allegations, ... a plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment] to relief' 1 2 requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a 3 cause of action will not do.... Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level." Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) 4 5 (citations omitted). A complaint must proffer "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is 6 plausible on its face." Id. at 570. The United States Supreme Court has recently explained 7 the "plausible on its face" standard of Twombly: "While legal conclusions can provide the 8 framework of a complaint, they must be supported by factual allegations. When there are 9 well-pleaded factual allegations, a court should assume their veracity and then determine 10 whether they plausibly give rise to an entitlement to relief." Ashcroft v. Igbal, 556 U.S. 662, 11 679 (2009).

To state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a plaintiff must allege two essential elements: (1) that a right secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States was violated, and (2) that the alleged deprivation was committed by a person acting under the color of state law. West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 48 (1988).

B. Legal Claims

In this action, plaintiff states that two doctors at High Desert State Prison, which is located in the Eastern District of California, failed to properly treat his Hepatitis C starting in 2003.

20 In Silas v. Chappell, No. C 12-3019 PJH, plaintiff brought an action regarding the 21 treatment of his Hepatitis C, by simply stating that his condition was not being properly 22 treated. The complaint in that case was dismissed with leave to amend and it was 23 described to plaintiff how he must provide more information and identify specific defendants 24 in order to state a claim. Plaintiff filed an amended complaint that only provided a little 25 more information. It also became apparent that plaintiff was describing events that 26 occurred in 2002-2005 at High Desert State Prison in the Eastern District of California. 27 Court records also indicated that plaintiff had recently filed the exact same case and 28 exhibits in the Eastern District of California. See Silas v. Chappell, 13-cv-0010 DAD P.

This court dismissed and closed Silas v. Chappell, No. C 12-3019 PJH. Plaintiff filed another similar case to the one mentioned above that was dismissed as duplicative, Silas v. Chappell, No. C 13-0630 PJH, and another case Silas v. Chappell, No. C 13-1913 PJH, that was also dismissed as duplicative.
 As the defendants named in this action are the same named defendants in the

As the defendants named in this action are the same named defendants in the Eastern District of California case and as both cases describe the same facts that occurred in that district, this case is dismissed as duplicative. See Adams v. Cal. Dept. of Health Services, 487 F.3d 684, 688 (9th Cir. 2007).

CONCLUSION

1. The complaint is DISMISSED and this case is closed.

2. Plaintiff's motion for a response (Docket No. 7) is DENIED.
