Ed,
Allowing moderators to ask questions about day-to-day operation of Freecycle groups is what this mod squad is here for. Not every moderator has access to an active, large or experienced State Mod Squad, so this group fills that need.

Asking a question here is not like posting an offer to 50+ groups. Remember, a moderator is seeking support, advice and information. We are all here to have a part in making the Mod Squad a positive and supportive place to be....

The state forum is the same as your home group, and the advice given on this board most often in matters of crossposting is to post to your home group before going farther afield.
