Defendants.)

Plaintiffs' counsel has filed a letter to the Court indicating that Plaintiffs cannot file a class certification motion by the November 15, 2013, deadline because Defendants have not produced certain discovery. See ECF No. 62. Plaintiffs indicate that the parties are "well under way in ironing out the difficulties." Id. However, Plaintiffs do not suggest an alternative date by which they anticipate having the information they need to file a class certification motion.

The Court further notes that it denied any delay in the case schedule in the last case management order. See ECF No. 59. The Court in that order was rejecting the parties' request in their joint case management statement to alter the case management schedule for the purposes of pursuing mediation. See ECF No. 58. Nowhere in this statement did the parties note that discovery delays might require an alteration of existing briefing schedules. The Court admonishes the parties to provide any information relevant to the case schedule in joint case management statements.

Nevertheless, the Court finds that an alteration of the case schedule is appropriate. The case schedule is revised as follows:
