On June 5, 2009, plaintiff, a Napa State Hospital patient¹ proceeding pro se, filed the instant civil rights complaint pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, the Americans With Disabilities Act ("ADA"), and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, concerning the conditions of his confinement at Napa State Hospital.

Pending before the court are plaintiff's ex parte motion for an enlargement of time to effect service of summons, complaint and related papers; plaintiff's motion for enlargement of time in which to serve summons and complaint upon defendants; defendants' motion to dismiss; plaintiff's ex parte motion for issuance of preliminary injunction; plaintiff's motion for recovery of costs to serve summons and complaint; defendants' motion to quash service; plaintiff's

¹ On August 26, 1999, plaintiff was admitted to Napa State Hospital ("NSH") pursuant to California Penal Code § 1026, based upon a finding of not guilty by reason of insanity in Alameda Superior Court.

1 motion for preliminary and permanent injunctive relief; and an additional request by plaintiff for 2 an enlargement of time in which to serve the summons and complaint.

3 A. Plaintiff's Motion for Enlargement of Time to Serve Summons and Complaint /
4 Defendants' Motion to Dismiss

5 Defendants move to dismiss all claims for relief on the ground that plaintiff "has 6 continuously failed to meet statutory and court-imposed deadlines for serving defendants."
7 Plaintiff responds that he has attempted service in good faith and all requests for extensions of 8 time were warranted. Defendants respond that plaintiff has failed to show good cause for failing 9 to timely serve defendants and, moreover, that the court should consider potential prejudices in 10 plaintiff's failure to serve defendants after more than one year since the filing of this action.

11 On October 19, 2009, the court granted plaintiff's request for an extension of time in 12 which to serve defendants. Plaintiff was to serve defendants within sixty days from the filing 13 date of the order. Plaintiff attempted service on January 5, 2010 by placement of the summons
14 and complaint in institutional mail addressed to defendants Howard, Wright, Chow, Weakley, 15 and Foulk. On March 25, 2010, the court granted defendants' motion to quash service, denied 16 defendants' motion to dismiss, and granted plaintiff another extension of time in which to serve 17 defendants. The court ordered plaintiff to serve the defendants within sixty days from the filing 18 date of the order. On May 6, 2010, prior to the deadline date set by the court, plaintiff filed a 19 motion for enlargement of time to effect the service of summons. Plaintiff alleged that he had 20 recently retained a process server and learned that the firm required two sets of copies for the 21 firm. Further, plaintiff alleged that although the court issued its order on March 25, 2010, he did 22 not receive it until thirty days thereafter. On June 9, 2010, plaintiff filed another motion for an 23 extension of time alleging that he was continuing to be diligent in obtaining appropriate 24 addresses and requested an additional thirty days. On June 22, 2010, proofs of service were filed
25 by Gotcha Subpoena Services, the company retained by plaintiff to effect service, purportedly
26 showing service on June 8, 2010 on an office technician as substitute service on defendants
27 Chow, Napa State Hospital, Howard, Wright, and Weakley. On August 17, 2010 plaintiff filed 28 another request for an extension of time to effect service of the summons and complaint stating

1 that he did not learn that Napa State Hospital had an agent for service of process until after the 2 process server he hired had left copies of the summons and complaint with the office technician
3 who was not authorized to accept service. On September 16, 2010 new proofs of service were 4 filed as to defendants Howard, Weakley, Napa State Hospital and Wright reflecting service on 5 Deborah Moore, as agent for service of process..

6 Rule 4(m) expressly requires a district court to grant an extension of time when the 7 plaintiff shows “good cause” for the delay. Efaw v. Williams, 473 F.3d 1038, 1040 (9th Cir.
8 2007). At a minimum, “good cause” means excusable neglect. Boudette v. Barnett, 923 F.2d
9 754, 756 (9th Cir. 1991). A plaintiff may be required to show that the party to be served 10 received actual notice, the defendant would suffer no prejudice and that plaintiff would be 11 severely prejudiced if his complaint were dismissed. Id. Some courts have suggested that a 12 certain degree of leniency should be afforded pro se plaintiffs to ensure their cases are justly 13 resolved on the merits rather than on the basis of technicalities. See Poulakis v. Amtrak, 139 14 F.R.D. 107, 109 (N.D. Ill. 1991). The Ninth Circuit has held that the district court may grant an 15 extension of time for service of process even in the absence of a showing of good cause for 16 delay. Efaw v. Williams, 473 F.3d at 1040.

17 Here, plaintiff’s showing of good cause is at best marginal. However, the court exercises 18 its discretion and will consider the time for service extended through August 31, 2010. If the 19 services made by that date are not valid, the claims against defendants will be subject to 20 dismissal for plaintiff’s failure to meet the time requirements of Rule 4(m).² The court finds a 21 discretionary extension through August 31, 2010 is warranted for the following reasons: plaintiff 22 has persistently attempted to serve defendants by sending them requests for waiver of service, by 23 sending via interoffice mail the summons and complaint, and by retaining Gotcha Subpoena 24 Services to effect service; defendants received actual notice of the instant lawsuit when they 25 received plaintiff’s requests for waiver of service, or at the latest on June 5, 2010, when they 26 received a copy of the summons and complaint via interoffice mail; defendants have not shown

27
28 ²The court expresses no opinion at this time whether the substituted services accomplished in August 2010 are valid.

1 that they will be meaningfully prejudiced by such an extension and plaintiff may face time bars
2 should the action be dismissed and plaintiff be required to refile.

3 Based on the above, the court DENIES defendants' motion to dismiss and GRANTS 4 plaintiff's extension request to the extent that plaintiff's claim against a defendant will not be 5 dismissed at this time pursuant to Rule 4(m) provided he or she was properly served by August 6 31, 2010.

7 B. Motions for Preliminary Injunction

8 Plaintiff requests both a preliminary and permanent injunction to enjoin Napa State
9 Hospital from failing to provide appropriate medical care. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(a) 10 sets forth the procedure for issuance of a preliminary injunction which may be issued only on 11 notice to the defendants. Rule 65(b) does allow the issuance of a temporary restraining order 12 ("TRO") without notice if certain conditions are met. The court does not find sufficient 13 immediate and irreparable loss will occur to plaintiff if his applications for a TRO and 14 preliminary injunction are DENIED. Plaintiff, of course, can make his request for an injunction 15 at trial.

16 C. Motion to Quash

17 Defendants move to dismiss all claims for relief under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
18 12(b)(5) on the grounds of insufficient service of process. Specifically, defendants allege that a 19 process server left packages with an employee at Napa State Hospital, however, the employee
20 was not authorized to accept service on behalf of defendants. Plaintiff responds that his attempts 21 at service have all been made in good faith and that the process server attempted three separate 22 times to serve defendants and when he failed, the process server finally left each summons and 23 complaint with an employee at Napa State Hospital.

24 A court cannot exercise jurisdiction over a defendant without proper service of process.
25 See Omni Capital Int'l, Ltd. v. Rudolf Wolff & Co., 484 U.S. 97, 104 (1987); Direct Mail
26 Specialists, Inc. v. Eclat Computerized Techs., Inc., 840 F.2d 685, 688 (9th Cir. 1988) ("A 27 federal court does not have jurisdiction over a defendant unless the defendant has been served 28 properly under Fed. R. Civ. P. 4"). Insufficient service of process may result in dismissal under

1 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(5). When a defendant challenges service, the plaintiff
2 bears the burden of establishing its sufficiency. See Brockmeyer v. May, 383 F.3d 798, 801 (9th
3 Cir. 2004). Sufficiency of process is determined by Rule 4. See Employee Painters' Trust v.
4 Ethan Enters., Inc., 480 F.3d 993, 999 (9th Cir. 2007). Rule 4 is a flexible rule that should be 5 liberally construed. United Food & Commercial Workers Union v. Alpha Beta Co., 736 F.2d 6 1371, 1382 (9th Cir. 1984).

7 “However, neither actual notice nor simply naming the defendant in the complaint will 8 provide personal jurisdiction absent ‘substantial compliance with Rule 4.’” Benny v. Pipes, 799 9 F.2d 489, 492 (9th Cir. 1986) (citation omitted). “So long as a party receives sufficient notice of 10 the complaint, Rule 4 is to be liberally construed to uphold service,” assuming substantial 11 compliance with Rule 4. Travelers Casualty v. Brenneke, 551 F.3d 1132, 1135 (9th Cir. 2009)
12 (internal quotations omitted). “Sufficient service may be found where there is a good faith effort
13 to comply with Rule 4(e)(2) which has resulted in placement of the summons and complaint 14 within the defendant’s immediate proximity and further compliance with Rule 4(e)(2) is 15 prevented only by the defendant’s knowing and intentional actions to evade service.” Id. at 16 1136.

17 Federal law does not allow leaving a copy of the summons and complaint at a 18 defendants’ place of business unless it is delivered to an authorized agent. See Fed. R. Civ. P.
19 4(e). California law allows leaving a copy of the summons and complaint at a defendants’ usual 20 place of business with a person “apparently in charge” of the business. Cal. Code Civ. Proc.
21 § 415.20. No party disputes that the employee with whom the copies of the summons and 22 complaint were left with an office technician who was not an authorized agent, nor someone 23 “apparently in charge” of defendants’ place of business. Moreover, in his motion for an 24 enlargement of time to effect service, plaintiff appears to concede that the method of service was 25 not proper under federal or state law. Accordingly, the court finds that defendants were not been 26 properly served by the purported substituted service on the office technician and GRANTS the 27 motion to quash that service. Defendants’ motion to quash was filed before the plaintiff’s 28 substituted service in August 2010 and, therefore, did not address that service.

1 D. Motion for Recovery of Costs to Serve Summons

2 On July 1, 2010, plaintiff moved for the court to grant him reasonable costs which he 3 incurred in his efforts to serve defendants because he initially sent defendants a request to waive
4 service. Defendants oppose the motion, indicating that under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
5 54(d)(1), plaintiff cannot receive any reimbursement of costs unless and until he is a prevailing 6 party.

7 In an action brought in federal court, an individual defendant has a duty to avoid 8 unnecessary expenses of serving the summons. Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d)(1). Consequently, the rules
9 pertaining to service allow the plaintiff to notify a defendant that an action has been commenced 10 and request that the defendant waive service of a summons. Id. Rule 4(d) describes the 11 instructions for requesting a waiver. Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d)(1)(A)-(G). If the defendant agrees to 12 waive service by returning the waiver to the plaintiff, the date of service is deemed to be the date
13 on which the plaintiff files the waiver form with the court. Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d)(4). If a 14 defendant fails, without good cause, to sign and return a waiver requested by a plaintiff, the court
15 must impose on the defendant the costs of service. Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d)(2).³

16 Defendants' argument based on Rule 54(d)(1) appears foreclosed. See Estate of Darulis 17 v. Garate, 401 F.3d 1060, 1063-64 (9th Cir. 2005) ("Rule 4(d)(2) provides for an award of such 18 costs regardless of which party can recover other costs pursuant to Rule 54(d)(1)"). However, it 19 may be that the waiver of service provision is inapplicable to state employee defendants sued in 20 their official capacities. See, e.g., Cupe v. Lantz, 470 F. Supp. 2d 136, 138-139 (D. Conn. 2007);
21 Chapman v. New York State Div. For Youth, 227 F.R.D. 175, 179-180 (N.D.N.Y. 2005). Here, 22 since no determination has been made as to whether defendants have now been properly served, 23 plaintiff's motion for recovery of costs under Rule 4(d)(2) is DENIED without prejudice.

26 ³ Rule 4(d)(2) provides: "If a defendant located within the United States fails, without 27 good cause, to sign and return a waiver requested by a plaintiff located within the United States, 28 the court must impose on the defendant: (A) the expenses later incurred in making service; and
(B) the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, of any motion required to collect those service expenses."

1 CONCLUSION

2 1. Plaintiff's motions for enlargement of time to serve defendants is GRANTED to 3 the extent that any defendant validly served on or before August 31, 2010 will not be dismissed
4 at this time pursuant to Rule 4(m). (Docket Nos. 39, 40 and 62). Defendants' motion to dismiss
5 the action as untimely served is DENIED without prejudice to any defendant's renewal of a 6 motion to dismiss if that defendant was not properly served by August 31, 2010. (Docket No.
7 41). Plaintiff's application for a TRO and motion for a preliminary injunction are DENIED.
8 (Docket No. 52 and 58). Defendants' motion to quash service purportedly accomplished by 9 substituted service on an office technician is GRANTED. (Docket No. 54). Plaintiff's motion 10 for recovery of costs to serve the summons and complaint is DENIED without prejudice.
11 (Docket No. 53).

12 2. It is plaintiff's responsibility to prosecute this case. Plaintiff must keep the 13 court informed of any change of address by filing a separate paper with the clerk headed "Notice 14 of Change of Address." Plaintiff must comply with the court's orders in a timely fashion or ask 15 for an extension of time to do so. Failure to comply may result in the dismissal of this action 16 pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 41(b).

17 3. This order terminates docket nos. 39, 40, 41, 52, 53, 54, 58 and 62.
