CONSUMER AND GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS BUREAU SEEKS COMMENT ON PETITION FOR EXPEDITED DECLARATORY RULING FROM SOUNDBITE COMMUNICATIONS, INC.

CG Docket No. 02-278

Comment Date: April 30, 2012

Reply Comment Date: May 15, 2012

On February 16, 2012, SoundBite Communications, Inc. (SoundBite) filed a petition¹ seeking a declaratory ruling that sending a one-time text message confirming a consumer's request that no further text messages be sent in the future is not a violation of the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA)² or Section 64.1200 of the Commission's rules.³ With this Public Notice, we seek comment on the petition, as described below.

The TCPA and the Commission's implementing rules prohibit any person from making a non-emergency call using an automatic telephone dialing system or an artificial or prerecorded voice to, among other locations, any telephone number assigned to a cellular telephone service, without the recipient's prior express consent.⁴ The Commission has concluded that this prohibition encompasses both voice and text calls, including short message service (SMS) calls, if the call is made to a telephone number assigned to such service.⁵

¹ See SoundBite Communications, Inc., Petition for Expedited Declaratory Ruling, CG Docket No. 02-278 (filed Feb. 16, 2012) (Petition) (noting that several companies including SoundBite are the subject of multi-million dollar class action lawsuits based on one-time confirmation messages sent to consumers who have opted out of receiving future text messages).

² Codified as 47 U.S.C. § 227.

³ 47 C.F.R. § 64.1200.

⁴ 47 U.S.C. § 227(b)(1)(A)(iii); 47 C.F.R. § 64.1200(a)(1)(iii). The Commission recently adopted the requirement that such consent must be written if the call to a number assigned to a cellular telephone service is for telemarketing purposes. See Rules and Regulations Implementing the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991, CG Docket No. 02-278, Report and Order, FCC 12-21 (rel. Feb. 15, 2012).

⁵ See Rules and Regulations Implementing the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991, CG Docket No. 02-278, Report and Order, 18 FCC Rcd 14014, 14115, para. 165 (2003).

SoundBite sends text messages on behalf of a number of companies.⁶ SoundBite asserts that wireless operators, aggregators, and CTIA – The Wireless Association require SoundBite to follow the Mobile Marketing Association (MMA) best practices before they will enable and allow text messaging campaigns on wireless networks.⁷ These best practices include sending a text message confirming receipt of a request to opt-out from future text messages.⁸ As a result, SoundBite indicates that when a consumer sends a text message choosing to opt-out from receiving future text messages from a client company, a one-time reply is sent back via text message to that customer confirming the opt-out request.⁹

SoundBite states that one-time confirmation text messages are sent within minutes of receipt of the opt-out request and are sent only to those consumers making an opt-out request.¹⁰ SoundBite argues that these text messages do not violate the TCPA or Commission rules.¹¹ Specifically, SoundBite argues that such messages are permissible because they are sent within a grace period established by the Commission for subject entities to effectuate opt-out requests.¹² In addition, SoundBite argues that it does not use an automatic telephone dialing system, as defined by the TCPA, to send such text messages because the software used to send the confirmation text does not have the capacity to store or produce telephone numbers to be called using a random or sequential number generator to dial such numbers.¹³

SoundBite further asserts that opt-out confirmations are consistent with good consumer policy and promote the public interest.¹⁴ SoundBite notes that the MMA, in conjunction with all major mobile operators in the United States, emphasizes that opt-out confirmations are consumer friendly practices.¹⁵ Moreover, SoundBite argues that the TCPA was enacted to protect the public from unwanted privacy intrusions and disruptions to essential public safety services caused by random or sequential number generators and that none of these concerns are implicated by prompt and isolated confirmation text messages.¹⁶

We seek comment on the above issues, including whether these messages, as described by SoundBite in the Petition, violate the TCPA and the Commission's rules.
