17 I, Brian Stoler, declare:

18 1. I am employed by Google Inc. ("Google") and hold the position of Software
19 Engineer. I make this declaration based upon my personal knowledge, and I am competent to 20 testify to its contents.

21 2. I supervised Google's effort to send the email attached as Exhibit 1 to all Gmail
22 users that Google could reasonably identify as residing in the United States. The email included
23 a hypertext link to the website www.BuzzClassAction.com. Google sent the emails on 24 November 2, 2010.

25 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the state of California that the 26 foregoing is true and correct.

Subject: Important Information about Google Buzz Class Action Settlement

Google rarely contacts Gmail users via email, but we are making an exception to let you know that we've reached a settlement in a lawsuit regarding Google Buzz (<http://buzz.google.com>), a service we launched within Gmail in February of this year.

Shortly after its launch, we heard from a number of people who were concerned about privacy. In addition, we were sued by a group of Buzz users and recently reached a settlement in this case.

The settlement acknowledges that we quickly changed the service to address users' concerns. In addition, Google has committed $8.5 million to an independent fund, most of which will support organizations promoting privacy education and policy on the web. We will also do more to educate people about privacy controls specific to Buzz. The more people know about privacy online, the better their online experience will be.

Just to be clear, this is not a settlement in which people who use Gmail can file to receive compensation. Everyone in the U.S. who uses Gmail is included in the settlement, unless you personally decide to opt out before December 6, 2010. The Court will consider final approval of the agreement on January 31, 2011. This email is a summary of the settlement, and more detailed information and instructions approved by the court, including instructions about how to opt out, object, or comment, are available at <http://www.BuzzClassAction.com>.

This mandatory announcement was sent to all Gmail users in the United States as part of a legal settlement and was authorized by the United States District Court for the Northern District of California.
