12 PAMELA SNYDER,
13 Plaintiff,

14 v.

15 BANK OF AMERICA, N.A., et al.,

Case No. 15-cv-04228-EDL

Re: Dkt. No. 51

17 INTRODUCTION

18 Now pending before the Court is the motion of Plaintiff Pamela Snyder ("Plaintiff") to 19 consolidate actions pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42. (Dkt. No. 46.¹) Plaintiff has 20 two civil actions pending in this District, each involving a different property she owns. One action
21 is against Defendant Nationstar Mortgage LLC ("Nationstar"), the other against both Nationstar 22 and Defendant Bank of America, N.A. ("Bank of America"). After carefully considering the 23 arguments and briefing submitted, the Court concludes that oral argument is unnecessary, see Civ.
24 L.R. 7-1(b), and DENIES Plaintiff's Motion. Plaintiff has not established that there are any 25 common questions of fact or law that justify consolidating her two cases. Additionally,

1 consolidation would likely cause jury confusion and prejudice to Nationstar, would not promote 2 judicial economy, and would result in undue delay to this suit.

3 BACKGROUND

4 Plaintiff's first action was filed on June 30, 2015 and involves a residential mortgage loan
5 for Plaintiff's real property located at 2548-2550 Sutter Street, San Francisco, California 94115
6 (Case No. 3:15-cv-03049-JSC) ("Sutter Street Suit"). The Court discussed the factual background
7 of this case in a previous order and incorporates that discussion here. (See Dkt. No. 30 at 1-4.)
8 Plaintiff filed the operative Second Amended Complaint ("Sutter Street SAC") on November 29,
9 2015, alleging violations of (1) California Civil Code § 2954; (2) the Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15
10 U.S.C. § 1681s-2(b); (3) California Civil Code §§ 1788.11(d) and (e); and (4) the Unfair Business
11 Practices Act, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200-17210. (Dkt. No. 33 at 1.) The parties engaged 12 in written discovery and attended mediation in April 2016. (Dkt. No. 39; see also Dkt. No. 47 at 13 15.) Trial is scheduled to commence on January 17, 2017. (Dkt. No. 39 at 2.)

14 The second action, pending before Magistrate Judge Laporte, was filed on September 17, 15 2015 and involves a loan modification for Plaintiff's real property located at 811 Page Street, San 16 Francisco, California 91117 (Case No. 3:15-cv-04228-EDL) ("Page Street Suit"). Plaintiff asserts
17 claims against two defendants: Nationstar and Bank of America. Judge Laporte previously 18 discussed the factual background of that case in a previous order granting a motion to dismiss; the 19 Court incorporates Judge Laporte's discussion here. (See Page Street Suit, Dkt. No. 46 at 2-4.)
20 Plaintiff filed the operative Third Amended Complaint ("Page Street TAC") on March 15, 2016,
21 alleging causes of action for: (1) fraud against Bank of America; (2) and (5) negligent
22 misrepresentation against Bank of America; (3) and (4) violation of California Civil Code § 23 2923.7 against Bank of America; (6) violation of California Civil Code § 2924.11 against 24 Nationstar; and (7) violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1692e, the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, against 25 Nationstar. (Page Street Suit, Dkt. No. 47 at 1, 15-29.) In the Page Street Suit, the parties have 26 not begun discovery, as the parties had previously engaged in three separate rounds of briefing to 27 dismiss Plaintiff's various complaints. (Page Street Suit, Dkt. Nos. 8, 19, 31.) The parties are 28

1 scheduled to have a case management conference with Judge Laporte on July 6, 2016. (Page 2 Street Suit, Dkt. No. 50.) There is no trial date.

3 On May 23, 2016, Plaintiff filed a motion to consolidate her two pending actions pursuant 4 to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42. (Dkt. No. 46.) Nationstar filed an opposition to the 5 motion, while Bank of America did not. (Dkt. Nos. 47, 53.)

6 LEGAL STANDARD

7 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42 governs consolidation of cases. Rule 42(a) provides, in 8 relevant part, that if “actions before the court involve a common question of law or fact” then “the 9 court may: (1) join for hearing or trial any or all matters at issue in the actions; (2) consolidate the 10 actions; or (3) issue any other orders to avoid unnecessary cost or delay.”

11 Under Rule 42, “[t]he district court has broad discretion [] to consolidate cases pending in 12 the same district.” Inv’rs Research Co. v. U.S. Dist. Court for Cent. Dist. of California, 877 F.2d 13 777, 777 (9th Cir. 1989). In determining whether consolidation is appropriate, the court “weighs 14 the saving of time and effort consolidation would produce against any inconvenience, delay, or 15 expense that it would cause.” Huene v. United States, 743 F.2d 703, 704 (9th Cir. 1984). Even if 16 a common question exists, consolidation is not appropriate where it results in “inefficiency, 17 inconvenience, or unfair prejudice to a party.” E.E.O.C. v. HBE Corp., 135 F.3d 543, 551 (8th 18 Cir. 1998) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(b)). The party seeking consolidation bears the burden of 19 demonstrating that convenience and judicial economy would result from consolidation. Wright v.
20 United States, No. C 92-1290 BAC, 1993 WL 313040, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 6, 1993).

21 DISCUSSION

22 Consolidation is not warranted. As discussed below, Plaintiff has not established that there 23 are any common questions of fact or law that justify consolidating her two cases; this alone
24 justifies denying her motion to consolidate. Moreover, each of the other factors that courts 25 typically consider—jury confusion and prejudice, judicial economy, and undue delay—weighs 26 against consolidation as well.

27
28

1 I. Common Questions of Fact or Law

2 There is no dispute that Plaintiff’s two actions do not contain common questions of law, as 3 both actions allege different statutory violations requiring different statutory analyses. (Compare 4 Sutter Street SAC at 1, with Page Street TAC at 1.) Plaintiff concedes this point, arguing only that 5 the two actions contain purported common questions of fact. (Dkt. No. 46 at 8; Dkt. No. 52 at 3.)

6 Plaintiff argues that common questions of fact exist with respect to the alleged damage to 7 her credit score as a result of Defendants’ reporting of her credit in both cases. (Dkt. No. 46 at 7; 8 Dkt. No. 52 at 2.) Nationstar, on the other hand, argues that the actions are too different to warrant
9 consolidation. (Dkt. No. 47 at 11-12.) According to Nationstar, the differences include that: (1) 10 Plaintiff’s two actions involve “different and separate loans that were obtained in separate months 11 and which are secured by two different pieces of property” (id. at 11 (emphasis in original)); (2)
12 the initial service providers for each loan were different, with Aurora serving as the initial service
13 provider for the Page Street property and Bank of America serving as the initial service provider 14 for the Sutter Street property (id.); and (3) the Sutter Street Suit pertains to the creation of an 15 escrow account whereas the Page Street suit relates to a loan modification and appeal (id. at 8-9).

16 The Court finds that Plaintiff’s two suits do not contain sufficient common questions of 17 fact. Indeed, were Plaintiff’s argument accepted, any and all cases that allegedly damaged her 18 credit score—regardless of the nature of those cases—could be properly consolidated. This is not 19 the law. Accordingly, because Plaintiff has not met this threshold requirement, Plaintiff’s motion 20 to consolidate must be denied.

21 II. Jury Confusion and Prejudice

22 The Court also finds that factual distinctions between the two cases, along with the 23 addition of Bank of America as a defendant in the Page Street Suit, will cause jury confusion and 24 that this confusion outweighs any potential benefits consolidation would achieve. Consolidation 25 will require the jury to weave back and forth between the two actions, each involving a different 26 loan with different key players, different factual scenarios and supporting evidence, and different 27 statutory violations. Under these circumstances, the risk of jury confusion and prejudice to 28 Defendants weighs against consolidation of Plaintiff’s two actions. See, e.g., Applied Materials,

1 Inc. v. Advanced Semiconductor Materials Am., Inc., No. C 93-20843(RMW), 1994 WL
2 16780779, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 19, 1994) (finding that requiring the jury to understand different 3 technologies would increase the likelihood of confusion, lengthen the trial, and invite juror 4 boredom, and thus the “likelihood of jury confusion outweighs any efficiency that might be 5 achieved through consolidation”); Sw. Marine, Inc. v. Triple A Mach. Shop, Inc., 720 F. Supp.
6 805, 807 (N.D. Cal. 1989) (finding likelihood of jury confusion where two actions “[did] not state
7 the same causes of action” and “[t]he facts necessary to prove the claims in the respective actions 8 are not in common”).

9 III. Judicial Economy

10 Plaintiff argues that “consolidation would promote judicial economy because the court 11 could combine the issues for trial and thereby avoid the necessity for two trials on substantially 12 similar issues.” (Dkt. No. 46-3 at 10.) However, the legal causes of action and the factual 13 scenarios in the two actions are completely different and therefore there is no overlap of issues to 14 be tried. Thus, consolidation would not promote judicial economy. See, e.g., Sw. Marine, Inc., 15 720 F. Supp. at 807 (finding that, where there were no common issues of fact or law, pursuing the 16 claims in two separate actions “will not involve a substantial duplication of effort”). This factor 17 weighs against consolidation.

18 IV. Unnecessary Delay

19 A court may deny consolidation where two cases are at different stages of preparedness for 20 trial. See, e.g., Collins v. City & Cty. of San Francisco, No. 13-CV-03456-MEJ, 2014 WL
21 5422177, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 24, 2014). The two actions here are at completely different stages 22 of litigation. (Dkt. No. 47 at 15; Dkt. No. 52 at 4-5.) In the Sutter Street Suit, the parties have 23 completed written discovery, participated in mediation, and Nationstar is prepared to move 24 forward with depositions and to seek summary judgment. (Dkt. No. 47 at 15.) Moreover, the 25 Court has already set a trial date for January 17, 2017. (Id.) In contrast, in the Page Street Suit, 26 the parties—having engaged in three rounds of briefing to dismiss Plaintiff’s various complaints—27 have not begun any discovery and are scheduled to hold a second case management conference 28 with Judge Laporte on July 6, 2016. (Dkt. No. 50.) No trial date has been set.

Plaintiff nonetheless argues that consolidation would benefit Nationstar by allowing it to litigate both cases in a single trial. But Nationstar apparently does not believe it is much of a benefit because it opposes consolidation; thus, this is not a sufficient reason for consolidation, especially given the different causes of action, different factual scenarios, and different witnesses. The resultant undue delay to the trial schedule in the Sutter Street Suit weighs against consolidation.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons explained above, Plaintiff's motion to consolidate is DENIED.

This Order disposes of Docket No. 46 and Page Street Suit, Docket No. 51.
