Re: Apple, Inc. v. Samsung Elecs. Co., et al., No. 11-cv-1846-LHK (N.D. Cal.)

Dear Mia:

I write regarding Apple's objections to Samsung's disclosed experts Samuel Lucente and Robert Anders, as well as Samsung's objection to Peter Bressler.

Samsung disclosed Mr. Lucente on December 13, 2011 and has responded to two rounds of inquiry by Apple, neither of which related to issues that would prevent Mr. Lucente from receiving access to "attorneys eyes only" documents under the protective order in effect in this matter. We last provided you with information regarding Mr. Lucente on January 20, 2012, and we have received no response to our letter. Thus, we will now assume that Apple has no further objection to Mr. Lucente. Unless we hear otherwise by the close of business today, Samsung will begin providing Mr. Lucente with confidential "attorneys eyes only" documents under the protective order starting tomorrow morning.

Samsung disclosed Dr. Anders on January 11, 2012 and requested a response from Apple a week later on January 18, 2012. Apple has made no response whatsoever to this disclosure as of today's date, so we can only assume that Apple has no objection to Dr. Anders. Unless we hear otherwise by the close of business today, Samsung will begin providing Dr. Anders with confidential "attorneys eyes only" documents under the protective order starting tomorrow morning.

Finally, after reviewing the issues relating to Peter Bressler and the information provided by Apple in response to our initial objection, please be advised that Samsung hereby withdraws its objection to Mr. Bressler receiving confidential "attorneys eyes only" documents under the protective order.

Very truly yours,
