Re: Apple, Inc. v. Samsung Elecs. Co., et al., No. 11-cv-1846-LHK (N.D. Cal.)

Dear Mia:

I write in response to Marc Pernick's letter of January 27, 2012 regarding Samsung's disclosed experts Samuel Lucente and Robert Anders. Thank you for informing us that Apple has withdrawn any objection to Dr. Anders under the protective order.

Unfortunately, Apple's basis for continuing its objection to Mr. Lucente remains wholly unexplained because the only information provided thus far is that Mr. Lucente has a pending patent application for a graphical user interface he invented in the 1990s. That is not a cognizable basis to object to Mr. Lucente's ability to review confidential Apple materials in connection with his expert work in this case. Moreover, while you have implied that some restriction of his access is necessary, you have not provided Samsung with any understanding as to how you would propose to do so.

Because Apple is maintaining its meritless objection to Mr. Lucente, and because lead counsel meet and confer was completed on this issue during the parties' January 5 and 16, 2012 lead counsel meet and confers, Samsung will be proceeding with motion practice on Monday. Please
