Plaintiff,

ORDER DISMISSING
CASE FOR LACK OF FEDERAL JURISDICTION

v.

9 UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA at SAN FRANCISCO,

10

Defendant.

/12 On August 22, 2013, Edgar Mora filed a complaint on behalf of 13 his mother, Plaintiff Carmen Mora, seeking a court order
14 compelling the University of California at San Francisco to admit 15 Plaintiff to its hospital. Docket No. 1, Complaint, Ex. I. The 16 complaint alleges that Plaintiff was recently discharged from the 17 hospital's intensive care unit but remains in need of medical 18 services. Id. After Plaintiff's son "informed the Court that 19 this action presents a life or death situation," Magistrate Judge
20 LaPorte construed Plaintiff's complaint as a request for a 21 temporary restraining order and reassigned the matter to the 22 undersigned judge. Docket No. 4, Order Reassigning Case.23 After reviewing the complaint, the Court finds that Plaintiff
24 has not identified a basis for federal subject matter
25 jurisdiction. The cover sheet to her complaint identifies 26 diversity of citizenship as the only basis of jurisdiction but 27 also indicates that both parties in this action are citizens of 28 the State of California. Accordingly, this action must be
