

1 MICHAEL A. JACOBS (CA SBN 111664)
mjacobs@mofo.com
2 RICHARD S.J. HUNG (CA SBN 197425)
rhung@mofo.com
3 MORRISON & FOERSTER LLP
4 425 Market Street
San Francisco, CA 94105-2482
5 Telephone: (415) 268-7000
Facsimile: (415) 268-7522
6 ATTORNEYS FOR YAHOO! INC.
7

8 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
9 NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
10 SAN JOSE DIVISION
11

12 SOFTWARE RIGHTS ARCHIVE, LLC,

13 Plaintiff,

14 v.

15 GOOGLE INC., YAHOO! INC., IAC
SEARCH & MEDIA, INC., AOL LLC,
16 and LYCOS, INC.

17 Defendants.
18
19
20

Case No. Misc. Action C-09-80004-RMW¹

(Case No. 2:07-cv-511 (CE) pending in the Eastern District of Texas)

REPLY BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF
YAHOO!'S MOTIONS TO COMPEL
COMPLIANCE WITH SUBPOENAS ON
WILSON SONSINI GOODRICH & ROSATI
AND MURRAY & MURRAY P.C.

HEARING REQUESTED

Date: April 17, 2009
Time: 9:00 AM
Judge: Ronald M. Whyte

21
22
23
24
25
26
27 ¹ Consolidated for hearing with Google v. Egger, Case No. 5:08-03172-RMW.
28

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES.....ii

ABBREVIATIONS.....iii

INTRODUCTION..... 1

ARGUMENT 2

1. SRA Has No Standing to Object on Site Tech’s Behalf. 2

2. The Attorney-Client Privilege No Longer Protects Site Tech’s Documents, as Site Tech Is Dissolved..... 3

 A. Dissolved Corporations Do Not Retain the Privilege. 3

 B. Site Tech’s “Suspended” Status Is Irrelevant..... 6

3. No One Has Validly Asserted the Privilege on Site Tech’s Behalf. 7

 A. Mr. Ait Cannot Assert the Privilege..... 7

 B. SRA Is Not Entitled to Assert the Privilege for Site Tech. 8

 C. Murray’s & WSGR’s Privilege Assertions Depend on SRA’s..... 8

4. The Work Product Doctrine Does Not Apply..... 9

5. The Documents Sought Are Plainly Relevant..... 10

 A. The Bankruptcy Documents Are Relevant to SRA’s Standing
 Defense..... 10

 B. WSGR’s Corporate Documents Also Are Relevant to SRA’s
 Standing Defense..... 11

 C. SRA Concedes that Murray’s and WSGR’s Documents Are Relevant to Other Issues..... 11

6. The Requested Discovery Is Not Burdensome..... 12

7. The Requested Discovery Is Not Duplicative. 12

8. SRA Has Delayed Resolution of This Motion, Not Yahoo! 13

9. SRA’s Claim of “Unfairness” Is Incorrect, Particularly As It Has Already
 Accessed Many of the Requested Documents..... 14

CONCLUSION 15

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

Page(s)

CFTC v. Weintraub,
471 U.S. 343 (1985) 5, 7

City of Rialto v. U.S. Dep’t of Defense,
492 F. Supp. 2d 1193 (C.D. Cal. 2007)..... 3, 4, 5

Gilliland v. Geramita,
Case No. 2:05-CV-01059, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 65546 (W.D. Pa. Sept. 14, 2006) 4, 5, 7

In re Grand Jury Subpoenas,
803 F.2d 493 (9th Cir. 1986)..... 15

In re Grand Jury Subpoena #06-1,
Case Nos. 07-18889 & 07-2024, 2008 WL 1781357 (4th Cir. Apr. 21, 2008) 6

In re JMP Newcor Int’l, Inc.
204 B.R. 963 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1997)..... 6, 9

Lewis v. United States,
Case No. 02-2958, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26680 (W.D. Tenn. Dec. 7, 2004)..... 4, 5, 6

Nelson Constr. Co. v. United States,
Case No. 051205C, 2008 WL 5049304 (Fed. Cl. Nov. 18, 2008) 6

Overton v. Todman & Co.,
249 F.R.D. 147 (S.D.N.Y. 2008)..... 6

Randy Int’l, Ltd. v. Automatic Compactor Corp., 412 N.Y.S.2d 995 (1979) 4

Swidler & Berlin v. Hamilton
524 U.S. 399 (1998) 4

Telectronics Proprietary Ltd. v. Medtronic, Inc.,
836 F.2d 1332 (Fed. Cir. 1988) 8

Truswal Sys. Corp. v. Hydro-Air Eng’g, Inc.,
813 F.2d 1207 (Fed. Cir. 1987)..... 11

United States v. Layton,
855 F.2d 1388 (9th Cir. Cal. 1988) 8

United States v. Naegele,
468 F. Supp. 2d 165 (D.D.C. 2007) 9

ABBREVIATIONS

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

Software Rights Archive, Inc. & Daniel Egger (collectively)	“SRA”
site/technologies/inc. or Libertech Inc.	“Libertech”
Site Technologies, Inc. or Deltapoint, Inc.	“Site Tech”
Google, Inc., Yahoo!, Inc., IAC Search & Media, Inc., AOL LLC, and Lycos, Inc. (defendants in Case No. 2:07-cv-511 (CE) (E.D. Tex.))	“Defendants”
Murray & Murray, P.C.	“Murray”
Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati P.C.	“WSGR”
Order Confirming Amended Plan of Reorganization, dated June 12, 2000	“Plan”
Deposition Transcript of Jeffrey F. Ait, dated September 30, 2008	Ait Dep. Tr.
Yahoo! Inc.’s Motion to Compel Compliance with Its Subpoena on Murray & Murray, dated January 20, 2009 [Docket No. 1 (Misc. Action C-09-80004)]	“Op. Br. (WSGR)”
Declaration of Francis C. Ho in Support of Yahoo! Inc.’s Motion to Compel Compliance with Its Subpoena on Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, dated January 20, 2009 [Docket No. 7 (Misc. Action C-09-80004)]	“Ho Decl. (WSGR)”
Yahoo! Inc.’s Motion to Compel Compliance with Its Subpoena on Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, dated January 20, 2009 [Docket No. 6 (Misc. Action C-09-80004)]	“Op. Br. (Murray)”
Declaration of Francis C. Ho in Support of Yahoo! Inc.’s Motion to Compel Compliance with Its Subpoena on Murray & Murray, dated January 20, 2009 [Docket No. 2 (Misc. Action C-09-80004)]	“Ho Decl. (Murray)”
Murray & Murray’s Opposition to Motion to Compel Compliance with Yahoo! Inc.’s Subpoena on Murray & Murray P.C., dated March 24, 2009 [Docket No. 20 (Misc. Action C-09-80004); Docket No. 84 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“Murray Opp’n”
Declaration of Joseph J. De Hope, Jr. in Opposition to Motion to Compel Compliance with Yahoo! Inc. Subpoena on Murray & Murray P.C., dated March 24, 2009 [Docket No. 21 (Misc. Action C-09-80004); Docket No. 85 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“De Hope Decl.”

1	Memorandum of Points & Authorities of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati in Opposition to Motion to Compel by Yahoo!, dated March 26, 2009 [Docket No. 22 (Misc. Action C-09-80004); Docket No. 86 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“WSGR Opp’n”
2
3
4	Declaration of Mark Parnes in Opposition to Motion to Compel by Yahoo! Inc., dated March 26, 2009 [Docket No. 23 (Misc. Action C-09-80004); Docket No. 87 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“Parnes Decl.”
5
6	Respondents’ Opposition to Motion to Compel Compliance with Yahoo!’s Subpoena on Murray & Murray, filed March 27, 2009 [Docket No. 92 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“SRA Opp’n (Murray)”
7
8	Respondents’ Opposition to Motion to Compel Compliance with Yahoo!’s Subpoena on Wilson, Sonsini, Goodrich & Rosati, filed March 27, 2009 [Docket No. 88 (C-08-03172-RMW)]	“SRA Opp’n (WSGR)”
9
10	Declaration of Lee L. Kaplan to Respondents’ Opposition to Motion to Compel Compliance with Yahoo!’s Subpoena on Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, dated March 27, 2009	“Kaplan Decl.”
11
12
13	Declaration of Richard S.J. Hung in Support of Yahoo!’s Motion to Compel Compliance with Subpoenas on Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati and Murray & Murray, dated April 3, 2009	“Hung Decl.”
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23

INTRODUCTION

Since last September, SRA has incorrectly asserted that its counsel is authorized to represent Site Tech. Using that incorrect assertion, SRA has thwarted Defendants’ efforts to obtain discovery from Site Tech. Specifically it has instructed Site Tech’s former advisors, Murray and WSGR, not to produce any documents in response to Yahoo!’s subpoenas.

As SRA’s recent opposition to Yahoo!’s motions makes crystal clear, SRA has never had a valid basis for interfering with these discovery efforts. Seven months after Yahoo! first raised the issue, SRA finally concedes that its lawyers cannot validly represent Site Tech; its opposition was filed on behalf of SRA “alone.”²

In view of this concession, the Court should order Murray and WSGR to comply with Yahoo!’s subpoenas immediately. Both Murray’s and WSGR’s refusals to produce responsive documents were based entirely on SRA’s counsel’s invalid claim to represent Site Tech – a claim that no longer applies. Indeed, Murray and WSGR hardly dispute Yahoo!’s entitlement to their documents now. Murray two-page opposition simply seeks the Court’s “guidance” as to whether there is an “existing holder” of Site Tech’s privileges.³ WSGR likewise agrees to “comply with this Court’s decision regarding the existence of the Site Tech, the existence of the attorney-client privilege, and whether documents should be produced.”⁴

The only party raising any serious objection to Murray’s and WSGR’s compliance is SRA – who has been incorrectly asserting its counsel’s ability to represent Site Tech all along. SRA lacks standing to raise these arguments, as it has never moved to quash Yahoo!’s subpoenas or for a protective order. And because SRA is not the holder of Site Tech’s privilege, it cannot assert it. But even if SRA were entitled to have this Court hear its objections, none of these objections

24 ² SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 1 (“Yahoo! has raised questions about [SRA’s counsel’s] representation of Site Tech. . . . [T]his opposition brief is filed on behalf of SRA and Egger alone.”); SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 1 (same).

25
26 ³ Murray Opp’n at 2.

27 ⁴ WSGR Opp’n at 4.

1 would warrant Murray and WSGR's non-production of documents.

2 For example, SRA argues that Yahoo!'s on-point authority that a dissolved corporation's
3 privilege is extinguished is trumped by a Supreme Court decision involving a deceased
4 individual's privilege. Yet SRA's own authority confirms that the privilege differs for individuals
5 and corporations. SRA also contends that Jeffrey Ait, Site Tech's former CEO and former 6 Responsible Person, retains the power to assert the privilege. But Mr. Ait testified under oath that
7 he has not been Site Tech's CEO or Responsible Person for years. SRA further argues that Site
8 Tech is not really "dissolved" because a California website lists its status as "suspended." SRA
9 ignores that, when the bankruptcy court entered the January 6, 2004 Final Decree, it caused Site
10 Tech to be "dissolved and its corporate existence terminated without further corporate action."

11 Finally, while SRA argues that Yahoo!'s subpoenas seek irrelevant information, not even 12 Murray or WSGR raises this argument to avoid complying with Yahoo!'s subpoenas. Elsewhere
13 in SRA's oppositions, SRA concedes that Yahoo!'s subpoenas seek relevant information. And 14 while the Texas court recently denied Defendants' standing motion, this does not "moot"
15 Yahoo!'s motions as SRA claims. Indeed, the discovery sought may contradict SRA's alter ego
16 arguments (on which the judge relied), thereby justifying reconsideration of the ruling.

17 SRA has interfered with Yahoo!'s efforts to obtain discovery from Site Tech for far too
18 long. Because the privilege does not protect Site Tech's documents, and SRA can raise no valid
19 reason to prevent their production, Yahoo! asks that the Court order Murray and WSGR to 20 produce all documents responsive to its subpoenas immediately.

21 ARGUMENT

22 1. SRA Has No Standing to Object on Site Tech's Behalf.

23 As Yahoo! noted in its opening briefs, SRA was required to move for a protective order or
24 to quash the subpoenas to participate in these motions.⁵ It is undisputed that SRA has done
25 neither. While SRA pays lip service to this requirement, it offers no reason for its failure to

26
27 ⁵ Op. Br. (WSGR) at 13 n.34 (citing McCoy v. Sw. Airlines Co., 211 F.R.D. 381, 384
28 (C.D. Cal. 2002)).

1 comply. Instead, it simply asks that the requirement be ignored.⁶

2 Even if SRA had moved to quash or for a protective order, SRA cannot justify its
3 participation in these motions. SRA’s only apparent justification is its claim that “review[ing]
4 and “analyz[ing]” Murray’s and WSGR’s productions would be an “unnecessary burden.”⁷ This
5 contention fails for at least two reasons. First, for the subpoena on Murray, Yahoo! and Murray
6 have not yet had the opportunity to reach agreement about the appropriate scope of production, as
7 Murray asserts threshold privilege objections. As a result, SRA has no idea what the actual scope
8 of Murray’s production will be. Second, and more importantly, any such “review and analysis”
9 cannot be an “unnecessary burden,” at least for WSGR’s documents. This is because SRA’s
10 counsel has already reviewed the documents. WSGR previously gave SRA’s counsel access to 11 these documents (which Yahoo! understands spans fewer than 10 boxes) last December.⁸

12 2. The Attorney-Client Privilege No Longer Protects Site Tech’s Documents, as 13 Site Tech Is Dissolved.

14 A. Dissolved Corporations Do Not Retain the Privilege.

15 As Yahoo! explained in its opening briefs, the Plan specified that Site Tech would be
16 dissolved “without further corporate action” upon entry of the Final Decree.⁹ That event occurred
17 on January 6, 2004.¹⁰ Thus, Site Tech’s documents are no longer privileged.

18 This is required by City of Rialto v. U.S. Dep’t of Defense. There, the court held that “a 19 dissolved corporation is not entitled to assert the attorney-client privilege.”¹¹ City of Rialto’s
20 holding is non-controversial. As the court there noted, “[s]everal courts have agreed with this 21 reasoning and reached the same conclusion.”¹²

22 ⁶ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 16 n.10; SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 16 n.11.

23 ⁷ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 1 n.2; SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 1 n.2.

24 ⁸ Parnes Decl. ¶ 4.

25 ⁹ Op. Br. (WSGR) at 5 (citing Plan at § 7.9); Op. Br. (Murray) at 5 (same).

26 ¹⁰ Ho Decl. (WSGR) Ex. H (Final Decree, dated January 6, 2004).

27 ¹¹ City of Rialto v. U.S. Dep’t of Defense, 492 F. Supp. 2d 1193, 1197 (C.D. Cal. 2007).

28 ¹² Id. at 1199 (citing cases).

1 Nothing in Murray's, WSGR's, or SRA's oppositions detracts from City of Rialto's
2 applicability to this case. Indeed, Murray and WSGR do not even address the decision. For its
3 part, SRA devotes literally pages of its opposition to scattershot attacks on the City of Rialto
4 decision. SRA's arguments fail because:

- 5 • City of Rialto* accounted for Swidler: SRA argues that City of Rialto, which 6 involved corporations, somehow overlooked the Supreme Court's decision in 7 Swidler & Berlin v. Hamilton, which involved individuals.¹³ But City of Rialto
8 acknowledged that for a deceased individual, the privilege survives. It also relied 9 on cases that expressly distinguished Swidler because the privilege held by 10 corporations differs from the privilege held by individuals.¹⁴
- 11 • City of Rialto* is not dictum: SRA argues that City of Rialto's holding is dictum,
12 as the court held that the dissolved corporation's successor-in-interest had waived
13 the privilege. This ignores that the case involved two distinct privilege assertions
14 – one by the dissolved corporation, and one by the successor. The court separately
15 held that “[the] dissolved corporation cannot assert the attorney-client privilege.”¹⁵
- 16 • City of Rialto* applied federal law: SRA suggests that City of Rialto is 17 inapplicable because federal law on privilege applies.¹⁶ This ignores that the court
18 in City of Rialto, a federal question case, looked to “applicable code sections,
19 California law interpreting those code sections and federal law governing attorney-20 client privilege” in “conclud[ing] that a dissolved corporation is not entitled to 21 assert the attorney-client privilege.”¹⁷

17 ¹³ SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 11 (discussing Swidler, 524 U.S. 399, 407 (1998)); SRA Opp'n
18 (Murray) at 11 (same).

19 ¹⁴ City of Rialto, 492 F. Supp. 2d at 1199-1200 (citing Gilliland v. Geramita, Case No.
20 2:05-CV-01059, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 65546, at *13 (W.D. Pa. Sept. 14, 2006) (explaining that 21 “[n]o real purpose would be served by continuing the privilege after operations cease, as the 22 corporation would no longer have any goodwill or reputation to maintain”), and Lewis v. United
23 States, Case No. 02-2958, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26680, at *10-14 (W.D. Tenn. Dec. 7, 2004)
(acknowledging Swidler, but in concluding that “dead” corporations have no privilege)).

22 ¹⁵ City of Rialto, 492 F. Supp. 2d at 1202.

23 ¹⁶ SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 9 n.6; SRA Opp'n (Murray) at 9 n.7.

24 ¹⁷ City of Rialto, 492 F. Supp. 2d. at 1197 (emphasis added). Interestingly, despite 25 arguing that only federal law applies, SRA cites a New York state case, Randy Int'l, Ltd. v.
26 Automatic Compactor Corp., 412 N.Y.S.2d 995, 997 (1979), as allegedly supporting its position
27 that the privilege applies to dissolved corporations. (SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 12; SRA Opp'n 28 (Murray) at 12.) Randy is inapplicable not only because it involved New York state law, but because the corporations involved “apparently continue[d] to exist as legal entit[ies].” See 412
N.Y.S.2d at 997.

- 1 • Corporations & individuals are distinct: Relatedly, and despite City of Rialto,
2 SRA argues that the privilege for individuals and corporations is identical –
3 ignoring that its own Supreme Court authority contradicts this very argument!¹⁸

4 Recognizing the clear weight of authority against its position, SRA preemptively attacks
5 authorities that Yahoo! has not even raised. For example, SRA misreads Gilliland v. Geramita as 6 “not stand[ing] for the proposition that the attorney-client privilege ceases upon corporate 7 dissolution.”¹⁹ It is difficult to square SRA’s reading with the following language from Gilliland:

8 [T]he Court concludes that counsel has no duty to assert the 9 attorney-client privilege on behalf of a non-operating/defunct
10 corporation, and indeed, counsel lacks the ability to do so. . . . No 11 real purpose would be served by continuing the privilege after 12 operations cease, as the corporation would no longer have any
13 goodwill or reputation to maintain.²⁰

14 Similarly, SRA characterizes Lewis v. United States’ holding that “no privilege can apply
15 to a defunct corporation” as dictum.²¹ This argument ignores the court’s statement that this
16 conclusion “len[t] support to the Court’s decision to deny the [underlying] motion to quash.” It
17 also overlooks the court’s “find[ing]” that the privilege did not apply because the corporation was 18 “dead,” “bankrupt and [with] no assets, liabilities, directors, shareholders, or employees.”²²

19 Finally, unable to muster authority to support its position, SRA cites an unpublished
20 Fourth Circuit case and an unreported Court of Federal Claims decision. But as SRA openly
21 concedes, both cases intentionally avoided the issue of whether the privilege applies to dissolved
22

23 ¹⁸ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 10, 15 (citing CFTC v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343 (1985), which 24 distinguishes between the privilege for bankrupt individuals and that for corporations); see City 25 of Rialto, 495 F. Supp. 2d at 1199 (citing Weintraub for the proposition that “the analysis and
26 rationale for asserting the privilege as a corporation is different from the analysis and rationale 27 that applies to individuals.”).

28 ¹⁹ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 11 n.7 (emphasis added); SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 11 n.8.

29 ²⁰ Gilliland, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 65546, at *12-13 (emphasis added). SRA’s attempt 30 to distinguish Gilliland because it “applied Pennsylvania law” also makes no sense; the court in 31 Gilliland specifically relied upon federal authority — including Lewis, Weintraub, and Swidler.

32 ²¹ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 11 n.7; SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 11 n.8.

33 ²² Lewis, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26680 at *12 (emphasis added). Indeed, the Court drove 34 this holding home multiple times. See id. at *12-14.

1 corporations.²³ The latter decision also recognizes that “several courts adhere to the principle that
2 a dissolved corporation does not have the right to assert the attorney-client privilege.”²⁴

3 B. Site Tech’s “Suspended” Status Is Irrelevant.

4 SRA provides a California Secretary of State website printout listing Site Tech’s status as 5 “suspended.” According to SRA, this proves that Site Tech “has never been officially dissolved
6 under California law.”²⁵ This argument fails for multiple reasons.

7 First, it ignores the Plan’s requirement that Site Tech be “dissolved and its corporate 8 existence terminated without further corporate action” upon entry of the Final Decree.²⁶ That 9 occurred on January 6, 2004. Thus, contrary to SRA’s argument, Site Tech has “been officially 10 dissolved under California law” – by express order of a federal bankruptcy judge in this very 11 district. SRA never discusses the effect of this language.

12 Second, Site Tech’s alleged status on a website is irrelevant. As multiple cases make clear
13 (including SRA’s own authority), the privilege was extinguished by no later than the entry of the 14 Final Decree. For example, In re JMP Newcor Int’l, Inc. notes the attorney-client privilege
15 “cease[s] to exist upon confirmation of a [bankruptcy] plan.”²⁷ Similarly, Lewis holds that a
16 company becomes “defunct” (such that the privilege ends) when it is “ordered bankrupt.”²⁸

17 ²³ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 10 (citing In re Grand Jury Subpoena #06-1, Case Nos. 07-
18 18889 & 07-2024, 2008 WL 1781357, at *310 (4th Cir. Apr. 21, 2008) (unpublished) and Nelson
19 Constr. Co. v. United States, Case No. 051205C, 2008 WL 5049304, at *2 (Fed. Cl. Nov. 18, 2008)).

20 ²⁴ Nelson Constr. Co., 2008 WL 5049304, at * 1 (citing City of Rialto, Gilliland, and 21 Lewis). SRA also attempts to rely on Overton v. Todman & Co., 249 F.R.D. 147, 148 (S.D.N.Y.
22 2008). (SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 12). As Overton makes clear, however, the company in that case
23 “had not been dissolved” and “technically [was] still an active corporation.” Overton, 249 F.R.D.
24 at 148. It also still had active officers and “current management.” Id.

25 ²⁵ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 6, 13; SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 6, 14.

26 ²⁶ Ho Decl. (WSGR) Ex. F (Plan § 7.9) (emphasis added).

27 ²⁷ 204 B.R. 963, 964 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 1997) (emphasis added) (cited in SRA Opp’n 28 (WSGR) at 15). SRA’s less-than-forthright analysis of JMP is not limited to this issue. While SRA relies on this case for the proposition the work product doctrine survives a corporation’s death, SRA omits its related holding that the attorney-client privilege does not survive. Id. at 964.

²⁸ Lewis, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26680 at *14.

1 Third, no one disputes that Site Tech is supposed to be dissolved. In the re-opened
2 bankruptcy case, SRA's counsel justified a $1,000 payment from SRA to Mr. Ait by suggesting
3 that it would be applied to dissolve Site Tech.²⁹ Mr. Ait also has acknowledged that Site Tech's
4 "suspended" status is a mistake by Site Tech's former lawyers or the State of California.³⁰

5 3. No One Has Validly Asserted the Privilege on Site Tech's Behalf.

6 It is well-established that corporations act only through their agents.³¹ Even assuming that
7 the privilege somehow still existed, no one with authority has asserted it.³²

8 A. Mr. Ait Cannot Assert the Privilege.

9 Mr. Ait's repeated, sworn testimony was that he is no longer Site Tech's CEO.³³ Mr. Ait
10 also retracted his prior representations that he remains Site Tech's CEO.³⁴ Because Mr. Ait is no
11 longer an officer for Site, he cannot assert the privilege on its behalf. Nor is Mr. Ait currently 12 Responsible Person for the bankrupt estate, as SRA now acknowledges.³⁵ Under the Plan, he was 13 ²⁹ Hung Decl. Ex. H (Transcript of Proceedings, dated December 17, 2008) at 25 ("Mr.

14 Ait has an uncashed check, I think for $1,000, which might be used to pay Site Tech's debts in 15 trying to dissolve the company because apparently there's some unpaid Franchise taxes, or any 16 unpaid fees for a locker in which the documents were once kept.").

16 ³⁰ Hung Decl. Ex. D (Ait Tr.) at 155:4-12 ("Q: Has [Site] been dissolved today? A: I
17 have been in contact with the Franchise Tax Board and I'm trying to file those papers with the 18 state of California. Federally it has been dissolved and I don't know whether it was my legal
19 team who didn't do the right thing or whether the state of California has not got all the right 20 paperwork in place.").

18 ³¹ See Weintraub, 471 U.S. at 356.

19 ³² See Gilliland, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 65546 at *11 ("Defendant cannot meet its burden
20 to prove that the privilege has been validly asserted because there is no person with authority to 21 properly invoke the privilege.").

21 ³³ Hung Decl. Ex. D (Ait Tr.) at 42:14-22 ("Q: Is it fair to say that your CEO duties ended
22 when the bankruptcy occurred? A: Yes. Q. And that's the duties as the CEO of Site? A:
23 Yes."); id. at 43:2-7 ("Q: [Y]ou ceased being CEO when you became the Responsible Person
24 when the bankruptcy was filed for Site, correct? A: Yes."); id. at 167:3-7 ("Q: [Y]ou ceased 25 being chief executive office of Site when it went into bankruptcy? A: That's true.").

24 ³⁴ Compare Hung Decl. Ex. C (Assignment of Patents, dated August 13, 2008) at 25 STI 0011611 ("I, Jeffrey Ait, acted and remains [sic] Chief Executive Officer of Site
26 Technologies, Inc. . . .") with Hung Decl. Ex. F (Third Declaration of Jeffrey F. Ait, dated 27 December 8, 2008) ("I was the Chief Executive Officer of the debtor Site Technologies, Inc. . . .")
28 (emphases added).

³⁵ SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 13-14; SRA Opp'n (Murray) at 14.

1 discharged of “all duties and responsibilities” when the January 6, 2004 Final Decree was
2 entered.³⁶ Mr. Ait expressly conceded this at his deposition.³⁷

3 Critically, even if Mr. Ait were empowered to assert the privilege on Site Tech’s behalf,
4 SRA has offered no evidence that Mr. Ait has done so or empowered anyone else to do so. SRA
5 also offers no evidence of the source of any such alleged power. Additionally, because SRA now
6 concedes that its counsel cannot represent Site Tech, any purported assertions of the privilege by 7 SRA’s counsel on Mr. Ait’s behalf also are invalid.

8 B. SRA Is Not Entitled to Assert the Privilege for Site Tech.

9 As noted above, SRA has no standing to dispute Murray or WSGR’s compliance with 10 Yahoo!’s subpoenas. But even if it did, SRA could not raise Site Tech’s privileges (or former 11 privileges) to shield Site Tech’s former counsel from producing documents.

12 It is well-settled that “[t]he privilege can be invoked only at the instance of the client.”³⁸
13 SRA is neither Murray nor WSGR’s “client” for purposes of Yahoo! subpoenas and it offers no
14 authority justifying its assertion of the privilege on behalf of Site Tech.³⁹

15 C. Murray’s & WSGR’s Privilege Assertions Depend on SRA’s.

16 Murray has made clear that it objects to Yahoo!’s subpoena only at SRA’s counsel’s
17 direction — not at the request of anyone authorized to act on Site Tech’s behalf. Indeed, Murray

18 ³⁶ Ho Decl. (WSGR) Ex. F. (Plan at § 7.3); see also id. Ex. H.

19 ³⁷ Hung Decl. Ex. D (Ait Tr. at 134:14-19 (“Q: [Y]ou would agree with me pursuant to 20 this [Amended Plan of Reorganization], upon the [F]inal [D]ecree being signed by the 21 Bankruptcy Court, you ceased to be the Responsible Person for Site, correct? A: That’s true.”);
22 see also id. at 135:14-22 (“Q: [Y]our role as Responsible Person ended on January 6th of 2004, correct, Mr. Ait? . . . A: I assume.”); id. at 170:2-11 (Q: [Y]our duties as Responsible Person had ended almost four years ago? A: Perhaps. I mean, I don’t know that to be true or not. . . . I don’t know what my Responsible Party Position is.”).

23 ³⁸ United States v. Layton, 855 F.2d 1388, 1406 (9th Cir. Cal. 1988) overruled sub silentio
24 on other grounds, as stated in Territory of Guam v. Ignacio, 10 F.3d 608, 612 n.2 (9th Cir. Cal.
25 1993) (also explaining that “a litigant is entitled to object to adverse testimony by a former attorney only when such testimony would tend to reveal matters disclosed by the litigant in confidence.”) (citation omitted).

26 ³⁹ It is equally well-established that SRA cannot assert the privilege for Site Tech merely 27 because it claims to own the patents. See, e.g., Teletronics Proprietary Ltd. v. Medtronic, Inc.,
836 F.2d 1332, 1336-37 (Fed. Cir. 1988).

1 seeks the Court’s guidance as to whether there is “an existing holder” of Site Tech’s privileges.⁴⁰
2 The same is true for WSGR, which is relying on SRA’s counsel’s advice that “Site Tech is still in
3 existence under California state law and is asserting the attorney client privilege.”⁴¹

4 As SRA has now conceded, its counsel does not (and cannot) represent Site Tech.
5 Because both Murray’s and WSGR’s privilege assertions depended on SRA’s counsel’s
6 instruction, and SRA’s counsel is not authorized to act for Site Tech, Murray’s and WSGR’s
7 privilege assertions do not justify their non-production of documents.

8 4. The Work Product Doctrine Does Not Apply.

9 In its opposition, Murray (but not WSGR) mentioned the “work product privilege” in 10 passing.⁴² It is unclear whether, based on this brief reference, Murray intends to rely on the 11 doctrine to bar discovery of documents in its possession. Assuming that Murray does, however,
12 this bare objection is insufficient to justify its non-production of documents.

13 Among other things, Murray has offered no description (much less a privilege log)
14 explaining why the requested documents were “prepared in anticipation of litigation” under Rule
15 26(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Murray’s prior status as Site Tech’s bankruptcy
16 counsel alone could not justify work product protection, as a “bankruptcy filing [is] not itself
17 ‘litigation’ in anticipation of which protected attorney work product can be created.”⁴³ And even 18 assuming that some documents qualified for work product protection, surely not all of the 19 documents are so protected.⁴⁴

20 ⁴⁰ Murray Opp’n at 2.

21 ⁴¹ WSGR Opp’n at 4; id. at 2.

22 ⁴² Murray Opp’n at 1.

23 ⁴³ See United States v. Naegele, 468 F. Supp. 2d 165, 173 (D.D.C. 2007) (attorney’s 24 bankruptcy files, including draft letters and forms, not work product protected because 25 bankruptcy proceeding not “litigation”); compare with JMP Newcor, 204 B.R. at 964 (contested bankruptcy confirmation qualified as “litigation” for purposes of work product doctrine).

26 ⁴⁴ WSGR’s non-assertion of the work product doctrine is unsurprising; it previously 27 served as Site Tech’s corporate counsel (pre-bankruptcy) and special corporate counsel (postbankruptcy). Should WSGR raise this doctrine, however, the same analysis would apply.

1 5. The Documents Sought Are Plainly Relevant.

2 A. The Bankruptcy Documents Are Relevant to SRA’s Standing Defense.

3 As Yahoo! explained in its opening brief, the documents that Yahoo! has requested from 4 Murray are particularly relevant to Defendants’ standing defense in the Texas action. SRA hardly 5 contests this. SRA argues only that “no documents from Murray & Murray could have any
6 relevance” because SRA is raising only “legal arguments.”⁴⁵

7 But this is a strawman argument. Regardless of whether SRA has raised “legal 8 arguments,” the requested discovery is relevant to disputed, factual issues concerning
9 Defendants’ standing defense. For example, in the Texas action, SRA has argued that the alter
10 ego doctrine operated to transfer Libertech’s interests in the patents to Mr. Egger when Site Tech
11 made its purported transfer. Publicly-available evidence, such as Libertech’s merger into Site
12 Tech in December 2000 during the bankruptcy,⁴⁶ indicates that Libertech and Site Tech continued
13 their separate existences even after the bankruptcy was filed. As a result, Murray’s bankruptcy-
14 related documents are likely to inform, among other things, whether Libertech and Site Tech were 15 operating independently at all times before the June 2000 merger. Such documents would go not 16 to the “legal effect” of the bankruptcy, but directly to SRA’s allegation that Libertech and Site
17 Tech were alter egos of each other.

18 The importance of these documents is underscored by Magistrate Judge Everingham’s
19 recent ruling on Defendants’ standing defense. In his ruling, Judge Everingham accepted SRA’s
20 argument that Libertech and Site were alter egos of one another.⁴⁷ To the extent that the 21 requested documents rebut SRA’s alter ego argument, they would be relevant – and critical – to 22 any motion to reconsider this order.

23 SRA also alleges that “the parties have agreed that discovery at this stage of the case will

24 ⁴⁵ See SRA’s Opp’n (Murray) at 8.

25 ⁴⁶ Hung Decl. Ex. A.

26 ⁴⁷ See Attachment to SRA’s Statement of Recent Decision [Docket 94] (Memorandum 27 Opinion and Order, dated March 31, 2009).

1 be directly [sic] only to the issue of standing.”⁴⁸ This is both false and inconsistent with SRA’s
2 written discovery to the Defendants, which clearly went beyond standing issues.⁴⁹

3 B. WSGR’s Corporate Documents Also Are Relevant to SRA’s Standing
4 Defense.

5 As Yahoo! explained in its opening brief, the documents that Yahoo! has requested from
6 WSGR also are particularly relevant to Defendants’ standing defense. SRA also hardly contests
7 this, again arguing that the requested documents “can have no bearing on [SRA’s] legal 8 questions.”⁵⁰ This argument is wrong for the same reasons noted above. In particular, in light of 9 WSGR’s prior status as corporate counsel, documents uniquely in its possession (e.g., tax returns, 10 Board of Director minutes, corporate records) may demonstrate that Libertech and Site Tech were 11 intended to operate independently before the 1997 stock exchange agreement and continued to 12 operate independently therefore – contradicting SRA’s alter ego claim and, again, justifying a 13 motion for reconsideration of Judge Everingham’s order.

14 C. SRA Concedes that Murray’s and WSGR’s Documents Are Relevant
15 to Other Issues.

16 Putting aside SRA’s alter ego argument, Murray’s and WSGR’s documents are relevant 17 for other purposes. SRA admits this, conceding that “[t]he requested files may also contain 18 patent files that should have been turned over to Daniel Egger in connection with the 1998 Bill of 19 Sale.”⁵¹ Such documents would be relevant to every issue in this suit – not just patent ownership, 20 but validity and infringement. Documents discussing the patents’ value also would be relevant to 21 damages. Yahoo! is entitled to these “patent files” and any of Murray and WSGR’s other records
22 relating to these hotly contested issues, in light of the permissive discovery standard.⁵²

23 ⁴⁸ SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 17.

24 ⁴⁹ Hung Decl. Ex. B (SRA’s First Set of Requests for Admission and Interrogatories, 25 dated August 11, 2008).

26 ⁵⁰ See SRA’s Opp’n (WSGR) at 8.

27 ⁵¹ See SRA’s Opp’n (WSGR) at 4 n.4 (emphasis added); SRA Opp’n (Murray) at 4 n.4.

28 ⁵² Truswal Sys. Corp. v. Hydro-Air Eng’g, Inc., 813 F.2d 1207, 1211-12 (Fed. Cir. 1987)
 (“Relevance under Rule 26(b)(1) is construed more broadly for discovery than for trial
 Where relevance is in doubt, the court should be permissive.”).

1 6. The Requested Discovery Is Not Burdensome.

2 During the meet and confer process before this motion, Murray never alleged that “the 3 cost of complying with the subpoena [would be] substantial.”⁵³ Murray’s sole justification for 4 refusing to produce documents was its reliance on SRA’s counsel’s (invalid) privilege assertions.

5 As a result, Murray’s current claims about “costs” and “burdens” are surprising. Should 6 this Court grant Yahoo!’s motion, Yahoo! is willing to work with Murray to narrow the scope of 7 the requested discovery, as appropriate, to address Murray’s burden and costs. Yahoo! notes,
8 however, that Murray’s cost estimates appear to be grossly excessive. For example, while 9 Murray has only nine attorneys, it suggests that compliance will require analysis of “75gb [of]
10 data” from “9 computers” for a total cost of $81,025. Murray also alleges that copying nine
11 boxes of documents will cost more than $7,180 (or $0.32 a page).⁵⁴

12 Importantly, WSGR does not argue that the requested discovery is burdensome. Indeed, it
13 could not; as previously noted, WSGR has already made all of these documents available for 14 inspection by SRA’s counsel, and the documents are not voluminous.

15 7. The Requested Discovery Is Not Duplicative.

16 SRA (but not Murray or WSGR) alleges that Yahoo!’s subpoena is duplicative of 17 discovery already sought. It is unclear how such duplication, even if true, harms SRA.
18 Regardless, the requested documents are not duplicative. As Site Tech’s sole bankruptcy counsel, 19 Murray is particularly likely to possess documents that no other source possesses. The same is 20 true for WSGR, which acted as Site Tech’s corporate counsel in connection with its stock
21 exchange agreement with Libertech and as its “special corporate counsel” during bankruptcy.

22 SRA’s allegation that the requested discovery is unnecessary because “Site Tech made
23 available to Defendants over fifty boxes of responsive documents, and Defendants copied over 24 ten thousand documents from those boxes” is wrong.⁵⁵ It ignores the circumstances of 25 ⁵³ Murray Opp’n at 2-3.

26 ⁵⁴ De Hope Decl. ¶ 6.

27 ⁵⁵ See SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 1-2.

1 Defendants' access to these documents. Three of Defendants' attorneys had less than ten hours to
2 review fifty boxes of documents in a conference room in Houston. SRA did not allow Defendants
3 to copy the documents directly, but pre-screened their selections for copying. Discovery under 4 these circumstances can hardly be characterized as full discovery.⁵⁶

5 8. SRA Has Delayed Resolution of This Motion, Not Yahoo!

6 SRA suggests that Yahoo! has brought this motion to “delay even further resolution of the 7 standing issue in the Eastern District of Texas.”⁵⁷ Nothing could be further from the truth.

8 Yahoo! first raised the issue of SRA's counsel's authority to represent Site Tech in September
9 2008 by letter.⁵⁸ On that same day – while Defendants' standing motion was pending, and before
10 their reply brief was due, Yahoo! served its subpoena on WSGR. Yahoo! concurrently pursued 11 discovery informally from Murray.

12 When it became clear that SRA would not allow Yahoo! to access the WSGR documents,
13 Yahoo! prepared its motion to compel WSGR and, in November 2008, informed SRA that it
14 would be filing it immediately. Yahoo! delayed this filing only because SRA's counsel asked that 15 Yahoo! accommodate his scheduling preferences⁵⁹ and then proposed that he review the WSGR
16 documents to determine whether motion practice was even necessary. After prolonging this
17 review,⁶⁰ SRA's counsel decided that motion practice would be necessary.⁶¹

18 By this point, it also was clear that Murray also would be relying on SRA's counsel's
19 improper assertions of the privilege for Site Tech. To enable motions relating to both WSGR and 20 Murray to be heard together, Yahoo! subpoenaed Murray in late December and then moved to

21 _____
⁵⁶ SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 18.

22 ⁵⁷ SRA Opp'n (WSGR) at 7; SRA Opp'n (Murray) at 7.

23 ⁵⁸ Ho Decl. (WSGR) Ex. J (R. Hung letter to L. Kaplan, dated September 17, 2008).

24 ⁵⁹ Hung Decl. Ex. E (L. Kaplan e-mail, dated November 24, 2008) (scheduling 25 accommodations to avoid holidays and counsel's birthday).

26 ⁶⁰ Hung Decl. Ex. G (L. Kaplan e-mail, dated December 17, 2008).

27 ⁶¹ Ho Decl. (WSGR) Ex. K (L. Kaplan e-mail, dated December 22, 2008).

1 compel both WSGR and Murray immediately after Murray’s response period had run.

2 SRA continued to delay the resolution of these motions after they were filed. On 3 February 5, 2009, just one day before its original oppositions were due, SRA asked to postpone
4 the hearing so that it could “reinstate” Site Tech.⁶² Despite this justification for postponing the 5 hearing, SRA never did this. To secure Yahoo!’s agreement to this postponement, SRA also
6 agreed “not to use postponement of [these] hearings . . . to argue that the motions [were] moot.”⁶³
7 SRA subsequently asked Yahoo! to prepare, circulate, and re-circulate a stipulation under Rule
8 502 of the Federal Rules of Evidence to avoid motion practice — which SRA delayed reviewing
9 and then rejected without comment.⁶⁴

10 As the preceding makes clear, Yahoo! attempted – repeatedly – to obviate the need for 11 motion practice through good faith (if ultimately fruitless) negotiations with SRA’s counsel.
12 Yahoo! persists with these motions now only to gain full and fair access to relevant documents
13 that are no longer privileged – many of which SRA itself has already reviewed. Yahoo! does not 14 seek this discovery to delay resolution of the standing issue. Indeed, it never sought to extend the 15 Texas briefing deadlines to accommodate its discovery, and Judge Everingham has already ruled.

16 9. SRA’s Claim of “Unfairness” Is Incorrect, Particularly As It Has Already
17 Accessed Many of the Requested Documents.

18 Finally, SRA suggests that it would be “wrong as a matter of fairness” for this court to 19 find that that privilege does not apply, as “Yahoo! has sued Site Tech in a declaratory judgment
20 action in this District” and, via its ally, Sherwood Finance, “filed a motion to reopen Site Tech’s
21 bankruptcy proceedings.”⁶⁵ The opposite is true.

22 Yahoo! believes that Site Tech’s bankruptcy estate actually owns the patents. For that 23 ⁶² Hung Decl. Ex. I (L. Kaplan e-mail, dated February 5, 2009).

24 ⁶³ Hung Decl. Ex. J (L. Kaplan e-mail, dated February 6, 2009).

25 ⁶⁴ Hung Decl. Ex. K (R. Saelao e-mail to L. Kaplan, dated February 17, 2009). The 26 proposed stipulation provided that production of responsive documents would not result in waiver and contemplated a generous clawback provision. Id.

27 ⁶⁵ SRA Opp’n (WSGR) at 14-15.

1 reason, Site Tech was named as a defendant in the declaratory judgment action as a necessary
2 party. Also for this reason, Sherwood Finance moved to re-open the bankruptcy proceedings to 3 confirm Site Tech's ownership. These actions seek to empower Site Tech, not cripple it. In
4 connection with its re-opening motion, Sherwood specifically asked that the bankruptcy court
5 appoint a new Responsible Person to act on the estate's behalf.

6 SRA, by contrast, has acted to prevent Site Tech from acting independently. SRA filed
7 objections to Sherwood's request in the re-opened bankruptcy case. It also persuaded the 8 bankruptcy judge to defer any action by suggesting that it would cooperate with Defendants'
9 efforts to obtain discovery from Site Tech.⁶⁶ As SRA's continued obstruction of discovery from 10 Murray and WSGR makes clear, however, SRA is not cooperating with discovery from Site Tech.

11 Thus, "fairness" does not cut in SRA's favor. Via its counsel's invalid claims of authority
12 to represent Site Tech, SRA has already obtained access to all of Site Tech documents, including 13 those held by WSGR. "Fairness" warrants that Yahoo! and the other Defendants also be entitled 14 to access these same documents immediately.

15 CONCLUSION

16 The party asserting the privilege bears the burden to "demonstrate how the information 17 sought fits within it,"⁶⁷ but none of the parties opposing this motion has come anywhere close to 18 satisfying this burden. Because the Murray and WSGR documents are relevant to Yahoo!'s
19 claims and defenses in the underlying action and are not privileged, Yahoo! asks the Court to 20 compel Murray and WSGR to comply with its subpoenas immediately.

21 Dated: April 3, 2009

MORRISON & FOERSTER LLP

22 By: /s/ Richard S.J. Hung
23 Richard S.J. Hung
24 Attorneys for Defendant Yahoo! Inc.

25 _____
26 ⁶⁶ Hung Decl. Ex. H (Transcript of Proceeding, dated December 17, 2008) at 24-25, 39-40.

27 ⁶⁷ In re Grand Jury Subpoenas, 803 F.2d 493, 496 (9th Cir. 1986).