

United States District Court
For the Northern District of California

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN JOSE DIVISION

DONNA D. ALLEN,

Plaintiff,

v.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSING SERVICES
SILICON VALLEY,

Defendant.

Case No.: 12-1656 PSG

ORDER GRANTING-IN-PART AND DENYING-IN-PART DEFENDANT’S
MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

(Re: Docket No. 45)

In this employment discrimination suit, Defendant Neighborhood Housing Services Silicon Valley (“NHSSV”) moves for summary judgment on the claims brought by Plaintiff Donna D. Allen (“Allen”). Having considered the parties’ papers and oral arguments, the court GRANTS-IN-PART and DENIES-IN-PART NHSSV’s motion.

I. BACKGROUND

Given the rapidly approaching trial date resulting from the denial of summary judgment for at least two of the claims brought by Allen, as explained below, the court dispenses with the usual recitation of the facts as presented by the evidence each side has presented. The court instead provides only a summary as context for its reasoning for the decisions on each of Allen’s claims.

Allen began her at-will employment NHSSV in June 2008, when she was hired by Ed Moncrief (“Moncrief”), NHSSV’s executive director at the time, to work as an underwriter and

1 lending program manager.¹ Moncrief retired in July 2011 and was replaced by Matt Huerta
2 (“Huerta”).² Huerta fired Allen on or about August 22, 2011 and replaced her with Miriam
3 Maldonado (“Maldonado”).³ According to Allen, her termination was the result of Huerta’s
4 discrimination based on Allen’s race, color, national origin, age, and disability, and as retaliation
5 for her complaints about his use of profanity in the workplace. In particular, she claims Huerta
6 preferred Hispanic employees and that he commented on numerous occasions about her health
7 after discovering Allen previously had a heart attack. NHSSV responds that Allen was fired
8 because of poor performance.
9

10 With this admittedly spare backdrop, the court turns now to the reasons for its 11 determination that while Allen’s age, disability, and retaliation claims cannot survive the summary 12 judgment stage, she has presented sufficient evidence to move forward on her race, color, and 13 national origin claims under federal and state law.

14 II. LEGAL STANDARDS

15 Summary judgment is proper if there is “no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the 16 movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.”⁴ The moving party bears the initial burden of 17 identifying those portions of the pleadings, discovery and affidavits which demonstrate the absence
18 of a triable issue of material fact.⁵ If the moving party meets its initial burden, then the non-moving
19 party must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.⁶ A genuine issue
20 for trial exists if there is sufficient evidence for a reasonable jury, viewing the evidence in the light
21

22
23 ¹ See Docket No. 48 Ex. 1 at 23:14-18.

24 ² See id. at 136:25 – 137:4.

25 ³ See id. Ex. 1 (email exhibit following deposition from Huerta regarding the discharge of Allen and her replacement).

26 ⁴ Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a).

27 ⁵ See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1); Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986).

28 ⁶ Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e).

1 most favorable to the non-moving party, to return a verdict for the nonmoving party.⁷ If the
2 nonmoving party fails to make the requisite showing, “the moving party is entitled to judgment as a
3 matter of law.”⁸

4 III. DISCUSSION

5 A. Age Discrimination (Claims Two and Count Six)

6 Neither party disputes that Maldonado was 57 years old at the time she was hired, which 7 was within five years of Allen’s age. Under both the Age Discrimination in Employment Act
8 (“ADEA”)⁹ and California’s Fair Housing and Employment Act (“FEHA”),¹⁰ Allen had an 9 obligation to show that she was replaced by a substantially younger employee to establish a prima
10 facie case of age discrimination,¹¹ given that she offers little other evidence to support her claim.
11 Allen conceded that if Maldonado in fact was 57 years old “summary adjudication of this issue is 12 appropriate.”¹² At the hearing, Allen’s counsel did not contest Maldonado’s age. Taking Allen’s
13 suggestion, the court GRANTS summary judgment on her age discrimination claims.
14

15 B. Disability Discrimination (Claims Three and Seven)

16 Allen asserts that NHSSV through Huerta discriminated against her because of her history
17 of heart disease, specifically a heart attack in October 2010. At the outset, the court notes that 18 Allen admitted in her deposition that she does not consider herself disabled.¹³ But she nevertheless 19

20
21 ⁷ See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986).

22 ⁸ Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323.

23 ⁹ 29 U.S.C. § 623.

24 ¹⁰ Cal. Gov. Code § 12940(a).

25 ¹¹ See Nidds v. Schindler Elevator Corp., 113 F.3d 912, 917 (9th Cir. 1996) (noting that under both 26 California law and the ADEA, plaintiff must show replacement “by a substantially younger 27 employee with equal or inferior qualifications” as part of prima facie case, although other evidence 28 of discriminatory intent is also admissible).

¹² See Docket No. 46.

¹³ See Docket No. 48 Ex. 1 at 195:24 – 196:1.

1 may pursue a claim under both the American with Disabilities Act (“ADA”)¹⁴ and FEHA¹⁵ if 2 NHSSV mistakenly perceived her to have a disability and then discriminated against her because of 3 that misconception.¹⁶ Because California relies on federal interpretations of the ADA in 4 interpreting FEHA’s disability provision,¹⁷ the court addresses here only the law under the ADA
5 but the same reasoning applies to Allen’s FEHA claim.

6 “To establish a prima facie case of disability discrimination under the ADA based upon a 7 perceived disability, [Allen] must prove three elements, specifically that [s]he was (a) ‘regarded as’
8 disabled; (b) a ‘qualified individual’; and (c) subject to an adverse employment action because of 9 [her] perceived disability.”¹⁸ To be “regarded as” disabled, Allen must show either that (1) “a 10 covered entity mistakenly believes that [she] has a physical impairment that substantially limits one 11 or more major life activities,” or (2) “a covered entity mistakenly believes that an actual,
12 nonlimiting impairment substantially limits one or more major life activities.”¹⁹ “A substantially 13 limiting impairment is one that prevents a person from performing a major life activity or 14
15
16
17

18 _____
19 ¹⁴ 42 U.S.C. § 12102.

20 ¹⁵ Cal. Gov. Code § 12940(a), § 12962(1)(3)-(4).

21 ¹⁶ See Sutton v. United Air Lines, Inc., 527 U.S. 471, 489 (9th Cir. 1999) (overruled by statute on 22 other grounds). Although Allen may have a claim on these grounds, the court notes that the bare 23 allegations in her complaint provide little notice that she is pursuing a perception claim rather than 24 a claim for discrimination based on her actual disability. See Docket No. 1 ¶¶ 17, 21 (“Defendant discriminated against Plaintiff because of her history of heart disease in violation of the ADA, 42
U.S.C. §§ 12101, et seq” and “Defendant discriminated against Plaintiff because of her history of heart disease in violation of Cal. Gov’t Code § 12940(a)”).

25 ¹⁷ See Bradley v. Harcourt, Brace & Co., 104 F.3d 267, 271 (9th Cir. 1996) (“California relies on 26 federal discrimination decisions to interpret the FEHA.”); see also *Cassista v. Community Foods,
Inc.*, 5 Cal. 4th 1050, 1063 (1993) (relying on federal law to aid in interpreting FEHA).

27 ¹⁸ Johnson v. City & Cnty. of San Francisco Dept. of Public Health, Case No. 11-cv-4113 YGR,
28 2012 WL 4953099, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 17, 2012) (citing Kennedy v. Applause, Inc., 90 F.3d 1477, 1481 (9th Cir. 1996)).

¹⁹ Sutton, 527 U.S. at 489.

1 significantly restricts the condition, manner, or duration of a person’s ability to perform a major
2 life activity.”²⁰

3 In support of her claim, Allen points to statements she claims Huerta made regarding her
4 health. According to Allen, Huerta stated on three or four different occasions in a sarcastic tone
5 “[w]e don’t want Dee to die on the job” and “[w]e need to get her help.”²¹ Allen testified that she 6 never told Huerta about her heart attack but that she was confident he knew about it because he 7 asked her about it and “commented on it quite a lot,” although she cannot remember exactly what
8 he asked.²²

9
10 Huerta’s statements do not support an inference that he believed Allen’s heart condition
11 was a “substantially limiting impairment,” such that he perceived her to be disabled as defined by 12 the ADA. Acknowledging or commenting about an impairment is insufficient, alone, to suggest 13 that an employer believes the impairment is a disability. In fact, based on Allen’s description of 14 the statements, Huerta in fact was sarcastic when he made his statements, suggesting that he did not 15 believe she would “die on the job” or that she needed help.

16
17 Even if the statements did support an inference that Huerta believed Allen was disabled, she 18 has not shown the requisite causation between that perception and her adverse employment.
19 Nothing in Huerta’s statements suggests that he believed Allen was unfit for her work because of 20 her heart condition. His comments may reveal insensitivity to her condition, but absent any 21 evidence from Allen that the statement was in any way connected to an assertion that Huerta
22 believed she was restricted from working, the comment is insufficient at the summary judgment
23 stage. NHSSV’s motion for summary judgment of the disability claim is GRANTED.
24

25
26
27 ²⁰ Johnson, 2012 WL 4953099, at *6 (citing 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(j)(1)).

28 ²¹ See Docket No. 48 Ex. 1 at 201:21-25.

²² See id. at 202:13-20.

1 C. Retaliation (Claims Four and Eight)

2 In her complaint, Allen alleges that Huerta fired her in retaliation for her complaints about
3 his use of “sexually offensive language in the workplace” in violation of federal and California
4 law.²³ Title VII prohibits retaliation by an employer against employees who complain of treatment
5 that is unlawful under its provisions, namely discrimination on the basis of “race, color, religion,
6 sex, or national origin.”²⁴ To establish a prima facie case of retaliation, plaintiffs must show that:
7 (1) they engaged in protected activity; (2) suffered an adverse employment action; and (3) a causal
8 link exists between the protected activity and the adverse action.²⁵ The Supreme Court recently
9 held that the standard for causation for Title VII retaliation claims is “but-for” causation – the 10 mixed-motive standard applicable to discrimination claims does not apply.²⁶

11 Protected activity includes filing a complaint, testifying, or assisting in a proceeding under 12 Title VII or FEHA, or opposing any actions made unlawful under the statutes.²⁷ Allen makes no
13 allegation nor testifies that she engaged in complaints, testimony, or assistance with a Title VII or 14 FEHA proceeding before her discharge. The court thus limits itself to whether her complaints to 15 Huerta suffice as opposition to a practice made unlawful by Title VII or FEHA.
16

17 Allen testified that Huerta continually used the word “fuck” in her presence, which 18 offended her.²⁸ She asserts that on at least one occasion she complained to Huerta about the 19

20
21 ²³ See Docket No. 1 ¶¶ 18, 22.

22 ²⁴ See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3(a). Although Allen purports in her complaint to allege retaliation under 23 “said federal statutes,” see Docket No. 1 ¶ 18, suggesting the ADA and the ADEA are also at play,
24 complaints about “sexually offensive language” are only protected under Title VII.

25 ²⁵ See Davis, 520 F.3d at 1093-94; Poland, 494 F.3d at 1179-80.

26 ²⁶ See Univ. of Texas SW Med. Ctr. v. Nassar, --- S.Ct. ---, 2013 WL 3155234, at *14 (2013).

27 ²⁷ See Cal. Gov. Code § 12940(h); 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3.

28 ²⁸ See Docket No. 45 Ex. A at 207:24 – 208:2, 208:13-18. In her opposition, Allen also asserts that she complained about Huerta’s “racial and age harassment,” and that she can just amend her complaint to add those claims. See Docket No. 46. The court disagrees. Her deadline for amending her complaint under the liberal standard of Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a) passed on November 5, 2012, the deadline set by the case management order for amendment of her pleadings. See Docket

1 profanity.²⁹ Allen admitted, however, that he never used profanity at her directly³⁰ nor did he use
2 the term in a sexual manner.³¹ She in fact conceded that she did not find Huerta’s use of the term
3 even sexually offensive.³²

4 The use of profanity by itself is not an unlawful practice under Title VII or FEHA. The 5 profane language must be so abusive as to alter the working conditions, and it must be driven by a
6 discriminatory motive.³³ Allen has not alleged or in fact provided any evidence that Huerta’s
7 profanity was the result of a discriminatory motive. She therefore has not shown that his actions
8 were unlawful under Title VII or FEHA, and so her complaint to him was not a “protected activity”
9 as defined by either statute.
10

11 Because she has not made a prima facie showing of retaliation, summary judgment is 12 GRANTED.

13 D. Race, Color, and National Origin (Claims One and Five)

14 Allen asserts that her termination was the result of Huerta’s racial, color-based, and 15 national-origin-based animus towards her. She contends that Huerta fired her because she was a 16 white, Caucasian and because he preferred Hispanic, Spanish-speaking employees.
17

18
19 No. 28. She is now subject to Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(b), which requires a good cause showing, notably 20 diligence. See Johnson v. Mammoth Recreations, Inc., 975 F.3d 604, 609 (9th Cir. 1992). Allen
21 makes no showing of diligence and, even if she had, given the stage of this case, her proposed 22 amendment would be unduly prejudicial to NHSSV.

23 ²⁹ See Docket No. 45 Ex. A at 209:4-11.

24 ³⁰ See id. at 207:22 – 208:2.

25 ³¹ See id. at 213:2-4.

26 ³² See id. at 212:24 – 213:1.

27 ³³ See Oncale v. Sundowner Offshore Serv., Inc., 523 U.S. 75, 81 (1998) (noting Title VII is not a 28 “general civility code” and that language must amount to discrimination “because of . . . sex”); Lyle v. Warner Bros. Telev. Prod., 38 Cal. 4th 264, 273-74 (2006) (“[T]he use of sexually coarse and vulgar language in the workplace is not actionable per se. Rather, we must look to the specific facts and circumstances presented to determine whether the language at issue constituted harassment based on sex within the meaning of FEHA and whether such language was severe enough or sufficiently pervasive to create a work environment that was hostile or abusive to plaintiff because of her sex.”).

1 Title VII prohibits employers from “discriminat[ing] against any individual with respect to
2 his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment because of such individual’s
3 race.”³⁴ For a claim of racial discrimination, the court applies the burden-shifting framework
4 established in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green.³⁵ “Under this analysis, plaintiffs must first
5 establish a prima facie case of employment discrimination.”³⁶ “If plaintiffs establish a prima facie
6 case, ‘the burden of production, but not persuasion, shifts to the employer to articulate some 7 legitimate, non-discriminatory reason for the challenged action.’”³⁷ “If defendant meets this
8 burden, plaintiffs must then raise a triable issue of material fact as to whether defendant's proffered
9 reasons for their termination are mere pretext for unlawful discrimination.”³⁸

11 “To establish a prima facie case, plaintiffs ‘must offer evidence giving rise to an inference 12 of unlawful discrimination.’”³⁹ To do so, plaintiffs may rely on circumstantial evidence showing:
13 (1) “that they are members of a protected class”; (2) “that they were qualified for their positions 14 and performing their jobs satisfactorily”; (3) “that they experienced adverse employment actions”;
15 and (4) “that similarly situated individuals outside their protected class were treated more 16 favorably, or other circumstances surrounding the adverse employment action give rise to an 17 inference of discrimination.”⁴⁰ Although similarly-situated persons outside of the protected class

22 ³⁴ 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a)(1).

23 ³⁵ 411 U.S. 792 (1973).

24 ³⁶ See Hawn v. Exec. Jet Mgmt, Inc., 615 F.3d 1151, 1155 (9th Cir. 2010).

25 ³⁷ Id.

26 ³⁸ Id.

27 ³⁹ Id. at 1156.

28 ⁴⁰ See id.

1 need not be identical to a plaintiff, they must “be similar in all material respects,” which “will
2 depend on context and the facts of the case.”⁴¹

3 Here, Allen makes a prima facie showing.⁴² She is Caucasian; she was performing her job
4 satisfactorily, especially in light of Moncrief’s evaluation of her performance in both 2008-2009
5 and in 2010-2011⁴³; she suffered an adverse action with her termination; and she has provided
6 evidence that supports an inference of discrimination, notably her claim that Huerta told her he was 7 surprised that Moncrief would hire a Caucasian employee instead of a Hispanic employee for her
8 position⁴⁴ and her subsequent replacement by a Hispanic woman who speaks Spanish fluently.⁴⁵
9

10 The burden shifts to NHSSV to provide a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason for Allen’s
11 discharge. Here, it points to Allen’s record of having an abrasive personality and a lunch with a 12 potential business partner at which she purportedly consumed alcohol in violation of NHSSV’s
13 policy and acted inappropriately.⁴⁶ The burden shifts back to Allen to provide sufficient evidence 14 to create a triable issue of fact that this legitimate, non-discriminatory reason is pretextual.
15

16 Considered in the light most favorable to her, Allen has provided sufficient evidence for a
17 reasonable jury to conclude that Huerta was motivated, at least in part, by racial or national-origin-
18 based animus. The court already has described Allen’s claim that Huerta expressed surprise that 19 Moncrief hired a Caucasian, non-Spanish-speaking employee for Allen’s position. Unlike 20

21 ⁴¹ See id. at 1157.

22 ⁴² The court notes that in its motion NHSSV did not argue that Allen failed to make a prima facie
23 showing and in fact barely discussed its “legitimate, non-discriminatory reason.” See Docket No.
24 45. Because at the hearing NHSSV asserted that it believed Allen had not made a prima facie
25 showing, the court briefly addresses its reasoning here.

26 ⁴³ See Docket No. 48 Ex. 1 (reviews following Allen deposition) (noting that despite 27 communication issues, she was effective at increasing loans and developing a cohesive team).

28 ⁴⁴ See Docket No. 45 Ex. A 189:13-20.

⁴⁵ See Docket No. 48 Ex. 1 (email exhibit following deposition from Huerta regarding the discharge of Allen and her replacement); Ex. 4 (interrogatory disclosing that four an employee hired on the same date and having the same age as Maldonado is “Hispanic”).

⁴⁶ See Docket No. 45 Ex. 1 ¶¶ 7, 8.

1 NHSSV's assertion, this statement is not just a "stray remark."⁴⁷ Huerta was the decision-maker
2 regarding Allen's position and his comment reflects sufficient nexus to her eventual termination to 3 support her claim, especially considering that he made the comment at some point within a six-
4 week overlap between his start and Allen's discharge.

5 Allen's other evidence, though not as strong, nevertheless supports her claim. For example,
6 she asserts that Huerta made at least one sarcastic comment about her skin color that she believes
7 reveals his animus. Huerta disputes the claim, but the credibility of Huerta and Allen is an issue
8 for the jury.
9

10 Because a factual dispute exists regarding whether Huerta was motivated by racial, color-
11 based, or national-origin-based animus when he fired Allen, summary judgment is unwarranted.

12 IT IS SO ORDERED

13 Dated: July 9, 2013

14
15 PAUL S. GREWAL
16 United States Magistrate Judge
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

⁴⁷ See Godwin v. Hunt Wesson, Inc., 150 F.3d 1217, 1221 (9th Cir. 1998).