Mia et al.,

As of this evening, we are able to confirm that Samsung will agree to produce non-privileged documents re the “blue glow” redesign by January 23, 2011. We can also confirm that Samsung will not agree to run the additional inventor search terms identified in Apple’s prior correspondence, as we believe Samsung’s search and production was reasonable and sufficient.

As for the other issues on Apple’s agenda, unfortunately due to the time change (it is currently Saturday in Korea), we are not able to confirm them at this time. We will provide our final response on these other items by Sunday evening PST (ie Monday Korea time), so that Apple will know by Monday PST which issues it may wish to include in its planned motion to compel.

Regards,

Rachel
