General Defenses/Affirmative Defenses

Affiant, by virtue of selection by mark of the below affirmative defenses, adopts the statements as true within this affidavit:

Affiant had their computer, and other internet devices, inspected by a technician and found an infection of malicious software installed without consent of Affiant. Through this malicious software, a user, other than the Affiant, could have routed peer-to-peer traffic through the computer of Affiant, and making it appear to the Plaintiff as if the Affiant had committed an act of infringement. Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant runs an operating system (e.g. Linux, Windows Server, etc.) which would allow a bittorrent client to be operated by a remote user, and had such system open to multiple users at the time of alleged infringement. A user, other than the Affiant, could have committed the alleged infringement. Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant runs a Virtual Private Network, Proxy Server, or other such internet traffic re-routing server, and had such system open to multiple users at the time of the alleged infringement. A user, other than the affiant, could have committed the alleged infringement. Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant has a wireless router without security enabled (e.g. WEP, WPA, WPA2) and the internet address responsible for the alleged infringement was available for use to the general public within range. Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant has multiple computers in their residence used by multiple users (family members, roommates, friends, visitors, etc.), that all share the same IP address (internet connection). Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant has a wireless router with only WEP security enabled, and therefore the internet address responsible for the alleged infringement was susceptible to use to by the general public within range. Affiant has no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant downloaded the movie, but such movie was intended to be used or used for non-profit educational purposes.

Affiant, under penalty of perjury, certifies to this court, that they have no knowledge of the alleged infringement.

Affiant owned a DVD of the movie during the alleged infringement and downloaded the movie in an effort to make a backup copy of the film on their computer.

Affiant has multiple computers in their residence used by multiple users (family members, roommates, friends, visitors, etc.), that all share the same IP address (internet connection). Affiant has knowledge of the alleged infringement, but did not commit the alleged infringement.

FURTHER, AFFIANT SAYETH NAUGHT.

BY SIGNING BELOW, I hereby declare, certify, verify, and state, under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America, that the foregoing is true and correct. Dated 11 / 17 / 20 10
