"Letter of objection to the Google Buzz"

To whom it may concern,

I am objecting to the Settlement of the "Google Buzz". I know that I am entitled to compensation. My privacy rights have been violated and I have had a Gmail account since it was in the beta phase. When I was in the buzz I would have much of my personal information displayed. I have had information such has my social, address and my work information displayed. Many of the contacts they were displayed were VA reps and Human resources personnel that had vital information to my identity. I do feel that my Identity is at danger and that I am at risk of being an Identity theft victim because of what Google had done. The strees, pain and suffering that I have been through has been very stressful on my life. I think that justifies more than enough reason for compensation for my hardship.

Google rarely contacts Gmail users via email, but we are making an exception to let you know that we've reached a settlement in a lawsuit regarding Google Buzz (<http://buzz.google.com>), a service we launched within Gmail in February of this year.

Shortly after its launch, we heard from a number of people who were concerned about privacy. In addition, we were sued by a group of Buzz users and recently reached a settlement in this case.

The settlement acknowledges that we quickly changed the service to address users' concerns. In addition, Google has committed $8.5 million to an independent fund, most of which will support organizations promoting privacy education and policy on the web. We will also do more to educate people about privacy controls specific to Buzz. The more people know about privacy online, the better their online experience will be.

Just to be clear, this is not a settlement in which people who use Gmail can file to receive compensation. Everyone in the U.S. who uses Gmail is included in the settlement, unless you personally decide to opt out before December 6, 2010. The Court will consider final approval of the agreement on January 31, 2011. This email is a summary of the settlement, and more detailed information and instructions approved by the court, including instructions about how to opt out, object, or comment, are available at <http://www.BuzzClassAction.com>.

This mandatory announcement was sent to all Gmail users in the United States as part of a legal settlement and was authorized by the United States District Court for the Northern District of California.
