UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

VERINATA HEALTH, INC., ET AL.,
Plaintiffs,
v.
ARIOSA DIAGNOSTICS, INC, et al.,
Defendants.

Case No. 12-cv-05501-SI

ORDER RE CLARIFICATION

Re: Dkt. No. 720

Currently before the Court is plaintiffs’ letter seeking clarification of the Court’s July 19, 2018 Order on the parties’ post-trial motions. Dkt. No. 705. Specifically, plaintiffs request the Court clarify its decision regarding plaintiffs’ request for pre-and post-judgment interest so that the record is complete for appeal. Dkt. No. 720.

On January 26, 2018 the Court signed a judgment that was entered on January 29, 2018 in favor of plaintiffs, Verinata Health Inc., et al. and against defendants, Ariosa Diagnostics Inc., et al. Dkt. No. 642. The Court recognized the “unique posture” of this case, caused by the parties’ stipulation that all equitable questions would be resolved post-trial, and found plaintiffs’ arguments regarding assignor estoppel timely. Dkt. No. 705 at 51:23-24. Given the outstanding equitable questions, the Court recognizes that the judgment issued after trial was not final since equitable issues were not resolved. Therefore, the Court will now consider plaintiffs’ outstanding motion for pre-and post-judgment interest on the merits.

DISCUSSION

I. Pre-Judgment Interest

35 U.S.C. § 284 provides that “[u]pon finding for the claimant the court shall award the

1 claimant damages adequate to compensate for the infringement, but in no event less than a
2 reasonable royalty for the use made of the invention by the infringer.” 35 U.S.C. § 284. “As a
3 rule, ‘prejudgment interest should be awarded under [35 U.S.C. § 284] absent some justification
4 for withholding such an award.’” Whitserve, LLC v. Computer Packages, Inc., 694 F.3d 10, 36
5 (Fed. Cir. 2012) (citing Gen. Motors Corp. v. Devex Corp., 461 U.S. 648, 657 (1983)). “An award
6 of prejudgment interest carries out Congress's ‘overriding purpose of affording patent owners
7 complete compensation’ since a patentee's damages also include the ‘forgone use of the money
8 between the time of infringement and the date of judgment.” Id. (citing Gen. Motors Corp., 461
9 U.S. at 655–56). Defendants do not contest that pre-judgment interest is appropriate, only that it is 10 untimely. See Dkt. No. 685. The Court finds that plaintiffs’ motion for pre-judgment interest was 11 timely and GRANTS plaintiffs’ motion for pre-judgment interest.

12 The Court “has wide latitude in selection of interest[.]” See Uniroyal, Inc. v. Rudkin–
13 Wiley Corp., 939 F.2d 1540, 1545 (Fed. Cir. 1991); Gyromat Corp. v. Champion Spark Plug Co., 14 735 F.2d 549, 556–57 (Fed. Cir. 1984) (holding that “[a] trial court is afforded wide latitude in the 15 selection of interest rates”). Plaintiffs ask the Court to calculate pre-judgment interest on the jury
16 verdict using the prime interest rate, compounded quarterly, from the dates of first infringement.<sup>1</sup>
17 Plaintiffs submit a table of applicable prime rates ranging from 3.25% to 4.50%, “for a total
18 amount to be later determined subject to an accounting.” Dkt. No. 662 at 10; 13:3. Defendants
19 ask the Court to apply the Treasury bill rate, compounded annually, and to defer the issue of 20 accounting until after appeal. Dkt. No. 685 at 8:1-5.

21 The Court finds that the 52-week Treasury Bill rate is appropriate. The Treasury Bill rate
22 has been accepted and employed by many courts in patent cases as a reasonable method of placing
23 a patent owner in a position equivalent to where it would have been had there been no
24 infringement. Apple, Inc. v. Samsung Elecs. Co., 67 F. Supp. 3d 1100, 1122 (N.D. Cal. 2014), 25 aff'd, 816 F.3d 788 (Fed. Cir. 2016), vacated in part on reh'g en banc, 839 F.3d 1034 (Fed. Cir.

27
28 <sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs ask the Court to calculate interest for the '430 Patent from the date the patent issued, November 27, 2012, and to calculate the interest for the '794 Patent from the date of first sale of the Harmony Test, March 31, 2012.

1 2016), and aff'd, 839 F.3d 1034 (Fed. Cir. 2016); Mars, Inc. v. Coin Acceptors, Inc., 513 F. Supp.
2 2d 128, 134 (D.N.J. 2007) (citing Hoechst Celanese Corp. v. BP Chemicals Ltd., 846 F.Supp. 542,
3 550–51 (S.D.Tex.1994) (“[T]he Court is mindful that the purpose of pre-judgment interest is
4 solely to compensate the patentee for the lost use of the royalty income he should have been paid.
5 Accordingly, the Court finds the T-bill rate to be appropriate standard.”) (sic), aff'd, 78 F.3d
6 1575 (Fed.Cir.1996)). In Apple, the court declined to apply a higher rate because there was no
7 evidence that the plaintiff borrowed money at a higher rate. Apple, 67 F. Supp. 3d 1121–22 (N.D.
8 Cal. 2014)(citing Laitram Corp. v. NEC Corp., 115 F.3d 947, 955 (Fed.Cir.1997) (upholding the 9 Treasury Bill rate where there was no evidence of “a causal connection between any borrowing and 10 the loss of the use of the money awarded as a result of the infringement.”). Here, plaintiffs have 11 not presented evidence suggesting it needed to borrow money because it was deprived of the 12 damages award. Accordingly, the Court awards plaintiffs pre-judgment interest at the 52-week
13 Treasury Bill rate.

14 As to compounding, the Federal Circuit has explained that “the determination whether to 15 award simple or compound interest [ ] is a matter largely within the discretion of the district
16 court.” Gyromat Corp. v. Champion Spark Plug Co., 735 F.2d 549, 557 (Fed. Cir. 1984). Courts
17 “have recognized that compounding is necessary to fully compensate the patentee.” Sealant Sys.
18 Int'l, Inc. v. TEK Global S.R.L., No. 5:11–CV–00774–PSG, 2014 WL 1008183, at *6 (N.D. Cal.
19 Mar. 7, 2014) (citation omitted). Apple, Inc., 67 F. Supp. 3d at 1122. The Court is unconvinced
20 that quarterly compounding is necessary and awards plaintiffs annual compounding pre-judgment
21 interest. When the appeal of this case is resolved and the final damages amount settled, this Court
22 will award plaintiffs pre-judgment interest at the 52-week Treasury Bill rate, compounded
23 annually. In the interests of judicial economy, the Court will calculate the pre-judgment interest
24 after appeal, when the final amount of the judgment is known.

25
26 II. Post-Judgment Interest

27 28 U.S.C.A. §1961 sets the standard for post-judgment interest in all federal civil cases and 28 provides that “[i]nterest shall be allowed on any money judgment in a civil case recovered in a

1 district court.” 28 U.S.C.A. §1961(a). Defendants do not contest that plaintiff is entitled to post-
2 judgment interest. Dkt. No. 685 at 6:1-15. The Court therefore GRANTS plaintiffs’ motion for 3 post-judgment interest. 28 U.S.C.A §1961 sets post-judgment interest “at a rate equal to the 4 weekly average 1-year constant maturity Treasury yield, as published by the Board of Governors
5 of the Federal Reserve System, for the calendar week preceding” which is “computed daily to the 6 date of payment except as provided in section 2516(b) of this title and section 1304(b) of title 31,
7 and shall be compounded annually.” 28 U.S.C.A §1961(a)-(b). The Court will award plaintiffs
8 the statutory rate and will calculate the post-judgment interest after appeal, when the final amount
9 of the judgment is known.

11 CONCLUSION

12 For the foregoing reasons, the Court GRANTS plaintiffs’ motion for pre-judgment interest
13 and GRANTS plaintiffs’ motion for post-judgment interest. Accounting is reserved for a later date 14 after the appeal is final.
