Counsel-

The following information supplements our meet and confer of earlier today:

- 1) With regard to plaintiff Howard Stern, we will redact and produce as highly confidential Schedule C to his tax returns, which contain the information relating to his business for which he advertised on AdWords. We have confirmed he has no additional records relating to his business.
- 2) With respect to Plaintiff CLRB Hanson, on August 13, 2004, there was a fire at the premises of CLRB Hanson Industries, which fire caused a total destruction of the premises, including business records. (I attach a copy of the report of the Fire Department.) Thus, we are informed no records exist prior to August 13, 2004. The company stopped doing business in November 2005. Plaintiff has made a thorough search of the locations where any records for the period subsequent to August 13, 2004 would be stored, and found no records, except for Schedules C for 2004 and 2005, which we will redact and produce as highly confidential. Plaintiff will make a final search by the end of this weekend to search even unlikely locations for documents. At the completion of that search, Plaintiff will have looked at all locations, both logical and illogical, for responsive documents. We will advise you by next week whether any responsive documents exist beyond what CLRB already produced.
