IN RE INDUCTORS ANTITRUST
LITIGATION

Case No. 5:18-cv-00198-EJD

Re: Dkt. No. 436

FLEXTRONICS INTERNATIONAL
USA, INC.,

Case No. 5:19-cv-00078-EJD

Re: Dkt. No. 167

Plaintiff,

v.

PANASONIC CORPORATION, et al.,

Defendants.

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' CONSOLIDATED MOTION TO DISMISS FLEXTRONICS' FOURTH
AMENDED COMPLAINT AND DEPENDABLE'S THIRD AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff Flextronics International U.S.A., Inc. (“Flextronics”) purchases inductors to build electronic products for major Original Equipment Manufacturers (“OEMs”). Flextronics alleges that it directly purchased inductors from Defendants Murata Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Murata Electronics North America, Inc., Murata Power Solutions, Inc., Toko Inc. (“the Murata Defendants”), Panasonic Corporation, Panasonic Corporation of North America, Panasonic Electronic Devices Co. Ltd., Panasonic Industrial Devices Corporation of America (“the Panasonic Defendants”), Sagami Elec Co., Ltd., Sagami America Ltd. (“the Sagami Defendants”), Sumida Corporation, Sumida Electric Co., Ltd., Sumida America Components, Inc. (“the Sumida Defendants”).

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' CONSOLIDATED MOTION TO DISMISS FLEXTRONICS' FOURTH AMENDED COMPLAINT AND DEPENDABLE'S THIRD AMENDED COMPLAINT

1 Defendants”), Taiyo Yuden Co., Ltd., Taiyo Yuden (USA) Inc. (“the Taiyo Yuden Defendants”),
2 TDK Corporation, TDK-EPC Corporation, TDK Corporation of America, TDK U.S.A.
3 Corporation (“the TDK Defendants”), and their co-conspirators throughout the Relevant Period
4 (January 1, 2003 through December 31, 2017). See Fourth Amended Complaint (“FAC”) ¶ 11,
5 Dkt. No. 137. Flextronics alleges that Defendants conspired with each other to fix, raise, stabilize,
6 and maintain the price of inductors during this period.

7 Plaintiff Dependable Component Supply Corporation (“Dependable”) similarly alleges that 8 the Murata, TDK, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants conspired to fix prices, allocate markets, and rig
9 bids for inductors that they sold to Dependable and putative class members throughout the 10 Relevant Period (January 1, 2003 through December 31, 2017). See Third Amended Complaint
11 (“TAC”) ¶ 2, Dkt. No. 420.

12 Defendants moved through one pleading to dismiss Flextronics’ FAC and Dependable’s
13 TAC. See Defendants’ Consolidated Motion to Dismiss Flextronics’ Fourth Amended Complaint
14 and Dependable’s Third Amended Complaint (“Mot.”), Dkt. Nos. 436 & 167. In response,
15 Flextronics and Dependable filed an omnibus brief in opposition, to which Defendants filed a 16 reply. See Joint Opposition to Motion to Dismiss (“Opp.”), Dkt. Nos. 442 & 173; Defendants’
17 Reply in Support of Consolidated Motion to Dismiss (“Reply”), Dkt. Nos. 447 & 179. Having 18 considered the briefing and having had the benefit of oral argument on July 8, 2021, the Court
19 GRANTS Defendants’ motion to dismiss.

20 I. BACKGROUND

21 Rather than repeat the factual background of these cases for a third time, the Court refers
22 the Parties to its prior orders and AFFIRMS those orders herein. See, e.g., Flextronics Int’l USA
23 v. Murata Mfg. Co., No. 5:19-cv-00078-EJD, Dkt. No. 132 (discussing the differences between the 24 OEM-specific conspiracy and the broader market-wide conspiracy); In re Inductors Antitrust
25 Litig., No. 5:18-cv-00198-EJD, Dkt. No. 417.

1 Flextronics continues to allege two separate conspiracies: (1) an OEM-specific conspiracy
2 that allegedly involved TDK, Murata, and the Taiyo Yuden Defendants, see FAC ¶¶ 13, 56, 229,
3 and (2) a broader market-wide conspiracy involving all Defendants, see FAC ¶¶ 478–510.
4 Importantly, after Defendants moved to dismiss Flextronics’ fourth amended complaint, the TDK,
5 Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants were dismissed from this action. See Dkt. Nos. 193, 202,
6 205. Because the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants were dismissed, the OEM-specific
7 conspiracy is no longer in dispute. The Court thus only addresses the portions of Defendants’
8 motion to dismiss as it relates to the Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida Defendants alleged 9 involvement in the market-wide conspiracy.

10 Dependable asserts one conspiracy, an OEM-conspiracy, that allegedly involved the TDK,
11 Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants.<sup>1</sup> See TAC ¶ 111 n.23. Dependable alleges that Defendants
12 conspired to fix the prices of inductors for thirteen OEMs, which it labels “Major Customers.”
13 TAC ¶ 6.

14 II. LEGAL STANDARD

15 Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), a district court must dismiss a complaint
16 if it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. A plaintiff need only allege “enough 17 facts to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S.
18 544, 570 (2007). “In general, the inquiry is limited to the allegations in the complaint, which are 19 accepted as true and construed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff.” Lazy Y Ranch Ltd. v.
20 Behrens, 546 F.3d 580, 588 (9th Cir. 2008). A complaint alleging an antitrust conspiracy thus 21 must merely present “enough factual matter (taken as true) to suggest that an agreement was 22 made” in order to “raise a reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of an illegal
23

24 <sup>1</sup> While Dependable did not formally dismiss the Sagami, Sumida, Panasonic, and Tokin
25 Defendants, it did so by failing to name these defendants in its amended complaint. See Valdez v.
26 Cal. Highway Patrol, 2016 WL 11520302, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 9, 2016) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P.
27 24). Accordingly, the Sagami, Sumida, Panasonic, and Tokin Defendants are dismissed from the 28 Dependable action.

1 agreement.” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556. The touchstone is plausibility. “Specific facts are not
2 necessary; the statement need only give the defendant[s] fair notice of what . . . the claim is and
3 the grounds upon which it rests.” In re Flash Memory Antitrust Litig., 643 F. Supp. 2d 1133, 1141
4 (N.D. Cal. 2009) (quotation marks and citation omitted).

5 Courts in this district do not require plaintiffs in complex, multinational, antitrust cases to 6 plead detailed, defendant-by-defendant allegations. Instead, courts require plaintiffs “to make 7 allegations that plausibly suggest that each Defendant participated in the alleged conspiracy.” In 8 re TFT-LCD (Flat Panel) Antitrust Litig., 599 F. Supp. 2d 1179, 1185 (N.D. Cal. 2009) (quoting 9 In re Static Random Access Memory (SRAM) Antitrust Litig., 580 F. Supp. 2d 896, 904 (N.D. Cal.
10 2008). In complex, multinational, conspiracy cases, courts in this district review specific 11 allegations in the context of the complaint taken as a whole. In re Flash Memory, 643 F. Supp. 2d
12 at 1144, 1147, 1148. Although this is not a “pleading standard,” this approach is consistent with 13 the Supreme Court’s admonition in Continental Ore Co. v. Union Carbide & Carbon Corp. that 14 the “character and effect of a conspiracy are not to be judged by dismembering it and viewing its 15 separate parts, but only by looking at it as a whole.” In re Cathode Ray Tube (CRT) Antitrust
16 Litig., 738 F. Supp. 2d 1011, 1019 (N.D. Cal. 2010) (quoting Cont’l Ore Co. v. Union Carbide &
17 Carbon Corp., 370 U.S. 690, 699 (1962)).

18 III. DISCUSSION

19 A. Flextronics’ Fourth Amended Complaint

20 The Court must again determine whether Flextronics has alleged sufficient facts to 21 demonstrate that Defendants conspired to fix the prices of inductors.

22 Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1, prohibits “[e]very contract, 23 combination . . . , or conspiracy, in restraint of trade.” To state a claim under Section 1, a plaintiff 24 must allege that “(1) there was an agreement, conspiracy, or combination between two or more 25 entities; (2) the agreement was an unreasonable restraint of trade under either a per se or rule of 26 reason analysis; and (3) the restraint affected interstate commerce.” Am. Ad Mgmt. Inc. v. GTE

27 Case Nos.: 5:18-cv-00198-EJD; 5:19-cv-00078-EJD
28 ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS’ CONSOLIDATED MOTION TO DISMISS
FLEXTRONICS’ FOURTH AMENDED COMPLAINT AND DEPENDABLE’S THIRD
AMENDED COMPLAINT

1 Corp., 92 F.3d 781, 784 (9th Cir. 1996). The Supreme Court has stated that a plaintiff must plead
2 “enough factual matter (taken as true) to suggest that an agreement was made.” Kendall v. VISA
3 U.S.A., Inc., 518 F.3d 1042, 1047 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556–57).

4 “Asking for plausible grounds to infer an agreement does not impose a probability
5 requirement at the pleading stage; it simply calls for enough fact[s] to raise a reasonable
6 expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of an illegal agreement.” Id. In this circuit, courts
7 distinguish permissible parallel conduct from impermissible conspiracy by looking for “plus
8 factors,” i.e., “economic actions and outcomes that are largely inconsistent with unilateral
9 conduct but largely consistent with explicitly coordinated action.” Kelsey K. v. NFL Enters.,
10 LLC, 254 F. Supp. 3d 1140, 1144 (N.D. Cal. 2017) (quoting In re Musical Instruments & Equip.
11 Antitrust Litig., 798 F.3d 1186, 1193–94 (9th Cir. 2015)). In this case, because Flextronics relies 12 solely on circumstantial evidence,<sup>2</sup> it must allege facts “tending to exclude the possibility that 13 defendants acted independently.” Id. (citing In re Citric Acid Litig., 191 F.3d 1090, 1096 (9th Cir.
14 1999)).

15 Flextronics had not remedied the deficiencies identified by the Court in its earlier order.
16 First, Flextronics again fails to plead parallel pricing among the Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida
17 Defendants and the named co-conspirators, i.e., the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants.
18 Flextronics engaged an expert to demonstrate statistical evidence of parallel pricing, but the expert
19 could only demonstrate such pricing among the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants.
20 Indeed, “Flex did not purchase enough obviously comparable products over a long enough time
21 frame from . . . Panasonic, Sagami, or Sumida to permit statistical analysis of comparable 22 products’ quarterly prices over the Conspiracy Period.” FAC ¶ 535. Flextronics attempts to

23
24
25 <sup>2</sup> To the extent Flextronics relies on direct evidence to show that Defendants conspired to target
26 the entire inductors market, it does so only with respect to the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden
27 Defendants. See, e.g., Opp. at 13, 17 (discussing Nakakabu dinners that involved the TDK, 28 Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants); see also Opp. at 24 n. 14 (stating that Flextronics relies on circumstantial evidence to demonstrate a broader, market-wide conspiracy).

Case Nos.: 5:18-cv-00198-EJD; 5:19-cv-00078-EJD

1 demonstrate parallel pricing among the Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida Defendants by using 2 “price comparisons” involving certain pairs of Defendants. See FAC ¶¶ 535–39 (Figure 20).
 3 Problematically, these price comparisons do not demonstrate parallel pricing because they do not
 4 show any trends, patterns, or relationships among the Defendants’ pricing over time. See FAC
 5 ¶ 539 (including a range of different price percentages, time spans, defendants, and products); see
 6 also In re Musical Instruments, 798 F.3d at 1193 (parallel conduct means “competitors adopting 7 similar policies around the same time in response to similar market conditions”) (emphasis
 8 added); cf. In re Capacitors Antitrust Litig., 106 F. Supp. 3d 1051, 1062 (N.D. Cal. 2015) 9 (noting that plaintiffs alleged “specific price data” reflecting that the defendants’ conduct allowed 10 them “to slow, negate and even reverse the market-driven decline in price for their products, and 11 to fix prices at supra-competitive levels”); In re Musical Instruments, 798 F.3d at 1197 (noting 12 that plaintiff must allege facts “connecting the purported price increase to an illegal agreement 13 among competitors”).

14 Second, the complaint does not allege how the Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida Defendants
 15 “joined the conspiracy and played some role in it.” See In re TFT-LCD, 586 F. Supp. 2d 1109, 16 1117 (N.D. Cal. 2008) (quotation marks and citation omitted). While the FAC alleges that the 17 Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida Defendants participated in the JEITA meetings, the Ninth Circuit 18 has clearly stated that “mere participation in trade-organization meetings where information is 19 exchanged and strategies are advocated does not suggest an illegal agreement.” In re Musical
 20 Instruments, 798 F.3d at 1196. Flextronics does not allege new facts showing that Defendants
 21 exchanged improper information at these meetings. See Reply at 8–9. There are thus no
 22 allegations demonstrating that the Panasonic, Sagami, and Sumida Defendants behaved
 23 improperly or conspired with the other named Defendants to fix the prices of inductors.

24 For these reasons, the Court GRANTS Defendants’ motion to dismiss Flextronics’ fourth
 25 amended complaint.

1 B. Dependable’s Third Amended Complaint

2 In its third amended complaint, Dependable alleges, on behalf of itself and a class of 3 similarly situated persons and entities, that the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants
4 conspired to fix prices, allocate markets, and rig bids for inductors that they sold to Dependable
5 and other class members. TAC ¶¶ 1–2. Dependable does not allege that there was an industry-
6 wide conspiracy. Instead, Dependable alleges that the TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden
7 Defendants conspired to fix the prices of inductors for thirteen Major Customers. Defendants,
8 citing the Court’s August 2020 dismissal of Flextronics’ third amended complaint, move to 9 dismiss Dependable’s TAC for lack of standing.

10 To satisfy Article III standing, a plaintiff must allege: (1) an injury in fact that is concrete 11 and particularized, as well as actual or imminent; (2) that the injury is fairly traceable to the 12 challenged action of the defendant; and (3) that it is likely (not merely speculative) that injury will 13 be redressed by a favorable decision. Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Laidlaw Env’tl. Servs. (TOC),
14 Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 180–81 (2000); Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 561–62 (1992).
15 To establish an injury in fact, a plaintiff must show that he or she suffered “an invasion of a 16 legally protected interest” that is “concrete and particularized” and “actual or imminent, not 17 conjectural or hypothetical.” Spokeo, Inc. v. Robins, 578 U.S. 330, 339 (2016) (quotation marks 18 and citation omitted).

19 If a plaintiff cannot allege Article III standing, then the federal court lacks jurisdiction over 20 the case and must dismiss the action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1).
21 Spencer Enters., Inc. v. United States, 345 F.3d 683, 687 (9th Cir. 2003); Steel Co. v. Citizens for 22 a Better Env’t, 523 U.S. 83, 101, 109–10 (1998). “At the pleading stage, the plaintiff must clearly 23 allege facts demonstrating each element.” In re Apple Processor Litig., 366 F. Supp. 3d 1103, 24 1107 (N.D. Cal. 2019) (quoting Spokeo, 136 S. Ct. at 338). “When ‘[s]peculative inferences’ are 25 necessary . . . to establish either injury or the connection between the alleged injury and the act
26 challenged, standing will not be found.” Johnson v. Weinberger, 851 F.2d 233, 235 (9th Cir.

1 1988) (quoting Simon v. E. Ky. Welfare Rights Org., 426 U.S. 26, 45 (1976)).

2 The Court agrees that Dependable lacks standing to pursue its claim. In order to plead
3 constitutional standing, Dependable “must connect itself to the OEM-conspiracy in some concrete
4 way—either by showing that it purchased Inductors from [a Major Customer] or that it was a
5 target of the OEM bid-rigging conspiracy.” See Order Granting the Murata, Taiyo Yuden, and 6 TDK Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss, Dkt. No. 133 (Flextronics Case). Dependable does neither.
7 First, Dependable still does not indicate what type of Inductors it purchased, in what quantity, at 8 what price, or how the prices may have changed over time. See TAC ¶ 13. Second, Dependable
9 does not allege that it purchased parts that were affected by the OEM specific bid-rigging
10 agreements or that it was a target of the agreement. Instead, paragraph 13 of the TAC connects 11 Dependable to the OEM-specific scheme using speculation—it alleges that because of the 12 Defendants’ conspiracy, the prices for inductors increased, and thus Dependable paid more for 13 inductors than it would have absent Defendants’ conspiracy. This is insufficient. There must be 14 some connection between the alleged scheme targeting the Major Customers and Dependable 15 beyond the general (and hypothetical) grievance that “prices would have been lower” absent the 16 alleged anticompetitive conduct. See Johnson, 851 F.2d at 235.

17 Dependable fails to allege anything about its own purchases or its purchasing process that 18 would support an inference that it was harmed by the alleged OEM-conspiracy. The alleged harm 19 caused to the thirteen Major Customers and other putative class members is insufficient to 20 demonstrate a “concrete and particularized” harm to Dependable. Without allegations 21 demonstrating that the scheme particularly impacted Dependable, the Court must GRANT the 22 TDK, Murata, and Taiyo Yuden Defendants’ motion to dismiss Dependable’s third amended 23 complaint for lack of standing.

24 IV. CONCLUSION

25 The Court GRANTS Defendants’ motion to dismiss. When dismissing a complaint for 26 failure to state a claim, a court should grant leave to amend “unless it determines that the pleading

This Court has previously dismissed two other complaints and has provided Flextronics and Dependable ample opportunity to cure the deficiencies identified in those Orders. Because Plaintiffs have not remedied those deficiencies, the Court finds that amendment would be futile, and Plaintiffs’ claims are dismissed without leave to amend. The Clerk shall close the files.
