UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

PETZILLA, INC.,

No. C-14-1354 EMC

Plaintiff,

ORDER GRANTING (1) PLAINTIFF’S
MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE
MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION;
AND (2) PLAINTIFF’S MOTION FOR
EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE RESPONSE

v.

ANSER INNOVATION LLC,

Defendant.

(Docket Nos. 35-3, 37)

Currently pending before the Court is Petzilla’s motion seeking leave to seek reconsideration of the Court’s order regarding jurisdictional discovery and motion for an extension of time to file a response to Anser’s motion to dismiss. Having considered the parties’ papers, the Court DENIES Petzilla’s request for leave to file a motion for reconsideration. The Court GRANTS in part Petzilla’s request for an extension of time to file its response.

A. Legal Standard

In the absence of a manifest failure of the Court, a party seeking leave to file a motion for reconsideration must show a material difference in fact or law that either existed at the time of the interlocutory order in question (but of which the party did not, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, know about) or that emerged after the interlocutory order. See Civ. L. R. 7-9(b).

B. Material Difference in Fact

In this case, Petzilla points to alleged inconsistencies between Anser’s CEO’s prior declaration and the jurisdictional discovery it obtained. Petzilla argues that these alleged

1 inconsistencies amount to a material difference in fact that warrants reconsideration of the scope of
2 permissible jurisdictional discovery. See Docket No. 35-3 (Motion for Leave, ¶. 4-8).

3 The possibility of such inconsistencies, however, does not present a material difference in
4 fact. The prior discovery order specifically considered the possibility of inconsistencies between the
5 CEO’s declaration and other documents, including public statements of Anser. See Docket No. 28
6 (Order, p. 2). The Order then defined the scope of permissible discovery, not based on a reading of 7 those particular alleged inconsistencies, but rather in view of case law defining examples of “other
8 activities” that meet the “relate to” requirement for specific personal jurisdiction. See Order, ¶. 3-4.
9 The Court expressly declined to entertain general jurisdiction based on evidence regarding the 10 volume of sales or pre-orders in light of the Supreme Court’s decision in Daimler AG v. Bauman,
11 134 S. Ct. 746 (2014). Id. Petzilla has not offered any reason for the Court to reconsider its prior 12 reasoning on the scope of permissible discovery. Accordingly, the Court declines to grant leave to 13 Petzilla to file a motion for reconsideration.

14 C. Extension of Time

15 Petzilla seeks an extension of time to file its response to Anser’s motion to dismiss in view of 16 its concerns regarding discovery scope. Petzilla has pointed to an apparently failed attempt to 17 resolve with Anser the timing issue of the filing of its opposition. The Court finds good cause for an 18 extension—not for Petzilla to seek additional discovery beyond the scope of its May 20, 2014
19 Order—but rather to allow Petzilla to take the deposition of Ms. Lavin as anticipated by the Court’s
20 May 20th Order. Moreover, as Anser points out, Petzilla will have the opportunity to address its 21 concerns regarding inconsistencies in Ms. Lavin’s declaration through cross-examination at Ms.
22 Lavin’s deposition.

To allow Petzilla time to take Ms. Lavin’s deposition, the Court GRANTS Petzilla’s motion for an enlargement of time, but extends such time by only one week, unless another time is agreed to by the parties. Unless otherwise agreed to, Petzilla’s opposition shall be due on August 11, 2014, and Anser’s reply will be due on August 18, 2014.

This order disposes of Docket Nos. 35-3 and 37.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Dated: August 4, 2014

United States District Judge
