9 NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

11 CURTIS LEE HENDERSON,)
12 Plaintiff(s),) No. C07-2838 SBA (BZ)
13 v.)
14 J. PETERSON, et al.,) ORDER GRANTING PLAINTIFF'S
15 Defendant(s).) MOTION TO COMPEL
16

17 Plaintiff's motion to compel discovery of the financial
18 information of the individual defendants is GRANTED.

19 The thrust of plaintiff's motion is that he is asserting 20 a §1983 claim against the individual defendants for which
21 punitive damages are available. Defendants do not dispute
22 that Judge Armstrong has ruled that if plaintiff's allegations
23 are believed, the trier of fact could conclude that defendants
24 acted "maliciously and sadistically." (Document no. 117 @ 25 12:22-23).

26 Defendants resist providing financial information,
27 relying on a variety of California privacy rules centering on 28 California Civil Code §3295(c), which controls the timing of

1 the disclosure of financial information. Plaintiff is correct
2 that in a federal civil rights claim, §3295(c) does not
3 control. See e.g. Charles O. Bradley Trust v. Zenith Capital
4 LLC, 2005 WL 1030218 (N.D.Cal.); Vieste LLC v. Hill Redwood
5 Dev., 2011 WL 855831 (N.D.Cal.).

6 I am not unmindful that California residents have certain
7 privacy expectations founded on California law which federal
8 courts often balance in determining whether to produce
9 financial information. Here, the information is plainly
10 relevant to one of plaintiff's claims and defendant's privacy
11 concerns can largely be mitigated by having the information
12 produced pursuant to an appropriate protective order "for 13 attorney's eyes only." The information shall not be entered 14 into a computerized data base, unless ordered by the Court.

15 It is Therefore ORDERED that plaintiff's motion is 16 GRANTED. By June 6, 2011, each defendant shall produce,
17 pursuant to an appropriate protective order, information
18 sufficient to establish his net worth and financial condition.
19 If defendants timely comply with this Order, I see no need for 20 an extension of the discovery deadline. Therefore, that 21 motion (Doc. No. 170) is DENIED without prejudice to being 22 renewed if the discovery is not forthcoming.
