

EXHIBIT 9

1 Seyamack Kouretchian (State Bar No. 171741)
2 Seyamack@CoastLawGroup.com
3 Ross M. Campbell (State Bar No. 234827)
4 Rcampbell@CoastLawGroup.com
5 COAST LAW GROUP, LLP
6 169 Saxony Road, Suite 204
7 Encinitas, California 92024
8 Tel: (760) 942-8505
9 Fax: (760) 942-8515

7 Attorneys for Defendants, SHAWN HOGAN
8 and DIGITAL POINT SOLUTIONS, INC.

9 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
10 FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
11 SAN JOSE DIVISION

12 EBAY, INC.,)
13 Plaintiff,)
14 v.)
15 DIGITAL POINT SOLUTIONS, INC., SHAWN)
16 HOGAN, KESSLER'S FLYING CIRCUS,)
17 THUNDERWOOD HOLDINGS, INC., TODD)
18 DUNNING, DUNNING ENTERPRISE, INC.,)
19 BRIAN DUNNING, BRIANDUNNING.COM,)
20 and Does 1-20,) 21 Defendants.)

Case No. CV 08-04052 JF PVT
DEFENDANTS DIGITAL POINT SOLUTIONS, INC. AND SHAWN HOGAN'S NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION TO DISMISS PLAINTIFF'S SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT FOR FAILURE TO STATE A CLAIM; MEMORANDUM OF POINTS & AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT THEREOF [FRCP RULE 12(b)(6)]
Date: June 26, 2009
Time: 9:00 a.m.
Dept.: Courtroom 3

NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION

TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR RESPECTIVE COUNSEL OF RECORD:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 26, 2009 at 9:00 AM, or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard in Courtroom 3 of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California, located at 280 South 1st Street, San Jose, California 95113, defendants DIGITAL POINT SOLUTIONS, INC. and SHAWN HOGAN will move this Court for an order dismissing plaintiff EBAY, INC.'s Second Amended Complaint in its entirety pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).

Defendants seek the following specific relief:

Dismissal of each cause of action as to defendants DIGITAL POINT SOLUTIONS, INC. and SHAWN HOGAN on the grounds that the Second Amended Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), as each cause of action set forth therein is barred by the one-year limitation of actions period set forth in the Commission Junction Publisher Service Agreement.

Defendants hereby request that the Court take judicial notice of its entire case file in this matter, including Plaintiff's initial pleadings, the briefing of the parties on the defendants' initial motions to dismiss, and the Court's February 24, 2009 order thereon.

Defendants' motion will be based on this Notice of Motion and Motion, the Memorandum of Points and Authorities set forth below, the accompanying Declaration of Ross M. Campbell and exhibits thereto, the foregoing request for judicial notice, the records and file herein, and upon such other oral and documentary evidence as may be presented at the hearing on this motion.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1

2 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS & AUTHORITIES 3

3

4 I. SUMMARY OF MOTION 3

5

6 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS 5

7

8 III. LEGAL STANDARD AND SCOPE OF REVIEW 7

9

10 IV. ARGUMENT 8

11

12 A. Because the PSA and T&C Supplement Expressly Set Forth the Terms under

13 which the Affiliate Program will be Administered, the User Agreement is Irrelevant ... 8

14

15 B. The SAC Must be Dismissed in its Entirety, as Plaintiff’s Claims are Barred by the

16 One-Year Limitations Period Set Forth in the PSA 10

17

18 1. The T&C Supplement Expressly Incorporates the Terms of the PSA to the

19 Extent the Documents do Not Conflict 11

20

21 2. Because the T&C Supplement Does not Prescribe a Differing Limitations

22 Period, Plaintiff is Bound by the One-Year Provision in the PSA 14

23

24 a. The PSA and T&C Supplement Must be Construed Together, as Plaintiff

25 Necessarily Contracted with Reference to the Terms of the PSA 17

26

27 b. Because CJ Acted as Plaintiff’s Direct Agent, the Close Interrelationship

28 Between the Parties is Sufficient to Bind Plaintiff under the PSA 18

29

30 c. The T&C Supplement’s Incorporating Language Indicates that the

31 One-Year Limitations Period was Intended to Apply 19

32

33 d. The Language of the One-Year Limitations Period is Directly

34 Comparable to the Provisions at Issue in the Relevant Case Law 20

35

36 e. To the Extent the Contractual Language is Ambiguous, it Must

37 be Construed against Plaintiff as the Drafter 20

38

39 3. The One-Year Limitations Period is Valid and Enforceable, as Contracting

40 Parties May Specify Their Own Statutes of Limitation 21

41

42 4. The SAC is Barred in its Entirety, as the Limitations Provision Applies to

43 Any Disputes Relating to the Affiliate Marketing Program 22

44

45 V. CONCLUSION. 22

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

U.S. Supreme Court Cases

Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly (2007)
127 S. Ct.1955 8

Federal Cases

Branch v Tunnell (9th Cir. 1994)
14 F.3d 449 8

Cortec Industries, Inc v Sum Holding L.P. (2nd Cir. 1991)
949 F.2d 42 8

Galbraith v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 2002)
307 F.3d 1119 8

Romani v. Shearson Lehman Hutton (1st Cir. 1991)
929 F.2d 875 8

Seagate Tech. LLC v. Dalian China Express Int’l Corp (N.D. Cal. 2001)
169 F.2d 1146 21

Soltani v. W. & S. Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 2001)
258 F.3d 1038 21

Sprewell v. Golden State Warriors (9th Cir. 2001)
266 F.3d 979 8

State Cases

Amtower v. Photo Dynamics, Inc. (2008)
158 Cal. App. 4th 1582, 1608 - 1610 12, 13, 14, 15

Beedy v. San Mateo Hotel Company (1912)
27 Cal. App. 653, 661-662 17

Beeson v. Schloss (1920)
183 Cal. 618, 622 21

Bell v Rio Grande Oil Co. (1937)
23 Cal. App. 2d 436, 440 13

Boys Club of San Fernando Valley v Fid. & Deposit Co. (1992)
6 Cal. App. 4th 1266, 1270, 1271 16, 17, 18, 20

1 Chan v Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. (1986)
 2 178 Cal. App. 3d 632 13, 14

3 Coutin v. Nessianbaum (1971)
 4 17 Cal. App. 3d 156, 162 20

5 Crane Co. v. Borwick Trenching Corp., Ltd (1934)
 6 138 Cal. App. 319 15

7 Enochs v. Christie (1955)
 8 137 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 887, 889 18

9 Fogel v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2008)
 10 160 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1420 13

11 Hambrecht & Quist Venture Partners v. American Medical Internat., Inc. (1995)
 12 38 Cal. App. 4th 1532, 1548 21

13 King v Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981)
 14 121 Cal. App. 3d 349 12

15 Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Continental Ins. Co. (2005)
 16 134 Cal. App. 4th 187 21

17 Neal v. State Farm Ins. Cos. (1961)
 18 188 Cal. App. 2d 690, 695 20

19 Peter Kiewit Sons’ Co. v. Pasadena City Junior College Dist (1963)
 20 59 Cal. 2d 241, 245 16

21 Pacific Employers Ins. Co. v. City of Berkeley (1984)
 22 158 Cal. App. 3d 145, 149 - 152 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20

23 Republic Bank v. Marine Nat. Bank (1996)
 24 45 Cal. App. 4th 919, 921, 924 16, 19, 20

25 Roberts v. Security T. & S. Bank (1925)
 26 196 Cal. 557, 575 16

27 Shaw v. Regents of University of California (1997)
 28 54, 58 Cal. App. 4th 44, 54 11, 12, 13, 17, 19

State of California v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2009)
 45 Cal.4th 1008, 1036 22

1 Versacci v. Superior Court (2005)
 2 127 Cal. App. 4th 805, 811 13

3 Williams Constr. Co. v. Standard-Pacific Corp. (1967)
 4 254 Cal. App. 2d 442 11

5 Wolschlager v. Fidelity National Title Ins. Co. (2003)
 6 111 Cal. App. 4th 784 12

7 Federal Statutes and Regulations

8 Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, 18 U.S.C. §1030 7

9 Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, 18 U.S.C. §§1962(c) 7

10 State Statutes and Regulations

11 California Business & Professions Code

12 §17200 7

13 California Civil Code

14 §1642 15

15 §1644 22

16 California Code Civil Procedures

17 §1859 10

18 California Penal Code

19 §502 7

20 Treatises & Other Authorities

21 Black’s Law Dictionary 1452 (7th ed. 1999) 17

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS & AUTHORITIES

2 Defendants Digital Point Solutions, Inc. and Shawn Hogan (collectively, the DPS Defendants)¹
3 respectfully submit the following Memorandum of Points & Authorities in support of their Motion to 4 Dismiss plaintiff EBAY, INC.'s (Plaintiff's) Second Amended Complaint (SAC):

5 I. SUMMARY OF MOTION

6 The SAC must be dismissed in its entirety because each cause of action set forth therein is barred
7 by the one-year limitation of actions period set forth in the Commission Junction Publisher Service
8 Agreement (PSA).² In that regard, the "eBay Affiliate Program - Supplemental Terms and Conditions"
9 (T&C Supplement) expressly incorporates the provisions of the PSA to the extent the two documents do
10 not conflict. Indeed, in ruling on Defendants' initial motions to dismiss, the Court already concluded
11 that Plaintiff is bound by the forum selection clause set forth in the PSA.³ And as explained below the 12 SAC's references to the User Agreement are entirely insufficient to change that determination. As such,
13 the only remaining question is whether some basis exists to conclude that the PSA's one-year limitations
14 period does not also apply. As detailed in the following sections, no such basis exists, and because 15 Plaintiff did not file suit within the one-year limitations period, the SAC must be dismissed without 16 leave to amend. The motion should be granted for the following reasons:

17 One. Plaintiff's generic User Agreement simply does not apply to the present dispute and the 18 SAC's allegations to the contrary should be disregarded. In an attempt to plead around the express terms
19 of the PSA and T&C Supplement, the SAC repeatedly alleges that the User Agreement is the controlling 20 document in this case. In doing so, Plaintiff alleges that the "only authorization given to the Defendants
21

22 ¹ The remaining defendants are collectively referred to herein as the "Non-DPS Defendants," and
23 where applicable, all defendants in this action are collectively referred to as "Defendants."

24 ² The DPS Defendants will move, in the alternative, to transfer this action to the United States
25 District Court for the Central District of California pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1404(a) (via separately filed 26 motion to be heard jointly herewith on the above-referenced date).

27 ³ Pursuant to the Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 201, the DPS-Defendants request that the 28 Court take judicial notice of its entire case file in this matter, including Plaintiff's initial pleadings, the briefing of all parties on the Defendants' initial motions to dismiss, and the Court's order thereon, dated February 24, 2009 (hereinafter, the "Order on Motions to Dismiss").

1 to access eBay's site in any manner was by way of eBay's User Agreement." Yet the PSA expressly
2 states that the "Advertiser is granting to You the right to display and Link to the Advertiser's Web site .
3 . ." Moreover, there is no question that the direct purpose of the PSA, in conjunction with the T&C
4 Supplement, is to set forth the terms under which Plaintiff's affiliate marketing program will be
5 administered. As such, there is no basis to conclude that the generic User Agreement, which applies to 6 any person visiting eBay's website, should somehow control over those direct provisions.

7 Two. In previously reviewing the operative language of the T&C Supplement, the Court
8 concluded that "[i]ndeed, the T&C Agreement appears expressly to incorporate the terms of the PSA."
9 As detailed below, the T&C Supplement does in fact incorporate the terms of the PSA under California
10 law, as the relevant language expressly refers to the PSA by title and provides that the terms of the PSA
11 shall control to the extent the two documents do not conflict. And although Plaintiff could have 12 specified a differing limitations period in the T&C Supplement, it chose not to do so. As such, Plaintiff 13 is bound by the one-year limitations period under the contract's plain language.

14 Three. Plaintiff is further bound under the PSA because the relevant documents must be taken 15 and construed together. In that regard, Plaintiff necessarily contracted with reference to the underlying 16 terms of the PSA and, by definition, the rights and obligations of the parties to a "supplemental"
17 agreement cannot be fully understood without consideration of the primary writing to which it attaches.
18 Further, Commission Junction administered the affiliate program on Plaintiff's direct behalf and the 19 resulting interrelationship between the parties is sufficient to bind Plaintiff under California law.

20 Four. California courts have repeatedly held that non-signatories to an underlying contract will 21 nonetheless be bound thereby if its terms are properly incorporated by reference. Here, the PSA's one-22 year limitations provision is directly comparable to contract language held to be binding on non-23 signatories in similar circumstances. And to the extent the relevant documents are ambiguous, any such 24 ambiguities must be construed against Plaintiff as the drafter.

25 Five. The PSA's one-year limitations period is valid and enforceable, as contracting parties may 26 specify their own statutes of limitation and there is no basis to conclude that the provision is 27 unconscionable; and 28

1 Six. The SAC must be dismissed in its entirety, as the PSA prohibits the filing of any lawsuit
2 related to the affiliate marketing program and is not limited to particular claims or causes of action.

3 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

4 As the Court is now aware, Plaintiff operates an affiliate marketing program to increase traffic to 5 its on-line trading forum. (SAC ¶¶18, 19). Affiliates receive commissions for directing business to 6 Plaintiff's website. (SAC ¶19). Plaintiff, and/or its agent, Commission Junction, tracks which affiliates
7 are entitled to commissions through the use of "cookies" - digital tags that store information in the user's
8 browser. (SAC ¶¶19, 21). At all relevant times, Plaintiff used the services of Commission Junction in 9 administering the affiliate program. Pursuant to contracts with Plaintiff, Commission Junction was 10 responsible for, among other things, tracking affiliate traffic, monitoring affiliate compliance, preventing 11 fraudulent activity, and paying affiliates using funds remitted by Plaintiff. (SAC ¶20).

12 In administering the affiliate program, Commission Junction contracts directly with each affiliate 13 via its "Commission Junction Publisher Service Agreement" (the "PSA") (See Decl. of Ross M.
14 Campbell, Ex. 1).⁴ The PSA is a form contract applicable to all affiliate programs administered by 15 Commission Junction; it refers to the entities that operate such programs as "Advertisers" and to the 16 respective affiliates as "Publishers." (PSA, intro., p. 1). To participate in Plaintiff's affiliate program,
17 potential affiliates must enter into the PSA as well as Plaintiff's form contract, the "eBay Affiliate 18 Program - Supplemental Terms and Conditions" (the "T&C Supplement"), which sets forth additional 19 terms applicable to Plaintiff's particular program. (See Decl. of Ross M. Campbell, Ex. 2). The opening 20 paragraph of the T&C Supplement provides:

21 In consideration of Your participation in the Affiliate Program (the "Program")
22 maintained by eBay Inc. ("eBay") through Commission Junction, Inc. ("CJ"), You agree
23 to comply with these Supplemental Terms and Conditions ("Terms and Conditions") in
24 addition to the terms of the Commission Junction Publisher Service Agreement ("PSA").
25 If any of these Terms and Conditions conflict with those of the PSA, then these Terms
26 and Conditions will control. Capitalized terms not defined herein have the meanings set
27 forth in the PSA. (Id., Supp. Terms & Conditions, p. 1).

28 /././

⁴ As detailed in Section III, below, the Court may consider the PSA and T&C Supplement in adjudicating this motion without converting the same into a motion for summary judgment.

1 Thus, together, the PSA and T&C Supplement set forth the contractual relationship between
 2 Plaintiff and its affiliates, and to the extent the documents do not conflict, the terms of the PSA
 3 expressly control. In that regard, the T&C Supplement defers significantly to the PSA with respect to,
 4 inter alia, the definition of the affiliate program and the relationship between the parties thereunder, the 5 terms and circumstances under which Plaintiff is obligated to compensate affiliates, the definition of 6 “non-bona fide transactions” for which no compensation is due, and the procedural and other
 7 miscellaneous provisions typically included in commercial contracts - such as notice, force majeure,
 8 choice of law, forum selection, and similar clauses. (See PSA intro.; §1(d)(ii); §3; §9). In addition, the 9 PSA sets forth a one-year limitation of actions provision, as follows:

10 NO ACTION, SUIT OR PROCEEDING SHALL BE BROUGHT AGAINST THE
 11 OTHER PARTY TO THIS AGREEMENT MORE THAN ONE YEAR AFTER THE 12 TERMINATION OF THIS AGREEMENT. (Id. §7(3); capitals in original).

13 Regarding the present dispute, the SAC alleges that as members of Plaintiff’s affiliate program,
 14 Defendants engaged in a fraudulent “cookie stuffing” scheme through which Defendants received
 15 commissions to which they were not entitled. Specifically, the SAC alleges: (i) Defendants used
 16 software programs or code that redirected users to Plaintiff’s website without the users realizing it or 17 affirmatively clicking on any referring link, (ii) Plaintiff’s website then placed a cookie on the browser 18 of each such user, (iii) any subsequent revenue generating actions were improperly credited to 19 Defendants, and (iv) as a result, Defendants received commissions based on users who had not been 20 referred by Defendants. (SAC ¶¶24-27).

21 The SAC further alleges the following: Defendants engaged in such conduct until June of 2007
 22 (SAC ¶48), at which time Plaintiff conducted an investigation of defendants’ activities, retained a third
 23 party firm to assist with the same, verified the details of the purported scheme, and, based thereon,
 24 refused to issue payments for the preceding month’s traffic. (SAC ¶¶34, 52-56). Also in June of 2007,
 25 the Federal Bureau of Investigation conducted a raid and seized Defendants’ computers.⁵

26 //.

27
 28 ⁵ See Plaintiff’s Opposition to DPS Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff’s First Amended Complaint, p. 1:6-8.

1 Regarding the relevant procedural history, Plaintiff initially filed suit on August 25, 2008, and 2 filed a First Amended Complaint (FAC) on October 7, 2008. In response, all Defendants moved to
 3 dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6) and, based on the forum selection clause set forth in the PSA, the Non-DPS
 4 Defendants further moved to dismiss for improper venue under Rule 12(b)(3).⁶ In ruling on the venue
 5 issue, the Court reviewed the opening paragraph of the T&C Supplement and concluded as follows:

6 This language in the T&C Agreement, when read together with eBay's own allegations in 7 the FAC with respect to the role of the PSA, indicates that eBay is a third-party
 8 beneficiary of the PSA. Pursuant to the PSA, advertising affiliates earn revenue by 9 "promoting Advertisers," including eBay. See PSA at 1. Indeed, the T&C Agreement appears expressly to incorporate the terms of the PSA. [citation]. (Order on Motions to Dismiss, p. 7:6-13; emphasis added).

10 The Court afforded Plaintiff the opportunity to amend, however, because Plaintiff contended at 11 oral argument that a separate User Agreement supersedes the terms of the PSA. (Id., p. 7:14-15).
 12 Although a copy of the User Agreement is not attached to the SAC, Plaintiff continues to assert this 13 position in its amended allegations. In that regard, Plaintiff now alleges that each cause of action set
 14 forth in the SAC arises out of violations of the User Agreement, and further contends that the PSA and 15 T&C Supplement do not apply because they did not authorize access to Plaintiff's website in any 16 manner. (SAC ¶¶26, 38).

17 As was the case with Plaintiff's initial pleadings, the SAC alleges six causes of action as follows:
 18 (i) violations of the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, 18 U.S.C. §1030; (ii) violations of the Racketeer
 19 Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, 18 U.S.C. §1962(c); (iii) common law fraud; (iv) violations
 20 of California Penal Code §502; (v) unjust enrichment; and (iv) unfair business practices under California
 21 Business & Professions Code §17200. Each such claim is based on the alleged "cookie stuffing" scheme
 22 referenced above.

23 III. LEGAL STANDARD AND SCOPE OF REVIEW

24 To survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6), the plaintiff must 25 allege "enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly
 26

27 ⁶ That clause provides, "The exclusive forum for any actions related to this Agreement shall be in 28 the state courts, and, to the extent that federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction, in Los Angeles, California." (PSA, 9(d)).

1 (2007) 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1974. In general, the inquiry is limited to the allegations in the complaint, which
2 are accepted as true and construed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Sprewell v. Golden State
3 Warriors (9th Cir. 2001) 266 F.3d 979, 988. However, these principles do not apply to allegations that
4 contradict matters properly subject to judicial notice. Id. “Nor is the court required to accept as true
5 allegations that are merely conclusory, unwarranted deductions of fact, or unreasonable inferences.” Id.

6 Likewise, “when [the] plaintiff fails to introduce a pertinent document as part of his pleading,
7 [the] defendant may introduce the exhibit as part of his motion attacking the pleading.” Romani v.
8 Shearson Lehman Hutton (1st Cir. 1991) 929 F.2d 875, 879, fn. 3. In that regard, “a document is not
9 ‘outside’ the complaint if the complaint specifically refers to the document and if its authenticity is not 10 questioned.” Branch v. Tunnell (9th Cir. 1994) 14 F.3d 449, 453 (overruled on other grounds in 11 Galbraith v. County of Santa Clara (9th Cir. 2002) 307 F.3d 1119, 1127). The consideration of such 12 documents does not convert the motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment. Id. at 449; see 13 also Cortec Industries, Inc. v. Sum Holding L.P. (2nd Cir. 1991) 949 F.2d 42, 48 (“Where plaintiff has 14 actual notice of all the information in the movant's papers and has relied upon these documents in 15 framing the complaint the necessity of translating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion into one under Rule 56 is 16 largely dissipated.”).

17 Here, the SAC expressly refers to both the PSA and T&C Supplement and contends they do not 18 apply because the parties’ rights are instead governed by certain User Agreements. (SAC ¶38). Further,
19 both the PSA and T&C Supplement were at issue with respect to the Non-DPS Defendants’ prior motion
20 to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(3), and Plaintiff did not present any evidence challenging their validity.
21 (See Order on Motions to Dismiss, p. 6:16-17). Accordingly, the Court may consider both documents in 22 adjudicating the parties’ rights and such consideration will not convert the present motion into a motion
23 for summary judgment.

24 IV. ARGUMENT

25 A. Because the PSA and T&C Supplement Expressly Set Forth the Terms under 26 which the Affiliate Program will be Administered, the User Agreement is Irrelevant.

27 Throughout the SAC, Plaintiff attempts to allege the applicability of Plaintiff’s general “User
28 Agreement” over the more specific terms of the PSA and T&C Supplement. (See e.g., SAC ¶¶26, 33,

1 38). For instance, the SAC alleges, “Each of the causes of action set forth herein arises out of
 2 [Defendants’] violations of the User Agreement.” (SAC ¶26). However, Plaintiff has not attached a
 3 copy of the User Agreement to the SAC or otherwise set forth the particular terms that are alleged to 4 apply. As such, the Court need not accept the allegation as true and should disregard it as conclusory.
 5 Further, there is no question that the direct purpose of the PSA, in conjunction with the T&C
 6 Supplement, is to set forth the terms under which Plaintiff’s affiliate marketing program will be
 7 administered. Indeed, both documents contain express provisions addressing the types of harms alleged 8 in the SAC. For instance, the T&C Supplement provides:

9 You will not deliver any eBay-related cookies or other tracking tags to the computers of 10 users that are merely viewing Your advertisements or while Your applications are merely 11 active or open. [¶] . . . To qualify as a payable transaction, a user must take an affirmative
 12 action, clicking on your properly-coded link in a browser or browser environment. (T&C 13 Supp., ¶¶3,4; emphasis added).

14 Similarly, the PSA states:

15 You must promote Advertisers such that You do not mislead the Visitor, and such that 16 the Links deliver bona fide Transactions by the Visitor to Advertiser from the Link. You
 17 shall not cause any Transactions to be made that are not in good faith, including, but not 18 limited to, using any device, program, robot, Iframes, or hidden frames. (PSA, §1(d)(ii);
 19 emphasis added).⁷

20 Given the above, Plaintiff’s claims that the User Agreement supersedes the terms of the PSA
 21 and T&C Supplement are entirely unfounded. Notably, in ruling on Defendants’ initial motions to 22 dismiss, the Court expressly pointed out that “the FAC does not explain how violation of the user
 23 agreement is unrelated to the alleged breach of the PSA of why the PSA should not be considered the 24 primary and controlling agreement for all claims related to the PSA.” (Order on Motions to Dismiss, p.
 25 7:15-18; emphasis added). In an apparent attempt to cure this deficiency, Plaintiff contends as follows:

26 The User Agreements were the only basis on which any Defendant had authorization to 27 access eBay’s site. No agreement entered into by any Defendant in connection with 28 eBay’s Affiliate Marketing Program, including but not limited to any Publisher Service Agreement that may have been entered into between CJ and one or more of Defendants and/or any Terms and Conditions of the Affiliate Marketing Program agreed to by one or ⁷ The fact that the alleged wrongs fit squarely within these contractual provisions reflects the extent to which the federal criminal statutes alleged in the SAC do not apply.

1 more of Defendants, provides for or in any way contemplates such access. (SAC ¶38;
2 emphasis added).

3 The SAC further alleges, “The only authorization given to the Defendants to access eBay’s site in 4 any manner was by way of eBay’s User Agreement.” (SAC ¶26). These contentions are disingenuous at 5 best and should not be well taken, as the PSA expressly states:

6 [T]he Advertiser is granting to You the right to display and Link to the Advertiser's Web
7 site or Web site content in accordance with the Advertiser's Program Terms for the 8 limited purposes of Promoting the Advertiser's Program, subject to the terms and 9 conditions of this Agreement." (PSA, §4(a); emphasis added).⁸

10 As noted above, the PSA and T&C Supplement are in fact directly applicable, and Plaintiff’s
11 attempt to avoid the legal consequences of its own form contract should be rejected. Per the SAC, any 12 person that visits the eBay website automatically becomes a party to the User Agreement as a 13 consequence thereof. (SAC §26). Given this incredibly generic application, there is no basis to 14 conclude that the User Agreement should control the discrete “cookie stuffing” allegations set forth in 15 the SAC. See Cal. Code Civ. Proc. §1859 (reciting basic interpretational tenet that “a particular intent
16 will control a general one that is inconsistent with it.”)⁹ Indeed, if Plaintiff’s contentions were accepted,
17 the PSA and T&C Supplement would never apply.

18 Based on the foregoing, there can be no question that the User Agreement is inapplicable to this 19 dispute, and the PSA and T&C Supplement expressly control.

20 B. The SAC Must be Dismissed in its Entirety, as Plaintiff’s Claims are Barred by the
21 One-Year Limitations Period Set Forth in the PSA.

22 As noted above, the PSA contains a one-year limitations period, which provides as follows:

23 NO ACTION, SUIT OR PROCEEDING SHALL BE BROUGHT AGAINST THE
24 OTHER PARTY TO THIS AGREEMENT MORE THAN ONE YEAR AFTER THE
25 TERMINATION OF THIS AGREEMENT. (PSA, p. 4; capitals in original).

26 ⁸ Here, the PSA clearly defines “Program” as the affiliate marketing program, and the phrase
27 “Program Terms” refers to the particular Advertiser’s affiliate program terms - in this case, the T&C
28 Supplement. (PSA, intro., §1(b)).

⁹ Also of note, the PSA contains an integration clause which has also been incorporated into the T&C Supplement by reference. (PSA, §9(i)). Accordingly, any contrary terms in the User Agreement cannot be considered.

1
2 Further, the T&C Supplement expressly refers to and incorporates the PSA, including the 3 foregoing provision. It states:

4 In consideration of Your participation in the Affiliate Program (the “Program”)
5 maintained by eBay Inc. (“eBay”) through Commission Junction, Inc. (“CJ”), You agree
6 to comply with these Supplemental Terms and Conditions (“Terms and Conditions”) in
7 addition to the terms of the Commission Junction Publisher Service Agreement (“PSA”).
8 If any of these Terms and Conditions conflict with those of the PSA, then these Terms
9 and Conditions will control. Capitalized terms not defined herein have the meanings set
10 forth in the PSA. (T&C Supp., p. 1; emphasis added).

11 In reviewing this language with respect to Defendants’ initial motions to dismiss, the Court
12 accurately concluded that “[i]ndeed, the T&C Agreement appears to expressly incorporate the terms of 13 the PSA.” (Order on Motion to Dismiss, p. 7:9-10). As detailed below, the T&C Supplement does in 14 fact incorporate the terms of the PSA, including the one-year limitations period set forth above.
15 Moreover, Defendants’ membership in the affiliate program terminated in June of 2007, when Plaintiff
16 “verif[ied]” the existence of the purported scheme, ceased authorizing payouts for the alleged unearned
17 commissions (SAC ¶¶34, 52-56), and the FBI seized Defendants’ computers. Because Plaintiff did not 18 commence this action until August 25, 2008, Plaintiff did not file suit within the one-year period and the 19 SAC must therefore be dismissed without leave to amend.

20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1. The T&C Supplement Expressly Incorporates the Terms of the PSA to the Extent the Documents do Not Conflict.

Under California law, the requirements for incorporation by reference are now well-settled:¹⁰

A contract may validly include the provisions of a document not physically a part of the basic contract. . . . “It is, of course, the law that the parties may incorporate by reference into their contract the terms of some other document. [Citations.] But each case must turn on its facts. [Citation.] For the terms of another document to be incorporated into the document executed by the parties the reference must be clear and unequivocal, the reference must be called to the attention of the other party and he must consent thereto, and the terms of the incorporated document must be known or easily available to the contracting parties. [citations]. Shaw v. Regents of University of California. (1997), 58 Cal. App. 4th 44, 54 (emphasis added); see also Williams Constr. Co. v. Standard-Pacific Corp. (1967) 254 Cal. App. 2d 442, 454.

¹⁰ The PSA’s choice of law provision states that California law applies. (PSA, §9(d)).

1 The contract need not recite that it “incorporates” another document, so long as it “guide[s] the
2 reader to the incorporated document. [citations].” Shaw, supra, 54 Cal.App. 4th at p. 54 (emphasis
3 added). By the same token, it is not enough to simply “mention” the external document; there must be
4 specific language “eliciting the parties’ consent to its separate terms.” Amtower v. Photo Dynamics, Inc.
5 (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1582, 1609.

6 The foregoing principles were at issue in Wolschlager v. Fidelity National Title Ins. Co. (2003)
7 111 Cal. App. 4th 784, 790. There, in an effort to obtain title insurance, the plaintiff obtained, read and
8 approved a preliminary report issued by the defendant title company. Id. at 787. An exhibit thereto
9 contained selected portions of the policy to be issued, but the policy itself was not attached. The exhibit
10 did not reference arbitration and there were no such provisions in the report itself. Id. Rather, the report
11 identified the form of title insurance as “C.T.L.A. Coverage Policy 1990,” and stated as follows:

12 The printed Exceptions and Exclusions from coverage of said Policy or Policies are set 13 forth in Exhibit A attached. Copies of the policy forms should be read. They are 14 available from the office which issued this Report. Id. at 791.

15 The plaintiff subsequently received the full policy, which contained an arbitration provision.
16 When he later filed suit over an undisclosed lien, the title company moved to submit the dispute to 17 arbitration under the policy. Id. at 788. On appeal, the court found that the arbitration clause was 18 sufficiently incorporated by reference to bind the plaintiff contractually, as “the Preliminary Report
19 specifically identifies the document incorporated as the Policy, lists the form which is contemplated and 20 tells the recipient where they can find the Policy.” Id. at 790-791. Because the incorporation was thus 21 clear and unequivocal and the policy was easily available, “[n]othing further was needed to bind the 22 plaintiff.” Id.

23 Similarly, in King v. Larsen Realty, Inc. (1981) 121 Cal. App. 3d 349, the defendants argued they 24 were not required to arbitrate a dispute over a real estate commission on the ground that they never 25 signed an arbitration agreement. Id. at 352. When the defendants initially applied for membership in the 26 local board of realtors, however, they agreed “to abide by the . . . Bylaws and Rules and Regulations of 27 the Paso Robles Board of Realtors [and other organizations.]” Id. at 353. The applicable bylaws, in 28 turn, required applicants to arbitrate as set forth in a particular arbitration manual. Id. Based on the

1 foregoing language, the court found that the defendants' agreement incorporated the arbitration clause by
 2 reference and rejected their position accordingly. Id. at 357.¹¹

3 By contrast, in Chan v. Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. (1986) 178 Cal. App. 3d 632, the court
 4 held that an arbitration provision was not incorporated by reference where the contract did not clearly
 5 refer to and identify the incorporated document in which the arbitration clause appeared. Id. at 642. The 6 contract stated that the signatory would "abide by the Statute(s), Constitution(s), Rules(s) and By-Laws
 7 as any of the foregoing are amended from time to time of the agency jurisdiction or organization with or 8 to which I am filing or submitting this application." Id. at 636. The court found that unlike the clear
 9 reference in King to "the bylaws of the Paso Robles Board of Realtors," this language "did not identify 10 any document or source by title." Id. at 642-643. Rather, "[t]he reference was amorphous, and did not 11 guide the reader to the incorporated document." Id. at 643. Moreover, the court suggested, without so 12 holding, that the plaintiff lacked actual knowledge of the provision allegedly incorporated into the 13 agreement, and left open the question whether the document was "readily available" to the plaintiff. Id.
 14 at 644, n.5.¹²

15 Finally, in Amtower v. Photo Dynamics, Inc. (2008) 158 Cal. App. 4th 1582, 1608-1609, the 16 court clarified that the mere identification of an external document by name or title, without more, is 17 insufficient to incorporate its terms. Rather, the contract must clearly indicate that terms of the external
 18 document will apply. Thus, in that case, a corporate executive was not bound by an attorneys' fees
 19 provision set forth in a separate merger agreement because the contract between the parties was complete

21 ¹¹ The foregoing principles are now well-established and have been applied in a variety of factual
 22 contexts. See e.g. Shaw, supra, 58 Cal.App. 4th at p. 54 (university bound by 50% royalty provision set 23 forth in patent policy that was clearly referenced in invention assignment agreement with professor); Bell 24 v. Rio Grande Oil Co. (1937) 23 Cal.App. 2d 436, 440 (defendant lessee not liable for abandoning oil production efforts because standard lease form, which contained valid surrender clause, was expressly referenced in subject agreement).

25 ¹² Similar outcomes have been reached in other recent cases where the reference to the external
 26 document was not clear and unequivocal. See e.g. Versacci v. Superior Court (2005) 127 Cal.App. 4th 27 805, 811, 817 (reference in employment contract to setting future "goals and objectives" in conjunction 28 with employee evaluation process deemed insufficient to incorporate yet to be determined performance objectives into contract); Fogel v. Farmers Group, Inc. (2008) 160 Cal.App. 4th 1403, 1420 (insurance policy did not incorporate terms of subscription agreement where referring language failed to identify agreement by title and inaccurately stated its terms).

1 in itself, did not look to the merger agreement for any missing terms, and the references thereto served to
2 separate the two documents rather than incorporate them. Id. at 1609.

3 In the instant case, the T&C Supplement clearly and unequivocally references the “Commission
4 Junction Publisher Service Agreement (‘PSA’)” by title, and further states, “If any of these Terms and
5 Conditions conflict with those of the PSA, then these Terms and Conditions will control. Capitalized
6 terms not defined herein have the meanings set forth in the PSA.” (T&C Supp., p. 1; emphasis added).
7 Thus, unlike the provision at issue in Chan, there is no ambiguity or confusion as to which document is 8 intended to apply. And unlike the situation in Amtower, the T&C Supplement not only “guides the 9 reader” to the PSA, it looks directly to the PSA to fill in its remaining terms. Further, the terms of the 10 PSA were known and easily available to plaintiff, as plaintiff prepared the T&C Supplement, and 11 Commission Junction was Plaintiff’s direct agent at all relevant times. (SAC ¶20).

12 Particularly relevant here, the Court already concluded that Plaintiff is bound by the forum
13 selection clause set forth in the PSA when it ruled on Defendants’ initial motions to dismiss. (Order on 14 Motions to Dismiss, p. 7:19-25). And as detailed above, the SAC’s references to the User Agreement
15 are entirely insufficient to change that determination. As such, the only remaining question is whether 16 some basis exists to conclude that the one-year limitations period does not also apply. As detailed in the 17 following sections, no such basis exists and the SAC is therefore subject to dismissal.

18 2. Because the Supplemental Terms & Conditions do not Prescribe a Differing 19 Limitations Period, Plaintiff is Bound by the One-Year Provision in the PSA.

20 The PSA states that no action shall be brought “against the other party to this agreement more 21 than one year after the termination” thereof. (PSA, §7(e); capitals omitted). Per the discussion that 22 follows, this language is binding on Plaintiff under California case law.

23 In Pacific Employers Ins. Co. v. City of Berkeley (1984) 158 Cal.App.3d 145, the court addressed
24 whether a surety was liable under the liquidated damages provision of a construction contract, which had 25 been referenced in the surety’s bond. There, a city entered into a contract with a builder to construct a 26 recreation center. Id. at 147. The surety issued a performance bond, which identified the contract by 27 name and further stated, “a copy of which is or may be attached hereto, and which is hereby referred to.”
28 Id. at 148. The contract, in turn, contained the following liquidated damages provision:

1 If all the work called for under the contract is not completed before or upon the expiration
 2 of the time set forth in the Bidder's Sheet, damage will be sustained by the City. Since it
 3 is and will be impracticable to determine the actual damage which the City will sustain in 4 the event of and by reason of such delay, it is therefore agreed that the Contractor will
 5 pay to the City the sum specified in the Bidder's Sheet [$250 per day] for each and every 6 calendar day beyond the time prescribed to complete the work [May 6, 1976], not as a 7 penalty, but as a predetermined liquidated damage. The Contractor agrees to pay such 8 liquidated damages as are herein provided, and in case the same are not paid, agrees that 9 the City may deduct the amount thereof from any money due or that may become due the 10 Contractor under the contract. Id. at 149 (emphasis added).

11 When the builder subsequently abandoned the project, the surety arranged for another contractor
 12 to complete the work but completion of the recreation center was significantly delayed. In the litigation
 13 that followed, the city argued the surety was liable under the construction contract at the rate of $250 per 14 day based on the liquidated damages provision set forth above. Id. at 148. In addressing this issue, the 15 court first looked to the following interpretational rules applicable to multiple writings:

16 Civil Code section 1642 provides: "Several contracts relating to the same matters,
 17 between the same parties, and made as parts of substantially one transaction, are to be 18 taken together." This language has been broadened by judicial construction, so that it has 19 been applied to several writings, even though they are not "contracts," for example. "Nor 20 is the statute limited to contracts signed by the same parties and identifying the same
 21 subject matter. It applies to 'instruments,' 'papers' and 'contracts,' whether they 22 expressly refer to each other or it appears from extrinsic evidence that they were executed
 23 as part of one transaction. [Citations]." Id. at 150.

24 Based on these principles, the court concluded that the bond and construction contract must be 25 construed together, as "the surety necessarily contracts with reference to the contract as made; otherwise
 26 it would not know what obligation it was assuming." Id. While the court recognized that application of 27 the joint construction rule did not necessarily mean the surety was bound by all covenants in the 28 contract,¹³ the court found this principle inapplicable because the surety and contractor stood in comparable contractual positions with respect to their relationship with the city. Id. at 151.¹⁴

25 ¹³ See also Amtower, supra, 158 Cal.App. 4th at p. 1610 (construction of multiple contracts as 26 one does not mean each term "is necessarily applicable to the parties to one of the other agreements.").

27 ¹⁴ On this issue, the court distinguished Crane Co. v. Borwick Trenching Corp., Ltd. (1934) 138
 28 Cal.App. 319, where the complaining party (a materials supplier) was a stranger to the bond as well as the underlying contract. Id.

1 Following the Supreme Court’s ruling in Roberts v. Security T. & S. Bank (1925) 196 Cal. 557,
 2 196 Cal. 575 (Roberts) (overruled on another ground in Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. v. Pasadena City Junior
 3 College Dist. (1963) 59 Cal.2d 241, 245), the court then concluded that because the builder was bound
 4 by the contract, and the surety incorporated the terms of the contact into the bond, the surety was equally
 5 bound by the liquidated damages provision. Id. at 152.¹⁵ The court found additional support for its 6 ruling based on “the general rule that contracts should be construed against the party causing any 7 ambiguity in them.” Id. at 152.

8 Similarly, in Boys Club of San Fernando Valley v. Fid. & Deposit Co. (1992) 6 Cal. App. 4th
 9 1266 (Boys Club), the underlying construction contract required the parties to arbitrate “all claims,
 10 disputes and other matters in question between the Contractor and the Owner arising out of, or relating 11 to, the Contract Documents or the breach thereof,” and the performance bond at issue referred to the 12 contract and made it a part by reference. Id. at 1270 (emphasis added). Upon project completion, the 13 plaintiff complained of construction defects and subsequently filed arbitration demands against both the 14 contractor and the surety. Id. The surety argued that it could not be compelled to arbitrate because it
 15 was not a party to the construction contract and never signed an arbitration agreement. Id. at 1270,
 16 1273-1274. As in Pacific Employers, the court rejected the surety’s position and found that the surety
 17 defined its obligation under the bond when it incorporated the arbitration clause by reference. Id. at 18 1271, 1273-1274.

19 Republic Bank v. Marine Nat. Bank (1996) 45 Cal. App. 4th 919 is also relevant. There, a 20 sublease expressly “incorporated [the master lease by] reference” and provided that the sublease was 21
 22

23
 24 ¹⁵ In Roberts, the subject bond stated that the work was to be done “in accordance with the plans
 25 and specifications ‘referred to in said contract, to which contract reference is’ had.” Id. at 563 (emphasis 26 added). The contract provided that if change orders were agreed to in advance the contractor would 27 receive time extensions in completing the project. During the course of the work, the owner issued 28 change orders but no extensions were discussed and the project was not completed by the original due date. Id. at 563-564. The Supreme Court concluded the surety was liable for delay damages based on the bond’s incorporating language and the circumstances of the transaction. Id. at 566-567. It found that the documents should be read as an indivisible contract and that the surety “must be held to have agreed that it will be equally bound.” Id. at 567-568.

1 “subject and subordinate” thereto.¹⁶ Id. at 921. The master lease provided that the prevailing party
 2 would be entitled to its reasonable attorneys’ fees in the event of “any action at law or in equity between
 3 Landlord and Tenant . . .” Id. at 921 (emphasis added). In subsequent litigation between the subtenant
 4 and sublessor, the court ruled that the latter was entitled to attorneys’ fees as the prevailing party. The 5 court concluded that such disputes must be resolved based on the relevant incorporating language and 6 rejected the subtenant’s argument that Pacific Employers and Boys Club were inherently distinguishable
 7 because on their differing factual context. Id. at 924.

8 As detailed below, the foregoing principles are directly applicable to the present dispute.

9 a. The PSA and T&C Supplement Must be Construed Together, as Plaintiff
 10 Necessarily Contracted with Reference to the Terms of the PSA.

11 The instant case, like the circumstances at issue in Pacific Employers and Boys Club, presents a 12 strong case for construing the relevant contractual documents together. Again, there is no question that
 13 the direct purpose of the PSA is to set forth the terms under which Commission Junction administers
 14 affiliate programs on behalf of “Advertisers” such as eBay. (See PSA, p. 1). Notably, the full title of the 15 T&C Supplement is the “eBay Affiliate Program - Supplemental Terms & Conditions.” (T&C Supp., p.
 16 1; emphasis added). As such, the document was clearly intended to supplement the PSA, and by 17 definition, the rights and obligations of the parties to a supplemental agreement cannot be fully 18 understood without reference to the primary writing to which it attaches.¹⁷ Not surprisingly, California
 19 courts have therefore held that interrelated contract materials must be taken and construed as one. See
 20 Beedy v. San Mateo Hotel Company (1912) 27 Cal.App. 653, 661-662 (“supplementary subscription 21 agreement” must be construed with primary agreement as a “legal unity”).

22 Here, the interrelated nature of the documents is particularly clear, as the PSA itself repeatedly 23 references the applicability of the “Advertiser’s Program Terms.” (See e.g. PSA §1(b) and (c), referring 24 to Advertiser “Program Terms” and “Additional Terms”). Further, as noted above, the T&C Supplement
 25

26 ¹⁶ Because the sublease attached the master lease and used express “incorporation” language, it
 27 was unnecessary to apply the Shaw elements discussed above. See id. at 921, 923.

28 ¹⁷ See Black’s Law Dictionary 1452 (7th ed. 1999), defining “supplemental” as “[s]upplying something additional; adding what is lacking <supplemental rules>.”

1 does not attempt to define the Affiliate Marketing Program or the relationship between the parties in any
 2 relevant detail. Nor does it set forth any provisions detailing the circumstances under which affiliate
 3 payments are to be made or, for that matter, any of the typical procedural provisions contained in 4 commercial contracts. Instead, the T&C Supplement leaves those matters to the PSA. See Enochs v.
 5 Christie (1955) 137 Cal. App. 2d Supp. 887, 889 (“a contract may refer to another contract for details or
 6 conditions, and when this is the case the contract referred to must be considered as a part of the contract
 7 in which reference hereto is made.”).

8 For instance, with respect to affiliate compensation, the PSA states, “The Advertiser compensates
 9 the Publisher, in accordance with this Agreement . . .” and goes on to set forth the specific circumstances
 10 under which “Payouts” will be made and “Chargebacks” will be deducted. (PSA, p. 1, intro. (emphasis 11 added); §3(a) and (b)). The chargeback provision, for example, authorizes the debit of funds previously 12 credited to the affiliate’s account in cases of, inter alia, product returns, Advertiser refunds, and “Non-13 Bona Fide Transactions” where the individual user is misled or the affiliate otherwise refers the user in 14 bad faith. (PSA §1(d)(ii); 3(b)).

15 Thus, like the circumstance in the surety cases, the contractual documents must be construed
 16 together, as plaintiff “necessarily contract[ed] with reference to the [underlying contract]; otherwise it
 17 would not know what obligation[s] it was assuming.” Pacific Employers, supra, 158 Cal.App.3d at 150;
 18 Boys Club, supra, 6 Cal. App. 4th at 1271.

19 b. Because CJ Acted as Plaintiff’s Direct Agent, the Close Interrelationship
 20 Between the Parties is Sufficient to bind Plaintiff under the PSA.

21 Similar to the situation in Pacific Employers and Boys Club, Plaintiff and Commission Junction
 22 shared a particularly close contractual relationship vis-a-vis the respective affiliates. In that regard, the 23 SAC states:

24 At all relevant times, eBay used the services of CJ, a subsidiary of ValueClick, Inc., in 25 administering the Affiliate Marketing Program. The relationship between eBay and CJ
 26 was governed at all relevant times by various Advertiser Service Agreements. Under 27 those Agreements, CJ was responsible for, among other things, recruiting affiliates, 28 tracking affiliate traffic, monitoring compliance by affiliates, preventing and detecting fraudulent activity, and paying affiliates using funds remitted by eBay.” (SAC ¶20).

1 Thus, Commission Junction, as plaintiff’s direct agent, carried out duties in administering the 2 affiliate program that Plaintiff would have otherwise been required to perform. Moreover, like the
 3 surety in the foregoing cases, Plaintiff ultimately remained responsible for performance of the underlying 4 contract. For instance, the PSA states, “Your recourse for any earned Payouts not paid to You shall be to 5 make a claim against the relevant Advertiser(s), and CJ disclaims any liability for such payment.” (PSA,
 6 §3(e); emphasis added). Plaintiff’s underlying obligation to satisfy affiliate payouts in this manner, is 7 directly comparable to the surety’s contractual obligation to guarantee the contractor’s performance
 8 under the bond. “Under these circumstances, the Supreme Court has held that a reference to the contract
 9 must be given broader interpretation,” and Plaintiff must be held to be bound by the one-year limitations
 10 period accordingly. See Pacific Employers, supra, 158 Cal.App. 3d at 151.

11 c. The T&C Supplement’s Incorporating Language Indicates that the One-
 12 Year Limitations Period was Intended to Apply.

13 In Republic Bank, as noted above, the court de-emphasized the formal relationship between the 14 parties and instead focused on the relevant incorporating language. Republic Bank, supra, 45 Cal.App.
 15 4th at 924. Here, the relevant language in the T&C Supplement clearly indicates that the one-year
 16 limitations period was intended to apply. Again, the T&C Supplement expressly provides that the terms
 17 of the PSA shall control to the extent the documents do not conflict. (T&C Supp., p. 1). Given that 18 language, Plaintiff is presumed to have been aware of, and familiar with, the terms of the PSA. In that 19 regard, the PSA calls specific attention to the one-year limitations period by setting forth the provision in 20 all capital letters. Notably, the provision appears in Section 7, the only part of the PSA that contains 21 such emphasis, and the document expressly states that the provisions in Section 7 are an essential
 22 element of the benefit of the bargain. (PSA, §7(h)).

23 Thus, to the extent Plaintiff intended for a differing limitations period to apply, it would have so
 24 specified. The T&C Supplement does not contain a limitation of actions provision nor does it otherwise
 25 suggest that the PSA’s one-year limitation period does not apply. The fact that Plaintiff did not include
 26 such a provision in the T&C Supplement reflects Plaintiff’s objective intent that the PSA would control
 27 the issue. To the extent Plaintiff contends otherwise, “[t]he true intent of a contracting party is irrelevant
 28

1 if it remains unexpressed.” See Shaw, supra, 58 Cal.App. 4th 44, 54. The SAC should be dismissed
2 accordingly.

3 d. The Language of the One-Year Limitations Period is Directly Comparable to 4 the Provisions at Issue in the Relevant Case Law.

5 Particularly relevant, the language of the PSA’s limitation period providing that no action shall 6 be brought “against the other party to this agreement” is directly analogous to the language at issue in
7 the foregoing cases. See Boys Club, supra, 6 Cal. App. 4th at 1270 (non-signatory to original contract
8 bound by provision requiring arbitration of all claims “between the Contractor and the Owner”); Pacific
9 Employers, supra, 158 Cal.App.3d at 149 (non-signatory to original contract bound by liquidated
10 damages provision stating “that the Contractor will pay to the City the sum specified in the Bidder’s
11 Sheet”); Republic Bank, supra, 45 Cal. App. 4th at 921 (non-signatory to original lease liable under fee
12 provision applicable to “any action at law or in equity between Landlord and Tenant . . .”). The Court
13 should therefore find that the PSA’s limitation period applies to the present dispute by direct analogy.

14 e. To the Extent the Contractual Language is Ambiguous, it Must be Construed
15 against Plaintiff as the Drafter.

16 It is well settled that “an instrument in writing is construed most strongly against the party who 17 drafted it or caused it to be drafted.” Coutin v. Nessonbaum (1971) 17 Cal. App. 3d 156, 162. As noted
18 above, the rule applies in the incorporation by reference context. Pacific Employers, supra, 158
19 Cal.App.3d at 152. Further, the rule “applies with particular force in the case of the contract of 20 adhesion.” Neal v. State Farm Ins. Cos. (1961) 188 Cal. App. 2d 690, 695. Such contracts involve 21 standardized forms, “which, imposed and drafted by the party of superior bargaining strength, relegates
22 to the subscribing party only the opportunity to adhere to the contract or reject it.” Id. at 694.

23 Here, to the extent there is any ambiguity as to whether the T&C Supplement incorporated the 24 PSA’s one-year limitations period, it must be construed against Plaintiff as the drafter. In that regard,
25 Plaintiff prepared the T&C Supplement as a form document applicable to all affiliates and offered it
26 solely on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. The closing paragraph of the T&C Supplement provides:

27 By clicking on the “ACCEPT” link below, You are agreeing to be bound by the terms in 28 these Terms and Conditions. “If You do not understand or agree to all of the terms and

1 conditions of these Terms and Conditions, click the 'CLOSE' button.” (Supp. Terms &
2 Conditions, ¶16; emphasis added).

3 Thus, the only option available to potential affiliates is to accept the document in its entirety or to 4 not participate in the affiliate program at all. Again, to the extent plaintiff wished to include a differing
5 limitations period in the T&C Supplement it could easily have done so. As such, any ambiguities must 6 be construed against Plaintiff.

7 3. The One-Year Limitations Period is Valid and Enforceable, as Contracting Parties
8 May Specify Their Own Statutes of Limitation.

9 “California courts accord contracting parties substantial freedom to modify the length of the 10 statute of limitations.” Hambrecht & Quist Venture Partners v. American Medical Internat., Inc. (1995)
11 38 Cal. App. 4th 1532, 1548. Thus, it is well-settled that “the parties to a contract may stipulate therein
12 for a period of limitation, shorter than that fixed by the statute of limitations, and that such stipulation
13 violates no principle of public policy, provided the period fixed be not so unreasonable as to show
14 imposition or undue advantage in some way.” Beeson v. Schloss (1920) 183 Cal. 618, 622 (upholding
15 six-month statute of limitations); Seagate Tech. LLC v. Dalian China Express Int'l Corp. (N.D. Cal.
16 2001) 169 F. Supp. 2d 1146, 1159 (upholding nine-month limitations period). Thus, to strike down a
17 contractual provision shortening a limitations period, the complaining party must show that the provision 18 is unconscionable. Soltani v. W. & S. Life Ins. Co. (9th Cir. 2001) 258 F.3d 1038, 1043.

19 Here, the one-year limitations period is entirely reasonable as it provides an appropriate means
20 for effectuating closure of disputes related to Plaintiff’s affiliate program, and there is no basis to second 21 guess the same (particularly where plaintiff itself adopted the provision). Further, both the PSA and the 22 T&C Supplement specifically state that no compensation will be due if the user “does not take an 23 affirmative action, clicking on your properly-coded link in a browser or browser environment.” (Supp.
24 T&C, ¶4; see also PSA, §§1(d)(ii), 3(b)). As such, the one-year limitations period was adopted by 25 Plaintiff with the types of alleged harms specifically in mind. The contractual limitations period is 26 therefore valid and enforceable.

27 ././

28 ././

4. The SAC is Barred in its Entirety, as the Limitations Provision Applies to Any Disputes Relating to the Affiliate Marketing Program.

As commonly understood, the phrase “no action will lie” means no lawsuit may be filed. Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Continental Ins. Co. (2005) 134 Cal. App. 4th 187 (disapproved on other grounds as stated in State of California v. Allstate Ins. Co. (2009) 45 Cal. 4th 1008, 1036, fn.11); see Civil Code §1644 (providing that the words of a contract “are to be understood in their ordinary and popular sense”). Here, the language in the PSA providing that “[n]o action, suit or proceeding shall be brought . . .” clearly indicates that no lawsuit related to Plaintiff’s affiliate marketing program may be filed outside the one-year period. Because there is no question that each cause of action set forth in the SAC is premised on the same purported “cookie stuffing” scheme under the affiliate program, the SAC must be dismissed in its entirety.

V. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the DPS Defendants respectfully request that the Motion to Dismiss be granted without leave to amend on the grounds that the T&C Supplement incorporates the terms of the PSA by reference, including the one-year limitation of actions provision, and that the SAC therefore fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

DATED: April 27, 2009

s/Ross M. Campbell
COAST LAW GROUP, LLP
169 Saxony Road, Suite 204
Encinitas, CA 92024
Telephone: (760) 942-8505
FAX: (760) 942-8515
E-mail: Rcampbell@coastlawgroup.com
Attorneys for Defendants, Shawn Hogan
and Digital Point Solutions, Inc.