U.N. commander halting attempts to reopen airport

SARAJEVO — The United Nations announced today it was ceasing all attempts to reopen the Sarajevo airport until there was a cease-fire for at least 48 hours. The U.N. commander, Major General Lewis Mackenzie, acknowledged with anger that it was possible the U.N. mission would fail.

'Great powers' may not be able to halt Bosnian conflict

GENEVA — Adopting the language and locale of a bygone diplomatic era, seven foreign ministers met here to argue about whether to impose a settlement in Bosnia only to concede that the "great powers" of the modern world may be powerless to halt ethnic conflict in the Balkans.

Showdown with Iraq expected later this week

WASHINGTON — An impatient United Nations Security Council has demanded that Iraq comply "fully and unconditionally" with terms of the Persian Gulf War cease-fire resolution by March 21, or face serious but unspecified consequences. As usual, it is unclear what Saddam intends to do. Deputy Prime Minister Tariq Aziz was at first defiant but later he seemed to be seeking a way to back down as Iraq has done several times before.

Shuttle launch lights morning skies

ORLANDO, Fla. — The roar of the engines startled commuters into flight as space shuttle Endeavour clears the launch pad in background during early hours of Thursday morning.

WASHINGTON — First lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, testifies before the House Ways and Means Committee, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Clinton asked members of Congress to work with the administration to overhaul the nation's aging health care system.

Doctor's group offers plan to limit health-care costs

WASHINGTON — The American College of Physicians said today that there should be an overall national limit on health-care spending. The proposal signals a turning point in the debate over the future of the American health-care system because it indicates that significant numbers of doctors now support an approach favored by many labor unions and big businesses.

US Satellite gap limits views of hurricanes

The United States is facing heightened danger from hurricanes because delays in modernizing its fleet of weather satellites are hampering the use of spacecraft as advanced and precise predictors than they are raising the risk of fatalities.

U.S. commander halting attempts to reopen airport

The United States is halting attempts to reopen an airport in the Philippines, a U.S. commander said Tuesday. The commander said the airport, which was closed after a series of bombings, is still too dangerous to open. He said the airport is still being used by the Philippine military and that the U.S. is providing support to the military in the area.
