insufficient to raise
26 genuine issues of fact and defeat summary judgment. Thornhill Publ’g Co., Inc. v. GTE Corp., 594 F.2d 27 730, 738 (9th Cir. 1979). The evidence the parties present must be admissible. Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(2).

1 DISCUSSION

2 Defendants move for summary judgment as to plaintiffs’ claims based on purchases from entities
3 not identified in discovery as conspirators or affiliates. Specifically, defendants seek summary judgment
4 as to plaintiffs’ claims as follows:

6 (i) Claims by AASI based on sales by: Samsung Electronics and Samsung SSI;

7 (ii) Claims by Circuit City based on sales by: Innolux Display Corp., Optrex Corp., Quanta
8 Display Inc., SVA NEC, Toppoly Optoelectronics Corp., Unipac Optoelectronics, Epson
9 America, and Hitachi America;

10 (iii) Claims by Compucom based on sales by: Samsung Electronics;

11 (iv) Claims by NECO based on sales by: Samsung Electronics;

12 (v) Claims by Tech Data based on sales by: IBM Latin America and Samsung Electronics; and

13 (vi) Claims by Tracfone based on sales by: Samsung Electronics.¹

15 Defendants argue that the Court should grant summary judgment as to plaintiffs’ claims related
16 to any alleged conspirators or affiliates that plaintiffs failed to identify in response to defendants’
17 contention interrogatories. Plaintiffs contend that, even if these entities were not identified in response
18 to defendants’ specific interrogatories, their complaints and other discovery responses put defendants
19 on notice that plaintiffs considered these entities coconspirators or affiliates.

20 A plaintiff alleging a conspiracy need not name all alleged coconspirators in its complaint. See
21 William Inglis & Sons Baking Co. v. ITT Cont’l Baking Co., Inc., 668 F.2d 1014, 1053 (9th Cir. 1981).
22 Instead, a plaintiff need only provide a defendant with adequate notice of any claimed coconspirators

23
24 _____
25 ¹Defendants also moved for summary judgment as to BrandsMart’s claim related to IBM Credit
26 Corporation; Tweeter’s claim related to Philips Consumer Electronics and Eclipse-Fujitsu; Tracfone’s
27 claims related to Innolux, LG Innotek, Toppoly, Seiko Instruments Inc., and TPO; and Circuit City’s 28 claims related to Advance Display Inc. and TPO. These plaintiffs do not oppose defendants’ motion as to the stated entities. Accordingly, defendants’ motion is GRANTED as to these plaintiffs’ claims as they relate to these entities. Additionally, defendants have withdrawn their motion as it relates to Circuit City’s direct product purchases from Philips Consumer Electronics, see MDL Master Dkt. No.
9091 at 11, and AASI’s purchases from Boe Hydys America, LG Semicon America, Mitsubishi
Electronics, and Optrex America, see MDL Master Dkt. No. 9109 at 1.

1 either through its complaint, or through its discovery responses, such that a defendant is not prejudiced.
2 See MDL Master Dkt. No. 7419 at 5. Contrary to defendants' assertion that plaintiffs failed to provide
3 notice that they were pursuing claims based upon purchases from the challenged entities, many of the 4 entities were disclosed to defendants through plaintiffs' complaints or discovery responses other than 5 the particular interrogatories on which defendants rely. The Court finds that plaintiffs have sufficiently 6 identified the following entities, such that defendants will not be prejudiced by their inclusion as 7 coconspirators or affiliates:

9 (i) Claims by AASI based on sales by: Samsung Electronics and Samsung SSI. Samsung
10 Electronics and Samsung SSI are both named in AASI's complaint. Defendants were on notice
11 that AASI considered these entities to be coconspirators.

12 (ii) Claims by Circuit City based on sales by: Innolux Display Corp., Optrex Corp., Quanta
13 Display Inc., SVA NEC, Toppoly Optoelectronics Corp., and Unipac Optoelectronics. Circuit
14 City identified Innolux Display Corp., Optrex Corp., SVA NEC, and Toppoly Optoelectronics
15 Corp. in response to defendants' discovery requests. MDL Master Dkt. No. 8990-1, Exs. 6, 7, 16 8. Circuit City named Quanta Display, Inc., and Unipac Optoelectronics in its complaint, and 17 in its responses to defendants' discovery requests. See id. Defendants were on notice that 18 Circuit City considered these entities to be coconspirators.

19 (iii) Claims by Compucom based on sales by: Samsung Electronics. Compucom identified
20 Samsung Electronics as a coconspirator in its complaint. Defendants were on notice that 21 Compucom considered Samsung Electronics a coconspirator.

22 (iv) Claims by NECO based on sales by: Samsung Electronics. NECO identified Samsung
23 Electronics as a coconspirator in its complaint. Defendants were on notice that NECO
24 considered Samsung Electronics a coconspirator.

25 (v) Claims by Tech Data based on sales by: Samsung Electronics. Tech Data identified
26 Samsung Electronics as a coconspirator in its complaint, and in its discovery responses.
27 Defendants were on notice that Tech Data considered Samsung Electronics a coconspirator.

28 (vi) Claims by Tracfone based on sales by: Samsung Electronics. Tracfone repeatedly identified

1 Samsung Electronics as a coconspirator in its complaint, and in its discovery responses.
2 Defendants were on notice that Tracfone considered Samsung Electronics a coconspirator.

4 Accordingly, with respect to the plaintiffs and entities listed above, defendants' motion is
5 DENIED.

6 However, with respect to the remainder of the challenged entities, the Court finds that plaintiffs
7 failed to adequately disclose their identities prior to the close of discovery. Permitting the plaintiffs to 8 seek damages based on interactions with these entities would be prejudicial to defendants because it
9 would not permit defendants the opportunity to conduct discovery on plaintiffs' claims that they are 10 entitled to damages based on purchases from these entities. The Court finds that plaintiffs have not
11 sufficiently identified the following entities, such that defendants would be prejudiced by their inclusion
12 as coconspirators or affiliates:

13
14 (i) Claims by Circuit City based on sales by: Epson America, and Hitachi America. Circuit City
15 argues that it should be permitted to pursue its claims against Epson America and Hitachi
16 America because these entities have close corporate relationships with other Epson and Hitachi
17 entities that are named in its complaint. The Court has previously found that corporate family
18 allegations are insufficient to adequately allege participation in this conspiracy. See MDL
19 Master Dkt. No. 7419 at 7-9. The Court will not depart from that ruling here, and finds that 20 defendants would be prejudiced if Circuit City were permitted to seek damages based upon 21 purchases from these entities.

22 (ii) Claims by Tech Data based on sales by: IBM Latin America. Tech Data asserts that IBM
23 Latin America does not exist. Defendants assert that IBM Latin America does exist, but that
24 Tech Data's claims in relation to this entity cannot survive because Tech Data did not list IBM
25 Latin America as an alleged coconspirator or affiliate in its discovery responses. The Court need
26 not decide whether IBM Latin America exists; Tech Data did not identify this entity in 27 discovery, and therefore defendant would be prejudiced if Tech Data was permitted to seek 28 damages based upon purchases from this entity.

1 Accordingly, with respect to the plaintiffs and entities listed above, defendants' motion is
2 GRANTED.

4 CONCLUSION

5 For the foregoing reasons and for good cause shown, the Court hereby GRANTS IN PART AND
6 DENIES IN PART defendants' motion for summary judgment based on undisclosed coconspirators or 7 affiliates. Specifically, plaintiffs may not seek damages based on purchases from the following entities:

- 8
9 (i) Claims by Circuit City based on sales by: Epson America, and Hitachi America;
10 (ii) Claims by Tech Data based on sales by: IBM Latin America;
11 (iii) Claims by BrandsMart based on sales by: IBM Credit Corporation;
12 (iv) Claims by Tweeter based on sales by: Philips Consumer Electronics and Eclipse-Fujitsu;
13 (v) Claims by Tracfone based on sales by: Innolux, LG Innotek, Toppoly, Seiko Instruments
14 Inc., and TPO; and
15 (vi) Claims by Circuit City based on sales by: Advance Display Inc. and TPO.
