I have something that was just brought to my attention, and I need some help with this.

A member of my group, just started what I consider a rogue group. They are using Freecycle in the name, and are saying it was created because they did not see a group for this area. Not so, because they are a member of my group, and the only way they are skirting the issue is using the name of the county, rather than the city name, as ours is.

This is definitely an overlap. I was trying to find out what to do, on Freecycle(TM) org, and the info I got was that this person must ask my permission to create another group, when it will overlap. Now, I was under the impression that there was to be no overlapping, but I could be wrong about this, or it could have changed. Also, this group is not listed in Org., but there really hasn't been time to get listed, as it has just been created, and it probably won't be listed, because they do not have my permission. What I want to know is will Org. shut them down for being rogue, and using the Freecycle(TM) name?

Anyway, another mod kindly let me know about it.

I am not certain whether to contact this person, or if there is another route I need to follow. I understand they are spamming local groups, to recruit other members.

Any information would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks!

Christine, SalisburyNCFreecycle(TM)

Contact your WGA right away. The address is (your state name)6 freecycle.org (remove the space). Let them know everything you know.

That is something that needs to be addressed right away.

If they've submitted a request to be an official Freecycle group listed on the .org, your state New group approver will receive the request, will reject it because of the obvious overlap and it will be followed by our database staff.

Feel free to forward the info to your state NGA. If they haven't applied, the NGA will make sure the info is properly recorded for followup.

You can find your approver by checking the list at Freecycle.org

<http://www.freecycle.org/approvers.php>

I personally would not contact the moderator of the other group and let the NGA take the official route with it.
