UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

CV 12-00622 PSG

DAVID ROBERTS, individually and on behalf of others similarly situated,

Case No.:

Plaintiff,

COMPLAINT

vs.

1. Violations of the Telephone Consumer
Protection Act, 47 U.S.C. § 227, et seq

PAYPAL, INC., and DOES 1 through 10, inclusive,

CLASS ACTION

Defendants.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

BY FAX

1 Plaintiff David Roberts ("Plaintiff") brings this class action complaint against defendant
2 PayPal, Inc. ("PayPal" or "Defendant") and DOES 1 through 10, inclusive (collectively,
3 "Defendants"), to stop Defendants' practice of making unsolicited text message calls to cellular
4 telephones, and to obtain statutory damages for Plaintiff and all other class members. Plaintiff's
5 allegations are based upon information and belief, except as to his own actions, which are based on
6 knowledge. Plaintiff's information and belief is based on the investigation of counsel, as follows:

8 INTRODUCTION

9 1. This case challenges Defendants' practice of sending unsolicited advertisements to 10 consumers via text message, in violation of federal law.

11
12 2. By sending these text messages, PayPal and the other defendants have caused 13 consumers harm, not only because consumers were subjected to the aggravation that accompanies
14 unsolicited wireless spam but also because many consumers pay to receive text messages.

15
16 3. As alleged more fully herein, Defendants' conduct in sending unsolicited text
17 messages violated the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, 47 U.S.C. § 227, et seq. (the "TCPA"), 18 which prohibits automated, unsolicited text and voice calls to cell phones.

20 4. On behalf of himself and a nationwide class, Plaintiff seeks statutory damages for 21 himself and all class members and all other relief the Court deems appropriate.

23 5. The allegations in this complaint are made without any admission that, as to any 24 particular allegation, Plaintiff bears the burden of pleading, proof, or persuasion. Plaintiff reserves
25 all rights to plead in the alternative.

26

1 profit, and bore such relationships to some or all of the other defendants so as to be liable for their
2 conduct with respect to the matters alleged herein. On information and belief, each defendant
3 acted pursuant to and within the scope of these relationships, each defendant knew or should have
4 known about the conduct of all other defendants, and each defendant authorized, ratified, adopted,
5 approved, controlled, and/or aided and abetted the conduct of all other defendants. The true names
6 and capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate or otherwise, of defendants DOES 1
7 through 10, inclusive, and each of them, are unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, and Plaintiffs
8 therefore sue said defendants by such fictitious names. Plaintiffs will seek leave of Court to amend
9 to name these DOE defendants when their names have been ascertained.

11 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

12 12. Plaintiff brings this lawsuit on behalf of himself and all other persons similarly 13 situated, as members of the proposed Plaintiff Class (the "Class"). The Class period is the four 14 years prior to the filing of this action and the Class is defined as follows:

15 All cellular telephone account holders owning a cellular telephone number to 16 which a text message was sent advertising the commercial availability of 17 PayPal's property, goods, or services without their prior express invitation or 18 permission to receive advertisements by text message.

20 13. Excluded from the Class are Defendant, any entity in which Defendant has a
21 controlling interest, any officers or directors of Defendant, the legal representatives, heirs,
22 successors, and assigns of Defendant, any Judge assigned to this action, and his or her family.

24 14. This action is brought and may properly be maintained as a class action pursuant to 25 the provisions of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23 and other class action law.

26
27 15. Numerosity/Impracticality of Joinder: The members of the Class are so numerous 28 that joinder of all Class members is impracticable. The precise number of Class members and their

1 addresses are unknown to Plaintiff, but can be obtained from Defendant's records. On information
2 and belief, the Class includes at least 40 persons.

4 16. Ascertainability: The class is objectively defined, permitting class members to 5 identify themselves. On information and belief, the members of the Class may be identified from 6 the records of Defendants.

8 17. Commonality and Predominance: There is a well-defined community of interest
9 and common questions of law and fact predominate over any questions affecting only individual
10 members of the Class. These common legal and factual questions do not vary from one Class 11 member to another and may be determined without reference to the individual circumstances of 12 any Class member, include, but are not limited to the following:

- 13 a. Whether Defendant's automated text messages or calls contained material 14 advertising the commercial availability of any property, goods, or services;
- 15 b. Whether Defendant's conduct is governed by the TCPA;
- 16 c. Whether Defendant's conduct violated the TCPA;
- 17 d. Whether Defendant's automated text message telephone calls violated the 18 TCPA;
- 19 e. Whether the class members are entitled to statutory damages; and
- 20 f. Whether Defendant violated the TCPA knowingly or willfully and, if so, 21 whether the class members are entitled to trebled statutory damages.
- 22

23 18. Typicality: Plaintiff and the other members of the Class received unsolicited text
24 messages from Defendant, without having provided their express invitation or permission to 25 receive such text messages. Plaintiff's claims are typical of, and the same as, the claims of the 26 other Class Members, and arise from the same practice in violation of the TCPA. All suffered 27 losses, injuries and damages arising out of the same practice alleged herein. Plaintiff seeks 28 statutory damages for himself and the entire class.

19. Adequacy of Representation: Plaintiff is an adequate representative of the Class because his interests do not conflict with the interest of the members of the Class he seeks to represent. Plaintiff has retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class action litigation and Plaintiff intends to vigorously prosecute this action. Plaintiff and his attorneys will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class.

20. Superior: A class action is the superior means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this lawsuit, because individual litigation of the claims of all Class members would be economically unfeasible and procedurally impracticable. The individual damages incurred by each Class member resulting from Defendant's wrongful conduct are too small to warrant the expense of individual suits. The likelihood of individual Class members prosecuting separate claims is remote, and even if every Class member could afford individual litigation, the court system would be unduly burdened by individual litigation of such cases. Individual members of the Class do not have a significant interest in individually controlling the prosecution of separate actions, and individualized litigation would also present the potential for varying, inconsistent, or contradictory judgments and would magnify the delay and expense to all parties and to the court system resulting from multiple trials of the same factual issues. Plaintiff knows of no difficulty to be encountered in the management of this action that would preclude its maintenance as a class action. Relief concerning Plaintiff's rights under the laws herein alleged and with respect to the Class would be proper.

21. Plaintiff foresees no difficulty in the management of this action as a class action. The class members and their damages may be determined based upon information maintained by or available to Defendant.

1 FACTS

2 22. Text messages are an increasingly common form of sending (or "texting") short
3 messages to and from cellular/wireless phones using the Short Messenger Service ("SMS").
4 Texting is available on most cellular phones.

6 23. The most common application of texting is person-to-person messaging. However,
7 text messages may also be used in connection with automated systems used to order products and
8 services for cellular phones or in connection with participation in contests or marketing programs.

10 24. Businesses continually look for cost-effective methods for mass marketing their 11 goods and services. In addition to conventional advertising, in recent years, the widespread use of 12 cellular phones and texting by consumers has presented a marketing opportunity to businesses
13 which have been stymied by laws prohibiting solicitations over the telephone, via facsimile
14 machines and via email.
15

16 25. Unlike conventional advertising, text message advertising requires the use of 17 technology (e.g., a cell phone) owned and paid for by the text message recipients and often results
18 in additional charges to the recipient as well (because most cellular phone users must pay for each 19 incoming text message received), regardless of whether that message is authorized.
20

21 26. Defendants have caused a mass transmission of text messages to cellular phone
22 users, including the members of the Class, in the hopes of gaining income from consumers who 23 will purchase Defendant's products or services.
24

25 27. On December 8, 2010 at 1:35 p.m., Defendant, or someone acting on Defendant's
26 behalf, sent the following text message to a cellular telephone number on Plaintiff's cellular 27 telephone account:

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Violation of the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, 47 U.S.C. § 227, et seq.)

29. Plaintiff brings Count I on behalf of the Class pursuant to the TCPA.

30. Plaintiff incorporates by reference and realleges all paragraphs previously alleged herein.

31. The TCPA provides in pertinent part as follows:

(b) Restrictions on use of automated telephone equipment

(1) Prohibitions

It shall be unlawful for any person within the United States, or any person outside the United States if the recipient is within the United States –

(A) to make any call (other than a call made for emergency purposes or made with the prior express consent of the called party) using any automatic telephone dialing system or an artificial or prerecorded voice –

(iii) to any telephone number assigned to a paging service, cellular telephone service, specialized mobile radio service, or other radio common carrier service, or any service for which the called party is charged for the call.... [47 U.S.C. § 227 (b) (1) (A) (iii).]

- b. Find that Defendants' practices described herein violate the TCPA;
- c. Award statutory damages to Plaintiff and each of the other members of the Class in the amount of $500 per text, but not less than $15,000 in the aggregate;
- d. If Defendants knowingly or willfully sent the texts, treble the statutory damages in favor of Plaintiff and the other members of the Class;
- e. Enjoin Defendants from further engaging in conduct which violates the TCPA; and
- f. Grant any and all other relief that the Court may deem just and proper.
