INTRODUCTION

2 The young women and men filing this lawsuit embody the American Dream. Brought to this 3 country as children and raised in families that often struggled with poverty and homelessness, each 4 has achieved remarkable success through hard work, fierce determination, and incredible resilience.
5 These are characteristics that have defined Americans throughout our Nation's history. Plaintiffs in 6 this case are also alike in that each has committed to helping others, choosing to direct their time, 7 energy, and considerable talents toward defending, healing, educating, and uplifting individuals and 8 communities that are too often ignored. While each of the Plaintiffs is remarkable in his or her own 9 right, their stories of success—and their commitment to serving others—are common among the 10 nearly 800,000 young people who have come to rely on the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals 11 (“DACA”) program.

12 The decision to end the DACA program is a broken promise and an unprecedented violation 13 of the constitutional rights of Plaintiffs and other young people who relied on the federal government 14 to honor that promise. The government established the DACA program with great fanfare in 2012.
15 Under DACA, individuals who were brought to the United States as children and meet certain 16 criteria, and who are investigated and found to pose no threat to public safety or national security, are 17 granted deferred action and work authorization for a two-year period, subject to renewal. These 18 young people are commonly referred to as “Dreamers” in recognition of the fact that they have long 19 called this country home and aspire to be part of the American Dream.

20 To apply for DACA, eligible individuals are required to provide the government with highly 21 sensitive personal information, pay a substantial fee, and submit to a rigorous Department of 22 Homeland Security background check. Initially, the DACA program was met with skepticism in 23 immigrant communities, as many Dreamers were understandably reluctant to voluntarily disclose 24 information (including their current home address) that could facilitate their removal from the United 25 States and place their family members at risk. To combat this fear the government launched an 26 extensive outreach campaign urging Dreamers to apply for DACA, repeatedly promising that they 27 would be able to renew their DACA status and that information they provided in connection with the 28 program would not be used for immigration enforcement purposes. As a result, hundreds of

1 thousands of young people applied for, and were granted, DACA status. The government quickly 2 realized the administrative, law enforcement, public safety, and economic benefits it sought in 3 establishing the program.

4 In creating DACA, the government offered Plaintiffs and other Dreamers a straightforward 5 deal—if they stepped forward, shared sensitive personal information, and passed a background check, 6 they would be granted renewable protection and would be allowed to live and work in the United 7 States provided that they played by the rules. DACA also provided access to important benefits, and 8 enabled recipients to open bank accounts, obtain credit cards, start businesses, purchase homes and 9 cars, and conduct other aspects of daily life that were otherwise often unavailable to them. In so 10 doing, DACA has allowed Plaintiffs and nearly 800,000 young people to become contributing 11 members of society and pursue the American Dream.

12 In taking the irreversible step of identifying themselves to the government, Plaintiffs and 13 other Dreamers trusted the government to honor its word and uphold its end of the bargain. In 14 reliance on the government’s promises, DACA recipients took out student loans, accepted job offers, 15 moved to new cities, started businesses, bought homes and cars, and made numerous other life
16 changing decisions. They allowed themselves to fall in love, get married, and start families, trusting 17 that the security and work authorization provided under DACA would enable them to care for (and 18 remain in this country with) their spouses and children.

19 The transformative impact DACA had for Plaintiffs cannot be overstated. Brought to this 20 country as young children, Plaintiffs have spent virtually their entire lives in the United States. They 21 consider themselves to be Americans and call our nation home. Yet for much of their lives, Plaintiffs 22 were denied basic opportunities and prohibited from realizing their full potential. But DACA 23 changed everything. Beyond a work permit and access to a professional license, DACA provided 24 Plaintiffs the certainty and security necessary to enroll in graduate programs, open businesses, hire 25 employees, build relationships with clients, patients, and students, and begin to start families of their 26 own. Plaintiffs were able to take these risks, and enjoy the benefits of their hard work, because they 27 trusted the government to honor its promises and live up to its word.

1 Notwithstanding the severe harm it will inflict, the government arbitrarily decided to break its 2 promises to Plaintiffs and hundreds of thousands of other Dreamers by terminating the DACA
3 program. This cruel bait and switch, which was motivated by unconstitutional bias against Mexicans
4 and Latinos, violates the equal protection component of the Fifth Amendment, the due process rights
5 of Plaintiffs and other DACA recipients, and federal law, including the Administrative Procedure 6 Act. Plaintiffs therefore seek equitable and injunctive relief to enjoin this unlawful and 7 unconstitutional action, and respectfully request that the Court compel the government to honor its 8 promises and uphold its end of the DACA bargain.

9 JURISDICTION, VENUE, AND INTRADISTRICT ASSIGNMENT

10 1. This Court has jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 because this action arises under 11 the Constitution and laws of the United States. This Court has additional remedial authority under 12 the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2201 et seq., and the Administrative Procedure Act, 13 5 U.S.C. §§ 701–706.

14 2. Venue is proper in the Northern District of California pursuant to 28 U.S.C.
15 § 1391(b)(2) and (e)(1) because at least one plaintiff resides in this District, a substantial part of the 16 events or omissions giving rise to this action occurred in this District, and each defendant is an 17 agency of the United States or an officer of the United States sued in his or her official capacity.

18 3. Pursuant to Local Rules 3-2(c) and (d), intradistrict assignment is proper in San 19 Francisco or Oakland because a substantial part of the events or omissions which give rise to the 20 claim occurred in the Counties of San Francisco and Alameda.

21 PARTIES

22 4. Plaintiff Dulce Garcia (“Ms. Garcia”) is a DACA recipient and an attorney in San 23 Diego, California. Ms. Garcia earned her bachelor’s degree from the University of California, San 24 Diego and her law degree from the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law. She was brought to the 25 United States from Mexico when she was four years old. The government’s decision to terminate 26 the DACA program will deprive Ms. Garcia of her DACA status and the numerous valuable benefits
27 she is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination of DACA also will frustrate Ms. Garcia’s 28 ability to represent her clients and harm the dozens of individuals who rely on her counsel.

1           5.       Plaintiff Viridiana Chabolla Mendoza (“Ms. Chabolla”) is a DACA recipient and a 2 first-year law student at the University of California, Irvine School of Law. Ms. Chabolla was 3 brought to the United States from Mexico when she was two years old. The government’s decision 4 to terminate the DACA program will deprive Ms. Mendoza of her DACA status and the numerous 5 valuable benefits she is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination of DACA also will 6 frustrate Ms. Chabolla’s ability to fulfill her dream of working as a lawyer and helping individuals 7 from disadvantaged and underrepresented communities obtain justice through the legal system.

8           6.       Plaintiff Jirayut (“New”) Latthivongskorn (“Mr. Latthivongskorn”) is a DACA
9 recipient and a fourth-year medical student at the University of California, San Francisco (“UCSF”) 10 School of Medicine. He is also a candidate for a Master of Public Health degree from the T.H. Chan 11 School of Public Health at Harvard University. Mr. Latthivongskorn was brought to the United 12 States from Thailand when he was nine years old. The government’s decision to terminate the 13 DACA program will deprive Mr. Latthivongskorn of his DACA status and the numerous valuable 14 benefits he is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination of DACA also will frustrate 15 Mr. Latthivongskorn’s ability to fulfill his dream of becoming a doctor and providing care to 16 underserved and unprivileged communities.

17           7.       Plaintiff Norma Ramirez (“Ms. Ramirez”) is a DACA recipient and a candidate for 18 a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology from the Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, California.
19 Ms. Ramirez was brought to the United States from Mexico when she was five years old. The 20 government’s decision to terminate the DACA program will deprive Ms. Ramirez of her DACA 21 status and the numerous valuable benefits she is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination 22 of DACA also will frustrate Ms. Ramirez’s ability to realize her dream of opening a free 23 multidisciplinary therapy clinic to immigrant youth and their families.

24           8.       Plaintiff Miriam Gonzalez Avila (“Ms. Gonzalez”) is a DACA recipient and a 25 teacher at Crown Preparatory Academy in Los Angeles, California. She is also a candidate for a 26 Master of Arts in Urban Education from Loyola Marymount University. Ms. Gonzalez was brought 27 to the United States from Mexico when she was six years old. The government’s decision to 28 terminate the DACA program will deprive Ms. Gonzalez of her DACA status and the numerous

1 valuable benefits she is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination of DACA also will 2 frustrate Ms. Gonzalez’s ability to teach children in underserved communities, thereby harming the 3 children, families, and community who have come to rely on her.

4 9. Plaintiff Saul Jimenez Suarez (“Mr. Jimenez”) is a DACA recipient and a special 5 education teacher, coach, and mentor in Los Angeles, California. Mr. Jimenez was brought to the 6 United States from Mexico when he was one year old. The government’s decision to terminate the 7 DACA program will deprive Mr. Jimenez of his DACA status and the numerous valuable benefits
8 he is entitled to by virtue of that status. The termination of DACA also will frustrate Mr. Jimenez’s 9 ability to teach and coach young people, including those with special needs, thereby harming dozens 10 of families and making poorer the community that he is serving and making a better place.

11 10. Defendant United States of America includes all government agencies and 12 departments responsible for the implementation, administration, and termination of the DACA 13 program.

14 11. Defendant Donald J. Trump is the President of the United States. President Trump 15 made the decision to terminate the DACA program and is sued in his official capacity.

16 12. Defendant Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”) is a cabinet department of the 17 federal government with responsibility for, among other things, administering and enforcing the 18 nation’s immigration laws.

19 13. Defendant Elaine Duke is the Acting Secretary of Homeland Security and is sued in 20 her official capacity. Secretary Duke is responsible for managing DHS, including the administration 21 and enforcement of policies and practices related to DACA.

22 STATEMENT OF FACTS

23 Establishment of the DACA Program

24 14. On June 15, 2012, then-Secretary of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano issued a 25 memorandum establishing the DACA program (the “2012 DACA Memorandum”). Under DACA, 26 individuals who were brought to the United States as young children and who met certain specific 27 criteria could request deferred action for a period of two years, subject to renewal. In exchange, 28

1 DACA applicants were required to provide the government with highly sensitive personal 2 information, submit to a rigorous background check, and pay a considerable fee.<sup>1</sup>

3 15. Deferred action is a well-established form of prosecutorial discretion under which 4 the government defers removal action against an individual for a specified period, subject to 5 renewal. The 2012 DACA Memorandum explained that DACA covers “certain young people who 6 were brought to this country as children and know only this country as home” and that the 7 immigration laws are not “designed to remove productive young people to countries where they may 8 not have lived or even speak the language.”<sup>2</sup>

9 16. The 2012 DACA Memorandum established specific criteria that “should be satisfied 10 before an individual is considered for an exercise of prosecutorial discretion.”<sup>3</sup> They are that the 11 applicant:

- 12 • came to the United States under the age of sixteen;
- 13 • has continuously resided in the United States for at least five years preceding the date of the 14 memorandum and is present in the United States on the date of the memorandum;
- 15 • is currently in school, has graduated from high school, has obtained a general education 16 development certificate, or is an honorably discharged veteran of the Coast Guard or Armed 17 Forces of the United States;
- 18 • has not been convicted of a felony offense, a significant misdemeanor offense, multiple 19 misdemeanor offenses, or otherwise poses a threat to national security or public safety; and 20 • is not above the age of thirty.<sup>4</sup>

25 to Individuals Who Came to the United States as Children, at 1–2 (June 15, 2012),

28 <sup>2</sup> Id.

1           17.       The 2012 DACA Memorandum further provided that “[n]o individual should 2 receive deferred action . . . unless they first pass a background check and requests for relief . . . are 3 to be decided on a case by case basis.”<sup>5</sup>

4           18.       USCIS describes DACA as follows: “Deferred action is a discretionary 5 determination to defer a removal action of an individual as an act of prosecutorial discretion. For 6 purposes of future inadmissibility based upon unlawful presence, an individual whose case has been 7 deferred is not considered to be unlawfully present during the period in which deferred action is in 8 effect. An individual who has received deferred action is authorized by DHS to be present in the 9 United States, and is therefore considered by DHS to be lawfully present during the period deferred 10 action is in effect. However, deferred action does not confer lawful status upon an individual, nor 11 does it excuse any previous or subsequent periods of unlawful presence.”<sup>6</sup>

12           19.       Like other forms of deferred action, DACA serves the government’s interests by 13 allowing the government to prioritize resources and exercise discretion for its own convenience.
14 DACA also has provided the government with tremendous law enforcement, public safety, and 15 economic benefits. As the government has recognized, our nation “continue[s] to benefit . . . from 16 the contributions of those young people who have come forward and want nothing more than to 17 contribute to our country and our shared future.”<sup>7</sup>

18 The DACA Application and Renewal Process

19           20.       To apply for DACA, applicants must submit extensive documentation establishing 20 that they meet the relevant criteria.<sup>8</sup> Applicants must also submit a Form I-765 Application for 21 Employment Authorization, and pay $495 in fees.<sup>9</sup>

28 <sup>9</sup> Id., Question 7; see also USCIS, I-821D, Consideration of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, <https://www.uscis.gov/i-821d>.

1           21.       DACA applicants must also undergo biometric and biographic background checks.
2       When conducting these checks, DHS reviews the applicant’s biometric and biographic information
3       “against a variety of databases maintained by DHS and other federal government agencies.”<sup>10</sup> If any 4       information “indicates that [the applicant’s] presence in the United States threatens public safety or 5       national security,” the applicant will be ineligible for DACA absent “exceptional circumstances.”<sup>11</sup>

6           22.       DACA is not limited to a single, two-year deferral of action. On the contrary, the 7       ability to renew DACA status is an essential element of the program and one of the main benefits
8       used to induce Dreamers to step forward, subject themselves to a rigorous background investigation, 9       and share sensitive personal information with the government. Indeed, the government clearly 10       understood from the very beginning that Dreamers would not apply for DACA, and the program 11       would not be successful, unless they were promised the opportunity to renew their DACA status.

12           23.       To that end, the 2012 DACA Memorandum explicitly directs that DACA be 13       “subject to renewal, in order to prevent low priority individuals from being placed into removal 14       proceedings or removed from the United States.”<sup>12</sup> That memorandum also makes clear that DACA 15       is meant to protect “productive young people” who “were brought to this country as children and 16       know only this country as home” and not merely postpone their removal for two years.<sup>13</sup>

17           24.       DHS also established a straightforward renewal process for DACA and “strongly 18       encourage[d]” DACA recipients to submit their renewal request in advance of the relevant 19       expiration date.<sup>14</sup> Moreover, DACA renewal does not require DACA recipients to meet all of the 20       initial criteria for the program, nor does it require them to submit additional documents.<sup>15</sup> On the 21       contrary, to qualify for renewal, DACA recipients are required to meet three basic criteria: (1) they 22       must not have left the United States without advance parole; (2) they must have continuously

1 resided in the United States after submitting their DACA application; and (3) they must not have 2 been convicted of a felony, a significant misdemeanor, or three or more misdemeanors, or otherwise 3 pose a threat to national security or public safety.<sup>16</sup>

4 25. DHS “Standard Operating Procedures” also provide that, absent an “Egregious 5 Public Safety” issue or other special circumstances, DACA status should not be revoked until the 6 government has provided a “Notice of Intent to Terminate” which “thoroughly explain[s]” the 7 grounds for the termination.<sup>17</sup> DHS policy further provides that the recipients of such notice should 8 be afforded 33 days to “file a brief or statement contesting the grounds cited in the Notice of Intent 9 to Terminate” prior to termination of DACA status.<sup>18</sup>

10 26. Collectively, these policies and procedures, and the representations of numerous 11 government officials, created a clear and reasonable expectation among DACA recipients that they 12 would be entitled to continuously renew their DACA status so long as they stayed out of trouble and 13 played by the rules.

14 Benefits Provided Under the DACA Program

15 27. DACA confers numerous important benefits on those who apply for and are granted 16 DACA status. Notably, DACA recipients are granted the right not to be arrested or detained based 17 solely on their immigration status during the time period their deferred action is in effect.<sup>19</sup>

18 28. DACA recipients are also eligible for work authorization under longstanding 19 regulations. As USCIS has explained, “an individual whose case has been deferred is eligible to 20 receive employment authorization for the period of deferred action . . . .”<sup>20</sup>

1           29.       DACA recipients are eligible to receive certain public benefits. These include
2 Social Security, retirement, and disability benefits, and, in certain states, benefits such as driver’s 3 licenses, health care, financial aid, tuition benefits, and unemployment insurance.<sup>21</sup>

4           30.       DACA also serves as a gateway to numerous other important public and private 5 practical benefits, and enables recipients to open bank accounts, obtain credit cards, start businesses, 6 purchase homes and cars, and conduct other aspects of daily life that would otherwise often be 7 unavailable to them.

8           31.       DACA also confers certain immigration benefits and the ability to travel abroad.
9 For example, DACA recipients do not accrue time under 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(i), and may 10 briefly depart the U.S. and legally return under certain circumstances.<sup>22</sup>

11           32.       As the government has recognized, DACA has enabled hundreds of thousands of 12 young people “to enroll in colleges and universities, complete their education, start businesses that 13 help improve our economy, and give back to our communities as teachers, medical professionals, 14 engineers, and entrepreneurs—all on the books.”<sup>23</sup>

15 The Government’s Promises and Its Efforts to Promote DACA

16           33.       When the DACA program was first launched, many eligible Dreamers were 17 understandably reluctant to step forward and voluntarily disclose sensitive personal information 18 (including their current home address) that could facilitate their removal from the United States and 19 place their family members at risk. In response, the government launched an extensive outreach 20 campaign and vigorously promoted the DACA program. Among other efforts, the government 21 provided advice and guidance to civic organizations and education professionals about “best 22 practices” they could use to encourage eligible individuals to apply for the program. The 23 government also hosted informational workshops, and senior government officials—including 24 President Obama—encouraged young people to apply for the program.

1           34.       The government reiterated these promises in its official correspondence, vowing
2 that DACA recipients would not lose their benefits—including the ability to renew their DACA
3 status—absent specified misconduct. For example, the approval notice granting deferred action
4 under DACA lists only “fraud or misrepresentation” in the application process or “[s]ubsequent 5 criminal activity” as grounds for revoking DACA.<sup>24</sup>

6           35.       The government also made promises about information provided by DACA 7 recipients as part of its efforts to promote the program. In particular, since the inception of the 8 DACA program, the government has repeatedly represented to applicants, Congress, and the general
9 public that information provided by DACA applicants about themselves or others (including family 10 members) would not be used for immigration enforcement purposes absent special circumstances.

11           36.       As then-Secretary of Homeland Security Jeh Johnson explained, “[s]ince DACA
12 was announced in 2012, DHS has consistently made clear that information provided by applicants 13 . . . will not later be used for immigration enforcement purposes except where it is independently 14 determined that a case involves a national security or public safety threat, criminal activity, fraud, or 15 limited other circumstances where issuance of a notice to appear is required by law.”<sup>25</sup>

16           37.       Secretary Johnson further explained that this approach was the “long-standing and 17 consistent practice of DHS (and its predecessor INS)” for many “decades” in the use of information 18 “submitted by people seeking deferred action” under a wide variety of programs, as well as 19 applicants seeking immigration “benefits or relief” under a number of other programs.<sup>26</sup> According 20 to Secretary Johnson, “DACA applicants most assuredly relied” upon “these representations” and 21 the agency’s “consistent practice” stretching back decades.<sup>27</sup>

22           38.       The government’s promise not to use information provided by applicants for 23 immigration enforcement purposes also appears in the USCIS’s official instructions regarding the 24 DACA application process. Those instructions provide:

 16 be referred to ICE.”<sup>29</sup>

17 40. That same promise is also included in DHS's official, and statutorily-required, 18 Privacy Impact Assessment for the DACA program.<sup>30</sup>

19 41. Numerous public officials from both political parties have reinforced these promises 20 and have recognized that Dreamers have relied on the government to keep its word. For example, in 21 December 2016, then-Secretary of Homeland Security Jeh Charles Johnson acknowledged that there 22 are hundreds of thousands of Dreamers who have “relied on the U.S. government's representations” 23 about DACA, and he asserted that “representations made by the U.S. government, upon which 24 DACA applicants most assuredly relied, must continue to be honored.”<sup>31</sup>

3 li[ves] around” the DACA program.<sup>32</sup>

4           43.       Also in January 2017, Senator Lindsey Graham stated that the government should 5 not “pull the rug out and push these young men and women—who came out of the shadows and 6 registered with the federal government—back into the darkness.”<sup>33</sup>

7           44.       In February 2017, Congressman Raúl Grijalva described DACA as a 8 “commitment,” and called for “the federal government to honor its word to protect” Dreamers.<sup>34</sup>

9           45.       On February 20, 2017, then-Secretary of Homeland Security John F. Kelly issued a 10 memorandum that “immediately rescinded” all “conflicting directives, memoranda, or field 11 guidance regarding the enforcement of our immigration laws and priorities for removal,” but 12 specifically exempted the 2012 DACA Memorandum.<sup>35</sup>

13           46.       On March 29, 2017, then-Secretary Kelly reaffirmed that “DACA status” is a 14 “commitment . . . by the government towards the DACA person, or the so-called Dreamer.”<sup>36</sup>

15           47.       On April 21, 2017, President Trump said that his administration is “not after the 16 dreamers” and suggested that “[t]he dreamers should rest easy.” When asked if “the policy of [his] 17 administration [is] to allow the dreamers to stay,” President Trump answered, “Yes.”<sup>37</sup>

1 Ms. Garcia Relied on the Government’s Promises Regarding DACA

2 48. Dulce Garcia was brought to the United States from Mexico when she was four 3 years old. Ms. Garcia was raised in a low-income, underserved neighborhood in San Diego, 4 California. Throughout her childhood, Ms. Garcia lacked health care and her family struggled with 5 poverty and occasional periods of homelessness.

6 49. Although she grew up fearing the police and immigration authorities, Ms. Garcia 7 did not learn that she was undocumented until high school. Around this time, Ms. Garcia began to 8 discover the limitations of being undocumented and was advised by her high school guidance 9 counselor that she would be unable to enroll in college or secure federal financial aid despite her 10 academic record.

11 50. Refusing to yield to these limitations, Ms. Garcia continuously sought to enroll at a 12 local community college, despite repeatedly being denied admission because of her immigration 13 status. Eventually, Ms. Garcia secured admission to the school. Ms. Garcia later transferred to the 14 University of California, San Diego (“UCSD”), graduating in 2009 with a bachelor’s degree in 15 political science and securing honors every quarter she was enrolled at UCSD. During this time, 16 Ms. Garcia worked full time as a legal assistant at a small law firm, which solidified her childhood 17 dream of becoming an attorney, and often sought out second and third jobs in order to pay for tuition 18 and books.

19 51. Ms. Garcia matriculated at the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law in Cleveland, 20 Ohio in 2011. Because tuition was a flat rate regardless of the number of units, Ms. Garcia sought 21 the Dean’s approval to take extra classes during her second and third years. Ms. Garcia also worked 22 throughout law school as legal assistant to cover tuition and her living expenses.

23 52. During her last year of law school, when money was especially tight, Ms. Garcia’s 24 mother gave her $5,000 to help pay for tuition. This sum represented most of Ms. Garcia’s mother’s 25 life savings, which she had earned working the night shift as a hotel housekeeper.

26 53. During Ms. Garcia’s second year of law school, the government announced the 27 DACA program. Ms. Garcia was overjoyed and broke down in tears when she heard the 28 announcement. Although she was initially skeptical, Ms. Garcia decided that she could trust the

1 government to honor its promises. In reliance on the government’s promises, she applied for 2 DACA, providing the government with her personal information and the required fees. Ms. Garcia 3 passed the background check and was granted DACA status in 2014. In reliance on the 4 government’s promises, Ms. Garcia successfully reapplied for DACA status and work authorization 5 in 2016. Ms. Garcia was admitted to the California Bar in May 2016.

6 54. Being granted DACA status was a transformative experience for Ms. Garcia.
7 DACA freed Ms. Garcia from the constant worry that she would be detained and deported every 8 time she stepped outside her home. It also gave her the confidence to hire several employees, build 9 a thriving law practice, and represent dozens of clients in immigration, civil litigation, and criminal 10 defense cases. Finally, DACA enabled Ms. Garcia to dream about becoming a mother, allowing her 11 to take the first steps toward becoming a foster parent, with the ultimate goal of adopting a child.

12 55. Ms. Garcia trusted the government to honor its promises and advised others that 13 information provided as part of DACA would not be used for immigration enforcement purposes.
14 Even after the new administration was sworn into office, Ms. Garcia continued to trust the 15 government, helping to create a video encouraging eligible young people to apply for DACA.

16 Ms. Chabolla Relied on the Government’s Promises Regarding DACA

17 56. Viridiana Chabolla was brought to the United States from Mexico when she was 18 two years old. Ms. Chabolla grew up in Los Angeles, California. Ms. Chabolla confronted the 19 reality of her undocumented status from an early age, and was unable to participate in certain club 20 and community activities that required a Social Security number.

21 57. Ms. Chabolla was inspired to pursue a career in law by her grandfather, who 22 suggested that becoming an attorney would give her “the power to fight injustice with words.” 23 Ms. Chabolla was further inspired after meeting a Latino judge from East Los Angeles, whose 24 eloquence, impressive academic credentials, and commitment to the community left a deep 25 impression on her.

26 58. Ms. Chabolla enrolled in Pomona College in the fall of 2009 and graduated with a 27 Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology and Chicana/o-Latina/o Studies in May 2013. Ms. Chabolla 28 received numerous honors and awards and was deeply involved in campus life. At the same time,

1 Ms. Chabolla sought out ways to give back to her community, helping to coordinate academic and 2 enrichment activities, SAT preparation classes, and college information sessions for hundreds of 3 students from economically disadvantaged and underrepresented backgrounds. Ms. Chabolla also 4 created and taught an elective course on the U.S. Civil Rights Movement to high school students.

5 59. In 2012, during her final year of college, Ms. Chabolla applied for and was granted
6 DACA status. In reliance on the promises made by the government, Ms. Chabolla disclosed 7 personal information about herself and her family, paid the required fee, and submitted to a DHS
8 background check. In reliance on the government's promises, Ms. Chabolla successfully reapplied 9 for DACA status in 2014 and again in 2016.

10 60. After graduating from Pomona, Ms. Chabolla was hired as a community organizer 11 at Public Counsel, the nation's largest pro bono law firm. In that capacity, Ms. Chabolla assisted 12 with landmark civil rights litigation involving educational inequities in the public education system, 13 as well as with efforts to provide essential services to homeless veterans, women, and youth in Los 14 Angeles County.

15 61. Ms. Chabolla's experiences at Public Counsel solidified her interest in helping 16 underserved individuals and communities obtain justice through the legal system. In pursuit of this 17 goal, Ms. Chabolla secured a special fellowship from the law firm of Munger, Tolles & Olson LLP, 18 and enrolled earlier this year as a Public Interest Scholar at the University of California, Irvine 19 School of Law.

20 Mr. Latthivongskorn Relied on the Government's Promises Regarding DACA

21 62. New Latthivongskorn was brought to the United States from Thailand when he was 22 nine years old. Mr. Latthivongskorn was raised in California. His parents first settled in Fremont, 23 California, where they worked cleaning toilets and mopping floors, and later waiting tables at 24 various restaurants. In 2004, Mr. Latthivongskorn's parents moved the family to Sacramento to 25 open their own restaurant, hoping that it would allow them to earn enough money to be able to send 26 their children to college.

27 63. Growing up, Mr. Latthivongskorn lived with the constant fear that he or his parents 28 might be deported. Mr. Latthivongskorn began to more acutely experience the challenges of being

1 undocumented as he grew older, often searching for excuses such as being “deathly afraid of 2 driving” to explain to classmates why he lacked a driver’s license.

3 64. Mr. Latthivongskorn was inspired to become a doctor after his mother was 4 diagnosed with ovarian tumors during his junior year of high school. Not only did 5 Mr. Latthivongskorn witness the incredible power of medicine to help those in need, but he also 6 experienced the barriers that low-income immigrants face in navigating the health care system.
7 After this experience, Mr. Latthivongskorn decided that he wanted to devote his life to improving 8 access to health care for immigrant and low-income communities.

9 65. Mr. Latthivongskorn’s parents taught him that hard work and education were the 10 keys to success. In addition to waiting tables, washing dishes, and mopping floors in his family’s 11 restaurant on nights and weekends, Mr. Latthivongskorn immersed himself in his studies, taking 12 honors and AP classes. As a result of his hard work, Mr. Latthivongskorn graduated as salutatorian 13 of his high school class and was accepted to UC Berkeley.

14 66. Because he lacked a Social Security number, Mr. Latthivongskorn was ineligible for 15 federal financial aid. However, due to his record of achievement, Mr. Latthivongskorn was offered 16 a prestigious scholarship that promised to cover a significant portion of his educational expenses for 17 four years. This scholarship was revoked only weeks before classes began after UC Berkeley 18 learned that Mr. Latthivongskorn lacked legal status. Mr. Latthivongskorn was devastated and 19 considered attending a community college, but his family insisted that he enroll at UC Berkeley.

20 67. While Mr. Latthivongskorn thrived at UC Berkeley, he constantly worried about 21 how to finance his education. To help pay for school, Mr. Latthivongskorn worked as a busboy at a 22 Thai restaurant and secured scholarships from several nonprofit organizations. Despite his 23 demanding academic and work commitments, Mr. Latthivongskorn devoted significant time to 24 volunteering with several local nonprofit organizations.

25 68. In 2011, Mr. Latthivongskorn was robbed at gun point just five blocks from the UC
26 Berkeley campus. He decided not to report the crime to the police out of fear that stepping forward 27 to law enforcement might lead to him being deported.

1           69.       While at UC Berkeley, Mr. Latthivongskorn also developed into an activist and 2 learned the power of grassroots community organizing. Among other efforts, Mr. Latthivongskorn 3 advocated for federal legislation to assist Dreamers, and testified before the California Legislature in 4 support of the California DREAM Act in 2011 and the California TRUST Act in 2013.

5           70.       In 2012, Mr. Latthivongskorn co-founded Pre-Health Dreamers (“PHD”), a national 6 nonprofit organization that provides advising, resources, and advocacy for undocumented students 7 interested in pursuing careers in health care and science. In January 2017, Forbes Magazine named 8 Mr. Latthivongskorn to its “30 Under 30 in Education” list, commending him for being “on the 9 frontline of getting undocumented students into medical professions and on the path to becoming 10 physicians and health care professionals.”

11           71.       In 2012, Mr. Latthivongskorn graduated with honors from UC Berkeley, earning a 12 degree in Molecular & Cellular Biology and Distinction in General Scholarship. In spite of his 13 excellent academic record, Mr. Latthivongskorn was told by the deans of admissions at several 14 medical schools that he should not apply to their programs because he was undocumented and that 15 no medical school would invest their resources in training someone who might not be able to stay in 16 the United States. Refusing to take “no” for an answer, Mr. Latthivongskorn applied to medical 17 school anyway, but was initially turned down.

18           72.       Exactly one month after Mr. Latthivongskorn graduated from UC Berkeley, the 19 government announced the DACA program. Believing that he could rely on the government to 20 honor its promises, Mr. Latthivongskorn applied for DACA in the fall of 2012. He passed the 21 background check and was granted DACA status on January 24, 2013. In reliance on the 22 government’s promises, Mr. Latthivongskorn successfully reapplied for DACA status and work 23 authorization in 2014 and then again in 2016.

24           73.       Being granted DACA status changed Mr. Latthivongskorn’s life. Because DACA 25 recipients were granted permission to stay in the United States on a renewable basis, medical 26 schools became willing to invest in these students for the several years it takes to complete medical 27 school and residency programs. Mr. Latthivongskorn reapplied to medical schools, and in 2014, he 28 enrolled at UCSF, one of the most prestigious and selective medical schools in the country.

1 Mr. Latthivongskorn is part of the Program in Medical Education for the Urban Underserved 2 (“PRIME-US”), and is committed to using his degree to improve health care delivery systems and 3 assist urban underserved communities.

4 74. In April 2017, Mr. Latthivongskorn was awarded a prestigious U.S. Public Health 5 Service Excellence in Public Health Award, which is given to medical students who have helped to 6 advance the U.S. Public Health Service’s mission to “protect, promote, and advance the health and 7 safety of our Nation.”

8 75. In August 2017, Mr. Latthivongskorn began pursuing a Master of Public Health at 9 Harvard University. His goal is to develop a better understanding of health care policy so that he 10 can help to end health disparities and increase access to affordable, quality health care, particularly 11 for immigrants and other underserved communities.

12 Ms. Ramirez Relied on the Government’s Promises Regarding DACA

13 76. Norma Ramirez was brought to the United States from Mexico when she was five 14 years old. Ms. Ramirez attended public high school, where she was an honor roll student. Her 15 undocumented status made an impact on her in high school when she was denied a driver’s license 16 and learned that her dreams of going to college might be out of reach.

17 77. Ms. Ramirez attended the College of Southern Nevada, and later the University of 18 Nevada, Las Vegas, where she earned a bachelor’s degree in psychology in 2014.

19 78. Ms. Ramirez could not believe the news in 2012 when her pastor sent her a text 20 message telling her about the DACA program. Relying on the government’s promises under the 21 DACA program, Ms. Ramirez applied for DACA status on August 15, 2012. Her application was 22 approved on November 1, 2012. In further reliance on the government’s promises, Ms. Ramirez
23 twice reapplied for DACA status and work authorization, and was reapproved in September 2014 24 and October 2016.

25 79. Ms. Ramirez has been inspired to continue her education in clinical psychology in 26 part because her experiences as a volunteer mentor have exposed her to the suffering of countless 27 individuals who do not have access to mental health services, much less access to practitioners who 28 speak their native language or share an understanding of the immigrant experience. Her motivation

1 also stems from her own difficulties in finding a supportive environment to discuss the challenges 2 and barriers she has faced as an undocumented immigrant.

3 80. In 2015, Ms. Ramirez began her graduate work at the Fuller Theological Seminary 4 in Pasadena, California. She earned her Master's degree in Clinical Psychology in 2017 and is 5 currently pursuing her Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology. Since 2016, Ms. Ramirez has worked at an 6 outpatient clinic in Monrovia, California, providing school and home-based therapy to patients in 7 English and Spanish, and also has served as a member of the Board of Directors for the Immigration 8 Resource Center of San Gabriel Valley.

9 81. DACA enabled Ms. Ramirez to pursue her dream of establishing a free clinic that 10 provides mental health services to immigrant youth, Latinos, and their families. As a Dreamer, 11 Ms. Ramirez understands the challenges faced by many of her patients, and is able to secure their 12 trust in a way that many other mental health practitioners cannot.

13 Ms. Gonzalez Relied on the Government's Promises Regarding DACA

14 82. Miriam Gonzalez was brought to the United States from Mexico when she was six 15 years old. She was raised in Los Angeles, California, and graduated from Roosevelt High School in 16 2011.

17 83. Ms. Gonzalez first learned she was undocumented in the seventh grade, after talking 18 with her friends about getting a summer job at an elementary school. When she asked her parents 19 for her Social Security number so that she could apply to work with her friends, they informed her 20 that she was undocumented and had no Social Security number.

21 84. In spite of their undocumented status, Ms. Gonzalez's parents pushed her to get 22 good grades, with the hope that she would go to college. In high school, Ms. Gonzalez began telling 23 her teachers that she was undocumented, and they provided her with resources about the application 24 process and about a California law allowing undocumented students to pay in-state tuition.

25 85. Relying on the government's promises under the DACA program, Ms. Gonzalez 26 applied for DACA status and work authorization in December 2012. Her application was approved 27 in February 2013. In further reliance on the government's promises, Ms. Gonzalez successfully 28 reapplied for DACA status and work authorization in December 2014 and October 2016.

1           86.       Ms. Gonzalez attended college at the University of California, Los Angeles 2 (“UCLA”), graduating in 2016 with a Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology and a minor in Classical 3 Civilizations. She was named to the Dean’s Honors List for her academic performance in the spring
4 of 2015. While at UCLA, Ms. Gonzalez earned money by tutoring elementary, middle, and high 5 school students, and by working as a campus parking assistant.

6           87.       Ms. Gonzalez has been active in community service since a young age, focusing her 7 energy on immigrants’ rights and education for the underserved. While at UCLA, she helped to host 8 the 2014 Immigrant Youth Empowerment Conference—the largest immigrant youth conference in 9 the country—as well as an Educators Conference, a DACA clinic, and several additional 10 immigrants’ rights workshops. Ms. Gonzalez also mentored two students at Van Nuys High School, 11 motivating them to pursue a higher education and advising them on the college application process.

12           88.       Ms. Gonzalez ultimately decided that she could give the most to her community by 13 teaching students in underserved communities. After graduating from UCLA in 2016, 14 Ms. Gonzalez was accepted into the selective Teach For America (“TFA”) program. Through TFA, 15 Ms. Gonzalez currently teaches Math and Reading Intervention to struggling middle school students 16 at Crown Preparatory Academy in Los Angeles.

17           89.       In 2017, Ms. Gonzalez received her Preliminary Multiple Subject Teaching 18 Credential from Loyola Marymount University, which is valid until 2022. Ms. Gonzalez is 19 currently studying at Loyola Marymount to obtain a Master of Arts degree in Urban Education, with 20 a focus in Policy and Administration. Upon her expected completion of her master’s program and 21 her service with TFA in the spring of 2018, Ms. Gonzalez hopes to continue to teach in the Los 22 Angeles area, mentoring and inspiring young students from disadvantaged communities to pursue a 23 higher education and achieve their full potential.

24 Mr. Jimenez Relied on the Government’s Promises Regarding DACA

25           90.       Saul Jimenez was brought to the United States from Mexico when he was one year 26 old. Mr. Jimenez was raised in the Boyle Heights neighborhood of Los Angeles, California. He 27 attended Roosevelt High School, where he was a star athlete. Among other achievements, he was 28 captain of the football team and an all-league wide receiver. Mr. Jimenez worked throughout high

1 school, helping his parents make ends meet by delivering newspapers and washing dishes at an 2 Italian restaurant.

3 91. Following high school, Mr. Jimenez played football for two years at East Los 4 Angeles Community College, viewing his commitment to the game as a ticket to a four-year
5 university. At the same time, Mr. Jimenez was also working two or three jobs, and often struggled 6 to stay awake during practice and team meetings. Mr. Jimenez explored becoming a firefighter and 7 considered a career in law enforcement, but learned that his legal status prevented him from serving 8 his community in these ways.

9 92. In 2007, Mr. Jimenez's hard work paid off and he was awarded a football 10 scholarship to Oklahoma Panhandle State University. Mr. Jimenez again served as team captain and 11 was chosen by his teammates as defensive MVP—now playing as an outside linebacker.

12 93. In Oklahoma, Mr. Jimenez began mentoring high school students through the U.S.
13 Department of Education's Upward Bound program. Mr. Jimenez quickly found that he enjoyed 14 working with young people and was able to connect with and help many of his students.

15 94. In 2010, Mr. Jimenez returned to Boyle Heights, working in low-wage jobs in 16 warehouses and restaurants to support his parents and himself. However, after the government 17 announced the DACA program in 2012, Mr. Jimenez began to believe that he could build a career 18 for himself, and worked to improve his resume.

19 95. Relying on the government's promises under the DACA program, Mr. Jimenez 20 successfully applied for DACA status in 2012. In further reliance on the government's promises, 21 Mr. Jimenez successfully reapplied for DACA status and work authorization in 2014.

22 96. Shortly after receiving DACA status, Mr. Jimenez secured three part-time teaching 23 and mentorship positions, working as a tutor, a sports coach in an after-school program, and as a 24 manager at an adolescent rehabilitation center at night. After a few months, Mr. Jimenez accepted a 25 full-time position as a program coordinator with the national nonprofit HealthCorps, which enabled 26 him to continue to pursue his interest in teaching and mentorship.

27 97. In August 2016, Mr. Jimenez began working as a substitute teacher in the Los 28 Angeles Unified School District. Mr. Jimenez is now a full-time special education teacher at 1 Stevenson Middle School, where he helps students with learning disabilities overcome their 2 challenges.

3 98. Mr. Jimenez has also pursued coaching as a further means to inspire and uplift
4 young people. In recent years, Mr. Jimenez has also served as the head junior varsity football coach, 5 the head girls junior varsity soccer coach, and an assistant varsity football coach at Roosevelt High 6 School. Through coaching, Mr. Jimenez seeks to teach young people skills and lessons that will 7 apply broadly and benefit them throughout their lives.

8 President Trump's Statements and Actions Prior to Ending DACA

9 99. The government's decision to end the DACA program was motivated by improper 10 discriminatory intent and animus toward Mexican nationals, individuals of Mexican heritage, and 11 Latinos, who together account for 93 percent of approved DACA applications.

12 100. According to USCIS, approximately 79 percent of approved DACA applications 13 through March 31, 2017, have been submitted by Mexican nationals.<sup>38</sup> No other nationality makes 14 up more than 4 percent of approved DACA applications.<sup>39</sup> 93 percent of approved DACA
15 applications have been submitted by individuals from Latin American countries.<sup>40</sup>

16 101. President Trump's statements and actions reflect a pattern of bias against Mexicans 17 and Latinos. For example, on February 24, 2015, President Trump demanded that Mexico "stop 18 sending criminals over our border."<sup>41</sup> On March 5, 2015, President Trump tweeted that he 19 "want[ed] nothing to do with Mexico other than to build an impenetrable WALL . . . ."<sup>42</sup>

1           102.     On June 16, 2015, during his speech launching his presidential campaign, President 2 Trump characterized immigrants from Mexico as criminals, “rapists,” and “people that have lots of 3 problems.”<sup>43</sup> President Trump later asserted that these remarks were “100 percent correct.”<sup>44</sup>

4           103.     Three days later, President Trump tweeted that “[d]ruggies, drug dealers, rapists and 5 killers are coming across the southern border,” and asked, “When will the U.S. get smart and stop 6 this travesty?”<sup>45</sup>

7           104.     On August 6, 2015, during the first Republican presidential debate, President Trump 8 said “the Mexican government is much smarter, much sharper, much more cunning. And they send 9 the bad ones over because they don’t want to pay for them, they don’t want to take care of them.”<sup>46</sup>

10          105.     On August 21, 2015, two men urinated on a sleeping Latino man and then beat him 11 with a metal pole. At the police station, they stated “Donald Trump was right; all these illegals need 12 to be deported.” When asked about the incident, President Trump failed to condemn the men, 13 instead stating that they were “passionate.” Specifically, President Trump said, “[i]t would be a 14 shame . . . I will say that people who are following me are very passionate. They love this country 15 and they want this country to be great again. They are passionate.”<sup>47</sup>

16          106.     On August 24, 2015, President Trump tweeted, “Jeb Bush is crazy, who cares that

3           108.     In May and June 2016, President Trump repeatedly attacked United States District

6 Trump’s eponymous university.<sup>50</sup> Speaker of the House Paul Ryan characterized President Trump’s

6 112. On August 25, 2017, President Trump pardoned former Maricopa County Sheriff
7 Joseph Arpaio, who had been convicted of criminal contempt by United States District Judge Susan 8 R. Bolton for intentionally disobeying a federal court order to cease targeting Latinos. A 9 comprehensive investigation by the United States Department of Justice found that under Sheriff 10 Arpaio’s leadership the Maricopa County Sheriff’s Office engaged in a pattern and practice of 11 unconstitutional conduct and violations of federal law based on its blatantly discriminatory practices 12 against Latinos.<sup>59</sup> Among other conclusions, the Justice Department investigation uncovered “a 13 pervasive culture of discriminatory bias against Latinos” and noted that Sheriff Arpaio’s officers 14 routinely referred to Latinos as “wetbacks,” “Mexican bitches,” “fucking Mexicans,” and “stupid 15 Mexicans.” In pardoning Sheriff Arpaio, President Trump praised him as an “American patriot”<sup>60</sup>

6 The Termination of the DACA Program

7 114. Throughout the first eight months of 2017, the Trump Administration sent strong 8 signals that Dreamers could and should continue to rely on the government’s promises regarding the 9 DACA program. As noted above, then-Secretary of Homeland Security John D. Kelly specifically 10 exempted DACA from the Administration’s broad repeal of other immigration programs, and 11 reaffirmed that DACA status is a “commitment” by the government.<sup>63</sup> On April 21, 2017, President 12 Trump said that his administration is “not after the dreamers,” suggested that “[t]he dreamers should 13 rest easy,” and responded to the question of whether “the policy of [his] administration [is] to allow 14 the dreamers to stay,” by answering “Yes.”<sup>64</sup>

15 115. On June 29, 2017, officials from ten states<sup>65</sup> that had previously challenged another 16 deferred action program, Deferred Action for Parents of Americans and Lawful Permanent 17 Residents (“DAPA”), sent a letter to Attorney General Jeff Sessions, asserting that the DACA

1 that the program “is vulnerable to the same legal and constitutional challenges that the courts
2 recognized with respect to the DAPA program.”<sup>71</sup>

3 120. Attorney General Sessions’s comments regarding the legality of the DACA program 4 contradict conclusions previously reached by both the Department of Justice and the Department of 5 Homeland Security. Specifically, the Department of Justice’s Office of Legal Counsel (“OLC”)
6 provided a detailed analysis of DAPA in 2014, concluding that DAPA—as well as DACA—was a 7 lawful exercise of the Executive Branch’s “discretion to enforce the immigration laws.”<sup>72</sup> More 8 recently, in its brief before the U.S. Supreme Court in United States v. Texas, DHS concluded that 9 programs like DACA are “lawful exercise[s]” of the Executive Branch’s “broad statutory authority”
10 to administer and enforce the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101, et seq.<sup>73</sup>

11 121. Nonetheless, on the same date as Attorney General Sessions’s announcement, 12 Acting Secretary of Homeland Security Duke issued a memorandum formally rescinding the DACA
13 program (the “Rescission Memorandum”).<sup>74</sup> Unlike OLC’s 2014 analysis, the Rescission 14 Memorandum provides no reasoned evaluation of the legality and merits of the program. Instead, it 15 states that the threat of litigation by numerous state attorneys general provoked the decision to 16 terminate DACA.

17 122. In addition to the Rescission Memorandum, Secretary Duke also issued an 18 accompanying statement asserting that the government had decided to end DACA rather than “allow 19 the judiciary to potentially shut the program down completely and immediately.”<sup>75</sup> Secretary Duke

1 also expressed “sympath[y]” and “frustrat[ion]” on “behalf” of DACA recipients, candidly
2 acknowledging that “DACA was fundamentally a lie.”<sup>76</sup>

3 123. Under the Rescission Memorandum, the federal government will continue to 4 process DACA applications received by September 5, 2017. Furthermore, the federal government 5 will issue renewals for recipients whose permits expire before March 5, 2018, provided they apply 6 for renewal by October 5, 2017. The government will not approve any new or pending applications 7 for advanced parole.

8 124. In a statement also issued on September 5, 2017, President Trump claimed that he 9 decided to end DACA because he had been advised that “the program is unlawful and 10 unconstitutional and cannot be successfully defended in court,” and because DACA “helped spur a 11 humanitarian crisis—the massive surge of unaccompanied minors from Central America including, 12 in some cases, young people who would become members of violent gangs throughout our country, 13 such as MS-13.”<sup>77</sup>

14 125. The government also has taken affirmative steps to reduce the protections applicable
15 to information provided in connection with the DACA program. In January 2017, President Trump 16 issued an Executive Order directing all agencies, including DHS, to “ensure that their privacy 17 policies exclude persons who are not United States citizens or lawful permanent residents from the 18 protections of the Privacy Act regarding personally identifiable information.”<sup>78</sup> DHS has confirmed 19 that its new privacy policy “permits the sharing of information about immigrants and non-20 immigrants with federal, state, and local law enforcement.”<sup>79</sup>

1           126.     The Rescission Memorandum also provides no assurance that information provided 2 in connection with DACA applications or renewal requests will not be used for immigration 3 enforcement purposes. To the contrary, DHS posted public guidance about the impact of the 4 rescission on the same day that the Rescission Memorandum was issued. This guidance backtracks 5 on the government’s prior repeated assurances that “[i]nformation provided in [a DACA] request is 6 protected from disclosure to ICE and CBP for the purpose of immigration enforcement proceedings 7 . . . .”<sup>80</sup> Now, rather than affirmatively “protect[ing] [this information] from disclosure,” the 8 government represents only that such sensitive information “will not be proactively provided to ICE 9 and CBP for the purpose of immigration enforcement proceedings . . . .”<sup>81</sup> And even this policy 10 “may not be relied upon” by any party and can be changed “at any time without notice.”<sup>82</sup>

11           127.     Despite terminating DACA, other uses of deferred action and programs benefitting 12 other groups of immigrants remain in effect.

13 The Termination of the DACA Program Will Inflict Severe Harm

14           128.     The termination of the DACA program will severely harm Plaintiffs and hundreds 15 of thousands of other young Dreamers. Among other things, Plaintiffs stand to lose their ability to 16 access numerous federal, state, and practical benefits, and to reside in the United States with their 17 families. Nearly 800,000 other young people will similarly face the prospect of losing their jobs, 18 being denied vital benefits, and being separated from the family, friends, colleagues, and 19 communities that love and rely on them. The termination of the DACA program will also harm the 20 students, patients, clients, community members, family, and friends who have come to rely on 21 Plaintiffs for essential services and emotional and financial support.

1           129. With the sensitive personal information they provided to the federal government no 2 longer “protected from disclosure,” Plaintiffs and other DACA recipients face the imminent risk that 3 such information could be used against them “at any time,” “without notice,” for purposes of 4 immigration enforcement, including detention or deportation.

5           130. Terminating DACA will also cause widespread economic harm.<sup>83</sup> DACA has 6 enabled approximately 800,000 hardworking, ambitious, and educated young people to enter the 7 labor force. Over 90 percent of DACA recipients are employed, and over 95 percent are bilingual, a 8 valuable skill that is increasingly needed by American companies.<sup>84</sup>

9           131. Terminating the DACA program will also have a negative impact on the economy 10 and American competitiveness.<sup>85</sup>

11           132. On August 31, 2017, in recognition of these costs and their concern for Dreamers, 12 hundreds of America’s most important business leaders sent a letter to President Trump emphasizing 13 the benefits of the DACA program and urging him to preserve it. The letter explains that “Dreamers 14 are vital to the future of our companies and our economy” and part of America’s “global 15 competitive advantage.”<sup>86</sup> leaders.

1           134. Immigrants who are physically present in the United States are guaranteed the 2 protections of the Due Process Clause. See Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 693 (2001).

3           135. The Constitution “imposes constraints on governmental decisions which deprive 4 individuals of ‘liberty’ or ‘property’ interests within the meaning of the Due Process Clause of the 5 Fifth or Fourteenth Amendment.” Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 332 (1976). A threshold 6 inquiry in any case involving a violation of procedural due process “is whether the plaintiffs have a 7 protected property or liberty interest and, if so, the extent or scope of that interest.” Nozzi v. Hous.
8 Auth. of L.A., 806 F.3d 1178, 1190–91 (9th Cir. 2015) (citing Bd. of Regents of State Colls. v. Roth, 9 408 U.S. 564, 569–70 (1972)).

10           136. The property interests protected by the Due Process Clause “extend beyond tangible 11 property and include anything to which a plaintiff has a ‘legitimate claim of entitlement.’” Nozzi, 12 806 F.3d at 1191 (quoting Roth, 408 U.S. at 576–77). “A legitimate claim of entitlement is created 13 [by] . . . ‘rules or understandings that secure certain benefits and that support claims of entitlement to 14 those benefits.’” Id. (quoting Roth, 408 U.S. at 577).

15           137. In addition to freedom from detention, Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690, the term “liberty” 16 also encompasses the ability to work, raise a family, and “form the other enduring attachments of 17 normal life.” Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 482 (1972) (citing Roth, 408 U.S. at 572).

18           138. DACA recipients, including Plaintiffs, have constitutionally protected liberty and 19 property interests in their DACA status and the numerous benefits conferred thereunder, including 20 the ability to renew their DACA status every two years. These protected interests exist by virtue of 21 the government’s decision to grant DACA recipients certain benefits and its repeated representations 22 and promises regarding the DACA program. See Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254, 262 (1970); Perry 23 v. Sindermann, 408 U.S. 593, 601 (1972) (“A person’s interest in a benefit is a ‘property’ interest for 24 due process purposes if there are such rules or mutually explicit understandings that support his claim 25 of entitlement to the benefit and that he may invoke at a hearing.”).

26           139. In establishing and continuously operating DACA under a well-defined framework 27 of highly specific criteria—including nearly 150 pages of specific instructions for managing the 28 program—the government created a reasonable expectation among Plaintiffs and other DACA

1 recipients that they are entitled to the benefits provided under the program, including the ability to 2 seek renewal of their DACA status, as long as they continue to play by the rules and meet the 3 program's nondiscretionary criteria for renewal.

4 140. DACA status is uniquely valuable to Plaintiffs and other Dreamers in that it serves 5 as a gateway to numerous essential benefits. Revocation of DACA effectively deprives these young 6 people of the ability to be fully contributing members of society.

7 141. The ability to renew DACA status at regular intervals has always been an essential 8 element of the program and part of the deal offered by the government. The prospect of renewal was 9 one of the primary benefits the government used to induce Plaintiffs and other Dreamers to step 10 forward, disclose highly sensitive personal information, and subject themselves to a rigorous 11 background investigation.

12 142. The government's arbitrary termination of the DACA program and deprivation of 13 the opportunity to renew DACA status violates the due process rights of Plaintiffs and other DACA 14 recipients.

15 143. The government's decision to terminate DACA after vigorously promoting the 16 program and coaxing hundreds of thousands of highly vulnerable young people to step forward is an 17 unconstitutional bait-and-switch. See, e.g., Cox v. State of La., 379 U.S. 559, 571 (1965); Raley v.
18 State of Ohio, 360 U.S. 423, 438–39 (1959). The government promised Plaintiffs and other young 19 people that if they disclosed highly sensitive personal information, passed a background check, and 20 played by the rules, they would be able to live and work in the United States. The government's 21 termination of the DACA program is a breach of that promise. For the government to now "say . . .
22 'The joke is on you. You shouldn't have trusted us,' is hardly worthy of our great government." 23 Moda Health Plan, Inc. v. United States, 130 Fed. Cl. 436, 466 (Fed. Cl. 2017) (quoting Brandt v.
24 Hickel, 427 F.2d 53, 57 (9th Cir. 1970)).

25 144. The Due Process Clause also forbids the government from breaking its promises, 26 especially where, as here, individuals, have been induced to undertake actions with potentially 27 devastating consequences in reliance on those promises.

28

1 omitted). “Determining whether invidious discriminatory purpose was a motivating factor demands a 2 sensitive inquiry into such circumstantial and direct evidence of intent as may be available.” Vill. of 3 Arlington Heights v. Metro. Hous. Dev. Corp., 429 U.S. 252, 266 (1977). “The court analyzes 4 whether a discriminatory purpose motivated the defendant by examining the events leading up to the 5 challenged decision and the legislative history behind it, the defendant’s departure from normal 6 procedures or substantive conclusions, and the historical background of the decision and whether it 7 creates a disparate impact.” Avenue 6E Invs., LLC v. City of Yuma, Ariz., 818 F.3d 493, 504 (9th Cir.
8 2016).

9 151. As set forth above, the termination of DACA was motivated by improper 10 discriminatory intent and bias against Mexican nationals, individuals of Mexican descent, and 11 Latinos, who together account for 93 percent of approved DACA applications.

12 152. President Trump has a history of tweets, campaign speeches, debate responses, and 13 other statements alleging that Mexican and Latino immigrants are rapists, criminals, and otherwise 14 bad people. Moreover, shortly before terminating DACA, President Trump pardoned former 15 Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio for a criminal contempt of court conviction related to Sheriff 16 Arpaio’s discriminatory practices against Latinos, asserting that the Sheriff had been convicted of 17 contempt merely for “doing his job.”

18 153. President Trump’s statements and actions, including the termination of the DACA 19 program, appealed to voters who harbor hostility toward Mexican and Latino immigrants.

20 154. The government did not follow its normal procedures in reversing course and 21 terminating the DACA program. In 2014, the OLC concluded, after conducting a detailed analysis, 22 that DACA was a lawful exercise of the Executive Branch’s discretion. The government has made 23 similar arguments to the Supreme Court. By contrast, Attorney General Sessions’s one-page letter 24 to Acting Secretary Duke contained virtually no legal analysis, and Acting Secretary Duke’s 25 Rescission Memorandum relied largely on Attorney General Sessions’s letter.

26 155. There are many strong policy reasons to maintain the DACA program. DACA has 27 provided the government with enormous benefits, including an efficient allocation of immigration 28 enforcement resources. DACA has also provided enormous benefits to American businesses and the

1 broader economy. And DACA has helped communities throughout the United States, who are able 2 to benefit from the talents and contributions of DACA recipients.

3 156. DACA is a promise from the government to DACA recipients and those who rely 4 on them. Separate from the policy rationales set forth above, the government is obligated to honor 5 its commitments under the DACA program.

6 157. The government continues to operate programs that benefit other groups of 7 immigrants. Because Mexicans and Latinos account for 93 percent of approved DACA 8 applications, they will be disproportionately impacted by the termination of the DACA program.

9 158. The history, procedure, substance, context, and impact of the decision to terminate 10 DACA demonstrate that the decision was motivated by discriminatory animus against Mexican and 11 Latino immigrants. Because it was motivated by a discriminatory purpose, the decision to terminate 12 DACA violates the equal protection guarantee of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment.

13 159. Defendants' violations have caused ongoing harm to Plaintiffs and other Dreamers.

14 THIRD COUNT

15 ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE ACT – CONSTITUTIONAL VIOLATIONS

16 160. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference each and every allegation contained in 17 the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

18 161. Defendants are subject to the Administrative Procedure Act (“APA”). See 5 U.S.C.
19 § 703. The termination of the DACA program is final agency action subject to judicial review 20 because it marks the “consummation of the . . . decisionmaking process” and is one “from which 21 legal consequences will flow.” Bennett v. Spear, 520 U.S. 154, 178 (1997) (internal quotation marks 22 omitted).

23 162. The “comprehensive” scope of the APA provides a “default” “remed[y] for all 24 interactions between individuals and all federal agencies.” W. Radio Servs. Co. v. U.S. Forest Serv., 25 578 F.3d 1116, 1123 (9th Cir. 2009).

26 163. The APA requires that courts “shall . . . hold unlawful and set aside agency action, 27 findings, and conclusions found to be . . . not in accordance with law . . . [or] contrary to 28 constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity.” 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A), (B).

1           171.     A government decision reversing a prior policy is “arbitrary and capricious” when it
2 fails “tak[e] into account” these types of “serious reliance interests.” Perez v. Mortg. Bankers Ass’n, 3 135 S. Ct. 1199, 1209 (2015).

4           172.     The government’s disregard for the reasonable reliance of Plaintiffs and hundreds of 5 thousands of other vulnerable young people is the hallmark of arbitrary and capricious action and an 6 abuse of discretion, and the decision to terminate the DACA program is therefore in violation of the 7 APA and must be vacated.

8           173.     The government’s decision to terminate the DACA program is also arbitrary and 9 capricious because the purported rationale for that decision is inconsistent with DHS’s new 10 policy. See Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass’n of U.S., Inc. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 11 55–56 (1983) (holding that the agency “failed to offer the rational connection between facts and 12 judgment required to pass muster under the arbitrary capricious standard”). In particular, the 13 government terminated DACA because it purportedly concluded that the Executive Branch lacks 14 authority to continue the program, yet DHS will continue to adjudicate pending DACA applications, 15 as well as renewal applications it receives before October 5, 2017 (for individuals whose benefits 16 expire before March 5, 2018), thereby extending DACA for an additional two and a half years.

17           174.     The government’s decision to set an October 5, 2017 deadline for accepting DACA 18 renewal applications is also arbitrary. The Rescission Memorandum does not provide a reasoned 19 analysis to support this short deadline, and the government has failed to provide sufficient time and 20 notice to DACA recipients. On information and belief, the government has sent false and misleading 21 renewal notices to certain DACA recipients, which have failed to advise them of the October 5, 2017
22 deadline. Moreover, this short deadline is especially troubling for low-income DACA recipients, 23 who have little time to gather the significant funds required to submit a DACA renewal application.

24           175.     Moreover, the decision to terminate DACA is also arbitrary and capricious because 25 the government itself previously determined that DACA is a lawful exercise of the Executive 26 Branch’s immigration enforcement authority, and the government failed to conduct or provide a 27 reasoned analysis for its change of policy. See Nat’l Wildlife Fed’n v. Burford, 871 F.2d 849, 855 28 (9th Cir. 1989) (“a shift from settled policy requires a showing of reasoned analysis”).

1 186. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. §§ 601–12 (“RFA”), requires federal 2 agencies to analyze the impact of rules they promulgate on small entities and publish initial and final 3 versions of those analyses for public comment. 5 U.S.C. §§ 603–04.

4 187. “Small entit[ies]” for purposes of the RFA includes “small organization[s]” and 5 “small business[es].” See 5 U.S.C. §§ 601(3), (4), (6).

6 188. The actions that DHS has taken to implement the DHS Memorandum are “rules” 7 under the RFA. See 5 U.S.C. § 601(2).

8 189. Defendants have not issued the required analyses of DHS’s new rules.

9 190. Defendants’ failure to issue the initial and final Regulatory Flexibility Analyses 10 violates the RFA and is unlawful.

11 191. Defendants’ violations cause ongoing harm to Plaintiffs and other Dreamers.

12 SEVENTH COUNT

13 EQUITABLE ESTOPPEL

14 192. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference each and every allegation contained in 15 the preceding paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

16 193. Through its conduct and statements, the government represented to Plaintiffs and 17 other DACA applicants that DACA was lawful and that information collected in connection with the 18 DACA program would not be used for immigration enforcement purposes absent special 19 circumstances.

20 194. In reliance on the government’s repeated assurances, Plaintiffs and other DACA 21 applicants risked removal and deportation and came forward and identified themselves to the 22 government, and provided sensitive personal information, including their fingerprints and personal 23 history, in order to participate in DACA.

24 195. Throughout the life of DACA, the government has continued to make affirmative 25 representations about the use of information as well as the validity and legality of DACA. Plaintiffs 26 and other DACA applicants relied on the government’s continuing representations to their detriment.

1 204. There is an actual controversy regarding whether the DACA program is lawful.

2 205. Plaintiffs are entitled to a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a) that 3 the DACA program was lawful and is lawful today.

4 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

5 WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray that this Court grant the following relief:

- 6 (1) Issue a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a) that the DACA program is 7 lawful and constitutional;
- 8 (2) Issue a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a) and 5 U.S.C. § 706(2) that 9 the termination of the DACA program was unlawful and unconstitutional;
- 10 (3) Issue a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201(a) that Defendants are 11 equitably estopped from terminating the DACA program or from using information 12 provided pursuant to DACA for immigration enforcement purposes, except as previously 13 authorized under the program;
- 14 (4) Issue an injunction invalidating the Rescission Memorandum, preserving the status quo, 15 and enjoining Defendants from terminating the DACA program;
- 16 (5) Issue an injunction enjoining Defendants from sharing or otherwise using information 17 provided pursuant to the DACA program for immigration enforcement purposes except as 18 previously authorized under the DACA program; and
- 19 (6) Grant any other and further relief that this Court may deem just and proper.
