Defendant.

1 INTRODUCTION

2 The plaintiffs — three classes of current and former nonexempt employees who have various 3 jobs at Bank of America’s California branches — challenge Bank of America’s alleged failure to 4 pay them for their off-the-clock work, provide meal-and-rest breaks, or reimburse expenses in 5 violation of the California Labor Code, California’s Unfair Competition Law (UCL), and 6 California’s Private Attorney’s General Act (PAGA). It is a putative class action under Federal 7 Rule of Civil Procedure 23.<sup>1</sup> The parties settled the case, and the court granted the plaintiffs’
8 unopposed motion for preliminary approval of the proposed settlement.<sup>2</sup> The plaintiffs moved for,
9 and the defendants did not oppose, final approval of the settlement and attorney’s fees and costs.<sup>3</sup>
10 The court held a fairness hearing on October 28, 2021 and approves the settlement.

11
12 STATEMENT

13 1. The Lawsuits

14 This settlement involves three class-action cases with wage-and-hour claims. There thus are 15 three settlement classes: the Harrison Class (tellers), the Kaffishahsavar Class (bankers, 16 relationship managers and bankers, and lending and sales specialists), and the Mendoza Class 17 (operations managers).<sup>4</sup> The parties engaged in formal and informal discovery (including motions 18 practice) and then agreed to mediation. To prepare for it, the defendant produced, and the 19 plaintiffs’ counsel reviewed, data concerning the class sizes, hourly rates and dates of 20 employment, timekeeping data, policy manuals, and other relevant data and discovery. The 21 plaintiffs engaged an expert to prepare a damages analysis.<sup>5</sup> The parties had a lengthy mediation

 2 proposal and settled the case on December 31, 2020.<sup>6</sup> As part of that settlement, they stipulated to 3 the filing of a consolidated complaint. Following the plaintiff’s unopposed motion and a hearing,
 4 the court preliminarily approved the settlement.<sup>7</sup> The plaintiffs moved for final approval of the 5 settlement and attorney’s fees and costs.<sup>8</sup> The court held a fairness hearing on October 28, 2021.

7 2. Settlement

8 2.1 Settlement Class

9 There are 20,190 class members (19,895 identified initially plus 295 omitted inadvertently
 10 because a job code was not included).<sup>9</sup> The settlement classes are as follows:

11 Defendant’s current and former non-exempt employees that fall within at least one of the 12 following classes:

- 13 a. Employees working or who worked in the State of California for Defendant as a 14 “Teller” (meaning Job Codes RT600 – FC Client Service Rep and RT601 – Market Client Service Rep) on or after October 26, 2014, through the date of preliminary approval of the settlement by the [c]ourt (the “Harrison Class”);
- 15 b. Employees working or who worked in the State of California for Defendant as a 16 “Financial Center Operations Manager” or a “Financial Center Assistant Manager”
 (meaning Job Codes RM019 – Assistant Manager-FCC and RM038 – Financial Center 17 Assistant Manager) on or after March 25, 2015, through the date of preliminary approval of the settlement by the [c]ourt (the “Mendoza Class”); and
- 18 c. Employees working or who worked in the State of California for Defendant as a 19 Personal Banker (Job Code RS600), Senior Personal Banker (Job Code RS601),
 Relationship Manager (Job Code BQ055), Relationship Manager and Lending
 20 Specialist (Job Code BQ220), Sales and Service Specialist (Job Code RS860), Relationship Banker (Job Code RS861), or a Relationship Banker – Hybrid (Job Code 21 RS862) on or after March 27, 2016, through the date of preliminary approval of the settlement by the [c]ourt (the “Kaffishahsavar Class”).<sup>10</sup>

<sup>10</sup> Settlement Agreement, Mendoza v. Bank of Am. Corp., No. 3:19-cv-02491-LB – ECF No. 74-2 at 7– 8 (¶ 12).

1 The settlement excludes any former Bank of America employee who has previously released
2 the claims (and the release period will be excluded from the calculation of any settlement sum 3 payable to that employee).<sup>11</sup>

4 2.2 Settlement Amount and Allocation

5 The total non-reversionary Gross Settlement Amount is $11,500,000, and the Net Settlement
6 Amount recovered by the class is approximately $7,497,202.97 after the following deductions: (1)
7 $86,250 in PAGA penalties; (2) $30,000 in enhancement payments to the named plaintiffs; (3)
8 $84,000 for the claims administration’s expenses; (4) $3,450,000 in attorney’s fees; (5)
9 $54,356.17 in litigation costs; and (6) employer payroll taxes of $298,190.86.<sup>12</sup>

10 The class members will receive a settlement check without submitting a claim form.<sup>13</sup> Each 11 member’s settlement share is calculated by multiplying the Net Settlement Amount by a fraction. The 12 numerator is the total number of credited workweeks the class member worked for the defendant in 13 California during the applicable time period as a member of a class, and the denominator is the total
14 number of credited workweeks for the class members who worked for the defendant in California
15 during the applicable class period as members of a class. Each class member’s credited workweeks 16 will be calculated by the settlement administrator by multiplying the member’s base workweeks by 17 the following subclass-specific factors: 1.00 (for Harrison Class members); 1.66 (for Mendoza Class 18 members); and 1.27 (for Kaffishahsavar Class members). Any plaintiff who opts out of the settlement
19 will not receive a share of the settlement proceeds.<sup>14</sup>

21 _____
22 <sup>11</sup> Id. at 8 (¶ 14). The settlement agreement excluded the certified claims in Frausto v. Bank of America, 23 No. 3:18-cv-01983-LB, and Suarez v. Bank of America, No. 3:18-cv-11202-LB. On June 17, 2021, the 24 court reconsidered its class-certification order and denied class certification. Suarez, 2021 WL 2476902
(N.D. Cal. June 17, 2021). On November 8, 2021, the Ninth Circuit denied the Frausto plaintiff’s petition
25 for leave to appeal the June 17 order. Order, Frausto v. Bank of Am., No. 21-80073 (9th Cir. Nov. 8, 2021).
26 Thus, the settlement excludes only the individual claims of the named plaintiffs in Frausto and Suarez.

27 <sup>12</sup> Butler Suppl. Decl., Harrison v. Bank of Am., N.A., No. 3:19-cv-00316-LB – ECF No. 83-3 at 3 (¶ 28 8); Butler Suppl. Decl., id. – ECF No. 88-1 at 3 (¶ 8). As discussed below, the court reduces the enhancement payments from $40,000 to $30,000, which increases the class recovery by $10,000.

<sup>13</sup> Settlement Agreement, Mendoza v. Bank of Am. Corp., No. 3:19-cv-02491-LB – ECF No. 74-2 at 15 (¶ 30).

<sup>14</sup> Id. at 15–16 (¶ 32).

1 Settlement checks will be mailed within ten days after the occurrence of both the effective date
2 of the settlement and the defendant's deposit of the Gross Settlement Fund into a qualified
3 settlement-fund account created by the settlement administrator. The checks are valid for 180
4 days.<sup>15</sup> Funds from checks that expire or are returned as undeliverable will be transmitted to the 5 State of California Unclaimed Property Fund.<sup>16</sup>

6 The plaintiffs did a damages assessment that is summarized in the motion and supporting 7 declarations. For each class, the plaintiffs analyzed damages for overtime and regular wages, meal
8 breaks, rest breaks, unreimbursed business expenses, and derivative claims. For each category,
9 they calculated full value and then applied discounts for litigation risk, depending on the bucket
10 and the class.<sup>17</sup> The $11,500,000 settlement amount is approximately twenty percent of the 11 estimated recoverable damages (exclusive of the derivate claims) in light of the litigation risks.<sup>18</sup>
12 The settlement results in immediate payment to members of the classes in meaningful amounts
13 (with an average recovery of $460 at an average blended hourly rate of $18.35).<sup>19</sup>

14 Under the settlement terms (with thirty percent of the settlement fund allocated to attorney's 15 fees), the highest recovery is $1,634.20 and the average recovery is $370.93.

16 2.3 Release

17 The release is, in short, (1) a release of all class claims under federal or state law for all claims 18 that were pleaded or could have been pleaded under the facts alleged in the complaint, (2) a 19 release of the PAGA claims for claims that were pleaded or could have been pleaded under the 20 facts alleged in the complaint, and (3) a general release by the named plaintiffs.<sup>20</sup>

1 court will not have the opportunity to adjust the class based on information revealed at trial. Staton
2 v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 952–53 (9th Cir. 2003) (quoting Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor,
3 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997)); Espinosa v. Ahearn (In re Hyundai & Kia Fuel Econ. Litig.), 926 F.3d
4 539, 557 (9th Cir. 2019) (en banc).

5 Class certification requires the following: (1) the class must be so numerous that joinder of all 6 members individually is “impracticable;” (2) there must be questions of law or fact common to the 7 class; (3) the claims or defenses of the class representatives must be typical of the claims or 8 defenses of the class; and (4) the person representing the class must be able to fairly and adequately
9 protect the interests of all class members. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a); In re Hyundai & Kia, 926 F.3d at 10 556; Staton, 327 F.3d at 953. Also, the common questions of law or fact must predominate over any 11 questions affecting only individual class members, and the class action must be superior to other 12 available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3).

13 The court finds (for settlement purposes only) that the Rule 23(a) factors — numerosity,
14 commonality, typicality, and adequacy — support the certification of the class. Also, under Rule
15 23(b)(3) (for settlement purposes only) the common questions predominate over any questions
16 affecting only individual members, and a class action is superior to other available methods.

17 First, there are 20,190 class members.<sup>25</sup> The class is numerous. Nelson v. Avon Prods., No. 14-18 cv-02276-BLF, 2015 WL 1778326, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 17, 2015).

19 Second, there are questions of law and fact common to the classes that predominate over 20 individual issues. The members of each class perform the same jobs. Common questions include:
21 whether the defendant’s policies or practices forced the plaintiffs to work off the clock; whether 22 they failed to pay for pre-shift, post-shift, and overtime work; whether they impeded the plaintiffs 23 from taking statutory meal breaks and paid them for missed breaks; and whether these violations
24 violated Labor Code §§ 201–203, 226, 512, 1197, 2802, and California Business and Professions
25 Code § 17200.<sup>26</sup> Because the claims arise from the defendant’s uniform practices applied to 26

27 <sup>25</sup> Joint Report, id. – ECF No. 85 at 2.

28 <sup>26</sup> Mot., Mendoza v. Bank of Am. Corp., No. 3:19-cv-02491-LB – ECF No. 74 at 39–41.

1 employees with the same job responsibilities, liability can be determined on a class-wide basis.
2 Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 350 (2011); Betorina v. Ranstad US, L.P., No. 15-
3 cv-03646-EMC, 2017 WL 1278758, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 6, 2017).

4 Third, the claims of the representative plaintiffs are typical of the claims of their respective 5 subclasses. The representative plaintiffs and all class members allege wage-and-hours violations
6 based on similar facts. They possess the same interest and suffer from the same injury. Betorina, 7 2017 WL 1278758, at *4.

8 Fourth, the representative plaintiffs fairly and adequately protect the interests of their classes.
9 The factors relevant to a determination of adequacy are (1) the absence of potential conflict
10 between the named plaintiffs and the class members, and (2) counsel chosen by the representative
11 party who is qualified, experienced, and able to vigorously conduct the litigation. In re Hyundai
12 and Kia, 926 F.3d at 566 (citing Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1020 (9th Cir. 1998)).
13 The factors exist here: the named plaintiffs have shared claims and interests with their classes (and 14 no conflicts of interest) and have retained qualified and competent counsel who have prosecuted
15 the case vigorously. Id.; Loc. Joint Exec. Bd. of Culinary/Bartender Tr. Fund v. Las Vegas Sands,
16 Inc., 244 F.3d 1152, 1162 (9th Cir. 2001); Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1021–22.

17 Finally, a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently
18 adjudicating the controversy. The class members have relatively small monetary claims, and the 19 class action resolves many substantially identical claims efficiently, avoiding a waste of resources, 20 to advance the individual members’ interests.

21 The court's denial of class certification in the related Frausto and Suarez actions does not 22 change this analysis. Certifying a Rule 23(b)(3) class for settlement purposes does not raise the 23 same manageability issues that certifying a litigation class does. In re Hyundai and Kia, 926 F.3d 24 at 556–57 (“The criteria for class certification are applied differently in litigation classes and 25 settlement classes. In deciding whether to certify a litigation class, a district court must be 26 concerned with manageability at trial. However, such manageability is not a concern in certifying 27 a settlement class where, by definition, there will be no trial.”).

28

1 In sum, the prerequisites of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) and (b)(3) are met. The court certifies the class
2 under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3) for settlement purposes only.

4 3. Approval of Settlement

5 The approval of a class-action settlement has two stages: (1) the preliminary approval, which 6 authorizes notice to the class; and (2) a final fairness hearing, where the court determines whether 7 the parties should be allowed to settle the class action on the agreed-upon terms.

8 Settlement is a strongly favored method for resolving disputes, particularly “where complex class
9 action litigation is concerned.” In re Hyundai and Kia, 926 F.3d at 556. A court may approve a 10 proposed class-action settlement “only after a hearing and only on finding that it is fair, reasonable, 11 and adequate.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2). The court need not ask whether the proposed settlement is 12 ideal or the best possible; it determines only whether the settlement is fair, free of collusion, and 13 consistent with the named plaintiff’s fiduciary obligations to the class. Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1026–27
14 (9th Cir. 1998). In Hanlon, the Ninth Circuit identified factors relevant to assessing a settlement 15 proposal: “[1] the strength of the plaintiff’s case; [2] the risk, expense, complexity, and likely 16 duration of further litigation; [3] the risk of maintaining class-action status throughout trial; [4] the 17 amount offered in settlement; [5] the extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceeding;
18 [(6)] the experience and views of counsel; [(7)] the presence of a government participant; and [(8)]
19 the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement.” Id. at 1026 (cleaned up).

20 When parties “negotiate a settlement agreement before the class has been certified, “settlement 21 approval requires a higher standard of fairness and a more probing inquiry than may normally be 22 required under Rule 23(e).” Roes, 1–2 v. SFBSC Mgmt., 944 F.3d 1035, 1043 (9th Cir. 2019)
23 (quotation omitted). “Specifically, such settlement agreements must withstand an even higher level 24 of scrutiny for evidence of collusion or other conflicts of interest than is ordinarily required under 25 Rule 23(e) before securing the court’s approval as fair.” Id. at 1049 (quotation omitted).

26 The court has evaluated the proposed settlement agreement for overall fairness under the 27 Hanlon factors and concludes that approval is appropriate. Overall, the settlement appears fair.
28 The settlement agreement was the result of an adversarial, non-collusive, and arms-length

1 negotiation process. It provides good value, given the risks of litigation, the parties' disputes about 2 damages, and the value of money to the plaintiffs now. As discussed above, the parties reached the 3 settlement only after obtaining discovery and conducting a robust damages assessment.<sup>27</sup> Also,
4 off-the-clock claims can be difficult to certify because they can involve individualized
5 determinations. In re AutoZone, Inc., Wage & Hours Emp't. Practices Litig., 289 F.R.D. 526, 539
6 (N.D. Cal. 2012), aff'd, No. 17-17533, 2019 WL 4898684 (9th Cir. Oct. 4, 2019).

7 The PAGA allocation is within the range of reasonable settlements. See, e.g., Visceral v.
8 Mistras Grp., No. 15-cv-02198-EMC, 2016 WL 5907869, at *8–9 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 11, 2016).

10 4. Class Representatives, Class Counsel, and Claims Administrator

11 The court appointed Andrea Harrison, Miguel Mendoza, Kimberly Jaco, and Kiarash
12 Kaffishahsavar as the class representatives for their respective classes. The plaintiffs are an 13 adequate representative of the other members of their subclasses and have claims that are typical 14 of the other members' claims.

15 The court also appointed the Markham Law Firm (for the Harrison Class), Marlin & Saltzman, 16 LLP (for the Mendoza Class), and Quintilone & Associates (for the Kaffishahsavar Class) as 17 counsel for settlement purposes only. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) & (g)(1). They have the requisite 18 qualifications, experience, and expertise in prosecuting class actions.

19 The court approves Simpluris's costs of $84,000, which will be paid out of the Gross
20 Settlement Fund.<sup>28</sup>

22 5. Class Notice

23 Simpluris provided notice to the members of the class in the form that the court approved
24 previously. The notice met the legal prerequisites: it was the best notice practicable, satisfied the 25 notice requirements of Rule 23, adequately advised class members of their rights under the 26

27 _____

28 <sup>28</sup> Saltzman Decl., Harrison v. Bank of Am., N.A., No. 3:19-cv-00316-LB – ECF No. 80-4 at 5 (¶ 19).

1 settlement agreement, met the requirements of due process, and complied with the court’s order
2 regarding court notice. The form of notice fairly, plainly, accurately, and reasonably provided 3 class members with all required information, including (among other things): (1) a summary of the 4 lawsuit and claims asserted; (2) a clear definition of the class; (3) a description of the material 5 terms of the settlement, including the estimated payment; (4) a disclosure of the release of the 6 claims; (5) an explanation of class members’ opt-out rights, a date by which they must opt out, and 7 information about how to do so; (6) the date and location of the final fairness hearing; and (7) the 8 identity of class counsel and the provisions for attorney’s fees, costs, and class-representative
9 service awards. Ultimately, the service plan addressed the service issues for the inadvertently 10 omitted 295 class members.

11

12 6. Service Awards

13 Recognizing the presumption in this district of a $5,000 award, but recognizing the work of the 14 named plaintiffs, the court awards $7,500 each as a service award to the four named plaintiffs, for 15 a total of $30,000 (not the requested $40,000).

16 District courts must evaluate proposed awards individually, using relevant factors that include 17 “the actions the plaintiff has taken to protect the interests of the class, the degree to which the class 18 has benefitted from those actions, . . . [and] the amount of time and effort the plaintiff expended in 19 pursuing the litigation.” Staton, 327 F.3d at 977 (cleaned up). “Such awards are discretionary . . . and 20 are intended to compensate class representatives for work done on behalf of the class, to make up for 21 financial or reputational risk undertaken in bringing the action, and, sometimes, to recognize their 22 willingness to act as a private attorney general.” Rodriguez v. W. Publ’g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 958–59
23 (9th Cir. 2009) (citation omitted). The Ninth Circuit has “noted that in some cases incentive awards 24 may be proper but [has] cautioned that awarding them should not become routine practice . . . .”
25 Radcliffe v. Experian Info. Sols. Inc., 715 F.3d 1157, 1163 (9th Cir. 2013) (discussing Staton, 327 26 F.3d at 975–78). District courts “must be vigilant in scrutinizing all incentive awards to determine
27 whether they destroy the adequacy of the class representatives.” Id. at 1164. In this district, a $5,000
28

1 incentive award is presumptively reasonable. Bellinghausen v. Tractor Supply Co., 306 F.R.D. 245,
2 266 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (collecting cases).

3 The named plaintiffs collectively spent approximately 180 hours on this case, helping to achieve
4 recoveries for the classes and incurring a reputational risk.<sup>29</sup> Under the circumstances of this case,
5 and considering the presumptive $5,000, the court determines that $7,500 is justified. See, e.g.,

18 7. Attorney’s Fees and Costs

19 The plaintiffs’ counsel asks for $3,450,000 in attorney’s fees (thirty percent of the settlement 20 fund) and $54,356.17 in costs.<sup>30</sup> The court awards the fees and costs.

21 “In a certified class action, the court may award reasonable attorney’s fees and nontaxable 22 costs that are authorized by law or by the parties’ agreement.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(h).

23 Fee provisions in class-action settlements must be reasonable. In re Bluetooth., 654 F.3d at 28 <sup>30</sup> Mot., id. – ECF No. 80-1 at 6.

1 Because in common fund cases the relationship between plaintiffs and their attorneys turns
2 adversarial at the fee-setting stage, courts have stressed that when awarding attorneys' fees
3 from a common fund, the district court must assume the role of fiduciary for the class
4 plaintiffs. Accordingly, fee applications must be closely scrutinized. Rubber-stamp 5 approval, even in the absence of objections, is improper.

6 Vizcaino v. Microsoft Corp., 290 F.3d 1043, 1052 (9th Cir. 2002) (cleaned up).

7 When counsel recovers a common fund that confers a “substantial benefit” on a class of 8 beneficiaries, counsel is “entitled to recover their attorney’s fees from the fund.” Fischel v.
9 Equitable Life Assurance Soc’y, 307 F.3d 997, 1006 (9th Cir. 2002). In common-fund cases, courts
10 may calculate a fee award under either the “lodestar” or “percentage of the fund” method. Id.;
11 Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1029.

12 Where the settlement involves a common fund, courts typically award attorney’s fees based on 13 a percentage of the settlement fund. The Ninth Circuit has established a “benchmark” that fees 14 should equal 25 percent of the settlement, although courts diverge from the benchmark based on 15 factors that include “the results obtained, risk undertaken by counsel, complexity of the issues, 16 length of the professional relationship, the market rate, and awards in similar cases.” Morales v.
17 Stevco, Inc., No. CIV-F-09-0704-AWI-JLT, 2013 WL 1222058, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 25, 2013);
18 Morris v. Lifescan, Inc., 54 F. App’x 663, 664 (9th Cir. 2003) (affirming 33-percent fee award); In 19 re Pac. Enter. Secs. Litig., 47 F.3d 373, 379 (9th Cir. 1995).

20 Finally, Ninth Circuit precedent requires courts to award class counsel fees based on the total 21 benefits being made available to class members rather than the actual amount that is ultimately 22 claimed. Young v. Polo Retail, LLC, No. C-02-4547-VRW, 2007 WL 951821, at *8 (N.D. Cal.
23 Mar. 28, 2007) (“district court abused its discretion in basing attorney fee award on actual 24 distribution to class” instead of amount being made available) (citing Williams v. MGM-Pathe 25 Commc’ns Co., 129 F.3d 1026, 1027 (9th Cir. 1997)).

26 If the court applies the percentage method, then it typically calculates the lodestar as a “cross-27 check to assess the reasonableness of the percentage award.” See, e.g., Weeks v. Kellogg Co., No. CV-28 09-8102-MMM-RZx, 2013 WL 6531177, at *25 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 23, 2013); see also Serrano v.
Priest, 20 Cal. 3d 25, 48–49 (1977); Fed-Mart Corp. v. Pell Enters., Inc., 111 Cal. App. 3d 215, 226– 27 (1980). “The lodestar . . . is produced by multiplying the number of hours reasonably expended by

1 counsel by a reasonable hourly rate.” Lealao v. Beneficial Cal., Inc., 82 Cal. App. 4th 19, 26 (2000).
 2 Once the court has fixed the lodestar, it may increase or decrease that amount by applying a positive 3 or negative “multiplier to take into account a variety of other factors, including the quality of the 4 representation, the novelty and complexity of the issues, the results obtained, and the contingent risk
 5 presented.” Id.; accord Laffitte v. Robert Half Internet, Inc., 1 Cal. 5th 480, 503–06 (2016) (under 6 California law, “the percentage method to calculate [attorney’s] fees in a common fund case” is 7 appropriate and the trial court has “discretion to conduct a lodestar cross-check on a percentage fee”).

8 Based on counsel’s submissions, the fee award is appropriate as a percentage of the common 9 fund and is supported by a lodestar cross-check, given the results obtained, the case itself, the lack 10 of objections to the settlement, and counsel’s litigating the case on a contingency basis. Cf. e.g., 11 Bellinghausen, 306 F.R.D. at 259–65 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 20, 2015) (approving attorney’s fees equal to 12 the benchmark 25 percent of the common fund); Burden v. SelectQuote Ins. Servs., No. C 10-5966-13 LB, 2013 WL 3988771, at *4–5 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 2, 2013) (awarding 33 percent of the settlement 14 fund as attorney’s fees “given the extensive litigation in the case[,] [] the successful results
 15 achieved[,]” and the contingency risk); Villalpando v. Excel Direct Inc., Nos. 12-cv-04137-JCS, 13-16 cv-03091-JCS, 2016 WL 7740854, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 12, 2016) (awarded one-third of the 17 settlement fund as reasonable attorney’s fees because of “the contingent risk, [c]ounsel’s 18 documented lodestar, the complex and protracted nature of the case, and strong result for the case”).

19 As to the lodestar cross-check, the billing rates are normal and customary (and thus reasonable)
 20 for lawyers of comparable experience doing similar work.<sup>31</sup> Cuviello v. Feld Entm’t, Inc., No. 13-21 cv-04951-BLF, 2015 WL 154197, at *2–3 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 12, 2015) (“court has broad discretion in

12 CONCLUSION

13 The court (1) certifies the classes for settlement purposes only, (2) approves the settlement and 14 authorizes the distribution of funds set forth above, (3) confirms the appointments of the class
15 representatives, class counsel, and Simpluris, Inc., (4) approves $3,450,000 in attorney’s fees,
16 $54,356.17 in costs, $84,000 for Simpluris’s administration costs, $7,500 service awards to each
17 of the four named plaintiffs ($30,000 total), and (5) orders the parties and Simpluris to carry out 18 their obligations in the settlement agreement. The court incorporates by this reference the terms in 19 the proposed order at ECF No. 88-2.

20 This disposes of ECF Nos. 80 and 83.
