It looks like Samsung Galaxy S2 rumors are finally becoming a reality, as UK online retailer mobilefun.co.uk has the device listed as the Samsung Galaxy S2 i9100. The website also discloses the price, specs and release date.

According to MobileFun, the Galaxy S2 will be released on March 4 for £549.95, which is about ~$880 USD. Here's a spec list on the i9100:

- Powerful dual-core 1.2GHz Samsung Orion processor
- Ultra sharp 4.3" Super AMOLED Plus screen
- Next-generation Bluetooth 3.0
- NFC technology for contactless payments and more
- 1GB RAM lets you multitask with ease
- Comes with Android 2.3 Gingerbread
- 8MP camera with LED flash and 1080p video recording with 1.3MP front-facing camera

Keep in mind that these specs and price listing can't exactly be confirmed as of yet, so hopefully we will get the official word on the Samsung Galaxy S2 i9100 at the upcoming Mobile World Congress in Barcelona.

UK users, is the i9100 a device you could see yourself using? Leave a comment below!

I have the current samsung galaxy s, it's a great phone outside of how crappy kies is. If they can improve kies and the update process this will be an even better product

That just looks like an iPhone, all the way down to the icons. C'mon samsung... Apart from the fact that the screen is just too big and the fact that the price will leave a crater in your wallet, damn sure I'd be buying one

If they made it out of decent materials then yes.

The same plastic they used on the S1 and Nexus S? No!

@ Ferguson

Screen – Its made from the same glass that the Iphone4 is made from

Rest – Same crappy plastic as S1

I'll be getting mine May 1st lol
