Re: MobileStar Patent Portfolio

Dear Mr. _____ :

In our letter dated August 1, 2012 (copy attached), we informed _____ of the Rockstar Consortium US LP ("Rockstar") patent portfolio, and identified certain Rockstar patents, and exemplary _____ products believed to implement functionalities covered by those patents. To date, however, _____ has not responded to that letter.

MobileStar Technologies LLC ("MobileStar"), a subsidiary of Rockstar, is now the owner of, or is otherwise responsible for licensing, patents relevant to consumer electronic technologies, such as mobile handsets (including cellular phones and smart-phones), tablet computers, e-readers, laptop and net book computers, and cellular mobile hot spot devices.

In addition to the patents previously identified by Rockstar, and which are now under the licensing purview of MobileStar, we would like to bring two additional patents to your attention:

- U.S. Patent No. 6,128,298 entitled Internet Protocol Filter
- U.S. Patent No. 6,765,591 entitled Managing a Virtual Private Networks

We have determined that _____ is selling products, such as the _____, that implement functionalities in accordance with the above referenced patents. Accordingly, we believe that _____ requires a license to these patents, in addition to the patents previously identified to _____. MobileStar is willing to offer _____ a license not only to these patents, but to all patents for which MobileStar is able to grant a license, within the prescribed field of use identified above.

_____ has an affirmative responsibility to ensure that it has secured all necessary patent rights to sell the products identified above, as well as others that might be infringing MobileStar intellectual property. We look forward to meeting with your IP representative to provide more details concerning the issues raised in this letter and the previous letter, and to proceed with an amicable dialogue aimed toward putting an appropriate patent license in place between our companies.

To that end, please have the appropriate point person at _____ contact me so that we can execute an NDA to cover our licensing discussions and arrange for an initial face-to-face meeting at which we can more fully explain the reasons we believe your company requires a license to our patents.

I can be reached at adean@ip-rockstar.com, _____ (work) or _____ (mobile). We look forward to working with _____, and thank you in advance for your prompt attention to this matter.

Very truly yours,

Afzal Dean
