5 KENYON M. NORBERT, JR.,

6 Plaintiff,

7 v.

8 SAN FRANCISCO SHERIFF'S
9 DEPARTMENT STAFF,

10 Defendant.

Case No. 15-cv-05755-DMR (PR)

ORDER OF DISMISSAL WITH LEAVE TO AMEND

11 I. INTRODUCTION

12 Plaintiff, who is currently in custody at the San Francisco County Jail #5 on 1 Moreland
13 Drive, San Bruno, California ("SFCJ #5"), has filed a pro se civil rights action pursuant to 42
14 U.S.C. § 1983, alleging that jail officials violated his constitutional rights by being deliberately
15 indifferent to his safety needs and by denying him "3 hrs. a week [of] recreation." Dkt. 1 at 6.<sup>1</sup>

16 Plaintiff has consented to magistrate judge jurisdiction. Id. at 5. Therefore, this matter has 17 been assigned to the undersigned Magistrate Judge.

18 In his complaint, Plaintiff does not name any individual Defendants. Dkt. 1 at 2-3.
19 Instead, he names the "San Francisco Sheriff's Department staff" because he claims he "cannot 20 name all classification dep./deputies responsible for placing [him] with inmates that were prone to 21 attack." Id. at 3. Plaintiff adds that "every day their [sic] is a different deputy at each post." Id.
22 Plaintiff seeks injunctive relief and monetary damages. Id.

23 His motion for leave to proceed in forma pauperis will be granted in a separate written 24 Order.

25 Venue is proper because certain events giving rise to the claims are alleged to have 26 occurred at SFJC #5 and SFCJ #4 (850 Bryant Street in San Francisco, California), which are both

2 II. DISCUSSION

3 A. Standard of Review

4 A federal court must conduct a preliminary screening in any case in which a prisoner seeks 5 redress from a governmental entity or officer or employee of a governmental entity. 28 U.S.C.
6 § 1915A(a). In its review, the court must identify any cognizable claims and dismiss any claims 7 that are frivolous, malicious, fail to state a claim upon which relief may be granted or seek 8 monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. Id. § 1915A(b)(1), (2). Pro se
9 pleadings must be liberally construed. Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep’t, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th 10 Cir. 1988).

11 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2) requires only “a short and plain statement of the 12 claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” To comport with Rule 8, “[s]pecific facts are 13 not necessary; the statement need only give the defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and 14 the grounds upon which it rests.” Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 93 (2007) (citations omitted).
15 Although in order to state a claim a complaint “does not need detailed factual allegations, . . . a 16 plaintiff’s obligation to provide the ‘grounds’ of his ‘entitle[ment] to relief’ requires more than 17 labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not 18 do . . . . Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief above the speculative level.”
19 Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (citations omitted). A complaint must 20 proffer “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Id. at 570. The United 21 States Supreme Court has explained the “plausible on its face” standard of Twombly: “While legal 22 conclusions can provide the complaint’s framework, they must be supported by factual
23 allegations. When there are well-pleaded factual allegations, a court should assume their veracity
24 and then determine whether they plausibly give rise to an entitlement to relief.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 25 556 U.S. 662, 679 (2009).

26 To state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a plaintiff must allege two essential elements:
27 (1) that a right secured by the Constitution or laws of the United States was violated, and (2) that 28 the alleged violation was committed by a person acting under the color of state law. West v.

1 Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 48 (1988).

2 A supervisor may be liable under section 1983 upon a showing of personal involvement in 3 the constitutional deprivation or a sufficient causal connection between the supervisor’s wrongful
4 conduct and the constitutional violation. Redman v. County of San Diego, 942 F.2d 1435, 1446
5 (9th Cir. 1991) (en banc) (citation omitted). A supervisor therefore generally “is only liable for 6 constitutional violations of his subordinates if the supervisor participated in or directed the 7 violations, or knew of the violations and failed to act to prevent them.” Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d
8 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1989). This includes evidence that a supervisor implemented “a policy so 9 deficient that the policy itself is a repudiation of constitutional rights and is the moving force of 10 the constitutional violation.” Redman, 942 F.2d at 1446; see Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 917
11 (9th Cir. 2001).

12 B. Legal Claims

13 1. Deliberate Indifference to Safety Needs

14 Plaintiff alleges that on an unspecified date prior to November 27, 2015, the date he signed
15 his complaint, certain unnamed deputies transferred him from SFCJ #5 to SFCJ #4 for a court
16 appearance. Dkt. 1 at 6. Plaintiff, who is an African American and claims to be a “documented 17 gang member,” alleges that on the seventh floor of SFCJ #4, deputies “no longer separate African 18 American gangs as they still separate Mexican gangs.” Id. Plaintiff claims that SFCJ #4 and 19 SFCJ #5 deputies “were allowed to p[i]t African American inmates against each other for 20 entertainment, then use excessive force to the 5th power when they broke up the fight.” Id.

21 On the day of his transfer, Plaintiff was initially placed in a holding cell. Id. Plaintiff
22 alleges that “[b]efore the deputy could unhandcuff [him], [he] was assaulted by a documented
23 gang member.” Id. Plaintiff claims that the deputies then broke up the fight, and an unnamed
24 deputy “slam’d [sic] [him] into the bars and bust[e]d [his] face wide open.” Id.

25 The Eighth Amendment’s prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment requires that prison
26 officials take reasonable measures for the safety of inmates. See Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S.
27 825, 834 (1994). In particular, officials have a duty to protect inmates from violence at the hands
28 of other inmates. See id. at 833. A prison official violates the Eighth Amendment only when two

1 requirements are met: (1) the deprivation alleged is, objectively, sufficiently serious, and (2) the 2 official is, subjectively, deliberately indifferent to the inmate’s safety. See id. at 834.

3           Liberally construed, the allegations of the complaint could state a claim under section 1983
4 for deliberate indifference to Plaintiff’s safety in violation of his Eighth Amendment rights.<sup>2</sup>
5 However, Plaintiff has failed to allege the date of the incident. And, more importantly, Plaintiff
6 has not adequately linked any specific individually-named Defendant to his claim. Instead, as 7 mentioned above, Plaintiff names the “San Francisco Sheriff’s Department staff” as the Defendant
8 group in this action. A defendant cannot be held liable simply based on his membership in a
9 group without showing his individual participation in unlawful conduct. Chuman v. Wright, 76
10 F.3d 292, 294 (9th Cir. 1996). Either personal involvement or integral participation of each 11 defendant in the alleged constitutional violation is required before liability may be imposed. See
12 Jones v. Williams, 297 F.3d 930, 936 (9th Cir. 2002). Plaintiff cannot name “San Francisco 13 Sheriff’s Department staff” as the Defendant group without naming and linking specifically each 14 jail employee to his Eighth Amendment claim. Therefore, the Defendant group of “San Francisco 15 Sheriff’s Department staff” (as opposed to individually named jail employees) is DISMISSED.
16 However, the court will grant Plaintiff leave to amend to allege the date of the incident and to 17 name specific individually-named Defendants and link each of them to his Eighth Amendment 18 claim.

19                           2. Denial of Recreation

20           Plaintiff also claims that the SFCJ “Classification and Housing Deputies violated [his]
21 constitutional right to 3 hrs. a week [of] recreation, a right mandated to [him] by title 15.”<sup>3</sup> Dkt. 1
22 at 6-7. Plaintiff claims that he has been “confined to [his] cell for 9 consecutive months.” Id. at 7.

24           <sup>2</sup> Plaintiff contends he has filed multiple administrative appeals (grievances) on this issue
25 which have never been answered. Dkt. 1 at 2. It thus appears he has not exhausted his 26 administrative remedies as required by 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a). If the allegations that his appeals 27 have not been answered are true, however, it may be that administrative remedies are not 28 “available” within the meaning of the statute. This is an issue better resolved at a later stage of the case.

<sup>3</sup> When Plaintiff refers to “title 15,” the court assumes that he means Title 15 of the California Code of Regulations.

1           Deprivations that are authorized by state law, such as Title 15 of the California Code of 2 Regulations, and are less severe or more closely related to the expected terms of confinement, may 3 also amount to deprivations of a procedurally protected liberty interest, provided that (1) state
4 statutes or regulations narrowly restrict the power of prison officials to impose the deprivation,
5 i.e., give the inmate a kind of right to avoid it, and (2) the liberty in question is one of “real 6 substance.” See Sandin v. Conner, 515 U.S. 472, 477-87 (1995). Generally, “real substance” will 7 be limited to freedom from (1) a restraint that imposes “atypical and significant hardship on the 8 inmate in relation to the ordinary incidents of prison life,” id. at 484, or (2) state action that “will 9 inevitably affect the duration of [a] sentence,” id. at 487. Such a hardship exists when conditions 10 of confinement do not mirror those in other housing units, but rather “works a major disruption” in 11 the prisoner’s environment. Id. at 486-87. Ordinarily, placement in disciplinary segregation
12 works no such disruption. Id. at 486.

13           Here, Plaintiff does not indicate whether he was found guilty of any disciplinary violations, 14 which resulted in the aforementioned loss of recreation. As currently pled, the court cannot 15 determine whether, liberally construed, Plaintiff has suffered from an atypical and significant 16 hardship as a result of any punishments imposed.

17           Moreover, even assuming that Plaintiff can demonstrate a deprivation of his liberty
18 interest, it is unclear what procedural protections he did not receive. Under the Due Process
19 Clause, a prisoner is entitled to certain procedural protections when he is charged with a 20 disciplinary violation. Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 564-71 (1974). These protections
21 include a written notice at least twenty-four hours before the disciplinary hearing, an opportunity 22 to call witnesses and present documentary evidence, and a written statement by the fact-finder as 23 to the evidence relied upon and the reasons for the disciplinary action taken. Id.

24           Here, again, Plaintiff does not indicate whether he had been charged of a disciplinary 25 violation. Even if he had been charged with such a violation, Plaintiff does not allege that he was 26 denied notice of any charges against him, or the opportunity to call witnesses and present evidence
27 in his defense. As such, the court finds that Plaintiff fails to state a Fourteenth Amendment due 28 process claim as it relates to the punishments imposed upon him in the form of loss of recreation.

1 Plaintiff is granted leave to amend this claim to cure the deficiencies described above if he
2 can do so in good faith. Specifically, Plaintiff must allege facts which show that the punishments
3 imposed subjected him to an atypical and significant hardship in relation to the ordinary incidents
4 of prison life. Plaintiff must further allege facts specifying what procedural protections he was 5 denied. Finally, similar to his Eighth Amendment claim above, the court will grant Plaintiff leave
6 to amend to name specific individually-named Defendants and link them to this claim as well.

7 3. Rule 18(a) and Rule 20

8 A plaintiff may properly join as many claims as he has against an opposing party. Fed. R.
9 Civ. P. 18(a). Nevertheless, while multiple claims against a single party may be alleged in a single 10 complaint, unrelated claims against different defendants must be alleged in separate complaints.
11 See George v. Smith, 507 F.3d 605, 607 (7th Cir. 2007) (finding, under Rule 18(a), prisoner 12 improperly brought complaint raising fifty distinct claims against twenty-four defendants).
13 Further, parties may be joined as defendants only if “there is asserted against them jointly,
14 severally, or in the alternative, any right to relief in respect of or arising out of the same
15 transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences and if any question of law or fact 16 common to all defendants will arise in the action.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 20(a). As a practical matter, 17 this means that claims involving different parties cannot be joined together in one complaint if the 18 facts giving rise to the claims were not factually related in some way—that is, if there was not 19 “similarity in the factual background.” Coughlin v. Rogers, 130 F.3d 1348, 1350 (9th Cir. 1997).
20 General allegations are not sufficient to constitute similarity when the specifics are different. Id.
21 The court, on its own initiative, may dismiss misjoined parties from an action, and any claim
22 against a misjoined party may be severed and proceeded with separately. Fed. R. Civ. P. 21.

23 Here, the court has determined above that Plaintiff’s complaint contains insufficient
24 information with respect to the claims above. At this time, the court is unable to determine
25 whether Plaintiff’s Eighth Amendment claim is related to his claim of denial of recreation, and it
26 is not known whether the two claims involve the same Defendants. Therefore, in his Amended
27 Complaint, Plaintiff may only allege claims that (a) arise out of the same transaction, occurrence,
28 or series of transactions or occurrences and (b) present questions of law or fact common to all

1 defendants named therein. Plaintiff must choose what claims he wants to pursue that meet the 2 joinder requirements; if he asserts improperly joined claims in his Amended Complaint, they will 3 be dismissed.

4 In sum, the court will allow Plaintiff leave to prepare a proper Amended Complaint that is 5 consistent with federal pleading standards. As explained above, Plaintiff must correct the 6 deficiencies outlined as to each of his claims above. Plaintiff is also advised that for each claim,
7 he must, to the best of his ability, specifically identify each Defendant, and specify what 8 constitutional right he believes each Defendant has violated. Importantly, Plaintiff must allege
9 facts regarding the conduct of each Defendant that he asserts gives rise to that Defendant's
10 liability. A person deprives another of a constitutional right within the meaning of 42 U.S.C.
11 §1983 if he does an affirmative act, participates in another's affirmative act or omits to perform an 12 act which he is legally required to do, that causes the deprivation of which the plaintiff complains.
13 Leer v. Murphy, 844 F.2d 628, 633 (9th Cir. 1988). There can be no liability under section 1983
14 unless there is some affirmative link or connection between a defendant's actions and the claimed 15 deprivation. Rizzo v. Goode, 423 U.S. 362 (1976); May v. Enomoto, 633 F.2d 164, 167 (9th Cir.
16 1980); Johnson v. Duffy, 588 F.2d 740, 743 (9th Cir.1978).

17 III. CONCLUSION

18 For the foregoing reasons, the court orders as follows:

19 1. The Defendant group of "San Francisco Sheriff's Department staff" is 20 DISMISSED from the complaint with prejudice.

21 2. Plaintiff's complaint is DISMISSED with leave to amend in order to give him the 22 opportunity to file a simple, concise and direct Amended Complaint which:

23 a. States clearly and simply each claim he seeks to bring in federal court as 24 required under Rule 8, and he should:

25 i. Set forth each claim in a separate numbered paragraph;

26 ii. Identify each Defendant and the specific action or actions each

  - c. Only alleges those claims that are properly joined under Rule 20(a) (concerning joinder of claims and Defendants) or, stated differently, the Amended Complaint may only allege claims that:
    - i. Arise out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences; and
    - ii. Present questions of law or fact common to all Defendants;

3. Within twenty-eight (28) days from the date of this Order, Plaintiff shall file his Amended Complaint as set forth above. Plaintiff must use the attached civil rights form, write the case number for this action—Case No. C 15-5755 DMR (PR)—on the form, clearly label the complaint “Amended Complaint,” and complete all sections of the form. Because the Amended Complaint completely replaces the original complaint, Plaintiff must include in it all the claims he wishes to present. *See Ferdik v. Pursuant to Northern District Local Rule 3-11 a party proceeding pro se whose address changes while an action is pending must promptly file a notice of change of address specifying the new address. See L.R. 3-11(a). The court may dismiss without prejudice a complaint when: (1) mail directed to the pro se party by the court has been returned to the court as not deliverable, and (2) the court fails to receive within sixty days of this return a written communication from the pro se party indicating a current address. See L.R. 3-11(b).

5. The Clerk of the Court shall send Plaintiff a blank civil rights form along with a copy of this Order.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
