Plaintiffs, by their attorneys, for their Master Consolidated Complaint against Sprint Communications Co. Ltd. Partnership, Nextel Partners, Inc., and Embarq Corporation, allege, upon information and belief, as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. This Master Consolidated Complaint against Sprint Nextel Corporation, Sprint Communications Co. Ltd. Communications Co. Ltd. Partnership, Nextel Communications, Inc., Embarq Corporation, UCOM, Inc., U.S. Telcom, Inc., Utelcom, Inc. and Does 1-100 (collectively "Defendants" or "Sprint") in the separate cases transferred by the Panel on Multidistrict Litigation in this matter in its orders dated August 14, 2006, and September 25, 2006 ("transferred cases"). Unless otherwise ordered by this Court, all claims presented in any case against Sprint Nextel Corporation, Sprint Communications Co. Ltd. Partnership, Nextel Communications, Inc., Embarq Corporation, UCOM, Inc., U.S. Telcom, Inc., Utelcom, Inc., and Does 1-100 subsequently transferred to this Court by the Panel on Multidistrict Litigation in this matter shall be deemed to be included in this Sprint Master Complaint.

2. This Sprint Master Complaint is filed solely as an administrative device to promote judicial efficiency and economy in the adjudication and resolution of pretrial matters and is not intended to effect consolidation for trial of the transferred cases. Neither is this Sprint Master Complaint intended to cause, nor to change the rights of the parties, nor to make those who are parties in one transferred case parties in another.

3. This case challenges the legality of Defendants' participation in a secret and illegal government program to intercept and analyze vast quantities of Americans' telephone communications and records, surveillance done without any statutorily authorized permission, customers' knowledge or consent, or the authorization of a court, and in violation of federal electronic surveillance and telecommunications statutes, as well as the First and Fourth Amendments to the United States Constitution. In addition, Plaintiffs challenge Defendants' conduct under state law.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

15. In Section 222 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. § 222(c)(1)), Congress imposed upon telecommunication carriers, such as Defendants, a duty to protect sensitive, personal customer information from disclosure. This information includes "information that relates to the quantity, technical configuration, type, destination, location, and amount of use of a telecommunications service subscribed to by any customer of a telecommunications carrier, and that is made available to the carrier by the customer solely by virtue of the carrier-customer relationship" and data concerning service customers' telephone calling histories (i.e., date, time, duration, and telephone numbers of calls placed or received) or call-detail records, and such information constitutes "individually identifiable customer proprietary network information" within the meaning of Section 222 of the Communications Act of 1934.

16. Federal law prohibits telecommunications providers such as Defendants from disclosing customers' call-detail records to the government without a court order, subpoena, or other lawful authorization.

17. In the aftermath of September 11, 2001, Defendants commenced their programs of providing the federal government with the telephone call contents and records of its customers and subscribers. Defendants continue to provide this information to the federal government.

18. On December 16, 2005, in an article entitled "Bush Lets U.S. Spy on Callers Without Courts," The New York Times reported on an NSA program of eavesdropping on the telephone conversations of Americans without court order as required by the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act.

19. In a December 17, 2005 radio address, President Bush admitted that "[i]n the weeks following the terrorist attacks on our nation, [he] authorized the National Security Agency, consistent with U.S. law and the Constitution, to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations." President Bush further stated that "the activities [he] authorized are reviewed approximately every 45 days"; that he had "reauthorized this program more than 30 times since the September the 11th attacks"; and that he intended to continue authorizing such activity "for as long as our nation faces a continuing threat from al Qaeda and related groups."

20. In a press briefing on December 19, 2005 by Attorney General Gonzales and General Michael Hayden, Principal Deputy Director for National Intelligence, the government claimed that the NSA Surveillance Program targets communications between a party outside the United States and a party inside the United States when one of the parties of the communication is believed to be "a member of al Qaeda, affiliated with al Qaeda, or a member of an organization affiliated with al Qaeda, or working in support of al Qaeda."

21. In a press release on December 19, 2005, Attorney General Alberto Gonzales stated that the Program involved "intercepts of contents of communications . . . ." While the Attorney General's description of the Program was limited to interception of communications with individuals "outside the United States," Attorney General Gonzales explained that his discussion was limited to those parameters of the program already disclosed by the President and that many other operational aspects of the program remained highly classified.

22. On December 24, 2005, The New York Times reported in an article entitled, "Spy Agency Mined Vast Data Trove, Officials Report," that:

> [t]he National Security Agency has traced and analyzed large volumes of telephone and Internet communications flowing into and out of the United States as part of the eavesdropping program that President Bush approved after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks to hunt for evidence of terrorist activity, according to current and former government officials. The volume of information harvested from telecommunication data and voice networks, without court-approved warrants, is much larger than the White House has acknowledged, the officials said. It was collected by tapping directly into some of the American telecommunication system's main arteries, they said.

The officials said that as part of the program, "the N.S.A. has gained the cooperation of American telecommunications companies to obtain backdoor access to streams of domestic and international communications" and that the program is a "large data-mining operation" in which N.S.A. technicians have combed through large volumes of phone and Internet traffic in search of patterns that might point to terrorism suspects. In addition, the article reports, "[s]everal officials said that after President Bush's order authorizing the N.S.A. program, senior government officials arranged with officials of some of the nation's largest telecommunications companies to gain access to switches that act as gateways at the borders between the United States' communication networks and international networks."

23. In a January 3, 2006 article entitled, "Tinker, Tailor, Miner, Spy" (available at http://www.slae.com/toolbar.aspx?action=print&id=2133564), Slate.com reported, "[t]he agency [the NSA] used to search the transmissions it monitors for key words, such as names and phone numbers, which are supplied by other intelligence agencies that want to track certain individuals. But now the NSA appears to be vacuuming up all data, generally without a particular phone line, name, or e-mail address as a target. Reportedly, the agency is analyzing the length of a call, the time it was placed, and the origin and destination of electronic transmissions."

24. In a January 17, 2006 article, "Spy Agency Data After Sept. 11 Led F.B.I. to Dead Ends," The New York Times stated that officials who were brief on the N.S.A. program said that "the agency collected much of the data passed on to the F.B.I. as tips by tracing phone numbers in the United States called by suspects overseas, and then by following the domestic numbers to other numbers called. In other cases, lists of phone numbers appeared to result from the agency's computerized scanning of communications coming into and going out of the country for names and keywords that might be of interest."

25. A January 20, 2006 article in the National Journal, "NSA spy program hinges on state-of-the-art technology," reported that "[o]fficials with some of the nation's leading telecommunications companies have said they gave the NSA access to their switches, the hubs through which enormous volumes of phone and e-mail traffic pass every day, to aid the agency's effort to determine exactly whom suspected al-Qaeda figures were calling in the United States and abroad and who else was calling those numbers. The NSA used the intercepts to construct webs of potentially interrelated persons."

26. In a January 21, 2006 article in the Bloomberg News entitled "Lawmaker Queries Microsoft, Other Companies on NSA Wiretaps," Daniel Berninger, a senior analyst at Tier 1 Research in Plymouth, Minnesota, said "[i]n the past, the NSA has gotten permission from phone companies to gain access to so-called switches, high-powered computer into which phone traffic flows and is redirected, at 600 locations across the nation. . . . From these corporate relationships, the NSA can get the content of calls and records on their date, time, length, origin and destination."

27. On January 25, 2006, an article appearing in the Reporter-Times entitled "NSA Data Mining is Legal, Necessary, Chertoff Says" stated that "while refusing to discuss how the highly classified program works (Department of Homeland Security Secretary) Chertoff made it pretty clear that it involves "data-mining" – collecting vast amounts of international communications data, running it through computers to spot key words and honing in on potential terrorists." In that same interview Secretary Chertoff is quoted as saying " . . . if you're trying to sift through an enormous amount of data very quickly, I think it (obtaining a FISA warrant) would be impractical", and that getting an ordinary FISA warrant is "a voluminous, time-consuming process" and "if you're culling through literally thousands of phone numbers . . . you could wind up with a huge problem managing the amount of paper you'd have to generate."

28. On February 5, 2006, an article appearing in the Washington Post entitled "Surveillance Net Yields Few Suspects" stated that officials said "[s]urveillance takes place in several stages . . . the earliest by machine. Computer-controlled systems collect and sift basic information about hundreds of thousands of faxes, e-mails and telephone calls into and out of the United States before selecting the ones for scrutiny by human eyes and hears. Successive stages of filtering grow more intrusive as artificial intelligence systems rank voice and data traffic in order of likeliest interest to human analysts." The article continues "[f]or years, including in public testimony by Hayden, the agency [the NSA] has acknowledged use of automated equipment to analyze the contents and guide analysts to the most important ones. According to one knowledgeable source, the warrantless program also uses those methods. That is significant . . . because this kind of filtering intrudes into content, and machines 'listen' to more Americans than humans do."

29. On February 6, 2006, in an article entitled "Telecoms let NSA spy on calls," the nationwide newspaper USA Today reported that "[t]he National Security Agency has secured the cooperation of large telecommunications companies, including AT&T, MCI and Sprint, in its efforts to eavesdrop without warrants on international calls by suspected terrorists, according to seven telecommunications executives." The article acknowledged that The New York Times had previously reported that the telecommunications companies had been cooperating with the government but had not revealed the names of the companies involved. In addition, it stated that long-distance carriers AT&T, MCI, and Sprint "all own 'gateway' switches capable of routing calls to points around the globe, and that "[t]elecommunications executives say MCI, AT&T, and Sprint grant the access to their systems without warrants or court orders. Instead, they are cooperating on the basis of oral requests from senior government officials."

30. On May 11, 2006, in an article entitled "NSA has massive database of Americans' phone calls," USA Today reported that "[t]he National Security Agency has been secretly collecting the phone call records of tens of millions of Americans, using data provided by AT&T, Verizon and Bellsouth," according to multiple sources with "direct knowledge of the arrangement." One of the confidential sources for the article reported that the NSA's goal is "to create a database of every call ever made" within the United States. The confidential sources reported that AT&T and the other carriers are working "under contract" with the NSA, which launched the program in 2001 shortly after the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. At the U.S. Senate confirmation hearing on his nomination to become Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, General Michael Hayden, who was the Director of the NSA at the time, confirmed that the program was "launched" on October 6, 2001.

31. The USA Today story was confirmed by a U.S. intelligence official familiar with the program. The story reports that the NSA requested that AT&T, SBC, and the other carriers "turn over their 'call-detail records,' a complete listing of the calling histories of their millions of customers," and provide the NSA with "updates" of the call-detail records. The confidential sources for the story reported that the NSA informed the carriers that it was willing to pay for the cooperation, and that both "AT&T, which at the time was headed by C. Michael Armstrong," and "SBC, headed by Ed Whitacre," agreed to provide the NSA with the requested information.

32. The USA Today story reported that the NSA requested that Qwest Communications, Inc. ("Qwest"), another telecommunications carrier, provide the NSA with its customers' call-detail records, but Qwest refused. Qwest requested that the NSA first obtain a court order, a letter of authorization from the U.S. Attorney General's office, or permission from a Court operating under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act ("FISA"), but the NSA refused, because it was concerned that the FISA Court and the Attorney General would find the NSA's request unlawful.

33. As of the date of the filing of this Complaint, no part of the USA Today story has been publicly denied by any representative of the federal government, including the NSA.

34. On May 16, 2006, in an article entitled "BellSouth Denies NSA Contract," eWeek.com reported that BellSouth's vice president of corporate communications, Jeff Battcher, in an interview disputed the accuracy of information contained in the May 11, 2006 USA Today article but "note[d] that his company owns 40 percent of wireless carrier Cingular" and that he "[didn't] want to speak for Cingular".

35. Qwest's decision not to participate was also reported in an article from The New York Times on May 13, 2006 entitled, "Questions Raised for Phone Giants in Spy Data Furor." The article reported that Qwest's former CEO, Joseph Nacchio, "'made inquiry as to whether a warrant or other legal process had been secured in support of that request. When he learned that no such authority had been granted and that there was a disinclination on the part of the authorities to use any legal process,' Nacchio concluded that the requests violated federal privacy requirements 'and issued instructions to refuse to comply.'" According to the May 11, 2006 USA Today article, "Nacchio's successor, Richard Notebaert, finally pulled the plug on the NSA talks in late 2004."

36. Senator Christopher "Kit" Bond (R-MO), who also has received access to information on warrantless surveillance operations, explained on May 11, 2006 on a PBS Online NewsHour program entitled "NSA Wire Tapping Program Revealed" that "[t]he president's program uses information collected from phone companies . . . what telephone number called what other telephone number."

37. On May 14, 2006, when Senate Majority Leader William Frist (R-TN) was asked on CNN Late Edition with Wolf Blitzer whether he was comfortable with the program described in the USA Today article, he stated "Absolutely. I am one of the people who are briefed . . . I've known about the program. I am absolutely convinced that you, your family, our families are safer because of this particular program."

38. Senator Pat Roberts (R-KS), the chair of Senate Intelligence Committee, described the program on "All Things Considered" on NPR on May 17, 2006. When asked about whether he had been briefed that the NSA had collected millions of phone records for domestic calls, Roberts stated: "Well, basically, if you want to get into that, we're talking about business records."

39. On May 29, 2006, Seymour Hersh reported in The New Yorker in an article entitled "Listening In" that a security consultant working with a major telecommunications carrier "told me that his client set up a top-secret high-speed circuit between its main computer complex and Quantico, Virginia, the site of a government-intelligence computer center. This link provided direct access to the carrier's network core – the critical area of its system, where all its data are stored. 'What the companies are doing is worse than turning over records,' the consultant said. 'They're providing total access to all the data.'"

40. A June 30, 2006 USA Today story reported that 19 Members of the intelligence oversight committees of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives "who had been briefed on the program verified that the NSA has built a database that includes records of Americans' domestic phone calls," and that four of the committee Members confirmed that "MCI, the long-distance carrier that Verizon acquired in January, did provide call records to the government."

41. Defendants knowingly and intentionally provide the aforementioned telephone contents and records to the federal government.

42. As part of the Program, NSA's operational personnel identify particular individual targets and their communications, through a software data mining process that NSA runs against vast databases of the Defendants' stored electronic records of their customers' telephone communications, in search of particular names, numbers, words or phrases, and patterns of interest. Upon information and belief, NSA's operational personnel also identify communications of interest in real time through similar data-mining software functionality.

43. Besides actually eavesdropping on specific conversations, NSA personnel have intercepted large volumes of domestic and international telephone and Internet traffic in search of patterns of interest, in what has been described in press reports as a large "data mining" program.

44. As part of this data-mining program, the NSA intercepts millions of communications made or received by people inside the United States and uses powerful computers to scan their contents for particular names, numbers, words, or phrases.

45. Additionally, the NSA collects and analyzes a vast amount of communications traffic data to identify persons whose communications patterns the government believes may link them, even if indirectly, to investigatory targets.

46. The NSA has accomplished its massive surveillance operation by arranging with some of the nation's largest telecommunications companies to gain direct access to the telephone and Internet communications transmitted via those companies' domestic telecommunications facilities, and to those companies' records pertaining to the communications they transmit.

47. Defendants have intercepted and continue to provide the government with direct access to all or a substantial number of the communications transmitted through its key domestic telecommunications facilities, including direct access to streams of domestic, international, and foreign telephone and Internet communications.

48. Since in or about October 2001, Defendants have disclosed and/or divulged the "call-detail records" of all or substantially all of their customers including Plaintiffs to the NSA, in violation of federal law, as more particularly set forth below.

49. Defendants have, since in or about October 2001, been disclosing to the NSA "individually identifiable customer proprietary network information" belonging to all or substantially all of their customers including Plaintiffs, in violation of federal law, as more particularly set forth below.

50. Defendants have disclosed and continue to disclose and/or provide the government with direct access to its databases of stored telephone records, which are updated with new information in real time or near-real time.

51. Defendants have provided at all relevant times and continue to provide computer or storage processing services to the public by means of wire, radio, electromagnetic, photo-optical, or photo-electronic facilities for the transmission of wire or electronic communications, and/or by means of computer facilities or related electronic equipment for the electronic storage of such communications.

52. Defendants have knowingly authorized, and continue to knowingly authorize, NSA and affiliated governmental agencies to install and use, or have assisted government agents in installing or using, interception devices and pen registers and/or trap and trace devices on the Defendants' domestic telecommunications facilities in connection with the Program.

53. The interception devices and pen registers and/or trap and trace devices capture, record or decode the various information pertaining to individual class member communications including dialing, routing, addressing and/or signaling information ("DRAS information") for all or a substantial number of all wire or electronic communications transferred through the Defendants' domestic telecommunications facilities where those devices have been installed.

54. Using these devices, government agents have acquired and are acquiring wire or electronic communications content and DRAS information directly via remote or local control of the device, and/or the Defendants have disclosed and are disclosing those communications and information to the government after interception, capture, recording, or decoding.

55. Defendants have knowingly authorized, and continue to knowingly authorize, NSA and affiliated governmental agencies to directly access through the installed devices all wireless telephone communications transmitted through the Defendants' domestic telecommunications infrastructure and facilities for use in the Program.

56. Defendants intercept, divulge, and/or disclose to the federal government the aforementioned telephone communications contents and records without probable cause. Furthermore, Defendants have not received and/or are not acting within the scope of, in accord with, or in good faith reliance on, any statutory authorization, legislative authorization, subpoena, court order or warrant, nor any certification, request, or other lawful authorization under Chapter 119, 121, or 206 of Title 18 or Chapter 36 of Title 50, purporting to authorize the aforementioned conduct.

57. To the best of Plaintiffs' counsel's knowledge, information, and belief, formed after reasonable inquiry under the circumstances and likely to have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for further investigation and discovery, Defendants' interception, divulgence and/or disclosure to the of the aforementioned telephone communications content and records is willful, in bad faith, and done in collusion with the government, for purposes of direct or indirect commercial advantage or private financial gain, and a failure to cooperate might have jeopardized their ability to obtain lucrative government contracts.

58. Defendants did not disclose to its customers, including Plaintiffs, that it was providing the aforementioned telephone contents and records to the federal government. Thus, Defendants' customers, including Plaintiffs, had no opportunity to, and did not, consent to the disclosure of their telephone contents and records.

59. The telephone contents and records intercepted and/or disclosed and/or divulged by the Defendants to the federal government pursuant to the program challenged herein were not divulged (a) pursuant to a law enforcement investigation concerning telemarketing fraud; (b) as a necessary incident to the rendition of services to customers;

(c) to protect the rights or property of the Defendants; (d) based on a reasonable and/or good faith belief that an emergency involving danger of death or serious physical injury required disclosure without delay; (e) to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children; or (f) to a non-governmental person or entity.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

60. Plaintiff brings this action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23 on behalf of themselves and a Class, defined as:

> All individuals and entities located in the United States that have been subscribers or customers of Defendant's wireless, wire and/or electronic communication services at any time since October 6, 2001. Excluded from the Class are Defendant, Defendant's predecessors, affiliates, parents, subsidiaries, officers and directors; all federal, state, and local governmental entities; any and all judges and justices assigned to hear any aspect of this litigation, their court staffs, their spouses, any minor children residing in their households, and any persons within the third degree of relationship to any judge or justice assigned to hear any aspect of this litigation.

61. Plaintiffs seek certification of the Class under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a), 23(b)(1), 23(b)(2), and 23(b)(3).

62. The Class numbers in the millions, so that joinder of all Members is impractical.

63. The claims of Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the Class. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class. Plaintiffs have no conflicts with any other Class members and have retained competent counsel experienced in class actions, consumer, telecommunications, and civil rights litigation.

64. Common questions of law and fact exist, including:

a. Whether Defendants intercepted its customers' wire and electronic communications;

b. Whether Defendants disclosed and/or divulged its customers' telephone records and content to the federal government;

c. Whether the Defendants violated federal law in disclosing and/or divulging its customers' telephone records and content to the federal government;

d. Whether Plaintiffs and Class Members are entitled to damages; and

e. Whether Plaintiffs and Class Members are entitled to equitable relief.

65. These and other questions of law and fact are common to the Class predominate over any questions affecting only individual Members.

66. A class action is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy described herein. A class action provides an efficient and manageable method to enforce the rights of Plaintiff and member of the Class.

67. The prosecution of separate actions by individual Members of the Class would create a risk on inconsistent or varying adjudication, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendant.

68. Defendant has acted, and refused to act, on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate relief with respect to the Class as a whole.

NECESSITY OF INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

69. The named Plaintiffs and the Members of the Class will continue in the future to use their telephones.

70. Unless this Court enjoins the Defendants' program challenged herein, the Defendants will continue to engage in the program.

71. The named Plaintiffs and the Members of the Class will suffer irreparable harm as a result of the continuation of the Defendants' program, and they have no adequate remedy at law.

Defendants have not been provided with a certification in writing by a person specified in 18 U.S.C. § 2518(7) or by the Attorney General of the United States meeting the requirements of 18 U.S.C. § 2511(2)(a)(ii)(B), i.e., a certification that no warrant or court order authorizing the disclosures is required by law, and that all statutory requirements have been met.

82. The disclosures were not and are not authorized by any statute or legislation.

83. Defendants' disclosures in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(3) were and are knowing, intentional, and willful.

84. There is a strong likelihood that Defendants are now engaging in and will continue to engage in the above-described divulgence of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' communications while in electronic storage by Defendants' electronic communication service(s), and/or while carried or maintained by Defendants' remote computing service(s), and that likelihood represents a credible threat of immediate future harm.

85. Plaintiffs and Class Members have been and are aggrieved by Defendants' above-described divulgence of the contents of their communications.

86. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2707, which provides a civil action for any person aggrieved by knowing or intentional violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2702, Plaintiffs and Class Members seek such preliminary and other equitable or declaratory relief as may be appropriate; statutory damages of no less than $1,000 for each aggrieved Plaintiff or Class Member; punitive damages as the Court considers just; and reasonable attorneys' fees and other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(3)

87. Plaintiffs incorporate all of the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint, as if set forth fully herein.

88. In relevant part, 18 U.S.C. § 2702 provides that:

> a. Prohibitions. Except as provided in subsection . . . (c)
> > (3) a provider of . . . electronic communication service to the public shall not knowingly divulge a record or other information pertaining to a subscriber to or customer of such service (not including the contents of communications covered by paragraph (1) or (2)) to any governmental entity.

89. Defendants' telephone services are "electronic communication service[s]," as that term is defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2510(15), provided to the public, including Plaintiffs and Class Members.

90. Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(3) by knowingly and intentionally divulging to the federal government records or other information pertaining to subscribers or customers of the Defendants' remote computing and electronic services.

91. Defendants' challenged program of disclosing telephone records to the federal government does not fall within any of the statutory exceptions or immunities set forth in 18 U.S.C. §§ 2702(c), 2703(c), or 2703(e).

92. Neither the NSA nor any other governmental entity has obtained a warrant authorizing the disclosures, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1)(A).

93. Neither the NSA nor any other governmental entity has obtained a court order authorizing the disclosures, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1)(B) and (d).

94. Neither the NSA nor any other governmental entity has issued or obtained an administrative subpoena authorized by a federal or state statute authorizing such disclosures, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1)(E) and (c)(2).

95. Neither the NSA nor any other governmental entity has issued or obtained a federal or state grand jury or trial subpoena authorizing such disclosures, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(c)(1)(E) and (c)(2).

96. Defendant has not been provided with a certification in writing by a person specified in 18 U.S.C. § 2518(7) or by the Attorney General of the United States meeting the requirements of 18 U.S.C. § 2511(2)(a)(ii)(B), i.e., a certification that no warrant or court order authorizing the disclosures is required by law and that all statutory requirements have been met.

97. The disclosures were not and are not authorized by any statute or legislation.

98. Whether or how the NSA, or any other governmental entity, actually used the records after they were divulged is irrelevant to whether Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(3).

99. Plaintiffs and their Class are aggrieved by the Defendants' knowing and intentional past disclosure and/or imminent future disclosure of their records to the federal government. Accordingly, plaintiffs may challenge this violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2702(a)(3) pursuant to the cause of action created by 18 U.S.C. § 2707(a).

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2511(1)(a), (1)(c), (1)(d), and (3)(a)

100. Plaintiffs incorporate all of the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint, as if set forth fully herein.

101. In relevant part, 18 U.S.C. § 2511 provides that:

> (1) Except as otherwise specifically provided in this chapter, any person who – (a) intentionally intercepts, endeavors to intercept, or procures any other person to intercept or endeavor to intercept, any wire, oral or electronic communication. . . . (c) intentionally discloses, or endeavors to disclose, to any other person the contents of any wire, oral, or electronic communication, knowing or having reason to know that the information was obtained through the interception of a wire, oral, or electronic communication in violation of this subsection; (d) intentionally uses, or endeavors to disclose, to any other person the contents of any wire, oral, or electronic communication, knowing or having reason to know that the information was obtained through the interception of a wire, oral, or electronic communication in violation of this subsection. . . . . (3)(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection, a person or entity providing an electronic communication service to the public shall not intentionally divulge the contents of any communication (other than one to such person or entity, or an agent thereof) while in transmission on that service to any person or entity other than addressee or intended recipient of such communication or an agent of such addressee or intended recipient.

102. Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. §§ 2511(1)(a), (1)(c), (1)(d), and (3)(a) by intentionally intercepting and disclosing to the federal government the contents of telephone calls of the Defendants' customers.

103. Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. § 2511(1)(d) by intentionally using, or endeavoring to use, the contents of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' wire or electronic communications, while knowing or having reason to know that the information was obtained through the interception of wire or electronic communications.

104. Defendants' challenged program of intercepting and disclosing the contents of telephone calls to the federal government does not fall within any of the statutory exceptions or immunities set forth in 18 U.S.C. §§ 2511(2), 2511(3)(b), or 2520(d). Defendants acted on bad faith and/or acted without a facially valid court order or certification.

105. Plaintiffs and their Class are aggrieved by the Defendants' intentional past and/or imminent future interception and disclosure of telephone call contents to the federal government. Accordingly, Plaintiffs may challenge this violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2511(1)(a), (1)(c), (1)(d) and (3)(a) pursuant to the cause of action created by 18 U.S.C. § 2520(a).

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
Violation of 47 U.S.C. § 605

106. Plaintiffs incorporate all of the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint, as if set forth fully herein.

107. In relevant part, 47 U.S.C. § 605 provides that:

> (a) Practices prohibited – Except as authorized by chapter 119, Title 18, no person receiving, assisting in receiving, transmitting, or assisting in transmitting, any interstate or foreign communication by wire or radio shall divulge or publish the existence . . . thereof, except through authorized channels of transmission or reception, (1) to any person other than the addressee, his agent, or attorney, (2) to a person employed or authorized to forward such communication to its destination, (3) to proper accounting or distributing officers of the various communicating centers over which the communication may be passed, (4) to the master of a ship under whom he is serving, (5) in response to a subpoena issued by a court of competent jurisdiction, or (6) on demand of other lawful authority.

108. Defendants received, assisted in receiving, transmitted, or assisted in transmitting, Plaintiff's and Class Members' interstate communications by wire or radio.

109. Defendants violated 47 U.S.C. § 605 by divulging or publishing the "existence" of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' communications to the federal government by means other than through authorized channels of transmission or reception. Defendants' disclosure and publication of the existence of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' communications was not authorized by any provision of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2510-2522.

110. Defendants' disclosure and publication of the existence of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' communications was willful and for purposes of direct or indirect commercial advantage or private financial gain as they were paid for their cooperation, and a failure to cooperate might have jeopardized their ability to obtain lucrative government contracts.

111. Defendants failed to notify Plaintiff or Class Members of Defendants' disclosure and/or publication of the existence of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' communications nor did Plaintiffs or Class Members consent to such disclosure and publication.

112. Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. § 605(e)(3), Plaintiffs and Class Members seek:

a. a declaration that the disclosures are in violation of 47 U.S.C. § 605(a);

b. a preliminary injunction restraining Defendant from continuing to make such unlawful disclosures;

c. a permanent injunction restraining Defendant from continuing to make such unlawful disclosures;

d. statutory damages of not less than $1,000 or more than $10,000 for each violation, plus, in the Court's discretion, an increase in the statutory damages of up to $100,000 for each violation; and

e. reasonable attorneys' fees and reasonable costs of this litigation.

> (a) Prohibited activities – A person is guilty of an offense if he intentionally – (1) engages in electronic surveillance under color of law except as authorized by statute; or (2) discloses or uses information obtained under color of law by electronic surveillance, knowing or having reason to know that the information was obtained through electronic surveillance not authorized by statute.

115. In relevant part 50 U.S.C. §180l provides that:

> (f) "Electronic surveillance" means – (1) the acquisition by an electronic, mechanical, or other surveillance device of the contents of any wire or radio communication sent by or intended to be received by a particular, known United States person who is in the United States, if the contents are acquired by intentionally targeting that United States person, under circumstances in which a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy and a warrant would be required for law enforcement purposes; (2) the acquisition by an electronic, mechanical, or other surveillance device of the contents of any wire communication to or from a person in the United States, without the consent of any party thereto, if such acquisition occurs in the United States, but does not include the acquisition of those communications of computer trespassers that would be permissible under section 2511 (2)(i) of Title 18; (3) the intentional acquisition by an electronic, mechanical, or other surveillance device of the contents of any radio communication, under circumstances in which a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy and a warrant would be required for law enforcement purposes, and if both the sender and all intended recipients are located within the United States; or (4) the installation or use of an electronic, mechanical, or other surveillance device in the United States for monitoring to acquire information, other than from a wire or radio > communication, under circumstances in which a person has a reasonable expectation of privacy and a warrant would be required for law enforcement purposes.

116. Defendants have intentionally acquired by means of a surveillance device, the contents of one or more wire communications to or from Plaintiffs and Class Members, or other information in which Plaintiffs or Class Members have a reasonable expectation of privacy, without the consent of any party thereto, and such acquisition occurred in the United States.

117. By the acts alleged herein, Defendants have intentionally engaged in electronic surveillance (as defined by 50 U.S. C. §1801(f)) under color of law but which is not authorized by any statute, and the Defendants have intentionally subjected Plaintiffs and Class Members to such electronic surveillance, in violation of 50 U.S.C. § 1809.

118. Additionally, or in the alternative, by the acts alleged herein Defendants have intentionally disclosed or used information obtained under color of law by electronic surveillance, knowing or having reason to know that the information was obtained through electronic surveillance not authorized by statute.

119. Defendants did not notify Plaintiffs or Class Members of the above-described electronic surveillance, disclosure, and/or use, nor did Plaintiffs or Class Members consent to such.

120. Defendants' challenged program of electronic surveillance does not fall within any of the statutory exceptions or immunities set forth in 50 U.S.C. § 1809(b).

121. There is a strong likelihood that Defendants are now engaging in and will continue to engage in the above-described electronic surveillance, disclosure, and/or use of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' wire communications described herein, and that likelihood represents a credible threat of immediate future harm.

122. Plaintiffs and Class Members have been and are aggrieved by the Defendants' electronic surveillance, disclosure, and/or use of their wire communications.

123. Pursuant to 50 U.S.C. § 1810, which provides a civil action for any person who has been subjected to an electronic surveillance or about whom information obtained by electronic surveillance of such person has been disclosed or used in violation of 50 U.S.C. §1809, Plaintiffs and Class Members seek equitable and declaratory relief; statutory damages for each Plaintiff and Class Member of whichever is the greater of $100 a day for each day of violation or $1,000; punitive damages as appropriate; and reasonable attorneys' fees and other litigation costs reasonably incurred.
