Please note that just because a date is offered above, it does not mean that Samsung has waived its objections to producing these witnesses. To the contrary, Samsung reserves all rights to object to producing these witnesses, including on relevance, cumulativeness or apex grounds, among others. We will notify Apple regarding any witnesses Samsung declines to produce in due course.

Further, we have just received a few additional deposition notices yesterday, which arrived after we agreed to exchange deposition dates today. We have not yet had a chance to consult with our client on these and will get back to you next week. If you believe our list is missing any other deponents, please advise.

Finally, please note that Samsung will not be providing a deposition date for [REDACTED], as Samsung has already made a final determination that his deposition is an improper apex deposition, per our correspondence earlier today.

Please send proposed deposition dates for all noticed Apple witnesses, per the parties agreement, today.

Regards,
