Plaintiff Kelly Moran (“Moran”) brings this action against HSBC Bank USA, N.A. (“HSBC”), as Trustee for Luminent Mortgage Trust 2006-7; Wells Fargo Bank (“Wells Fargo”); Power Default Services, Inc. (“Power Default”); Ocwen Loan Servicing, LLC (“Ocwen”); Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. (“MERS”); and Does 1-100 (collectively, “Defendants”). (“Compl.”) ECF No. 1, Ex. A. Before the Court is Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss the Complaint. (“Mot.”) ECF No. 12. Moran opposes the Motion. (“Opp’n”) ECF No. 13. Pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7-1(b), the Court finds this matter appropriate for resolution without oral argument and hereby VACATES the hearing and case management conference scheduled for

1 August 7, 2014, at 1:30 p.m. ECF No. 11. Having considered the submissions of the parties and the 2 relevant law, the Court hereby GRANTS Defendants' Motion to Dismiss with leave to amend.

3 I. BACKGROUND

4 A. Factual Background

5 Except where otherwise noted, the Court draws the following facts, taken as true for 6 purposes of a motion to dismiss, from Moran's Complaint. On September 1, 2006, Moran recorded
7 a deed of trust in favor of American Brokers Conduit ("American Brokers") on real property 8 located at 73 Piazza Court, San Jose, CA 95127 ("Subject Property"). Compl. ¶ 16. The deed of 9 trust named Alliance Title as trustee and MERS as beneficiary. Id.

10 On or around December 2006, American Brokers sold Moran's deed of trust and 11 promissory note to a mortgage-backed securitized trust entitled the "Luminent Mortgage Trust 12 2006-7, Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates, Series 2006-7" ("LMT 2006-7 Trust" or "Trust"). Id.
13 ¶ 17. Moran's promissory note and deed of trust were securitized pursuant to the Pooling and 14 Servicing Agreement ("PSA") of the LMT 2006-7 Trust. Id. ¶ 18. HSBC acted as trustee for the 15 LMT 2006-7 Trust, which was formed under New York law. Id. The LMT 2006-7 Trust is a tax-16 exempt Real Estate Mortgage Investment Conduit ("REMIC") trust. Id. ¶ 21.

17 The Complaint identifies two rules that allegedly apply to the LMT 2006-7 Trust. First, the 18 Trust's PSA provides that: "None of the Depositor, the Trustee, Master Servicer . . . shall . . .
19 accept any contributions to any REMIC . . . after the Closing Date, unless it has received an 20 Opinion of Counsel" Id. ¶ 22. Moran alleges that the provision's reference to a "Closing Date" 21 is the closing date for the LMT 2006-7 Trust, which was December 27, 2006. Id. Second, as a tax-22 exempt REMIC trust, all transfer of assets to the LMT 2006-7 Trust must have been made within 23 ninety days of LMT 2006-7 Trust's startup date. Id.

24 On October 5, 2010, a notice of default was recorded against the Subject property. Compl.
25 ¶ 19. Although Moran's mortgage had by that point been sold to the LMT 2006-7 Trust, the notice 26 of default continued to list MERS as the beneficiary. Id.

27 On January 7, 2011, MERS recorded an assignment of deed of trust to assign all beneficial 28 interest in the deed of trust on the Subject Property to HSBC as Trustee of the LMT 2006-7 Trust.

1 Id. ¶ 20. On the same day, HSBC recorded a substitution of trustee to appoint Power Default as 2 trustee under the deed of trust. Compl. ¶ 25. Fidelity, acting as agent for Power Default, recorded a 3 notice of trustee’s sale against the Subject Property. Id.

4 On August 17, 2011, Fidelity recorded a notice rescinding the earlier October 5, 2010
5 Notice of Default. Id. ¶ 26. On or around September 6, 2013, a new notice of default was issued 6 against Moran. Id. ¶ 27. The new notice of default listed HSBC, in its capacity as trustee for the 7 LMT 2006-7 Trust, as the beneficiary . Id.

8 Moran claims that the foreclosure proceedings initiated in September 2013 were unlawful, 9 because the entities seeking foreclosure “did not hold any beneficial interest in his deed of trust.”
10 Id. ¶ 28. According to Moran, American Brokers’s 2006 sale of Moran’s mortgage to the LMT 11 2006-7 Trust was ineffective because MERS, the beneficiary, did transfer Moran’s mortgage to the 12 trust pool at that time. Id. Moran further contends that MERS’s subsequent assignment of its 13 beneficial interest in Moran’s mortgage to the LMT 2006-7 Trust in January 2011 was “void, and 14 not merely voidable,” because the assignment took place years after the LMT 2006-7 Trust’s 15 December 27, 2006 closing date, in violation of both the Trust’s PSA and the rules governing tax-
16 exempt REMIC trusts. Id. ¶ 29. As a consequence of the allegedly “void” transfer of Moran’s 17 mortgage, Moran asserts that his mortgage no longer belongs to either MERS or HSBC, but has 18 instead become the property of “an unknown beneficiary.” Id. ¶ 24.

19 B. Procedural Background

20 Moran filed his Complaint in the Superior Court of California, Santa Clara County on 21 December 19, 2013. Id. at 1. The Complaint lists the following seven causes of action: (1) violation 22 of California Civil Code Sections 2923.55 and 2924; (2) wrongful foreclosure; (3) breach of 23 express agreement; (4) breach of implied agreement; (5) slander of title, (6) violation of 18 U.S.C 24 § 1962; and (7) violation of California Business and Profession Code Section 17200. Id.

25 Defendants removed the case to this Court on February 11, 2014 pursuant to 28 U.S.C
26 §§ 1331, 1441(a), because Moran’s sixth cause of action (for violation of 28 U.S.C. § 1962) arises
27 under federal law. ECF No. 1. Defendants subsequently filed a Motion to Dismiss on March 17, 28 2014. ECF No. 12. Moran filed his Opposition on March 31, 2014. ECF No. 13.

1 II. LEGAL STANDARD

2 A. Rule 12(b)(1)

3 A defendant may move to dismiss an action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction pursuant 4 to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1). A motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter 5 jurisdiction will be granted if the complaint on its face fails to allege facts sufficient to establish 6 subject matter jurisdiction. See Savage v. Glendale Union High Sch., 343 F.3d 1036, 1039 n.2 (9th 7 Cir. 2003). If the plaintiff lacks standing under Article III of the U.S. Constitution, then the court 8 lacks subject matter jurisdiction, and the case must be dismissed. See Steel Co. v. Citizens for a 9 Better Env't, 523 U.S. 83, 101-02 (1998). In considering a Rule 12(b)(1) motion, the Court “is not 10 restricted to the face of the pleadings, but may review any evidence, such as affidavits and 11 testimony, to resolve factual disputes concerning the existence of jurisdiction.” McCarthy v. United 12 States, 850 F.2d 558, 560 (9th Cir. 1988). Once a party has moved to dismiss for lack of subject 13 matter jurisdiction under Rule 12(b)(1), the opposing party bears the burden of establishing the 14 court’s jurisdiction, see Chandler v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 598 F.3d 1115, 1122 (9th Cir.
15 2010), by putting forth “the manner and degree of evidence required” by whatever stage of the 16 litigation the case has reached, Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 561 (1992); see also 17 Barnum Timber Co. v. Envtl. Prot. Agency, 633 F.3d 894, 899 (9th Cir. 2011) (at the motion to 18 dismiss stage, Article III standing is adequately demonstrated through allegations of “specific facts 19 plausibly explaining” why the standing requirements are met).

20 B. Leave to Amend

21 If the Court determines that the complaint should be dismissed, it must then decide whether 22 to grant leave to amend. Under Rule 15(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, leave to amend 23 “should be freely granted when justice so requires,” bearing in mind that “the underlying purpose 24 of Rule 15. . . [is] to facilitate decision on the merits, rather than on the pleadings or technicalities.”
25 Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc) (internal quotation marks omitted).
26 Nonetheless, a court “may exercise its discretion to deny leave to amend due to ‘undue delay, bad 27 faith or dilatory motive on part of the movant, repeated failure to cure deficiencies by amendments 28 previously allowed, undue prejudice to the opposing party . . . , [and] futility of amendment.’”

1 Carvalho v. Equifax Info. Servs., LLC, 629 F.3d 876, 892-93 (9th Cir. 2010) (alterations in 2 original) (quoting Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962)).

3 III. DISCUSSION

4 At the outset, the Court determines that Moran lacks Article III standing to assert any of the 5 claims in his Complaint. As standing is a prerequisite to federal subject matter jurisdiction, the 6 conclusion that Moran lacks standing requires dismissal of this case.

7 To have Article III standing, a plaintiff must plead and prove that he or she has suffered 8 sufficient injury to satisfy the “case or controversy” requirement of Article III of the United States
9 Constitution. See Clapper v. Amnesty Int’l, --- U.S. ---, 133 S. Ct. 1138, 1146 (2013) (“One 10 element of the case-or-controversy requirement’ is that plaintiffs ‘must establish that they have 11 standing to sue.’” (quoting Raines v. Byrd, 521 U.S. 811, 818 (1997))). Therefore, for Article III 12 standing, a plaintiff must establish: (1) injury-in-fact that is concrete and particularized, as well as 13 actual or imminent; (2) that this injury is fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant; 14 and (3) that this injury is redressable by a favorable ruling from the court. Monsanto Co. v.
15 Geertson Seed Farms, --- U.S. ---, 130 S. Ct. 2743, 2752 (2010); Friends of the Earth, Inc. v.
16 Laidlaw Env’tl. Servs. (TOC), Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 180-81 (2000).

17 All seven of Moran’s causes of action are premised on the theory that the original owners of 18 his mortgage failed to actually transfer ownership of his loan. See generally Compl. Accordingly, 19 whether Moran has standing to assert any of his claims hinges on whether he has standing to 20 challenge the loan assignment. For the reasons discussed below, the Court finds that Moran lacks 21 standing to challenge the allegedly defective loan transfer.

22 “Third-party borrowers lack standing to assert problems in the assignment of the loan” 23 because the borrowers have not suffered an injury in fact. Flores v. GMAC Mortg., LLC, No. 12-24 794, 2013 WL 2049388, at *3 (N.D. Cal. May 14, 2013); see also Jenkins v. JP Morgan Bank, 25 N.A., 216 Cal. App. 4th 497, 513-14 (2013). Assignment defects do not injure borrowers because 26 “even if there were some defect in the [subsequent] assignment of the deed of trust, that assignment 27 would not have changed plaintiff’s payment obligations.” Simmons v. Aurora Bank, FSB, No. 13-28 482, 2013 WL 5508136, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 30, 2013); see also Apostol v. CitiMortgage, Inc.,

1 No. 13-1983, 2013 WL 6328256, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 21, 2013) (“There is no dispute on the 2 record before the Court that the Beneficiary (whoever plaintiff believes that is) was entitled to 3 pursue foreclosure”); Siliga v. Mortg. Elec. Registration Sys., Inc., 219 Cal. App. 4th 75, 85
4 (2013) (“The assignment of the deed of trust and the note did not change [Plaintiffs’] obligations 5 under the note, and there is no reason to believe that . . . the original lender would have refrained 6 from foreclosure in these circumstances.”).

7 Here, Moran has failed to specify an injury “fairly traceable to the challenged action of the 8 defendant.” See Lujan, 504 U.S. at 590. Plaintiff does not contend that the initial securitization of 9 his loan to American Brokers was improper. Because Moran has not alleged that his obligation to 10 repay his mortgage is in any way affected by any assignment defects, the foreclosure 11 proceedings—the injury alleged by Moran—also presumably remain unchanged by the alleged 12 assignments defects. Therefore, even if a loss in property occurs, “the true victim was not plaintiff 13 but the original lender, which would have suffered the unauthorized loss.” Fontenot v. Wells Fargo 14 Bank, N.A., 198 Cal. App. 4th 256, 272 (2011). Moran thus cannot claim to be the “true victim” of 15 the alleged mistakes in the assignment process. Given that Moran has not identified any injury he 16 suffered as a result of the alleged irregularities in the assignment of his mortgage, Moran lacks 17 standing to challenge this assignment. See Jenkins, 216 Cal. App. 4th at 511 (“California courts 18 have refused to delay the nonjudicial foreclosure process by allowing trustor-debtors to pursue 19 preemptive judicial actions to challenge the right, power, and authority of a foreclosing 20 ‘beneficiary’ or beneficiary’s ‘agent’ to initiate and pursue foreclosure.”)

21 Moran’s argument that he has standing relies entirely on a case from the California Court of 22 Appeal for the Fifth District, Glaski v. Bank of America National Ass’n, 218 Cal. App. 4th 1079, 23 1099 (2013). Glaski held that a borrower, whose loan had been organized into a trust formed under 24 New York law, had standing to challenge an assignment of his note because the defendants failed 25 to assign the trust before the trust’s closing date, creating a defect in the chain of transfer. See id. at 26 1096. The court in Glaski acknowledged “that some federal district courts sitting in California have 27 rejected the post-closing date theory of invalidity on the grounds that the borrower does not have 28 standing to challenge an assignment between two other parties.” Id. at 1098 (citing Aniel v. GMAC

1 Mortg., LLC, No. 12-4021, 2012 WL 5389706 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 2, 2012); Almutarreb v. Bank of 2 N.Y. Trust Co., N.A., No. 12-3061, 2012 WL 4371410 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2012)). However, the 3 Glaski court concluded that “[t]hese cases are not persuasive because they do not address the 4 principle that a borrower may challenge an assignment that is void and they do not apply New 5 York trust law to the operation of the securitized trusts in question.” Id. The court in Glaski 6 explained that if the assignment of a trust was void, the defendant could not initiate a lawful 7 foreclosure proceeding against the Plaintiff because it did not have a legal right to the property. Id.
8 at 1095-97. The court then went on to find that the trust in Glaski was void under New York trust 9 law. Id. at 1097. Because the assignment of the note was void, the defendant in Glaski was not the 10 lawful holder of the plaintiff’s deed of trust and could not initiate a foreclosure proceeding against 11 the plaintiff. Id. at 1097-98. This gave the plaintiff standing to challenge the assignment despite 12 being a third-party borrower. See id.

13 Glaski conflicts with several other California Court of Appeal cases that have held that a 14 mortgage borrower, as a third party, does not have a cause of action due to irregularities in the 15 chain of transfer. See, e.g., Jenkins, 216 Cal. App. 4th at 515 (“As an unrelated third party to the 16 alleged securitization, and any other subsequent transfers of the beneficial interest under the 17 promissory note, [Plaintiff] lacks standing to enforce any agreements, including the investment 18 trust’s pooling and servicing agreement, relating to such transactions.”); Fontenot, 198 Cal. App.
19 4th at 272-73 (stating plaintiff had no cause of action for merely alleging irregularities in the 20 assignment process). “Moreover, courts in this District have expressly rejected Glaski and adhered 21 to the majority view that individuals who are not parties to a PSA cannot base wrongful foreclosure 22 claims on alleged deficiencies in the PSA/securitization process.” Apostol, 2013 WL 6328256 at 23 *7; accord Giseke v. Bank of Am., N.A., No. 13-4772, 2014 WL 718463, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 23, 24 2014) (“To the best of the Court’s knowledge, no court has yet followed Glaski on this point, and 25 many have pointedly declined to.”).

26 Glaski’s reasoning is also unpersuasive. First, it is well-established that a third party should 27 not be permitted to enforce covenants made for the benefit of others. See, e.g., Murphy v. Allstate
28 Ins. Co., 17 Cal. 3d 937, 944 (1976) (“A third party should not be permitted to enforce covenants

1 made not for his benefit, but rather for others. He is not a contracting party; his right to 2 performance is predicated on the contracting parties' intent to benefit him."). Second, there is 3 persuasive authority that the reasoning in Glaski is based on a flawed reading of New York trust 4 law. Glaski held that an act in violation of a trust agreement is void, as opposed to merely voidable.
5 218 Cal. App. 4th at 1097. Whether the assignment of a trust is void or merely voidable is 6 significant because a foreclosure proceeding involving a void trust assignment can be challenged 7 on the basis that the foreclosing entity does not have a legal right to the property, whereas a 8 voidable assignment can be challenged only by a directly injured party. See id. at 1095-97. New 9 York state appellate courts, however, have consistently found, contrary to the holding in Glaski, 10 that an act in violation of a trust agreement is voidable, not void. See, e.g., In re Levy, 893 11 N.Y.S.2d 142 (N.Y. App. Div. 2010) (holding that a violation of a trust's procedural obligations to 12 formally inform a beneficiary of a trustee did not void a trust); Mooney v. Madden, 597 N.Y.S.2d 13 775 (N.Y. App. Div. 1993) (holding that a trustee excluding beneficiaries in a trust from voting in a 14 matter violated the trust agreement but did not make the trust void); see also Anh Nguyet Tran v.
15 Bank of N.Y., No. 13-580, 2014 WL 1225575, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 24, 2014) ("[T]hough some 16 courts have held that non-compliance with the terms of a PSA renders an assignment void under 17 [the New York trust statute], the weight of the case law holds that such an assignment is merely 18 voidable, and therefore outside the scope of that section."); Banares v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 19 No. 13-4896, 2014 WL 985532, at *4-5 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 7, 2014) (criticizing Glaski for its flawed 20 reading of New York trust law).

21 In sum, Moran's reliance on Glaski is misplaced, both because Glaski does not state the 22 majority rule and because its reasoning is unpersuasive. Thus, the Court follows the weight of the 23 authority and finds that Moran lacks standing to challenge the alleged assignment defects.
24 Consequently, the Court GRANTS Defendants' Motion to Dismiss. Because Moran may 25 conceivably be able to identify some injury he has suffered that is traceable to Defendants' conduct 26 in an amended pleading, this dismissal is without prejudice. See Lopez, 203 F.3d at 1127 (leave to 27 amend should be "freely granted").

For the foregoing reasons, Moran’s Complaint is DISMISSED without prejudice. Should Moran elect to file an amended complaint curing the deficiencies discussed herein, Moran shall do so within 21 days of the date of this Order. Failure to meet the 21-day deadline to file an amended complaint or failure to cure the deficiencies identified in this Order will result in a dismissal with prejudice. Moran may not add new causes of action or parties without leave of the Court or stipulation of the parties pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
