JOINT PRETRIAL CONFERENCE
 STATEMENT

Final Pretrial Conference

Date: March 23, 2009

Time: 3:00 p.m.

Court: Hon. James Ware

23 Plaintiff Louis Vuitton Malletier, S.A. ("Plaintiff") and Defendants Akanoc Solutions, Inc., 24 Managed Solutions Group, Inc. and Steve Chen (collectively "Defendants") submit the following 25 Joint Pretrial Conference Statement.

1 I. Claims and Defenses

3 A. Plaintiff's Claims

4 Plaintiff Louis Vuitton Malletier, S.A. ("Plaintiff" or "Louis Vuitton") claims the 5 Defendants Managed Solutions Group, Inc., Akanoc Solutions, Inc. and their principal Steve Chen 6 (collectively "Defendants") are liable for contributory infringement of registered trademarks and 7 copyrights owned by Louis Vuitton. Louis Vuitton is a manufacturer and distributor of luxury 8 goods and it has been engaged in that business for over a hundred years. Its trademarks, including 9 LOUIS VUITTON, LV, the Monogram device trademark and others have been in use and 10 registered with trademark authorities around the world for most of that time. Certain designs have 11 been registered as copyrights with the United States Copyright Office. Louis Vuitton claims these 12 trademarks and copyrights have been used to display, market, distribute and sell counterfeit and 13 unauthorized merchandise on numerous websites hosted by Defendants and that the goods and 14 services provided by Defendants were provided despite notice concerning the underlying 15 counterfeiting activity.

16 B. Defenses

18 The Defendants deny that they or any of them engaged in any conduct that contributed to 19 the infringement of any right of the Plaintiff. The Defendants assert that most of the evidence 20 relied upon by the Plaintiff is inadmissible for various reasons. Even if the Plaintiff's proffered 21 evidence is admitted, the Defendants assert that the Plaintiff cannot satisfy the elements of any 22 claim of direct or contributory infringement or proof of any damages. Akanoc Solutions, Inc. and 23 Managed Solutions Group, Inc. are Internet hosting companies that provide access to the Internet to 24 third party wholesale resellers of Internet hosting services. Steve Chen is manager of the other two 25 Defendants. Their customers of Akanoc and MSG, in turn, resell Internet access services to third 26 party retail users of the Internet. Akanoc and MSG bundle Internet hosting services for their 27 wholesale customers consisting of access to a computer server, use of a group of Internet protocol 28 (IP) addresses, and a quantity of Internet bandwidth that is obtained, in turn, from large

1 communications companies. A package of these Internet access services is provided for a monthly 2 service charge (typically $50 to $60 per month). The wholesale customers of Akanoc and MSG 3 are then free to resell the Internet access to their own retail customers. To the best of the 4 Defendants' knowledge, the third party retail users use the services for various uses including 5 Internet telephone services, downloading software, Internet games, on-line data storage, and 6 websites, among other uses. The Defendants have no control over the uses made of the Internet by 7 its wholesale customers or the retail customers of the wholesale customers and have no knowledge 8 of the uses that may change frequently.

9 Akanoc and MSG never host any third party Website. They do not design or provide any 10 technical support to any Website. Akanoc and MSG operate like a telephone company in simply 11 keeping the communications operating without any monitoring or control over any transmitted or 12 stored content. Akanoc and MSG provide only unmanaged Internet hosting services and are unlike 13 ISPs that deal typically with individual customers or small businesses so they provide no 14 management of content or service, except to keep the communication lines open. No defendant 15 participates in any business or revenue sharing with any wholesale customer or its retail customer.
16 The low price per month for substantial bandwidth reflects the minimal services provided and 17 competitive demands for unmanaged services.

18 No defendant has ever had any knowledge of any infringing conduct of any user of its 19 services because they do not and cannot lawfully monitor customer activity. But if anyone 20 complains about abuse of Internet services, including alleged spamming or copyright or trademark 21 infringement, Akanoc or MSG will notify their wholesale customer of the complaint and demand 22 that the customer remove the complained of content. This is done without any investigation of the 23 accuracy of any complaint because no defendant has the ability to verify or investigate such 24 complaints and because there are substantial abuse reports made every day about some small 25 fraction of the approximately 40,000 IP addresses rented to customers. If there are repeated 26 complaints about a customer's usage, other steps can be taken up to unplugging a server but this is 27 not often done because there are likely to be hundreds or thousands of innocent third party users on 28

1 a server who would be harmed by such action. Whenever the Plaintiff has complained about 2 infringement, Akanoc or MSG has taken appropriate action, consistent with its protocol and 3 industry practices.

4 Defendants contend they are “service providers” as that term is utilized in the Digital 5 Millennium Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 512 et seq., (DMCA) Plaintiff failed to substantially 6 comply with notification requirements of the DMCA as to claimed infringements. Defendants, are 7 immune from liability for monetary relief pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 512(a), (b), (c) and (d).
8 Defendants’ conduct is mandated by and compliant with the Stored Communications Act (18 9 U.S.C. §§ 2700-2712). Defendants’ conduct as Internet service providers is privileged.

11 II. Relief

12 Louis Vuitton seeks entry of a permanent injunction enjoining Defendants from further 13 contributory infringement of its intellectual property rights. Louis Vuitton is also entitled to elect 14 between statutory damages and actual damages under both the Copyright Act and the Trademark 15 Act. Nintendo of America, Inc. v. Dragon Pacific Int’l, Inc., et al., 40 F.3d 1007, 1011 (9th Cir.
16 1994). Under the Trademark Act, Defendants are liable for damages of up to $2,000,000 for each 17 trademark willfully counterfeited or up to $200,000 for each trademark innocently counterfeited.
18 Under the Copyright Act, Defendants are liable for damages of up to $150,000 for each copyright 19 willfully infringed or up to $30,000 for each copyright innocently infringed. In view of the 20 wholesale nature of the counterfeiting activity (and the fact that Defendants are jointly and 21 severally liable with each of the underlying counterfeiters whose illegal activities were aided by 22 Defendants) and Louis Vuitton’s claim that the underlying activities were willful, Louis Vuitton 23 will seek up to either $30,000,000 or $300,000 in statutory damages. In addition, Louis Vuitton 24 may seek actual damages under the Copyright Act or Trademark Act in the form of profits 25 Defendants derived from their contributory conduct. Such actual damages are calculated based on 26 the price charged by Defendants for server packages used to host infringing websites as well as 27 such other service fees and charges as Defendants may levy.

Louis Vuitton will make its election at the time the matter is submitted to the jury. Louis Vuitton will also seek its attorneys' fees and costs in connection with litigating this matter.

13 V. Agreed Statement of Facts

14 The Parties agree that no part of this case can be tried based on upon an agreed statement of 15 facts.

17 VI. Stipulations

18 None.

19 VII. Disputed Law

20 1. Louis Vuitton asserts that the law applicable to its claims for contributory 21 infringement were articulated by the Court in its ruling against Defendants on their motion for 22 summary judgment and that there is no disputed issue of law. To the extent that the Defendants 23 attempt to re-litigate the applicable legal standards at trial, these matters are law of the case and 24 further litigation of these issues is precluded. Jeffries v. Wood, 114 F.3d 1484, 1489 (9th Cir.
25 1997); Segal v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 606 F.2d 842, 845 (9th Cir. 1979).
26

27 Defendants identify the following disputed issues of law in addition to evidentiary 28 issues:

1 2. Whether Louis Vuitton is required to identify a direct infringer to be successful 2 on its inducement of copyright infringement claims.

3 Defendants contend Louis Vuitton is required to identify direct infringers in China. See E- 4 Pass Technologies, Inc. v. 3Com Corp., 473 F.3d 1213, 1222-23 (Fed.Cir.2007) (implying that in 5 order to successfully make out an inducement of infringement claim based on direct infringement 6 by a defendant's customers, the plaintiff should be able to point to at least one end user that 7 infringed).

8 Louis Vuitton does not dispute that proof of an underlying direct infringement is necessary 9 to succeed on its claims for contributory infringement. Perfect 10, Inc. v. Visa International 10 Service Association, et al., 494 F.3d 788, 803-807 (9th Cir. 2007) (referencing underlying acts of 11 unidentified “users”, “third parties” and “offending websites” separate and apart from the 12 defendants named in the case law). There is no authority requiring Louis Vuitton to identify the 13 underlying infringer with particularity, especially where, as here, the infringer’s ability to operate 14 anonymously has been facilitated and advanced by the Defendants’ own conduct.

15 3. Whether Vuitton must prove that each defendant materially contributed to 16 direct copyright infringement by third parties.

17 Defendants contend the law is clear that Vuitton must prove the each defendant materially 18 contributed to direct copyright infringement by third parties. “[O]ne who, with knowledge of the 19 infringing activity, induces, causes or materially contributes to the infringing conduct of another, 20 may be held liable as a ‘contributory’ infringer. [citations omitted] Put differently, liability exists if 21 the defendant engages in personal conduct that encourages or assists the infringement. A & M
22 Records, Inc. v. Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1019 (9th Cir.2001)

23 Louis Vuitton does not dispute this issue and asserts the evidence will demonstrate ample 24 involvement by each of the named defendants.
25
26
27
28

1 4. Whether the Stored Communications Act (18 U.S.C. § 2701 et seq.) prohibits 2 Internet Service Providers such as MSG and Akanoc from monitoring the content of their 3 servers.

4 Louis Vuitton contends that Defendants’ efforts to re-litigate this issue should be summarily 5 rejected. First, the matter has been considered and rejected by the Court in ruling upon 6 Defendants’ objections to Magistrate Judge Lloyd’s order compelling production or inspection of 7 servers and in ruling on Defendants’ motion for summary judgment. Second, the defense has been 8 waived by Defendants’ failure to assert the defense in their Answer or to otherwise raise the 9 purported defense except in response to Louis Vuitton’s demands for production of documents.
10 Third, Louis Vuitton’s theory of liability is not predicated upon “monitoring” as contemplated by 11 the Stored Communications Act.

12 Defendants contend that in addition the 11th Circuit has held the Stored Communications 13 Act does not apply unless the Internet website “is configured in some way as to limit ready access 14 by the general public”. Snow v. DirecTV, Inc., 450 F.3d 1314, 1322 (11th Cir. 2006). Evidence 15 will demonstrate that the websites at issue are all publicly accessible and in fact depend upon the 16 public access provided by Defendants. In addition, the Stored Communications Act provides 17 express limitation on liability for disclosure made pursuant to court processes. 18 U.S.C. 2707.
18 Louis Vuitton has demonstrated that the Defendants authorities are inapposite, as outlined in its 19 Reply in support of its motion to compel. Docket No. 40.

20 Defendants contend MSG and Akanoc are prohibited by U.S. law from monitoring or 21 viewing customer activity except for maintenance purposes or upon issuance of a search warrant.
22 In 1996, Congress passed the Electronic Communications Privacy Act (“ECPA”) in order “to 23 ensure the security of electronic communications.” Quon v. Arch Wireless Operating Co., Inc., 309
24 F.Supp.2d 1204, 1207 (C.D.Cal. 2004) Title II of the ECPA created the Stored Communications 25 Act (“SCA”).¹ The SCA addressed “access to stored wire and electronic communication and 26

27 ¹ Title I of the ECPA amended the Wiretap Act to adopt for the SCA the same definitions as used 28 in the federal Wiretap Act. See 18 U.S.C. § 2711

1 transactional records.” Quon v. Arch Wireless Operating Co., Inc., 309 F.Supp.2d at 1207, citing to 2 S.Rep. No. 99-541, at 3; 1986 U.S.C.C.A.N at 3557. “The ECPA’s legislative history indicates that 3 Congress passed the SCA to prohibit a provider of an electronic communications service ‘from 4 knowingly divulging the contents of any communication while in electronic storage by that service 5 to any person other than the addressee or intended recipient.” Quon v. Arch Wireless Operating 6 Co., Inc., 309 F.Supp.2d at 1207, citing to S.Rep. No. 99-541, at 37; 1986 U.S.C.C.A.N at 3591.

7 Defendants contend the SCA prohibits Defendants from disclosing the contents of 8 communications in electronic storage:

10 A person or entity providing an electronic communication² service to 11 the public shall not knowingly divulge to any person or entity the 12 contents of a communication while in electronic storage by that 13 service.³ (emphasis added)

14 The Defendants contend they are subject to the SCA as electronic communication service 15 providers defined by the SCA as “any service which provides to users thereof the ability to send or 16 receive wire or electronic communications.”⁴ MSG is governed by the SCA because they are 17 Internet service providers whose servers, routers and cables carry Internet traffic and provide 18 access to the Internet including the ability to send, receive and store electronic communications.
19 Dyer v. Northwest Airlines Corporations, 334 F.Supp.2d 1196, 1199 (D.N.D. 2004) (“The . .
20 .definition of ‘electronic communications service’ clearly includes Internet service providers such 21 as America Online, as well as telecommunications companies whose cables and phone lines carry 22 internet traffic.”)

23 The Defendants contend the website files ordered produced are “electronic storage” under 24 the SCA. If the information sought by Louis Vuitton exists at all, it would only exist in electronic 25 storage on the computer servers. The Ninth Circuit agrees that website information stored on a 26 ²An “ ‘electronic communication’ [is defined as:] any transfer of signs, signals, writing, images, 27 sounds, data, or intelligence of any nature transmitted in whole or in part by a wire, radio, 28 electromagnetic, photoelectronic or photooptical system that affects interstate or foreign commerce...” 18 U.S.C. § 2510(12).

³18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(1)

⁴18 U.S.C. § 2510(15).

1 computer is “electronic storage” as defined by the SCA. See Konop v. Hawaiian Airlines, Inc., 302 2 F.3d 868, 879 (9th Cir. (Cal.) 2002) (“The parties agree that the relevant ‘electronic 3 communications service’ is Konop’s Website, and that the website was in ‘electronic storage.’”)

4 Defendants contend section 2701(a) of the SCA creates criminal liability for obeying the 5 Magistrate Judge’s discovery order:

7 Except as provided in subsection (c) of this section whoever—8 (1) intentionally accesses without authorization a facility through 9 which an electronic communication service is provided; or 10 (2) intentionally exceeds an authorization to access that facility; and thereby obtains, alters, or prevents authorized access to a wire or electronic communication while it is in electronic storage in such system shall be punished as provided in subsection (b) of this section.

11 Defendants contend they do not have authorization to access its customers’ information on 12 its servers. The only person who can give “authorization” under the SCA is a “user” of the 13 service.⁵ A “user” is defined as one who uses the service and is duly authorized to do so.⁶ Even 14 being eligible to access a website or Internet service is not enough to qualify as a “user” under the 15 SCA; one must have permission from the owner of the website and actually access the service in 16 order to be able to give authorization under the SCA.⁷ Under this strict definition, neither the 17 Defendants nor the Magistrate Judge can give authorization under the SCA because they are not 18 “users” under the SCA. The only “users” that can give authorization are the website owners.

19 Defendants contend the content on MSG’s servers is SCA-protected because it is expressly 20 configured not to be publically accessible. This material is (1) stored on Defendants’ Internet 21 servers located in Defendants’ secured, publicly inaccessible, San Jose, California facility⁸ and (2) 22 only accessible by Defendants’ own customers because only those individual customers have the 25 ⁶*Id.*

26 ⁷*Konop*, 302 F.3d at 880 (holding that even a Hawaiian Airlines employee who was merely 27 authorized to access Snow’s website, but had not actually accessed it himself, was (1) not a “user” under the SCA and (2) could not give authority under the SCA to Hawaiian Airlines to access Snow’s website using the employee’s name.)

28 ⁸Declaration of Steve Chen in Opposition to Motion to Compel Production of Electronic Communications on Internet Servers (“Chen Decl.”) ¶4.

1 passwords⁹ to access the servers.¹⁰

2 Defendants contend the Ninth Circuit has held that SCA protection applied to a website
3 whose owner (a Hawaiian Airlines pilot) limited access to it by requiring users to input the names
4 of Hawaiian Airlines pilots. Konop, 302 F.3d at 879-881. In that situation, access to the website 5 by Hawaiian Airlines executives was found improper even when “authorized” by pilots who 6 permitted their supervisors to use their identity to gain access to an anti-company site. Snow v.
7 DirectTV, 450 F.3d 1314, 1322 (11th Cir. 2006) agreed that the Konop website was SCA-protected 8 because its modest access restriction was sufficient to limit ready access by the general public.

10 5. Which Sleekcraft factors are relevant to the jury’s determination of likelihood 11 of confusion as to source of goods.

12 Defendants contend a likelihood of confusion must be established before liability for 13 secondary trademark infringement can be established. Perfumbay.com Inc. v. eBay, Inc., 506 F.3d 14 1165, 1173 (9th Cir. 2007) (“The core element of trademark infringement is whether customers are 15 likely to be confused about the source or sponsorship of the products.”). AMF, Inc. v. Sleekcraft 16 Boats, 599 F.2d 341, 348-349 (9th Cir. 1979) lists eight factors that may be considered by a jury to 17 establish likelihood of confusion. The Sleekcraft factors are: (1) the strength of the mark; (2) 18 proximity or relatedness of the goods; (3) the similarity of the marks; (4) evidence of actual 19 confusion; (5) the marketing channels used; (6) the degree of care customers are likely to exercise 20 in purchasing the goods; (7) the defendant’s intent in selecting the mark; and (8) the likelihood of 21 expansion into other markets.” citing McCord, 452 F.3d at 1136, n. 9.

22 Defendants contend only those factors that are relevant to the particular case should be 23 considered by the jury. Metro Pub., Ltd. v. San Jose Mercury News, 987 F.2d 637, 640 (9th Cir.

24 ⁹Chen Decl. ¶3

25 ¹⁰The Magistrate Judge’s Order states that “at the motion hearing, defendants also confirmed that 26 their servers rotate in and out of use, that defendants initially assign passwords to their clients, and 27 that defendants also re-set passwords when servers have been “returned” or “abandoned.” (Order 28 Granting Plaintiff’s Motion to Compel Documents, fn 4, p.4) While this is true, the Magistrate Judge’s order fails to mention that, while defendants do reset passwords when they reformat the hard drive and reconfigure returned or abandoned servers the passwords are then changed by customers once the servers are put back into use. Once the customers change the passwords, defendants are unable to access the server using the old password. [Chen Decl. ¶3].

1 1993) (“Because each [Sleekcraft] factor is not necessarily relevant to every case, this list functions 2 as a guide and is ‘neither exhaustive or exclusive.’”); Brookfield Communications v. West Coast 3 Communications, 174 F.3d 1036, 1054 (9th Cir.1999) (“Some factors are much more helpful than 4 others, and the relative importance of each individual factor will be case specific [I]t is often 5 possible to reach a conclusion with respect to likelihood of confusion after considering only a 6 subset of the factors.”)

7 Plaintiff states that though the likelihood of confusion is a factual determination normally 8 made using the Sleekcraft eight factor test, in cases involving counterfeit marks, it is unnecessary 9 to perform the step-by-step examination because counterfeit marks are inherently confusing, thus, 10 “if they were used with identical products or services, likelihood of confusion would follow as a 11 matter of course.” Brookfield Communs. v. W. Coast Entm't Corp., 174 F.3d 1036, 1056 (9th Cir.
12 1999); Phillip Morris USA Inc. v. Shalabi, 352 F. Supp. 2d 1067, 1073 (C.D. Cal. 2004); see Lindy 13 Pen Co. v. Bic Pen Corp., 796 F.2d 254, 256-57 (9th Cir. 1986) (reversing a district court's finding 14 of no likelihood of confusion even though the six other likelihood of confusion factors all weighed 15 against a finding of likelihood of confusion)); Shakespeare Co. v. Silstar Corp. of Am., 110 F.3d 16 234, 241 (4th Cir. 1997) (presumption exists when intent to pass off exists); Polo Fashions, Inc. v.
17 Craftex, Inc., 816 F.2d 145, 148 (4th Cir. 1987) (“Where, as here, one produces counterfeit goods in 18 an apparent attempt to capitalize upon the popularity of, and demand for, another's product, there is 19 a presumption of a likelihood of confusion.”); Phillip Morris USA Inc. v. Felizardo, 2004 U.S.
20 Dist. LEXIS 11154, at *18 (S.D.N.Y. June 18, 2004) (“counterfeit marks are inherently 21 confusing”); Gucci America, Inc. v. Duty Free Apparel, Ltd., 286 F. Supp. 2d 284, 287 (S.D.N.Y.
22 2003) (“counterfeits by their very nature, cause confusion”); Microsoft Corp. v. Software 23 Wholesale Club, Inc., 129 F. Supp. 2d 995 (S.D. Tex. 2000) (multifactor test unnecessary because 24 “in the case of a counterfeit mark, likelihood of confusion is clear”).

25 6. Whether the alternative element of contributory copyright infringement, 26 “whether a defendant continued to supply an infringing product to an infringer with 27
28

1 knowledge that the infringer is mislabeling the particular product supplied,” applies if a 2 defendant allegedly supplied a service rather than a product.

3 Defendants contend Perfect 10, Inc. v. Visa Intern. Service Ass’n, 494 F.3d 788, 807 (9th 4 Cir. 2007) is clear that the alternative second prong of the Inwood Labs test for contributory 5 trademark infringement does not apply if the defendant supplies a service, rather than a product:

7 “To be liable for contributory trademark infringement, a defendant 8 must have (1) “intentionally induced” the primary infringer to 9 infringe, or (2) continued to supply an infringing product to an 10 infringer with knowledge that the infringer is mislabeling the 11 particular product supplied. [citing Inwood Labs., Inc. v. Ives Labs., 12 Inc., 456 U.S. 844, 855 (1982)].

13 Defendants contend Element 2 does not apply because it is undisputed that MSG and 14 Akanoc supply a service. They do not supply a product to any alleged infringers.

15 Louis Vuitton contends that Defendants supply goods and services which directly relate to 16 the rampant infringing activity occurring on their servers. As stated by the Court, “MSGI owns 17 most of the hardware and Akanoc is primarily charged with operating it.” Judge Ware’s Order 18 Granting in Part and Denying in Part Defendants’ Motion for Summary Judgment, C07-03952 JW, 19 2:12-13 (Filed December 23, 2008) [hereinafter “Summary Judgment Ruling”]. Defendants’ sell 20 their goods including their hardware or server space, and they also supply services by maintaining 21 dedicated access to those goods, among other things.

22 Louis Vuitton states that in addition to other applicable law on the material contribution 23 prong, current Ninth Circuit standards for contributory liability would apply to Defendants even if 24 they provided only a service in that “a computer system operator can be held contributorily liable if 25 it has actual knowledge that specific infringing material is available using its system, and can take 26 simple measures to prevent further damage to copyrighted works, yet continues to provide access 27 to infringing works.” Perfect 10, Inc. v. Amazon.com, Inc., 508 F.3d 1146, 1172 (9th Cir. 2006); 28 see also A&M Records, Inc. v. Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1021 (9th Cir. 2001) (in the context of a provider of Internet access or services, “if a computer system operator learns of specific infringing material available on his system and fails to purge such material from the system, the operator knows of and contributes to direct infringement,” finding liability for knowledge, assistance and failure to block access to infringing content); see also Religious Technology Center v. Netcom On-Line Communication Services, Inc., 907 F. Supp. 1361, 1374 (N.D. Cal. 1995) (finding electronic bulletin board operator contributorily liable for failing to delete an infringing post).

7. Whether the “direct control and monitoring” test for contributory trademark infringement applies if the alleged direct infringer supplies a product rather than a service.

Defendants contend that the direct control and monitoring test only applies if the direct infringer (not the defendant) supplies a service rather than a product. In this case, the alleged direct infringers supply only products (alleged counterfeit goods). Perfect 10, Inc. v. Visa Intern. Service Ass’n, 494 F.3d 788, 807 (9th Cir. 2007) explains that if the second element of contributory trademark infringement applies because the defendant continued to supply an infringing product to an infringer, and further if the direct infringer supplies a service rather than a product, for liability to attach there must be “direct control and monitoring of the instrumentality used by the third party to infringe:

“When the alleged direct infringer supplies a service rather than a product, under the second prong of this test, the court must “consider the extent of control exercised by the defendant over the third party's means of infringement.” [citing Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Network Solutions, Inc., 194 F.3d 980, 984 (9th Cir.1999)] For liability to attach, there must be [d]irect control and monitoring of the instrumentality used by a third party to infringe the plaintiff's mark.” Id.

Visa Int’l, 494 F.3d at 807

Defendants contend that the ‘direct control and monitoring’ test does not apply not only because the defendants supply a service rather than a product. It also does not apply because the alleged direct infringers supply a product rather than a service.

Defendants supply both goods and services to infringers. Additionally, Louis Vuitton states that it is not precluded to show the extent of control by Defendants of the infringing means for purposes of contributory infringement depending on whether the underlying infringement is a

1 product or service. The standard for contributory trademark infringement is that a plaintiff must 2 establish that the defendant (1) intentionally induced the primary infringer to infringe or (2) 3 continued to supply an infringing product to an infringer with knowledge that the infringer is 4 mislabeling the particular product supplied. Perfect 10, Inc. v. Visa Int’l Service Assoc., et al., 494
5 F.3d 788, 807 (9th Cir. 2007). In Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Network Solutions, Inc., 194 F.3d 980, 6 983 (9th Cir. 1999), “the Ninth Circuit held that even though an internet service provider did not 7 supply a “product” to infringing third parties, the court should “consider the extent of control 8 exercised by the defendant over the third party’s means of infringement...[a]ccordingly, when a 9 defendant offers a service instead of a product, a plaintiff can base its contributory trademark 10 infringement claim on the “extent of control” theory or the “intentional inducement theory”.
11 Summary Judgment Ruling 15:1-18.

12 8. Whether the “willfully blind” approach to proving contributory trademark 13 infringement applies in this case.

14 Defendants contend one way for a plaintiff to demonstrate ‘direct control and monitoring’ 15 by defendants is to show that the defendants were willfully blind to infringing activity: 16

17 Direct control and monitoring of the instrumentality used by a 18 third-party to infringe the plaintiff’s mark can lead to liability. . . This 19 second test can be met where one knows or has reason to know of 20 the infringing activity, and [is] ‘willfully blind’ to such activity.
Perfect 10, Inc. v. Cybernet Ventures, Inc., 213 F.Supp.2d 1146, 1188-1189 (C.D.Cal. 2002)

21 Defendants contend the “direct control and monitoring” test does not apply here because the 22 alleged direct infringers supply a product rather than a service. See Visa Int’l, 494 F.3d at 807. As 23 a result, the “willfully blind” approach does not apply here either.

24 Louis Vuitton states Defendants’ contentions are at odds with principles of law already 25 articulated in this case by the Court in ruling on their motion for summary judgment. Internet 26 service providers like the Defendants can not remain willfully blind to trademark infringement 27 taking place on their premises. Fonovisa, Inc. v. Cherry Auction, Inc., 76 F.3d 259, 265 (9th Cir.
28 1996); Summary Judgment Ruling 16:20-17:5 (“Defendants physically host websites on their

1 servers and route internet traffic to and from those websites...As with the flea market operators in 2 Fonovisa, Defendants cannot remain “willfully blind” to trademark infringement taking place on 3 their servers.”).

4 9. Whether Louis Vuitton can prove direct infringement by showing violation of 5 one or more of Louis Vuitton’s exclusive rights under the Copyright Act per 17 U.S.C. § 106.

6 Louis Vuitton states this is not a disputed issue of law and that proof of underlying direct 7 infringement is an element of its cause of action for contributory copyright infringement. The offer 8 for sale, display, distribution and sale of product embodying unauthorized (“replica”) copies of 9 Louis Vuitton’s copyrights will be proved.

10 Defendants contend the elements of direct copyright infringement are (1) ownership of the 11 allegedly infringed material and (2) violation of an exclusive right granted to copyright holders 12 under 17 U.S.C. § 106. A&M Records, Inc. v. Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1013 (9th Cir.2001)

13 17 U.S.C. § 106 provides that the owner of a copyright has the exclusive rights to do and to 14 authorize any of the following:

- 15 (1) to reproduce the copyrighted work in copies or phonorecords; 16 (2) to prepare derivative works based upon the copyrighted work; 17 (3) to distribute copies or phonorecords of the copyrighted work to the public by sale or 18 other transfer of ownership, or by rental, lease, or lending; 19 (4) in the case of literary, musical, dramatic, and choreographic works, pantomimes, and 20 motion pictures and other audiovisual works, to perform the copyrighted work publicly; 21 (5) in the case of literary, musical, dramatic, and choreographic works, pantomimes, and 22 pictorial, graphic, or sculptural works, including the individual images of a motion picture or other 23 audiovisual work, to display the copyrighted work publicly; and 24 (6) in the case of sound recordings, to perform the copyrighted work publicly by means of a 25 digital audio transmission.

26 Defendants contend Louis Vuitton cannot claim violation of any exclusive rights under 17 27 U.S.C. § 106 (and satisfy this element of direct infringement) because it cannot identify any 28

1 infringement, any direct infringers or prove that any infringement of copyrights took place at any 2 Website hosted on Defendants' servers.

3 10. Whether Defendants are liable for statutory damages under the Copyright Act 4 and Trademark Act and to what extent.

5 Under the Copyright Act, "Where two or more persons have joined in or contributed to a 6 single infringement of a single copyright, they are all jointly and severally liable, and in such 7 circumstances, in a single infringement action there is but a single set of statutory damages (with 8 one minimum) for which all such persons are liable. Even if the infringement is willful, joint and 9 several liability has still been applied." Nimmer on Copyright §14.04 [E]2. If the defendant's 10 infringement "copies from several different copyrighted works owned by the plaintiff, the 11 applicable minimum damages can be multiplied by the number of such infringed copyrights."
12 Nimmer on Copyright §14.04 E.

13 The Trademark Act allows for the award of statutory damages for use of counterfeit marks 14 per counterfeit mark per type of goods or services sold, offered for sale or distributed as the court 15 considers just. 15 U.S.C. 1117 (c). Thus, Plaintiff contends that each of Plaintiff's trademarks that 16 are adjudged to have been infringed would be entitled to a separate statutory damage award against 17 Defendants should Plaintiff elect to pursue statutory damages in the trademark context.

18 11. Whether MSG's and Akanoc's computer servers are capable of substantial 19 non-infringing uses.

20 Louis Vuitton contends that this is not an issue for decision in this case as Louis Vuitton 21 does not challenge the technology or package of goods and services offered by Defendants but only 22 their failure to take appropriate steps to disable specific acts of infringement as contemplated by 23 applicable standards of contributory liability. Louis Vuitton contends that the Court has already 24 ruled on the application of this doctrine (and against Defendants) on the Motion for Summary 25 Judgment.

26 Defendants contend "Liability for contributory copyright infringement attaches when "one 27 who, with knowledge of the infringing activity, induces, causes or materially contributes to the 28

1 infringing conduct of another.” Perfect 10, Inc. v. Cybernet Ventures, Inc., 213 F.Supp.2d 1146, 2 1169 (C.D.Cal.2002), citing A & M Records, Inc. v. Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1019 (9th
3 Cir.2001) (“Napster II”).

4 Defendants contend because defendants’ computer servers are capable of substantial non-5 infringing uses, they cannot be deemed to have constructive knowledge of infringing activity for 6 purposes of liability for contributory copyright infringement. See A&M Records, Inc. v. Napster, 7 Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1020-1021 (9th Cir. 2001) (“The Sony Court declined to impute the requisite 8 level of knowledge where the defendants made and sold equipment capable of both infringing and 9 “substantial noninfringing uses. . . We are bound to follow Sony, and will not impute the requisite 10 level of knowledge to Napster merely because peer-to-peer file sharing technology may be used to 11 infringe plaintiffs' copyrights.”)

12 See also Perfect 10 v. Google, Inc., 416 F.Supp.2d 828, 853 (C.D.Cal.2006) (“Under Sony, 13 Google cannot be deemed to have constructive knowledge of infringing activity since its search 14 engine clearly is capable of commercially significant noninfringing uses.”)

15 Defendants contend, as a result, to prevail Vuitton must prove each defendant had actual 16 knowledge of direct infringement. See A&M Records, Inc. v. Napster, Inc., 239 F.3d 1004, 1020 17 (9th Cir. 2001) (“[A]ctual, specific knowledge of direct infringement renders Sony's holding of 18 limited assistance to a defendant seeking to avoid contributory liability.”)

19 12.) Whether Defendants are entitled to the protection of the “safe harbor” 20 provisions of the DMCA.

21 Defendants contend: The Defendants are entitled to the benefit of the “safe harbor” 22 provisions of the DMCA, 17 U.S.C. § 512(a), (b), (c) and (d) as to some or all alleged 23 infringements.
24

25 Louis Vuitton contends that the safe harbor provisions of the DMCA have no application to 26 Louis Vuitton’s claim for contributory copyright infringement, that the Defendants will be unable 27 to prove their compliance with the conditions required for safe harbor immunity, and, even if they 28

1 were otherwise eligible, their failure to act expeditiously to remove infringing material deprives 2 them of this defense.

3 13. Whether Akanoc’s and MSG’s Internet hosting services entail the kind of 4 ‘direct control and monitoring’ required to justify an extension of Inwood’s “supplies a 5 product” requirement to the instant action.

6 Louis Vuitton contends the applicable standards are well supported by case law and have 7 been articulated by the Court in ruling on Defendants’ motion for summary judgment.

8 Defendants contend contributory trademark infringement occurs when the defendant either 9 intentionally induces a third party to infringe the plaintiff's mark or supplies a product to a third 10 party with actual or constructive knowledge that the product is being used to infringe the service 11 mark. Inwood Lab., Inc. v. Ives Lab., Inc., 456 U.S. 844, 853-54 (1982)

12 Defendants contend that when measuring and weighing a fact pattern in the contributory 13 infringement context without the convenient “product” mold dealt with in Inwood Lab., “we 14 consider the extent of control exercised by the defendant over the third party's means of 15 infringement.” Hard Rock Café Licensing Corporation v. Concession Services, Inc., 955 F.2d 16 1143, 1148-49 (noting the common-law responsibilities of a landlord regarding illegal activity on a 17 rented premises); see Fonovisa, 76 F.3d at 265 (adopting Hard Rock 's analysis). Direct control and 18 monitoring of the instrumentality used by a third party to infringe the plaintiff's mark permits the 19 expansion of Inwood Lab.'s “supplies a product” requirement for contributory infringement.

20 Defendants contend but the provision of Internet hosting services does not entail the kind of 21 direct control and monitoring required to justify the extension of the “supplies a product” rule to 22 Internet hosting. See Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Network Solutions, Inc., 194 F.3d 980, 985 (“In an 23 attempt to fit under Fonovisa’s umbrella, Lockheed characterizes NSI’s service as a licensing 24 arrangement with alleged third party infringers. Although we accept Lockheed’s argument that 25 NSI licenses its routing service to domain-name registrants, the routing service is just that – a 26 service. In Fonovisa and Hard Rock, by contrast, the defendants licensed real estate with the 27 consequent direct control over the activity that the third party alleged infringers engaged in on the 28 premises.”)
