Conversation: Join the Freecycle Revolution!

Hi there,

I read in the Utne Reader about a group in Tucson, Arizona who started Freecycle Tucson last March. It's a group where people offer things to others for free. Refridgerators, bicycles, computers, cars, rugs, you name it - as long as the transaction doesn't involve barter or money, it's allowed. The group in Tucson now has 1,200 members and is a vibrant example of a community in action.

I decided to begin a similar group in Portland. In 2 weeks, we're up to almost 300 Freecyclers. I'm enjoying watching my friends take part, making new friends and seeing one person's trash become another's treasure. People at my co-housing community are active, and just received a copier the other day for community use.

I'm writing you because I want to see this movement take off. Just yesterday I learned that the 10th freecycle group has just been started in Tokyo, and that reminded me that my friends and family may be willing to help me with this. Setting up a freecycle group for your town/city takes about 10 minutes, the instructions are simple, and moderating the list, is a piece of cake, and fun to boot!

So, if this sounds interesting to you, please visit <http://www.freecycle.org> and follow the easy instructions on how to set up a Yahoo group for Freecycle Manhattan, Freecycle Tel Aviv, Freecycle Vancouver, Freecycle Lawrenceville, Freecycle Palo Alto, Freecycle Seattle, Freecycle Munich, Freecycle San Francisco....

To visit my version, have a look at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/freecycleportland> Feel free to copy anything from my list to yours. We also have people that can help with a logo.

For those that like fun visuals:

I hope Autumn is treating you well.

Thanks for your help with the revolution!

and speaking of revolutions....

Michael Moore's New Book, "Dude Where's My Country?" Hits the Streets This Tuesday
October 3, 2003

I have written a new book, and this Tuesday it's being released. It's called, "DUDE, WHERE'S MY COUNTRY?" Because its content is likely to upset more than a few people, the publisher has "embargoed" the book until midnight Monday (which means no store or media outlet or anyone has access to a copy of the book until then).

They have taken these measures because I have written a book that seeks not to defeat the Bush people next year, but to have them removed from Washington right now. I know, I'm not asking for much. But I have spent the better part of the past year researching and writing this new book, and when you read it you'll see why the current criminal investigation of the White House for outing a CIA agent in revenge is, in my opinion, just the tip of the iceberg. I can only hope that my book will make a small contribution toward that day when we'll see one long perp walk of administration officials in handcuffs being led out of the White House and into a waiting paddy wagon. Like I said, I'm not asking for much.

"Dude, Where's My Country?" is also my humble attempt to violate the Patriot Act on every single page of the book. And, I have learned that many want to get on John Ashcroft's evildoer list with me. There are already a record number of orders from bookstores across the country. The first printing alone is almost one million copies (my last book's first printing was 50,000). Chapters include "Oil's Well That Ends Well," "The United States of BOO!", "How to Talk to Your Conservative Brother-in-law," and more. (Click here to see the cover that will win me a free ticket to Gitmo)

If you get the New York Times, you may have noticed a mysterious ad for the past four days in the Arts section. Each day, the ad simply asks a new, pointed question of Mr. Bush. They are questions from my new book, from a chapter entitled, "Seven Questions for George of Arabia." We are running one ad each day until the book comes out on Tuesday. In case you've missed them, here are the first four:

1. Dear Mr. Bush, is it true that the bin Ladens have had business relations with you and your family off and on for the past 25 years?
2. Dear "Mr. President," what is the "special relationship" between the Bushes and the Saudi royal family?
3. Dear "Mr. President," who attacked the United States on September 11th—a guy on dialysis from a cave in Afghanistan, or our friends, the Saudi Arabians?
4. Dear "Mr. President," why did you allow a private Saudi jet to fly around the U.S. in the days after September 11th and pick up members of the bin Laden family and then fly them out of the country without a proper investigation by the FBI?

In my book, I provide some of the answers and all of the background evidence. It is astounding, and it is criminal. Will there be one Democrat in Congress willing to begin the investigation?

After the book's release, I take off on a 30-city tour over 25 days. Many of these dates are already sold-out, so check my website first to see where you can find me. I will also be on the "Today Show" on Tuesday, and "The View" and "Conan" on Wednesday.

You may want to stay in touch with my website as I'll be putting up a lot of new stuff over the next few days and weeks. I'm also planning to keep a diary of my tour, complete with photos from the road.

For me, this is the kickoff of a 12-month campaign for regime change in Washington, DC. I hope you can join me and the millions of other Americans who are committed to Bush Removal in '04. "Dude, Where's My Country?" is my guidebook on how to create a majority of sane Americans who are increasingly fed up and want their country back.

Click here to get your copy, and I hope to see you somewhere across this great land in the next month.

Yours,

Michael Moore
www.michaelmoore.com
mike@michaelmoore.com

PS. As I head into the release of this new book, I want to thank EVERYONE who read "Stupid White Men" and made it the largest selling non-fiction hardcover book of the year. It is now in its 53rd printing in the U.S., with over 4 million copies sold worldwide. This success only strengthens my resolve that things are getting better and we are not alone.

PPS. For my friends outside the U.S., "Dude, Where's My Country?" is being published in over four dozen countries this autumn. In the UK and Ireland, it's coming out this Tuesday. That's one of the perks you get when one of you are in the Coalition of the Willing!

Hi Lissy,

send Deron the URL so we can make sure it joins the others on www.freecycle.org, and Mark may be willing to help you out with a funky logo.

Or, I can just send you the font people are using, or you can just create something in photo shop or use this picture :)

Freecycle Sunnyvale, CA - first California Freecycle, I think!!!!

yeah, Lissy!!!!

Yes, just like Portland's is fine. I don't have a representative image to send you, so the guitar and bicycle are ok.

How about yellow, since it's SUNnyvale?

Thank you SO much!! Whenever you get to it is fine, and whatever res is easiest for you....I really appreciate your help!

Conversation: Welcome: Las Vegas, Maui, Singapore, Sunnyvale, Central New Jersey, Seattle & San Diego

Hello Las Vegas, Maui, Singapore, Sunnyvale, CA, Central New Jersey, Seattle & San Diego.

Welcome to the Freecycle Network. What makes this network work (OK, sounds funny but you know what I mean) is that each city has it's own volunteer moderator that makes it happen. Each local group can get as big or stay as small as you yourself like! You'll notice that I've copied all the other freecycle moderators out there so you can see who else is out there movin' and shakin' and they can see that you're up and running. Feel free to get in touch with any of us for ideas and input. Most have gotten up and running within the past month or so. Kansas City (Kelly) and Tucson (me, Deron) have been goin' a little longer and would be able to offer already-up-and-running advice. Portland (Albert) & Chicago (Joanna) are still pretty much brand spankin' new but are already taking it up to the next level and could offer some great advice, I'm sure. Feel free to check out the various cool logo designs (Portland even has the totally underground t-shirts available). Everyone's glad to help out so don't hold back!

So that people at cities nearby you can find out how to set up their own freecycle network, you might want to add mention of freecycle.org for them in your intro paragraph or something. My goal is to get that webpage opened up for all the moderators to mold themselves with individual subwebpages and a moderator group of some kind (and much, much more...). We want to keep this noncommercial and without popup ads and what not. I'm in the process of seeking donations from the local Tucson members to fund the webpage. We will be having a "give away" swapmeet to raise some bucks and a local volunteer will be trying to talk with someone at the Craig's List Foundation during her trip to the bay area next week. Any and all ideas are welcome here.

Include us in your learning curve so that we can grow with you too! After you get 30-40 friends signed up, I recommend you contact the local press to get a nice article in the accent section or something. Other cities might also have good ideas here with flyers, events, etc. The important thing is to have some fun!

Communication with other cities:

Kelly suggests a listserv for all of us moderators on yahoo groups for now. What do you all think? Shall I set one up? Pretty soon we'll have a Blog function on the webpage too, which is nice, so maybe if each of us just has everyone else's e-mail in an e-mail group in their mail software, that's enough? However, we're growing pretty quickly so it's hard to keep up with. What are everyone's thoughts here?

Since we have lots of room for e-mail addresses at freecycle.org, I also thought it'd be fun to give one to all moderators for free: yourcity@freecycle.org.

Ideas here? I've just got to find the time for this with Jeff, our computer volunteer. Jeff also is an ISP for nonprofits and offers his service for $10 per month if you are setting up your own page for whatever reasons!

If you are in a big city or a foreign country you might want to consider having two or more groups at some point, for the East Valley and the West or in English and in the local language. Having lived in a foreign country for many years, I'm big into keeping it native tongue where possible, but, hey, this might be a nice ex-pat et alia thing too. Tokyo (Alan) is about a week or two ahead of you Diane (Singapore) so you might want to contact Alan for ideas.

If there is a local nonprofit recycling or fleamarket or Salvation Army type of group, you might want to get them involved somehow (as a second moderator?) as a place to donate or a place to serve as a dropoff or pickup point. Or you might just add them to your links page. But, hey, I'm with a local nonprofit recycling group so I'm biased! We also have a cardboard box and packing peanut exchange open to all. I'll go ahead and sign up for your individual yahoo groups too.

Colorado, Coos County, San Diego, Central New Jersey: could you get me a personal e-mail address for you because it is not possible to send out an e-mail to more than one yahoo group owner e-mail address at a time? And, who are your names, too? Las Vegas: you may want to consider using a more trust-building name than "Darkness." Although, I'm totally into dark skies and what not!

It's totally fun to see how everyone else is coming along so keep us posted as to how things are developing! Oh and I'm working on getting your links on to the webpage as we speak...

Conversation: [freecyclemodsquad] Poll

Hey All,

The jury is in, at least for now, that we are legally covered by Yahoo Groups disclaimers until we get our own webpage.

However, I think that the issue of whether or not we should allow ALL legal items is still up in the air.

I believe we all need to decide this issue together as a group, whether or not we, The Freecycle Network, want to make a restriction here.

The specific discussion was regarding Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms, but also could be extended to such things as pornography.

A phrase which is noted under the Etiquette section of Freecycle.org is the rule:

"Keep It Free, Legal & Appropriate For All Ages."

This statement implicitly does not allow alcohol, tobacco, firearms or pornography to be posted as it is not legal to give such things to minors. I would like to ask that all moderators vote on whether they feel this is the one rule that should apply to ALL local groups or not.

May your voice be heard! Here's the link to the webpage (click on polls):

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/freecyclemodsquad/>

The poll will automatically close on next Sunday, 1/11/04. Thanks for adding your voice to the network!

Conversation: [freecyclemodsquad] Regarding the poll

Hey all,

As you can see there are many different opinions regarding the statement in the poll. I am doing my best not to let you know what my personal opinion is in this case so that all may vote as to what they prefer as a group. It is important that everyone have their say by voting, but then we also need to stick to what we vote for.

The phrase being voted on:

"Keep it free, legal & appropriate for all ages."

Beyond free and legal, this statement is saying implicitly that firearms, pornography, alcohol, tobacco, etc. are also not allowed because youth may not use them.

I have made the "executive decision" to do the poll so that it is not my decision as to what happens but is OUR decision as a group. There have been suggestions to change the wording to "Free and legal" and repoll. I will not be repolling because the whole point is to find out what we all prefer as a group regarding the "appropriate for all ages" part of the phrase. After all, that's where the controversy is.

Since this kind of posting is highly unlikely anyway, I'd like to vote on this and end the debate because its a bit of a drag, don't you think?

So, vote for what you'd prefer and we'll go from there. You can watch how things progress on the website under poll.

I pledge once again to keep The Freecycle Network a "power to the people" movement and to do my darnedest to keep it fun too!

Keep on Freecyclin', my ethereal friends,

Hey all,

First thing I learned reflects what Wes said regarding polls:
Keep 'em short and sweet. One week is way too long. Probably would have been enough after about 4 days with two of those days on a weekend so that we don't miss anyone.

Second thing I learned is that we have a great and diverse group of people. This means that we'll probably all have our own darned opinion on just about everything. This is, I believe, another beautiful element of our "unique" or, hey, singular community. NOTE TO MYSELF: I have learned that I will, for my part, pledge to keep out of what each local group wants to do when humanly and legally possible!!! Keeping it local is an element which I hope we can expand on with a new webpage where each local group can set up it's own links, graphics, chat room and all kinds of goodies.

Finally, I'm glad to say we were actually able to decide, by a large majority, that we now have one true guiding principle:

"Keep it free, legal & appropriate for all ages." This goes for the posts and the gifts themselves.

So, what does this mean? For one, it means we love giving and getting free stuff. However, it also means that we, as moderators, strive to keep adult-oriented items, posts, language use & references out of our groups. This would apply to potty language, pornography, alcohol, tobacco, firearms, viagra and what not.

If someone slips up with a posting in your group, the person would get one of two strikes just like with any other slip-up. If they slip twice, then they are removed from the group. I haven't actually had to use this on a single person yet in my local group, for any transgression, I'm happy to say. I think people get the idea pretty quickly.

Since I'm speaking with all the Chiefs out there, I'll try to remember to be an Indian more myself. Perhaps that's my lesson to learn...

Thanks for making all this happen.

Keep on keepin' on,
Deron
