BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PERTINENT FACTS

I.

This matter involves Commission Junction, Inc.'s request for payment/reimbursement of $565,517.84 from the Defendants based on their improper activity with an eBay, Inc. incentive program administered by Commission Junction, Inc. ("CJI").

Through eBay's website, sellers list items for sale and buyers bid on and purchase items of interest. eBay earns revenue when a seller places an item for sale and when the item is sold. eBay's Affiliate Marketing Program is designed to increase traffic to eBay's website. The persons and entities that advertise on behalf of eBay, whether on their own sites or on sites of other third parties are known as "Affiliates." Affiliates earn commissions payable by eBay under the Affiliate Marketing Program when a series of events occur. Because compensation to the Affiliate is tied to actions by the user, it is essential that eBay be able to determine whether a sale occurred by virtue of the fact that the user was referred to eBay by a particular Affiliate's advertisement.

Accordingly, eBay entered into agreements with Plaintiff CJI to track sales information using information placed in the new user's browser; in essence, CJI administered the Affiliate Marketing Program. The relationship between eBay and CJI was governed by an Advertiser Service Agreement. Under those agreements, CJI was responsible for, among other things, tracking Affiliate traffic, monitoring compliance by Affiliates, preventing and detecting fraudulent activity, and paying Affiliates using funds remitted by eBay. In that regard, CJI has monitored thousands of Affiliates, buyers, and sellers.

As part of the services it renders with respect to eBay's Affiliate Marketing Program, CJI pays eBay Affiliates on a periodic basis (usually monthly), with funds remitted by eBay, based on the number of sales/purchases by users referred by those Affiliates.

///

In addition to CJI's monitoring of the eBay program, in April of 2005, CJI and the Defendants entered into a written Publisher Service Agreement ("Agreement") whereby CJI agreed to further track commission payments legally and properly earned by Kessler's Flying Circus through its Internet programs. The Agreement includes the following provisions:

[KESSLER] "may not place Links to an Advertiser's Web Site or Web Site content in third party newsgroups, message boards, blogs, unsolicited email and other types of spam, link farms, counters, chatrooms, or guestbooks."

Agreement at Section 1(d)(i);

The Publisher Service Agreement is not signed since the Defendants entered into the Agreement through the Internet and an "electronic signature". In this litigation, the Defendants have admitted to entering into the attached Agreement.

Beginning in April of 2007, the Defendants breached the Agreement by, inter alia, providing third parties with the ability to place widgets on websites that the Defendants did not own/operate without permission from the website owners to do so, including their "MySpaceMaps" which provided widgets users placed on social networking profiles, including MySpace.

Myspace.com is a social networking website that has strict user compliance rules posted on its site. In addition to the above, the Defendants violated MySpace terms, which prohibit commercial activity without consent.

Importantly, the Defendants were able to force a "cookie" to implant on a user's computer without the user knowing that he or she visited the website that placed the cookie. Once the forced cookie was implanted, anytime that computer user (or those who had visited that user's web page) purchased or sold anything on eBay, the Defendants were improperly credited with a sale through the eBay Affiliate program, even those users who had never visited the Defendants' websites. That manipulation resulted in millions of dollars being paid by CJI to the Defendants subject to reimbursement by eBay.

The last payment made by CJI to the Defendants was a wire transfer for $565,517.84 sent in June of 2007 for, although not known at the time, improper "sales" tracked to the Defendants. Within days of sending the funds to the Defendants, eBay contacted CJI and informed CJI of the Defendants' wrongful actions and refused to reimburse CJI for the $565,517.84 payment sent to the Defendants. Despite repeated requests by CJI to the Defendants that the funds be returned to CJI, the Defendants have refused and this lawsuit followed.

Also, following the CJI June 2007 payment to the Defendants, CJI received a U.S. Attorney Subpoena and a Federal Grand Jury Subpoena seeking documents regarding the Defendants and their transactions. Several months ago, eBay filed a lawsuit in the United States District Court, Northern District of California, against the Defendants alleging statutory violations of illegally accessing and violating computer networks and racketeering, as well as fraud. It appears that eBay is seeking restitution for other money it paid to the Defendants through CJI or otherwise. In summary, the Defendants wrongfully obtained the $565,517.84 payment from CJI and eBay refuses to reimburse CJI for the subject payment. Accordingly, CJI is seeking $565,517.84, plus interest, costs, and attorneys' fees.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On May 16, 2008, Plaintiff CJI filed its Second Amended Complaint (the operative complaint) which alleges the following causes of action: (1) Breach of Contract; (2) Open Book Account; (3) Account Stated; (4) Reasonable Value; (5) Conversion; (6) Unfair Competition; and (7) Declaratory Relief. The Defendants have served general denial Answers to the Second Amended Complaint.

On July 25, 2008, Defendant Kessler's Flying Circus served its Cross-Complaint against CJI which alleges the following causes of action: (1) Breach of Contract; (2) Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing; and (3) Accounting.

1	CJI has served a general denial Answer to the Cross-Complaint. The Court has scheduled	a
2	jury trial to take place on March 9, 2008. CJI has posted jury fees.
