ORDER RESOLVING MOTION TO STAY AND JOINDERS

Now before the Court for consideration is the Motion to Stay Pursuant to Section 18(b) of the America Invents Act, filed by Defendants Vimeo, LLC (“Vimeo”), Spotify USA Inc. (“Spotify”), Hulu, LLC (“Hulu”) and Netflix, Inc. (“Netflix”) (collectively the “Moving Defendants”). Defendants Rhapsody International, Inc. (“Rhapsody”), Home Box Office, Inc. (“HBO”), and Verizon Services Corp. and Verizon Online, LLC (collectively “Verizon”), and Vudu, Inc. (“Vudu”) (collectively the “Joinder Defendants”), have joined in the motion.

The Court has considered the parties’ papers, relevant legal authority, and the record in this case, and it finds the motion suitable for disposition without oral argument. See N.D. Civ. L.R. 7-1(b). The Court VACATES the hearing scheduled for July 31, 2015, and it HEREBY

1 GRANTS the motion to stay as to the Moving Defendants and CONDITIONALLY GRANTS
2 the motion as to the Joinder Defendants.

3 BACKGROUND

4 Plaintiff, iMTX Strategic, LLC alleges that each of the Moving and Joinder Defendants
5 infringe United States Patent No. 7,269, 854, entitled “Transaction System for Transporting
6 Media Files from Content Provider Sources to Home Entertainment Devices” (the “‘854
7 Patent”). (See, e.g., iMTX Strategic, LLC v. Vimeo, LLC, 15-cv-592-JSW, Docket No. 1,
8 Complaint.)¹

9 On June 13, 2015, the Moving Defendants filed a petition with the Patent Trial and 10 Appeal Board (“PTAB”) for Covered Business Method (“CBM”) review of the ‘854 Patent,
11 pursuant to 35 U.S.C. section 321 and Section 18 of the America Invents Act, Pub. L. No. 112-
12 29, 125 Stat. 284 (2011). (Docket No. 59, Declaration of Jennifer J. Schmidt (“Schmidt
13 Decl.”), Ex. E.) The Joinder Defendants are not parties to that petition.²

14 The Court will address additional facts as necessary in the analysis.

15 ANALYSIS

16 A. The Court Conditionally Stays These Cases.

17 Under Section 18(b) of the AIA,

18 the district court [should] consider the following four factors when 19 deciding whether to grant a stay:

20 (A) whether a stay, or the denial thereof, will simplify the issues in question and streamline the trial;

21 (B) whether discovery is complete and whether a trial date has been set;

22 © whether a stay, or the denial thereof, would unduly prejudice the 23 nonmoving party or present a clear tactical advantage for the moving party;
and

26 ¹ Because the parties’ briefs and declarations are identical, all future reference to docket numbers shall be from iMTX Strategic, LLC v. Vimeo, 15-cv-592-JSW.

27 ² In addition to the CBM Petition, a non-party, Unified Patents, Inc. (“Unified 28 Patents”) has initiated a petition for inter partes review of the ‘854 Patent. (Docket No. 64-
1, Declaration of Stephen W. Ritcheson, Esq., ¶ 3, Ex. 1.)

(D) whether a stay, or the denial thereof, will reduce the burden of litigation on the parties and on the court.

VirtualAgility, Inc. v. Salesforce.com, Inc., 759 F.3d 1307, 1309 (Fed. Cir. 2014) (quoting AIA § 18(b)(1)). The factors are similar to the factors to be applied when a court evaluates a motion to stay in light of inter partes review. However, the fourth factor was added “in order to ease the movant’s task in demonstrating the need for a stay.” GTNexus, Inc. v. Intra, Inc., 2014 WL 3373088, at *2 (N.D. Cal. July 9, 2014) (citing Market-Alerts Pty. Ltd. v. Bloomberg Finance L.P., 922 F. Supp. 2d 486, 489-490, 496 n.14 (D. Del. 2013) and Zillow, Inc. v. Trulia, Inc., 2013 WL 5530573, at *3 (W.D. Wash. Oct. 7, 2013)).

1. Simplification of Issues.

iMTX argues that a stay would not simplify the issues. In the context of inter partes review, a stay may be justified where “the outcome of the reexamination would be likely to assist the court in determining patent validity and, if the claims were canceled in the reexamination, would eliminate the need to try infringement issues.” Slip Track Sys., Inc. v. Metal Lite, Inc., 159 F.3d 1337, 1341 (Fed. Cir. 1998). A stay also may be granted in order to avoid inconsistent results, obtain guidance from the PTAB, or avoid needless waste of judicial resources. To the extent claims survive the reexamination process, the reexamination would “facilitate trial by providing the Court with expert opinion of the PTO and clarifying the scope of the claims.” Target Therapeutics, Inc. v. SciMed Life Sys., Inc., 33 U.S.P.Q.2d 2022, 2023 (N.D. Cal. 1995).

The Moving Defendants have challenged every claim of the ‘854 Patent. Although the PTAB has not yet ruled on the petition, if it were to accept review of all claims, it could dispose of these cases in their entirety. The Federal Circuit has found, in the context of CBM review, that such a situation “weighs heavily in favor of granting the stay.” See, e.g., VirtualAgility, 759 F.3d at 1314; cf. Slip Tracks Sys., 159 F.3d at 1341 (noting that “the outcome of the reexamination would be likely to assist the court in determining patent validity and, if the claims were cancelled ..., would eliminate the need to try infringement issues”). Even if the

1 PTAB accepted review, but did not find all claims invalid, those rulings may also clarify claim
2 construction positions for the parties, raise estoppel issues, and encourage settlement.

3 iMTX argues that until the PTAB actually determines that it will conduct a CBM
4 review, the motion to stay is premature and should be denied on that basis. The Court does not
5 find this argument persuasive, and for reasons set forth in more detail in its discussion of the 6 fourth factor, the Court concludes it is appropriate to rule on the motion at this time. First,
7 while the Federal Circuit has noted that “it [is] not error for the district court to wait until the 8 PTAB” makes its decision on a petition for CBM review, it also expressed no opinion on 9 whether deferring a ruling is a “better practice” than ruling on a motion once a petition has been 10 filed. VirtualAgility, 759 F.3d at 1315-16. In addition, iMTX’s argument was premised, in 11 part, on the fact that the Verizon defendants had not yet joined in the motion. That point is now
12 moot, because the Verizon defendants have filed a notice of joinder.

13 As a secondary argument, iMTX argues that because five defendants would not be 14 bound by the ruling in the CBM review, the issues would not be simplified. However, the 15 Court can resolve that issue by granting the Joinder Defendants’ motion on the condition that 16 they agree to be estopped from raising any issues that are raised and actually decided before the 17 PTAB.

18 Accordingly, the Court concludes that this factor weighs in favor of a stay.

19 2. Discovery and Trial Dates.

20 iMTX does not dispute that each of these cases are in the early stages of litigation. The 21 parties stipulated to continue the initial case management conferences pending a ruling on this 22 motion. Therefore, the Court has not set any deadlines in this matter. Although iMTX has 23 served some discovery, that discovery has been limited in scope to whether any of the 24 Defendants have a relationship with Unified Patents. (See, e.g., Docket No. 69, Reply
25 Declaration of Jennifer J. Schmidt, ¶¶3-7, Exs. A-E.)

26 The Court concludes that this factor weighs in favor of granting the motion.

The Court CONDITIONALLY GRANTS the Joinder Defendants’ motion, on the condition that the Joinder Defendants agree to be estopped from asserting any invalidity contention that was actually raised and finally adjudicated in the CBM proceedings. The Joinder Defendants shall file notices by no later than July 17, 2015, setting forth whether they accept or reject this condition. At that time, the Court shall issue a further order with directions to the parties about how it will proceed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
