INTEREST OF AMICI CURIAE¹

Amici curiae, listed in the Appendix to this brief, are sixty former officials in the U.S. government who have worked on national security and homeland security issues from the White House as well as agencies across the Executive Branch. They have served in senior leadership roles in administrations of both major political parties. Collectively, they have devoted a great many decades to protecting the security interests of the United States. They have held the highest security clearances, and participated in the highest levels of policy deliberations on a broad range of issues. These include: immigration, border security, counterterrorism, military operations, and our nation’s relationship with other countries, including those south of the U.S. border.

Amici respectfully submit this brief because, in their professional opinion, there is no factual basis for the declaration of a national emergency for the purpose of circumventing the appropriations process and reprogramming billions of dollars in funding to construct a wall at the southern border, as directed by the Presidential Proclamation of February 15, 2019.

ARGUMENT

On February 15, 2019, the President declared a “national emergency” for the purpose of diverting appropriated funds from previously designated uses to build a wall along the southern border. Amici are aware of no emergency that remotely justifies such a step. The President’s actions are at odds with the overwhelming evidence in the public record, including the administration’s own data and estimates. Amici have lived and worked through national emergencies and support the President’s power to mobilize the Executive Branch to respond quickly in genuine national emergencies. But under no plausible assessment of the evidence is there a national emergency today that entitles the President to tap into funds appropriated for other purposes to build a wall at the southern border, which will take many years to complete.

¹ Amici affirm that no counsel for any party authored this brief in whole or in part; no party or party’s counsel contributed money intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief; and no person, other than amici, their members, and counsel, contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting this brief. The views expressed by Yale Law School’s legal clinics are not necessarily those of the Yale Law School.

1 I. Illegal border crossings have been at near historic lows.

2 According to the administration’s own data, the numbers of apprehensions at the southern 3 border through the end of fiscal year 2018 were near forty-year lows.² There was a modest 4 increase in apprehensions in 2018 over previous years, but the total in 2018 was in line with the 5 number of apprehensions only two years earlier,³ and the overall trend continued to exhibit a 6 dramatic decline over the last fifteen years in particular. The number of undetected unlawful 7 entries at the southern border also fell from over 1,000,000 to below 57,000 between fiscal years
8 2006 to 2017, the most recent year for which data are publicly available.⁴ The United States hosts 9 what is estimated to be the smallest number of undocumented immigrants since 2004.⁵ And, in 10 recent years, the majority of currently undocumented immigrants entered the United States 11 legally, but overstayed their visas,⁶ a problem that will not be addressed by the declaration of an 12 emergency along the southern border.

13 II. The recent increase in crossings does not present a national emergency.

14 The last several months have seen a sharp rise in the number of individuals apprehended
15 at the southern border relative to previous years. This change is due to an increase in the number 16 of families and unaccompanied children turning themselves in to border officials for asylum.

⁶ Richard Gonzales, For 7th Consecutive Year, Visa Overstays Exceeded Illegal Border Crossings, NPR (Jan. 16, 2019, 7:02 PM) (noting “that from 2016-2017, people who overstayed their visas accounted for 62 percent of the newly undocumented, while 38 percent had crossed a border illegally”).

1 Family units and unaccompanied children comprised 67 percent of apprehensions at the southern 2 border in July 2019, compared to 11 percent in July 2012.⁷ Further, many asylum seekers are 3 forced to seek asylum between ports of entry, where they are counted as apprehensions, because 4 this administration has placed a strict cap on asylum entrants at ports of entry. These events have 5 placed a great strain on the capacity of our border system, which is equipped to address
6 individuals who are covertly crossing the border for work, rather than families and children 7 openly seeking asylum, and will require an investment of resources. But policy decisions that 8 increase apprehensions do not mean a growing national security emergency. The administration 9 does not and cannot explain how these changes present a security emergency, let alone one that 10 would be solved with a border wall.

11 III. There is no evidence of a terrorist or national security emergency at the 12 southern border.

13 There is no reason to believe there is a terrorist or national security emergency at the 14 southern border that could justify the President’s proclamation.

15 a. This administration’s own most recent Country Report on Terrorism found that 16 “there was no credible evidence indicating that international terrorist groups have established 17 bases in Mexico, worked with Mexican drug cartels, or sent operatives via Mexico into the United 18 States.”⁸ Since 1975, there has been only one reported incident in which immigrants who had 19 crossed the southern border illegally attempted to commit a terrorist act. That incident occurred 20 more than twelve years ago, and involved three brothers from Macedonia who had been brought 21 into the United States as children more than twenty years earlier.⁹

22 b. Although the White House has claimed, as an argument favoring a wall at the 23 southern border, that almost 4,000 known or suspected terrorists were intercepted at the southern

1 border in a single year,¹⁰ this assertion has since been widely and consistently repudiated,
2 including by this administration’s own Department of Homeland Security.¹¹ The overwhelming
3 majority of individuals on terrorism watchlists who were intercepted by U.S. Customs and Border
4 Patrol were attempting to travel to the United States by air;¹² of the individuals on the terrorist
5 watchlist who were encountered while entering the United States during fiscal year 2017, only 13
6 percent traveled by land.¹³ And for those who have attempted to enter by land, only a small 7 fraction do so at the southern border. Between October 2017 and March 2018, forty-one foreign 8 immigrants on the terrorist watchlist were intercepted at the northern border.¹⁴ Only six such 9 immigrants were intercepted at the southern border.¹⁵

10 IV. There is no emergency related to violent crime at the southern border.

11 Nor can the administration justify its actions on the grounds that the incidence of violent 12 crime on the southern border constitutes a national emergency. The data consistently show that 13 unauthorized immigrants have no special proclivity to engage in criminal or violent behavior.
14 According to a Cato Institute analysis of criminological data, undocumented immigrants are 49
15 percent less likely to be incarcerated nationwide than are native-born citizens.¹⁶ And a recent 16 longitudinal study that examined the period between 1990 and 2014 found a “generally negative”

1 relationship between the presence of undocumented immigrants and violent crime.¹⁷ And in 2 Texas, the state with the best data availability, undocumented immigrants were found to have a 3 first-time conviction rate 32 percent below that of native-born Americans,¹⁸ and the conviction 4 rates of unauthorized immigrants for violent crimes such as homicide and sex offenses were also 5 below those of native-born Americans.¹⁹ Meanwhile, overall rates of violent crime in the United 6 States have declined significantly over the past 25 years, falling 49 percent from 1993 to 2017.²⁰
7 And violent crime rates in the country's 30 largest cities decreased on average by 2.7 percent in 8 2018 alone.²¹

9 V. There is no human or drug trafficking emergency that can be 10 addressed by a wall at the southern border.

11 The overwhelming majority of opioids that enter the United States across a land border 12 are carried through legal ports of entry in personal or commercial vehicles, not smuggled through 13 unauthorized border crossings.²² A border wall would not stop these drugs from entering the 14 United States. Nor would a wall stop drugs from entering via other routes, including smuggling 15 tunnels (which circumvent physical barriers such as fences and walls)²³ and international mail 16 (which is how high-purity fentanyl, for example, is usually shipped from China directly to the

1 United States).²⁴

2 Likewise, illegal crossings at the southern border are not the principal source of human 3 trafficking victims. About two-thirds of human trafficking victims served by nonprofit
4 organizations that receive funding from the relevant Department of Justice office are U.S.
5 citizens, and even among non-citizens, most trafficking victims usually arrive in the country on 6 valid visas.²⁵ None of these instances of trafficking could be addressed by a border wall. And the 7 three states with the highest per capita trafficking reporting rates are not even located along the 8 southern border.²⁶

9 Finally, there are now very real and disturbing humanitarian concerns at the border that 10 result from the current administration’s own deliberate policies towards migrants. For example, 11 the administration has used a “metering” policy to turn away the families fleeing extreme 12 violence and persecution in their home countries, forcing them to wait indefinitely at the border to 13 present their asylum cases, and the administration has adopted a number of other punitive steps 14 restricting asylum at the southern border. These actions have forced asylum-seekers to live on the 15 streets or in makeshift shelters and tent cities with abysmal and dangerous living conditions at the 16 border and throughout Mexico, and limited access to basic sanitation has caused outbreaks of 17 disease and death. The choices this administration has made have fueled rather than allayed a 18 humanitarian crisis—and erecting a wall will do nothing to ease the suffering of these people.

19 VI. Redirecting funds will undermine U.S. national security and foreign policy 20 interests.

21 In the face of a nonexistent threat, redirecting funds for the construction of a wall along 22 the southern border will undermine national security by needlessly pulling resources from 23 Department of Defense programs that are responsible for keeping our troops and our country safe.

1 a. Repurposing funds from the defense construction budget will drain money from 2 critical defense infrastructure projects, possibly including improvement of military hospitals,
3 construction of roads, and renovation of on-base housing.²⁷

4 b. The proclamation will divert resources away from military priorities in a manner
5 that is likely to degrade troop readiness and effectiveness.²⁸ In fact, in a March 2019 6 memorandum, General Robert Neller, the Commandant of the Marine Corps, warned that the 7 “Marine Corps faces fiscal challenges without precedent” and that the transfer of troops and 8 funding to the southern border was contributing to “unacceptable risk to Marine Corps combat 9 readiness and solvency.” General Neller warned that fiscal pressures would cause the Marine 10 Corps to cancel or scale back training exercises “at a time when we are attempting to double 11 down on strengthening alliances and attracting new partners.” As “Marines rely on the hard, 12 realistic training provided by these events . . . the experience lost by these units at a critical time 13 in their preparation cannot be recouped.”²⁹

14 c. In addition, the administration’s unilateral, provocative actions at the border are 15 heightening tensions with our neighbors to the south, at a moment when we need their help to 16 address a range of concerns in the Western Hemisphere. These actions are placing friendly 17 governments to the south under impossible pressure, and driving partners away. These actions 18 have especially strained our diplomatic relationship with Mexico, a relationship that is vital to 19 regional efforts ranging from critical intelligence and law enforcement partnerships to cooperative
20 efforts to address the growing tensions with Venezuela. Additionally, the proclamation could well 21 lead to the degradation of the natural environment in a manner that could only contribute to long-

1 term socioeconomic and security challenges.

2 d. By declaring a national emergency for domestic political reasons with no 3 compelling reason or justification from his senior intelligence and law enforcement officials, the 4 President has further eroded his credibility with foreign leaders, both friend and foe. Should a 5 genuine foreign crisis erupt, this lack of credibility will materially weaken this administration's 6 ability to marshal allies to support the United States, and will embolden adversaries to oppose us.

7 VII. There is no basis for circumventing the appropriations process at the 8 southern border.

9 Amici do not deny that our nation faces real immigration and national security challenges.
10 But as the foregoing demonstrates, these challenges demand a thoughtful, evidence-based 11 strategy, not a manufactured crisis that rests on falsehoods and fearmongering. In a briefing 12 before the Senate Intelligence Committee on January 29, 2019, less than one month before the 13 Presidential Proclamation, the Directors of the CIA, DNI, FBI, and NSA testified about numerous 14 serious current threats to U.S. national security, but none of the officials identified a security 15 crisis at the U.S.-Mexico border. In a briefing before the House Armed Services Committee the 16 next day, Pentagon officials acknowledged that the 2018 National Defense Strategy does not 17 identify the southern border as a security threat.³⁰ When asked what the military is doing at the 18 border that couldn't be done by the Department of Homeland Security if it had the funding for it, 19 a top-level defense official responded, "[n]one of the capabilities that we are providing [at the 20 southern border] are combat capabilities. It's not a war zone along the border."³¹ Leading 21 legislators with access to classified information³² and the President's own statements³³ have

1 strongly suggested, if not confirmed, that there is no evidence supporting the administration's 2 claims of an emergency. And it is reported that the President made the decision to circumvent the 3 appropriations process and reprogram money without the Acting Secretary of Defense having 4 even started to consider where the funds might come from.³⁴ All of this suggests an absence of 5 consultation and internal deliberations that in Amici's experience are necessary and expected 6 before taking a decision of this magnitude.

7 CONCLUSION

8 For the foregoing reasons, Amici respectfully submit that there is no factual basis for the 9 declaration of a national emergency for the purpose of circumventing the appropriations process 10 and reprogramming billions of dollars in funding to construct a wall at the southern border.
