ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR DEFAULT JUDGMENT

[Re: Docket No. 13]

In this ERISA enforcement action, Plaintiffs Trustees of the Hod Carriers Local 166 South Bay Pension Fund, Money Pension Plan, Vacation Fund, Union Dues, Training Fund, and Promotion Fund (“South Bay Fund”), and Hod Carriers Local 166 West Bay Consolidated Pension Fund, Vacation Fund, Union Dues, Training Fund, and Promotion Fund (“West Bay Fund”); and Hod Carriers Local Union #166 (“Local Union #166”) (collectively “Plaintiffs”) move for an entry of default judgment against Defendant La Paz Stucco & Plastering, Inc. (“Defendant”). Having

1 reviewed Plaintiffs’ submissions, the Court finds this matter appropriate for decision without oral
2 argument. See Civil L.R. 7–1(b). For the following reasons, the motion is GRANTED.

4 I. BACKGROUND

5 The South Bay Fund and the West Bay Fund are multi-employer employee benefit plans as 6 defined in the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”). See 29 U.S.C.
7 § 1002(3), (37); 29 U.S.C. § 1132(d)(1); Compl. ¶ 3, Docket Item No. 1. Under the terms of the 8 collective bargaining agreement Local Union #166 enters into with its employers, the employers
9 must make contributions to the Funds. Id. ¶ 8. The Trustees to the Funds have the authority and 10 duty to administer the Funds, which includes the collection of unpaid employer contributions and 11 related losses. Id.

12 Plaintiffs have alleged that Defendant agreed to be bound to the terms and conditions of the 13 collective bargaining agreement. Id. ¶ 7; Id. Ex. A. The agreement requires employers like 14 Defendant to make specific payment contributions into the Trust Funds. Id. The agreement also 15 provides that employers who fail to make timely contributions into the Trust Funds are liable for 16 unpaid contributions, interest, liquidated damages, and attorneys’ fees and costs. Id. ¶ 10. Plaintiffs
17 allege that Defendant failed to make certain payments during a between January 1, 2008 and March 18 31, 2010. Id. ¶¶ 12–13.

19 Plaintiffs filed this action on February 24, 2012. See id. Proper service was made and proof
20 of service was filed. See Docket Item No. 4. Pursuant to Plaintiffs’ request, the Clerk entered
21 Defendant’s default on April 3, 2012. See Docket Item No. 6. On August 14, 2012, Plaintiffs filed
22 this Motion for Default Judgment. See Docket Item No. 13. Defendant has not submitted written 23 opposition to the motion, and the time for such opposition has expired. See Civ. L.R. 7–3(a).

II. DISCUSSION

A. Legal Standard

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(b), the Court may enter default judgment against a defendant who has failed to plead or otherwise defend an action. “The district court’s decision whether to enter default judgment is a discretionary one.” Aldabe v. Aldabe, 616 F.2d 1089, 1092 (9th Cir. 1980). The Ninth Circuit has provided seven factors for consideration by the district court in exercising its discretion to enter default judgment: (1) the possibility of prejudice to the plaintiff; (2) the merits of plaintiff’s substantive claim; (3) the sufficiency of the complaint; (4) the sum of money at stake in the action; (5) the possibility of dispute concerning material facts; (6) whether default was due to excusable neglect; and (7) the strong policy underlying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure favoring decisions on the merits. Eitel v. McCool, 782 F.2d 1470, 1471–72 (9th Cir. 1986). When assessing these factors, all factual allegations in the complaint are taken as true, except those with regard to damages. Televideo Sys., Inc. v. Heidenthal, 826 F.2d 915, 917–18 (9th Cir. 1987).

B. Jurisdiction

Courts have an affirmative duty to examine their own jurisdiction—both subject matter and personal jurisdiction—when entry of judgment is sought against a party in default. In re Tuli, 172 F.3d 707, 712 (9th Cir. 1999). Here, the Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 1132(e), which bestows jurisdiction to United States district courts over civil enforcement of ERISA violations. Personal jurisdiction arises from service upon Defendant in California. See Docket Item No. 4; Burnham v. Sup. Ct., 495 U.S. 604, 610–11 (1990).

C. The Eital Factors

Application of the facts of this case to the Eital factors favors entry of default judgment against Defendant.

1 First, if the motion were denied, Plaintiffs may be unable to recover and provide the 2 contributions owed to the beneficiaries and members of the Trust Funds. In that regard, failure to 3 enter default judgment would result in prejudice to Plaintiffs and the parties they represent.

4 Second, as evinced by the Complaint, Plaintiffs have brought forth a meritorious claim.
5 Default judgment cannot be entered if a complaint fails to state a claim for which relief can be
6 granted. See Moore v. United Kingdom, 384 F.3d 1079, 1090 (9th Cir. 2004). In this case,
7 Plaintiffs claim that Defendant has violated ERISA in its failure to pay contributions to the Trust
8 Funds pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement it entered into. These allegations are 9 sufficient to state a claim for relief under the pleading standards of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 10 8.

11 Third, the sum of money at stake in this action is relatively small. A large sum of money at 12 stake is a factor disfavoring default judgment. See Eitel, 782 F.2d at 1472 (considering an amount
13 in controversy of $2.9 million to be a factor, in light of others, for affirming the denial of default
14 judgment). In this case, Plaintiffs have asked for a total judgment of approximately $12,000, a far
15 cry from the $2.9 million contemplated in Eitel. The modest sum in controversy in the case at hand
16 weighs in favor of entering default judgment.

17 Fourth, there is no dispute of material fact. Indications that there is a dispute of material fact
18 weigh against entry of default judgment. Eitel, 783 F.2d at 1471–72. Here, Defendant has not
19 disputed any of Plaintiffs’ contentions, and all material facts are verifiable.

20 Fifth, it is unlikely that default was the result of excusable neglect. This action was filed
21 nearly four months ago and, as noted, Defendant was properly served. Defendant is aware of the 22 payment obligations for which it is responsible.

23 And sixth, although federal policy generally disfavors the entry of default judgment, all of 24 the Eitel factors weigh in favor of a default judgment here. Therefore, the motion to enter default
25 judgment will be granted.

1 D. Damages

2 Plaintiffs' action is based on the statutory duty provided by § 515 of ERISA, which states
3 that an employer who is obligated to make contributions to a multi-employer plan must do so in
4 accordance with the terms and conditions of such plan or such agreement. 29 U.S.C. § 1145.
5 Section 502(g) of ERISA states that in an action to enforce section 1145, the court shall award the 6 plan unpaid contributions, interest on the unpaid contributions, liquidated damages, reasonable
7 attorney's fees and costs, and equitable relief as the court deems appropriate. 29 U.S.C.
8 § 1132(g)(2).

9 Plaintiffs seek interest on delinquent and unpaid contributions, as well as liquidated
10 damages, attorneys' fees, and costs for a total of $12,245.71.

11 According to our court of appeals,

12 Section 1132(g) (2) of ERISA provides that when there is a judgment in favor of 13 an employment benefit trust, the court shall award the trust unpaid contributions, 14 interest on unpaid contributions, liquidated damages in some instances, and 15 reasonable attorney fees. The language "shall award" denotes that such an award
16 is mandatory. While attorney's fees are discretionary in the case of many ERISA
17 claims, we have recognized on numerous occasions that attorney's fees are not 18 discretionary in section 1132(g)(2) cases.

19 Operating Engineers Pension Trust v. A-C Co., 859 F.2d 1336, 1342 (9th Cir. 1988) (citations
20 omitted). Plaintiffs are therefore entitled to the award of unpaid contributions and interest as well
21 as attorneys' fees and costs.

22 Additionally, Plaintiffs seek liquidated damages. In order to award statutory liquidated
23 damages in the Ninth Circuit, (1) the fiduciary must obtain a judgment in favor of the plan, (2)
24 unpaid contributions must exist at the time of suit, and (3) the plan must provide for liquidated
25 damages. Once the provision applies, liquidated damages are mandatory. Idaho Plumbers & Pipe 26 Fitters Health & Welfare Fund v. United Mech. Contractors, Inc., 875 F.2d 212, 215 (9th Cir.
27 1989).

28 Here, all three requirements for liquidated damages are satisfied. Certain contributions for the months between January 1, 2008 and March 31, 2010 were unpaid, and remain unpaid to date.

1 Compl. ¶ 12–13. Furthermore, the agreement between Plaintiffs and Defendant provided for
2 liquidated damages. Thus, Plaintiffs are entitled to an award of unpaid contributions and interest,
3 liquidated damages, and attorneys’ fees and costs in the total amount of $12,245.71.

5 III. CONCLUSION AND ORDER

6 Based on the foregoing, Plaintiffs’ motion for entry of default judgment is GRANTED in 7 the amount of $12,245.71. Judgment will be entered accordingly, and the Clerk shall then close this 8 file.
