FIRM RESUME

Jonathan Shub is the founding partner of ShubLaw LLC and is recognized as one of the nation's leading consumer rights lawyers, based on his vast experience representing classes of individuals against well-known manufacturers of consumer products. He has gained notable attention in the area of defective consumer electronics and computer hardware as a result of many leadership positions in cases against companies such as Hewlett-Packard, Maytag, IBM and Palm. In fact, Maximum PC Magazine said that "Shub is becoming renowned for orchestrating suits that have simultaneously benefited consumers and exposed buggy hardware."

A Philadelphia native, and an avid cyclist, Jon's approach to his hobby is the same as his approach to his practice: perseverance is the key to success. He brings a fresh, practical approach to this work and recognizes the value of the human experience in analyzing and resolving legal problems.

Jon launched his career in the Washington office of Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson, where he worked on complex commercial matters including corporate investigations and securities litigation. He then moved into a practice of consumer protection and advocacy. Prior to forming ShubLaw, Jonathan opened and was the resident partner in the Philadelphia office of Seeger Weiss LLP.

Jon regularly appears in federal courts nationwide, and in many high profile consumer protection cases Jon's leadership roles require him to develop the theories of liability for the entire class as well as the overall trial strategy for the cases. Jon's experience in consumer products litigation includes the following matters as a lead counsel:

- Presently serves as co-lead counsel in litigation against Facebook for deceptive advertising practices,
- Presently serves as co-lead counsel in a national class action against Palm involving defective smart phones.
- Presently serves as co-lead counsel in a national class action against Nissan for defective tires on its 350Z model.
- Presently serves as co-lead counsel in a national class action against Hewlett Packard claiming defects in certain printer models.
- Presently serves as co-lead counsel in litigation against Vonage for consumer fraud.
- Served as co-lead counsel in litigation against Maytag, where he was instrumental in negotiating a $42.5 million nationwide settlement for a class of more than 200,000 Maytag customers.

- Served as co-lead counsel in a significant nationwide class settlement against IBM that affected more than 3 million hard drive purchasers.
