UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN JOSE DIVISION

ROMEIN ROSTAMI,
Plaintiff,
v.
HYPERNET INC., et al.,
Defendants.

Case No. 22-cv-01813-EJD

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS’ MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND DENYING AS MOOT PLAINTIFF’S ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION TO STRIKE STATEMENT OF RECENT DECISION

Re: ECF Nos. 36, 40, 64

Plaintiff Romein Rostami (“Plaintiff”) brings this action against Hypernet Inc. (“Hypernet”), Hypernet Labs Inc. (“HLI”), Ivan Ravlich, Daniel Maren, and Todd Chapman (with Ravlich and Maren, the “Individual Defendants,” and collectively with Hypernet and HLI, “Defendants”), asserting claims for fraudulent inducement, unjust enrichment, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, civil conspiracy, and alter ego liability. ECF No. 1 (“Compl.”). Pending before the Court are (1) Hypernet’s Motion to Dismiss or, in the Alternative, to Compel Arbitration; (2) HLI and the Individual Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss or, in the Alternative, to Compel Arbitration (with Hypernet’s Motion, the “Motions”); and (3) Plaintiff’s Administrative Motion to Strike Defendants’ Unauthorized Statement of Recent Decision. ECF Nos. 36 (“Hypernet Mot.”), 40 (“HLI/ID Mot.”), 64. The Court finds the pending motions appropriate for decision without oral argument pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7-1(b). For the reasons discussed below, the Court GRANTS the Motions without leave to amend, DENIES AS MOOT the Administrative Motion, and dismisses the action without prejudice.

I. BACKGROUND

At the pleading stage, the Court accepts as true all well-pleaded factual allegations and construes them in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Carijano v. Occidental Petrol. Corp., 643 F.3d 1216, 1222 (9th Cir. 2011) (accepting facts alleged in complaint as true in evaluating motion to dismiss for forum non conveniens); Reese v. BP Exploration (Alaska) Inc., 643 F.3d 681, 690 (9th Cir. 2011) (accepting facts as true in determining motion to dismiss under for failure to state a claim). The following facts derive from the allegations in the Complaint.¹

Defendant Hypernet is a start-up technology company that described its business plan as the creation of a computing network—the “Hypernet Protocol” or “Hypernet Platform”—capable of providing “true parallel computing” as a public resource via a decentralized platform that would connect buyers and sellers of computing power. Compl. ¶¶ 2–3, 35. Hypernet was incorporated in the Cook Islands, with its headquarters and principal place of business in Palo Alto, California. Id. ¶¶ 7(i), 11; Ex. A at 2.² The Cook Islands Ministry of Justice does not have a record of the formation or current registration of Hypernet. Compl. ¶ 12. HLI is a Delaware corporation, with its headquarters and principal place of business in Palo Alto, California. Id. ¶ 13. Ravlich, Maren, and Chapman all reside in California and serve or served as, respectively, HLI’s chief executive, financial, and technical officers. Id. ¶¶ 14–16. The Individual Defendants are also alleged to be co-controllers and co-principals of Hypernet. Id.

In the summer of 2018, Hypernet offered for purchase the future right to as-yet-undeveloped cryptocurrency tokens (“Hyper Tokens”) to fund the development of the Hypernet Platform. Compl. ¶¶ 3, 22. In general, cryptocurrency tokens, or coins, are virtual products that may entitle holders to certain rights related to an underlying venture, such as rights to profits, share of assets, rights to use certain services provided by the issuer, and voting rights. Id. ¶ 23.

¹ The Court also considers the two Future Token Interest Subscription Agreements attached to the Complaint as Exhibit A. ECF No. 1-1 (“Ex. A”); see Compl. ¶ 28; Hernandez v. TLC of the Bay Area, Inc., 263 F. Supp. 3d 849, 852 (N.D. Cal. 2017) (citations omitted) (documents appended to the complaint may be considered along with the complaint on a motion to dismiss).

² All page citations to Exhibit A use ECF numbering rather than internal pagination due to the duplication of page numbers within the exhibit.

1 Additionally, there exist online markets where holders can exchange cryptocurrency tokens for fiat 2 currencies (e.g., U.S. dollars) or other virtual currencies. Id. Hypernet’s Hyper Tokens were to be 3 the currency for purchasing computing power on the Hypernet Platform and a vehicle entitling 4 holders to vote on upgrades or changes to the Hypernet Protocol. Id. ¶¶ 29, 35.

5 Hypernet sold future rights to Hyper Tokens in exchange for U.S. dollars, Bitcoin or 6 Ethereum, of which the latter two are virtual currencies. Compl. ¶¶ 19, 25. The vehicles for these 7 sales were purchase agreements referred to as Future Token Interest Subscription Agreements 8 (“TSAs”). Id. ¶ 25. On July 25, 2018, Plaintiff—a U.S. citizen residing in Puerto Rico—entered 9 into two separate TSAs with Hypernet. Id. ¶¶ 10, 28; see Ex. A. at 2–57, 58–113. The sale price 10 under the first TSA was $84,346 U.S. dollars, and the price under the second TSA was $254,902.
11 Ex. A at 57, 113. Plaintiff paid the total of $339,248 by transferring 728 Ethereum cryptocurrency
12 tokens to Hypernet. Id. at 55–57, 111–113; Compl. ¶ 4. The TSAs, including the Confidential 13 Interest Statement accompanying each agreement, stated the following: “The Hypernet may not 14 be successfully developed or launched and Purchasers may not receive tokens”; “It is possible that 15 the Tokens and the Hypernet may never be launched and there may never be an operational 16 Token;” and “Purchasers should be aware that they will be required to bear the financial risks of 17 this purchase for an indefinite period of time.” Ex. A. at 4, 16, 60, 72. The TSAs also each 18 contained a clause providing:

19 All rights and obligations hereunder will be governed by the laws of 20 the Cook Islands, without regard to the conflicts of law provisions of 21 such jurisdiction. The Purchaser hereby irrevocably agrees that all 22 actions arising directly or indirectly as a result or in consequence of 23 this TSA of the Tokens shall be instituted and litigated only in courts 24 having situs in the Cook Islands and the Purchaser hereby consents to the exclusive jurisdiction and venue of any court of competent jurisdiction in the Cook Islands. The Purchaser hereby waives any objection based on forum non conveniens, and the Purchaser hereby waives personal service of any and all process.

25 Id. 52–53, 108–109. In total, investors paid about $20 million worth of U.S. dollars to fund 26 Hypernet and purchase future rights to Hyper Tokens. Compl. ¶¶ 4, 27, 53.

27 On March 22, 2022, Plaintiff filed this action seeking the return of 728 Ethereum

1 cryptocurrency tokens, alleging that Defendants never intended to produce a viable platform or the 2 Hyper Token. Id. ¶¶ 1, 27. As of the filing of the Complaint, the Hypernet Platform had not been 3 created and no Hyper Tokens had been issued. Id. ¶ 47.

4 On January 10, 2023, Defendants filed a statement of recent decision in support of their 5 Motions and submitted a copy of an order in Rostami v. Open Props, Inc., S.D.N.Y. No. 1:22-cv-6 03326-RA. ECF Nos. 63, 63-1. On January 20, 2023, Plaintiff filed an administrative motion to 7 strike the statement of recent decision as improper under Civil L.R. 7-3. ECF No. 64.

8 II. LEGAL STANDARD

9 A. Forum Selection Clause

10 “[T]he appropriate way to enforce a forum-selection clause pointing to a state or foreign 11 forum is through the doctrine of forum non conveniens.” Atl. Marine Constr. Co., Inc. v. U.S. D.
12 for W.D. of Tex., 571 U.S. 49, 60 (2013). The Supreme Court further held in Atlantic Marine that 13 “courts should evaluate a forum-selection clause pointing to a nonfederal forum in the same way 14 that they evaluate a forum-selection clause pointing to a federal forum” under 28 U.S.C. § 15 1404(a). Id. at 61. Under that analysis, “[w]hen the parties have agreed to a valid forum-selection 16 clause, a district court should ordinarily transfer the case to the forum specified in that clause.” 17 Sun v. Advanced China Healthcare, Inc., 901 F.3d 1081, 1087 (9th Cir. 2018) (quoting Atl.
18 Marine, 571 U.S. at 62); see also Adema Techs., Inc. v. Wacker Chem. Corp., 657 F. App’x 661, 19 662 (9th Cir. 2016) (“A court should refuse to enforce a forum-selection clause ‘only under 20 extraordinary circumstances unrelated to the convenience of the parties.’”) (citation omitted). The 21 threshold step of the analysis is therefore to determine the validity of the forum selection clause at 22 issue. See Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 62 n.5 (“Our analysis presupposes a contractually valid forum-23 selection clause.”).

24 “[T]he Supreme Court did not answer [in Atlantic Marine] whether state or federal law 25 governs the validity of a forum-selection clause.” DePuy Synthes Sales, Inc. v. Howmedica 26 Osteonics Corp., 28 F. 4th 956, 963 n.4 (9th Cir. 2022). Although the Ninth Circuit has held that 27 there are circumstances under which state law governs the threshold question of validity, such as

1 where a state statute voids the forum selection clause at issue, id. at 964, it has repeatedly held 2 both before and after Atlantic Marine that federal law governs the validity of forum selection 3 clauses. See, e.g., Lewis v. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co., 953 F.3d 1160, 1164 (9th Cir. 2020) (“The 4 validity of a forum-selection clause is governed by federal law.”) (citation omitted); Spradlin v.
 5 Lear Siegler Mgmt. Servs. Co., Inc., 926 F.2d 865, 867 (9th Cir. 1991) (“Federal law governs the 6 validity of a forum selection clause.”); (TAAG Linhas Aereas de Angola v. Transamerica Airlines, 7 Inc., 915 F.2d 1351, 1353 (9th Cir. 1990) (same). Further, the DePuy court expressly reserved the 8 question of whether state law would govern the validity of a forum selection clause that had not 9 been voided. 28 F. 4th at 964 n.6. Because there are no circumstances here that are similar to the 10 state labor statute voiding the forum selection clause in DePuy,³ and in light of the remaining 11 Ninth Circuit authority on the issue, the Court will apply federal law to the question of validity of 12 the forum selection clause.⁴

13 Under federal law, “[f]orum selection clauses are prima facie valid.” Manetti-Farrow, Inc.
 14 v. Gucci Am., Inc., 858 F.2d 509, 514 (9th Cir. 1988) (citing M/S Bremen v. Zapata Off-Shore 15 Co., 407 U.S. 1, 15 (1972); see also In re Becker, 993 F.3d 731, 732 (9th Cir. 2021) (“Forum 16 selection clauses are valid except in the rarest cases.”) (citation omitted). A party challenging the 17 validity of a forum selection clause “bears a ‘heavy burden of proof’” and must show that the 18 clause was invalid for such reasons as fraud or overreaching. Ponomarenko v. Shapiro, 287 F.
 19 Supp. 3d 816, 835 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (quoting M/S Bremen, 407 U.S. at 15); Sun, 901 F.3d at 1088.

20 Once the court determines there exists a valid forum selection clause, “[o]nly under 21 extraordinary circumstances unrelated to the convenience of the parties’ should a motion to 22 enforce a forum-selection clause be denied.” Sun, 901 F.3d at 1088 (citation omitted). The 23 interpretation and enforcement of a forum selection clause is governed by federal law. See DePuy,

24
 25 _____
 26 ³ Plaintiff argues that the forum selection clause is subject to Cal. Civ. Code § 1670.5(a), which 27 permits a court to refuse to enforce an unconscionable clause. See Hypernet Opp. at 8. The 28 statute does not void any clause or contract. See Cal. Civ. Code § 1670.5(a).

⁴ As described below, an evaluation of state law occurs in the second step of the forum non conveniens analysis.

1 28 F. 4th at 965; Manetti-Farrow, Inc., 858 F.2d at 513. Courts will enforce forum selection 2 clauses unless a plaintiff “clearly show[s] that enforcement would be unreasonable and unjust.”
 3 Adema Techs., 657 F. App’x at 663 (quoting M/S Bremen, 407 U.S. at 15). In determining 4 whether enforcement is unreasonable or unjust, courts look to the factors identified in M/S 5 Bremen, including whether enforcement would contravene a strong public policy of the forum in 6 which the suit is brought (whether declared by statute or judicial decision), or if enforcement 7 would effectively deprive the plaintiff of her day in court. See id.; Sun, 901 F.3d at 1088.⁵ The 8 court may also consider the public interest factors of the traditional forum non conveniens analysis 9 where no forum selection clause is present, which may include “the administrative difficulties 10 flowing from court congestion; the local interest in having localized controversies decided at 11 home; [and] the interest in having the trial of a diversity case in a forum that is at home with the 12 law.” Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 62 n.6, 64. However, these factors “will rarely defeat” 13 enforcement. Id. at 64.

14 B. Failure to State a Claim

15 A complaint must contain “a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the 16 pleader is entitled to relief.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2). A complaint that falls short of the Rule 8(a) 17 standard may be dismissed if it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Fed. R.
 18 Civ. P. 12(b)(6). To survive a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, the factual allegations in the 19 complaint must “state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S.
 20 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). A claim is 21 facially plausible when it “allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is

22 _____
 23 ⁵ M/S Bremen, which was decided in 1972 and therefore well before Atlantic Marine, also held 24 that enforcement is unreasonable and unjust if the forum selection clause is invalid due to fraud or 25 overreaching. 407 U.S. at 15. Many courts analyze validity and enforcement together and 26 therefore include all three M/S Bremen factors in the enforcement analysis. See, e.g., Huddleston
 27 v. John Christner Trucking, LLC, 2017 WL 4310348, at *7 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 28, 2017); In re CytRx 28 Corp. S’holder Derivative Litig., 2015 WL 9871275, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 30, 2015). In light of the Ninth Circuit’s recent distinction between the validity and enforceability analyses of forum selection clauses, see DePuy, 28 F. 4th at 963–65, the Court finds it appropriate to evaluate M/S Bremen’s validity factor within the threshold validity analysis and to retain the remaining two factors for the enforceability analysis.

1 liable for the misconduct alleged.” Id. The Court “accept[s] factual allegations in the complaint 2 as true and construe[s] the pleadings in the light most favorable to the nonmoving 3 party.” Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 519 F.3d 1025, 1031 (9th Cir. 2008).
4 However, the complaint “may not simply recite the elements of a cause of action, but must contain 5 sufficient allegations of underlying facts to give fair notice and to enable the opposing party to 6 defend itself effectively.” Levitt v. Yelp! Inc., 765 F.3d 1123, 1135 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting 7 Eclectic Props. East, LLC v. Marcus & Millichap Co., 751 F.3d 990, 996 (9th Cir. 2014)). In 8 evaluating a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the district court is limited to the allegations of the complaint, 9 documents incorporated into the complaint by reference, and matters which are subject to judicial 10 notice. See La. Mun. Police Emps.’ Ret. Sys. v. Wynn, 829 F.3d 1048, 1063 (9th Cir. 2016) (citing 11 Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 322 (2007)).

12 III. DISCUSSION

13 Defendants seek dismissal of this action on three grounds. First, they argue that the entire 14 action is governed by a mandatory forum selection clause in the TSAs requiring disputes be 15 litigated in the Cook Islands. Hypernet Mot. at 1; HLI/ID Mot. at 1. Second, Defendants assert 16 that the Court should compel arbitration pursuant to a mandatory arbitration clause in the TSAs 17 and dismiss or stay the action pending arbitration. Id. And third, Defendants move to dismiss the 18 complaint for failure to state a claim. Id. Before evaluating Defendants’ arguments for dismissal, 19 the Court addresses Defendants’ requests for judicial notice.

20 A. Request for Judicial Notice

21 A court generally may not consider any material beyond the pleadings when ruling on a 22 motion to dismiss. However, documents appended to the complaint or which properly are the 23 subject of judicial notice may be considered along with the complaint. Hernandez v. TLC of the 24 Bay Area, Inc., 263 F. Supp. 3d 849, 852 (N.D. Cal. 2017) (citations omitted). Defendants each 25 request that the Court take judicial notice of a Cook Islands Certificate of Current Status issued to 26 Hypernet. ECF Nos. 39, 42. Plaintiff does not oppose the requests. See ECF Nos. 46 (“Hypernet 27 Opp.”), 47 (“HLI/ID Opp.”). “[A] court may take judicial notice of public records of

1 governmental entities and authoritative sources of foreign law.” Color Switch LLC v. Fortafy
 2 Games, DMCC, 377 F. Supp. 3d 1075, 1089 n.6 (E.D. Cal. 2019) (quoting In re Ex Parte
 3 Application of Jommi, No. C 13-80212 CRB (EDL), 2013 WL 6058201, at *2 n.1 (N.D. Cal. Nov.
 4 15, 2013)). Accordingly, the Court grants Defendants’ requests and will take judicial notice of 5 Hypernet’s Certificate of Current Status, as certified on May 20, 2022, by the Registrar of 6 International and Foreign Companies. According to that Certificate, Hypernet was incorporated in 7 the Cook Islands on March 6, 2018, with a registration that, as of the date of certification, was set 8 to expire on March 5, 2023. ECF No. 37, Ex. 1; ECF No. 41, Ex. 1.

9 B. Forum Selection Clause

10 Defendants first move to dismiss this action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 12(b)(3), 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a), and the doctrine of forum non conveniens for improper venue based 12 upon a mandatory forum selection clause contained in the two TSAs signed by Plaintiff. Hypernet 13 Mot. at 1, 3, 7.⁶ As noted above, “the appropriate way to enforce a forum-selection clause 14 pointing to a state or foreign forum is through the doctrine of forum non conveniens.” Atl. Marine, 15 571 U.S. at 60. A forum selection clause “does not render venue in a court ‘wrong’ or ‘improper’ 16 within the meaning of § 1406(a) or Rule 12(b)(3).” Id. at 59; see also Aimsley Enterps. Inc. v.
 17 Merryman, 2020 WL 1677330, at *4 n.11 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 6, 2020) (“Settling a split of authority, 18 the Supreme Court’s 2013 decision in Atlantic Marine determined that, where a party asserts 19 venue is improper due to a [federal] forum selection agreement, the appropriate procedural 20 mechanism is a motion under section 1404(a), rather than a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 21 12(b)(3).”). The Court therefore DENIES Defendants’ Motions to the extent they are brought 22 under Rule 12(b)(3) or § 1406(a) and will evaluate the argument only under the forum non 23

24 ⁶ HLI and the Individual Defendants have joined in Hypernet’s forum non conveniens arguments.
 25 HLI/ID Mot. at 1, 7–8; ECF No. 45 (HLI and Individual Defendants’ Joinder in Hypernet Mot.).
 26 Although Hypernet is the only Defendant who is a signatory to the TSAs, non-signatory 27 defendants may still move to enforce a forum selection clause where, as here, “the alleged conduct 28 of the nonparties is closely related to the contractual relationship.” Holland Am. Line Inc. v.
Wartsila N. Am., Inc., 485 F.3d 450, 456 (9th Cir. 2007) (citation omitted). The Court will therefore cite only to the Hypernet Motion in discussing all Defendants’ forum arguments.

1 conveniens doctrine.

2 1. Validity

3 Each of the two TSAs signed by Plaintiff contained a forum selection clause providing:

4 All rights and obligations hereunder will be governed by the laws of 5 the Cook Islands, without regard to the conflicts of law provisions of 6 such jurisdiction. The Purchaser hereby irrevocably agrees that all 7 actions arising directly or indirectly as a result or in consequence of 8 this TSA of the Tokens shall be instituted and litigated only in courts
9 having situs in the Cook Islands and the Purchaser hereby consents to 10 the exclusive jurisdiction and venue of any court of competent 11 jurisdiction in the Cook Islands. The Purchaser hereby waives any 12 objection based on forum non conveniens

13 Ex. A at 52–53, 108–109. Defendants argue that Plaintiff’s claims are squarely encompassed by 14 the forum selection clause because the “all implicate performance under the TSA and the delivery 15 of HyperTokens” and therefore “arise ‘directly or indirectly as a result or in consequence of this 16 TSA or the Tokens.’” Mot. at 8 (quoting Ex. A at 52, 108). Plaintiff does not dispute that the 17 forum selection clause, if valid and enforceable, would encompass all claims in this action. See 18 Hypernet Opp.; HLI/ID Opp. Plaintiff alleges in the Complaint that “Defendants failed to produce 19 any viable product, good, or service,” and that “[a]s a result of Defendants’ wrongful conduct, 20 Plaintiff has suffered damages and brings this action” Compl. ¶ 9. The Court accordingly 21 finds that each of Plaintiff’s claims arise out of Defendants’ alleged failure to create Hyper Tokens 22 that could be spent on a Hyper Platform. Because the claims “tend to implicate issues related to or 23 covered by the contract,” the forum selection clause encompasses each of Plaintiff’s claims. See 24 Medina v. OANDA Corp., 2017 WL 1159572, at *10 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 29, 2017).

25 The forum selection clause is presumptively valid, and Plaintiff bears the “heavy burden” 26 of proof needed to show that the clause is invalid for such reasons as fraud or overreaching.
27 Ponomarenko, 287 F. Supp. 3d at 835 (citing M/S Bremen, 407 U.S. at 15). Plaintiff argues that 28 the forum selection clause is not valid because it was not reasonably communicated to him, such that its incorporation into the contract was the result of “overweening bargaining power.”

1 Hypernet Opp. at 6–8.⁷ Specifically, Plaintiff argues that the provision was “buried in fine print 2 under a section titled ‘Miscellaneous’ on page 51 of a 56-page Adobe pdf document with 3 complicated language”; the TSAs were “initially provided to Plaintiff via email in a take it or 4 leave it fashion by sending a website link to access DocuSign, an electronic signature platform”; 5 Defendants did not provide Plaintiff the TSAs prior to sending the DocuSign link; Plaintiff was 6 not “specifically informed regarding the existence of a need to seek redress in the Cook Islands” 7 and had the expectation that disputes would be held in California; and Plaintiff “did not have the 8 ability to negotiate any amendments or changes to the TSAs” and did not “sign or initial the page 9 containing the forum selection provision.” Hypernet Opp. at 7–8. Based on these assertions, 10 Plaintiff contends that he was not meaningfully informed of the existence of the forum selection 11 clause and had no ability to reject its terms. Id.

12 The Court disagrees. It notes that Plaintiff, by agreeing to the TSAs, represented that he 13 was an accredited investor, meaning a “natural person whose individual net worth . . . exceeds 14 $1,000,000 [or] who had an individual income in excess of $200,000 in each of the two most 15 recent years . . . and has a reasonable expectation of reaching the same income level in the current 16 year.” Ex. A at 46–47, 102–104. Such a representation belies a conclusion that Plaintiff is an 17 unsophisticated investor who would assume that any dispute would be addressed in California.
18 See, e.g., Goldsmith v. Levenstein, 2015 WL 12670168, at *7 (C.D. Cal. May 15, 2015) (“An 19 ‘accredited investor’ is anyone who may be considered ‘a sophisticated or resourceful investor 20 who has the wherewithal to invest and is knowledgeable about the market and security he invests 21 in.”) (citation omitted); Lockhart v. General Motors Corp., 2001 WL 1262922, at *3 (“It is 22 difficult to imagine that plaintiff, a sophisticated businessman . . . could have actually read the 23 agreement and not understood its import.”). However, the Court will take as true Plaintiff’s 24 subjective expectation that disputes would be held in California.

26
27 ⁷ Plaintiff’s opposition to the HLI/ID Motion is essentially identical with respect to his forum 28 selection arguments. See Hypernet Opp. at 5–13; HLI/ID Opp. at 6–14. The Court will cite only to Plaintiff’s Hypernet Opp. to refer to all of Plaintiff’s forum arguments.

1 Plaintiff cites only to one case, Wallis v. Princess Cruises, Inc., 306 F.3d 827 (9th Cir.
2 2002), in support of his argument about a lack of reasonable communication. The “reasonable 3 communicativeness” test is generally used to determine “under federal common law and maritime 4 law when the passenger of a common carrier is contractually bound by the fine print of a 5 passenger ticket.” 306 F.3d at 835; see also Holck v. Bank of N.Y. Mellon Corp., 769 F. Supp. 2d 6 1240, 1250 (D. Haw. 2011) (“[T]he reasonable communicativeness test . . . has not been extended
7 to the traditional Bremen analysis.”). Even assuming a requirement that a forum selection clause 8 be reasonably communicated, that standard is “easily met” here by the “unambiguous” forum 9 selection clause here, which is “set in the same size font as the remainder” of the TSA and “plainly 10 indicates” that the Cook Islands is the designated forum. Holck, 769 F. Supp. 2d at 1250. Courts 11 in this district have specifically held that there is nothing impermissible about placing a forum 12 selection clause under a “Miscellaneous” heading. See Starlight Co., Inc. v. Arlington Plastics
13 Machinery, Inc., 2001 WL 677908, at *3 (N.D. Cal. June 8, 2001). Further, a forum selection 14 clause is “reasonably communicated” to a plaintiff where it is part of a contract that is transmitted 15 and accepted electronically by checking a box, even if the user would have had to open a separate 16 link to view the terms. Lentini v. Kelly Servs., Inc., 2017 WL 4354910, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 2, 17 2017) (citing Moretti v. Hertz Corp., 2014 WL 1410432, at *2 (N.D. Cal. April 11, 2014)).

18 Accordingly, the Court finds that the Plaintiff has not met his “heavy burden” of showing 19 that the forum selection clause in the TSAs is invalid due to the fraud, overreaching, or 20 overweening bargaining power.

21 2. Enforceability

22 The “practical result [of Atlantic Marine] is that a forum selection clause ‘should control 23 except in unusual cases.’” Sun, 901 F.3d at 1088 (quoting Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 64). In 24 evaluating whether the present facts fall into such an “unusual case[.]” the Court will evaluate the 25 remaining M/S Bremen factors—i.e., whether enforcement would contravene a strong public 26 policy of the forum in which the suit is brought or effectively deprive the plaintiff of her day in 27 court—and the public interests traditionally evaluated in a forum non conveniens analysis,

1 including the administrative difficulties flowing from court congestion, the local interest in having 2 a localized controversy decided at home; and the interest in having the trial of a diversity case in a 3 forum that is at home with the law. See id.; Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 62 n.6 & 64.

4 a. Contravention of Strong Public Policy

5 Plaintiff argues that enforcement of the forum selection provision would contravene 6 California’s strong public policy, as declared by Cal. Civil Code § 1670.5(a) and the state’s 7 judicial decisions, against the enforcement of unconscionable contract provisions. Hypernet Opp.
8 at 8. “[U]nconscionability requires a substantial degree of unfairness beyond a simple old-9 fashioned bad bargain.” Mohamed v. Uber Techs., Inc., 848 F.3d 1201, 1210 (9th Cir. 2016)
10 (quoting Baltazar v. Forever 21, Inc., 62 Cal. 4th 1237, 1245 (2016)). Under California law, a 11 contract or clause must be both procedurally and substantively unconscionable before a court may 12 refuse to enforce it as unconscionable. Mohamed, 848 F.3d at 1210 (citing Armendariz v. Found.
13 Health Psychcare Servs., Inc., 24 Cal. 4th 83, 114 (2000)) (internal quotation marks omitted).
14 However, the more substantively oppressive a contract term, the less procedurally unconscionable 15 it must be to be deemed unenforceable, and vice versa. Baltazar, 62 Cal. 4th at 1243–44 (citation 16 omitted).

17 i. Procedural Unconscionability

18 “A procedural unconscionability analysis ‘begins with an inquiry into whether the contract 19 is one of adhesion.’” Beco v. Fast Auto Loans, Inc., 86 Cal. App. 5th 292, 307 (2022) (quoting 20 OTO, L.L.C. v. Kho, 8 Cal. 5th 111, 126 (2019)). Should a contract be found to be adhesive, 21 “[t]he pertinent question . . . is whether circumstances of the contract’s formation created such 22 oppression or surprise that closer scrutiny of its overall fairness is required.” Id. (citation 23 omitted). Plaintiff argues that the forum selection clause in the TSAs is procedurally 24 unconscionable because (1) he did not have the “ability to negotiate or reject its terms”; (2) the 25 language of the provision is “confusing and conflicting,” resulting in insufficient notice and 26 therefore surprise; and (3) the provision was located in a section titled “Miscellaneous” just a few 27 pages from the end of a 56-page document that was “sent to Plaintiff for electronic signature by

1 checking a box.” Hypernet Opp. at 8–9. Plaintiff additionally contends that an accredited party or 2 a sophisticated businessperson may still be subject to procedural unconscionability. Id. at 9–10.

3 Defendants do not dispute Plaintiff’s argument that the TSAs were adhesive contracts. See 4 ECF No. 49 (“Hypernet Reply”) at 5; ECF No. 52 (HLI and Individual Defendants’ Joinder in 5 Hypernet Reply).⁸ However, that a contract is one of adhesion does not alone make it 6 unconscionable. “California appellate courts have implemented this broader policy [approving 7 forum selection clauses] and enforced forum selection clauses in adhesion contracts,” particularly 8 “in a non-arbitration context.” Tompkins v. 23andMe, Inc., 840 F.3d 1016, 1028 (9th Cir. 2016);
9 see, e.g., Intershop Commc’ns v. Super. Ct., 104 Cal. App. 4th 191, 201 (2002) (holding forum 10 selection clause requiring disputes be litigated in Germany enforceable in adhesive employment 11 contract). The sole case to which Plaintiff cites for his argument that a contract of adhesion by 12 itself implicates procedural unconscionability, was—like several other cases that have held 13 similarly—decided with respect to an arbitration provision. See Milliner v. Bock Evans Fin.
14 Counsel, Ltd., 114 F. Supp. 3d 871, 878 (N.D. Cal. 2015); see also, e.g., Ferguson v. Countrywide 15 Credit Indus., Inc., 298 F.3d 778, 784 (9th Cir. 2002) (finding procedurally unconscionable a non-16 negotiable arbitration agreement). The Ninth Circuit reasoned in Tompkins that should the 17 standards for evaluation of arbitration and non-arbitration provisions be unified, as required by the 18 California Supreme Court, finding all contracts of adhesion to be procedurally unconscionable 19 “would clearly contravene California’s general policy preference for the enforcement of forum 20 selection clauses.” 840 F.3d at 1029.

21 Plaintiff’s other arguments similarly do not show circumstances arising to the level of 22 procedural unconscionability. The Court finds that the forum selection clause and the arbitration 23 provision in the TSAs are not conflicting and confusing. Here, the arbitration clause provides that 24 “any and all claims arising out of or related to the TSA” are subject to binding arbitration and that 25 “[a]ny claim or dispute arising under [the] TSA” will be arbitrated individually, while the forum 26

27 ⁸ As with the Hypernet Mot. and Hypernet Opp., the Court will cite only to the Hypernet Reply 28 because it encompasses all Defendants’ arguments regarding venue.

1 selection clause provides that “all actions arising directly or indirectly [under] the TSA . . . shall 2 be instituted and litigated only . . . in the Cook Islands.” Ex. A at 52–53, 108–109 (emphases 3 added). These clauses are not inconsistent; a claim or dispute is separate from an action that is 4 instituted in a court. Under the TSAs, then, any dispute is subject to mandatory binding 5 arbitration, but should a court action become necessary—e.g., to enforce an arbitration award—
6 such a suit is to be brought in the Cook Islands. See PQ Labs, Inc. v. Yang Qi, 2012 WL 2061527, 7 at *12–*13 (N.D. Cal. June 7, 2012) (reading two forum selection clauses together and finding 8 that one clause required litigation in a California state court and the other required litigation in 9 Santa Clara County, so that litigation was not proper in federal district court); Cal. Civ. Code § 10 1641 (“The whole of a contract is to be taken together, so as to give effect to every part, if 11 reasonably practicable, each clause helping to interpret the other.”).

12 Nor do the “placement and form” of the forum selection clauses create a measure of 13 procedurally unconscionable. Hypernet Opp. at 9. Unlike the clauses in the cases cited by 14 Plaintiff, the forum selection clauses here were printed in the same, regularly-sized font as the rest 15 of the TSAs. See Ex. A at 52–53, 108–109; Samaniego v. Empire Today, LLC, 205 Cal. App. 4th 16 1138, 1146 (2012) (unconscionable agreement was at end of single-spaced text in small typeface); 17 Gutierrez v. Autowest, Inc., 114 Cal. App. 4th 77, 89 (2003) (unconscionable clause was printed in 18 eight-point typeface). Thus, “[e]ven if [Plaintiff] was somehow not aware of the clause when 19 signing the agreement, it was stated in clear and unambiguous language and not hidden in fine 20 print.” East Bay Women’s Health, Inc. v. gloStream, Inc., 2014 WL 1618382, at *4 (N.D. Cal.
21 Apr. 21, 2014); Intershop Commc’ns, 104 Cal. App. 4th at 202 (“[T]he forum selection clause 22 plainly says that Hamburg, Germany is the selected forum. Plaintiff had full notice that he was 23 agreeing to Hamburg as the place of trial, even though he may have chosen not to read the four-24 page contract.”). That the clause was under a “Miscellaneous” heading does not render it 25 “fundamentally unfair or unenforceable.” Id. (rejecting argument that forum selection clause was 26 procedurally unconscionable because it “appeared under the heading ‘GENERAL,’ as opposed to 27 ‘GOVERNING LAW’ or ‘VENUE,’” (citation omitted); see also Starlight Co., Inc., 2001 WL

1 677908, at *3 (forum selection clause under “MISCELLANEOUS” heading was not improper).
2 And as explained above, the length of the TSA and Plaintiff’s acceptance of the contract by 3 clicking a box do not implicate concerns about fairness. Supra, at Section III.B.1.

4 For the above reasons, the Court finds that Plaintiff has not made a showing of procedural 5 unconscionability. If any degree of surprise exists from Plaintiff’s alleged expectation that 6 disputes would be resolved in California, see Hypernet Opp. at 7, that expectation was not well 7 supported by the circumstances and any procedural unconscionability would be minimal.

8 ii. Substantive Unconscionability

9 With a showing of procedural unconscionability that is minimal at best, Plaintiff must 10 make a very strong showing of substantive unconscionability. See Baltazar, 62 Cal. 4th at 1243–
11 44 (citation omitted). “Substantive unconscionability pertains to the fairness of an agreement’s 12 actual terms and to assessments of whether they are overly harsh or one-sided.” Pinnacle Museum
13 Tower Ass’n v. Pinnacle Market Dev. (US), LLC, 55 Cal. 4th 223, 346 (2012). Plaintiff’s 14 argument on this point—which he does not support with any citation to case law—is in essence 15 that the sole purpose of the forum selection clause here is to “erect an unconscionable barrier to 16 relief for non-drafting parties such as Plaintiff” by “requir[ing] Plaintiff to seek any disputes in a 17 distant forum thousands of miles away.” Hypernet Opp. at 10. However, “[i]nconvenience and 18 additional expense are not sufficient [to demonstrate substantive unconscionability], unless 19 proceeding in the selected forum will be ‘so gravely difficult and inconvenient that [a plaintiff]
20 will for all practical purposes be deprived of [his] day in court.’” Capili v. Finish Line, Inc., 699
21 F. App’x 620, 622 (9th Cir. 2017) (quoting Tompkins, 840 F.3d at 1029–30); see Intershop 22 Commc’ns, 104 Cal. App. 4th at 202 (enforcing contract with selected forum in Hamburg, 23 Germany). As in Capili, Plaintiff has not provided sufficient (or any) details of such a hardship, 24 and therefore has not shown that the selected forum was “unavailable or unable to accomplish 25 substantial justice.” Id.; see Compl.; Hypernet Opp.

26 The Court therefore finds that Plaintiff has not demonstrated substantive unconscionability 27 at all, and certainly not at the strength needed to balance the minimal or no procedural

1 unconscionability. Accordingly, the forum selection clause does not contravene California’s 2 public policy against enforcing unconscionable contracts.

3 b. Deprivation of Day in Court

4 As discussed above, Plaintiff has made no showing that he will be deprived of his day in 5 Court. See Hypernet Opp. The Court will not refuse to enforce the forum selection clause based 6 on this consideration.

7 c. Court Congestion

8 The Court now evaluates the three public interest factors commonly weighed in the forum 9 non conveniens analysis, although it recognizes that these factors “will rarely defeat” enforcement 10 of a valid forum selection clause. Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 62 n.6, 64. The first public interest 11 factor of court congestion is neutral, as the parties have not made any arguments with respect to 12 the relative congestion of courts in the Northern District of California and courts in the Cook 13 Islands. This district is a busy forum, with 648 pending civil actions per judgeship as of 14 December 31, 2022,⁹ but even if one assumed that either forum was more congested than the 15 other, “[t]he relative congestion of the courts in each district is not especially important.” Franey 16 v. Am. Battery Sols. Inc., 2022 WL 4280638, at *15 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 15, 2022).

17 d. Local Interest in the Litigation

18 Under the second public interest factor, the Court considers whether California has a 19 meaningful interest in this litigation. Boston Telecommunications Grp., Inc. v. Wood, 588 F.3d 20 1201, 1212 (9th Cir. 2009). Plaintiff argues that California has an interest in unlawful activity that 21 has occurred within its borders, and that although Hypernet may be a Cook Islands company, its 22 “founders, principals, employees, offices, and contractors (and a portion of their scammed 23 investors) are within California.” Hypernet Opp. at 11. The Court notes that Plaintiff himself is a 24 resident of Puerto Rico. Compl. ¶ 10. Nonetheless, given that the Individual Defendants reside in 25

1 California, id. ¶¶ 14–16, and that Plaintiff alleges that he relied in part on their statements about 2 the Hypernet Platform and Hyper Tokens, id. ¶ 48, it is likely that some of the allegedly unlawful 3 conduct at issue in this action took place in California. See Russell v. De Los Suenos, 2014 WL 4 1028882, at *4–*5 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2014). The Court therefore finds that California has some 5 interest in this action. See id. (finding California had interest in action where “founders, 6 principals, and sales agent” of Mexican company resided in California and were accused of 7 “unlawful activities which likely took place, in part, in California). California does not, however, 8 have a special interest in Plaintiff that would increase the weight of this factor, as Plaintiff is not a 9 California resident. Id.

10 e. Forum at Home with the Law

11 The TSAs include a choice-of-law clause in the same paragraph as the forum selection 12 clause that provides that Cook Islands law governs the agreements. Ex. A. at 52, 108. A Cook 13 Islands court would undoubtedly be more at home with Cook Islands law than this Court.

14 Plaintiff argues that the choice-of-law clause is unenforceable because it is procedurally
15 and substantively unconscionable for the same reasons as the forum selection clause. Hypernet 16 Opp. at 11–13. As discussed above, the Court holds that the TSAs were not procedurally 17 unconscionable, and Plaintiff has not shown why the substantive unconscionability of the choice-18 of-law clause would differ from the forum selection clause. See supra, at Section III.B.2.a.i–ii.

19 Plaintiff also argues that even if the Cook Islands choice-of-law clause is enforceable, 20 California’s conflict of law principles require that California law be applied. See Hypernet Opp. at 21 12–13. Plaintiff’s argument rests on his contentions that “neither the parties nor the transaction 22 have any substantial relationship to the Cook Islands” and that “there is no reasonable basis to 23 apply Cook Islands law as all Defendants are based in California.” Id. However, the TSAs 24 repeatedly state that Hypernet is a Cook Islands company and therefore required to comply with 25 Cook Islands law with respect to the creation and distribution of Hyper Tokens. Compare 26 Hypernet Opp. at 13, with Ex. A at, e.g., 2, 17, 58, 73.

27 The Court need not engage in a full choice of law analysis, however, because it finds that

1 dismissal would be appropriate even if California law would apply. The parties agreed to a valid
2 forum selection clause that Plaintiff has not shown would contravene strong California public 3 policy or deprive him of his day in court. Even if California has some interest in this litigation—
4 which the Court weighs more lightly given Plaintiff’s non-California residency—and California 5 law were to apply, this is not a “rare” case where public interest factors are so strongly in favor of 6 retaining an action that they defeat enforcement of a valid forum selection clauses. See Atl.
7 Marine, 571 U.S. at 64; Russell, 2014 WL 1028882, at *5. Accordingly, the Court finds that the 8 forum selection clause is enforceable, and dismissal is proper. See Aimsley Enterps. Inc., 2020 9 WL 1677330, at *5 (“When enforcement of a forum selection clause calls for venue in a foreign 10 court, as here, dismissal is appropriate.”).

11 C. Arbitration

12 Hypernet argues in the alternative that the Court should compel Plaintiff to arbitrate his 13 claims pursuant to the arbitration provision in the TSAs, and the HLI and the Individual 14 Defendants join that argument and move to join any arbitration proceeding. Hypernet Mot. at 11– 15 15; HLI/ID Mot. at 23–25. Because the Court finds that the Cook Islands forum selection clause 16 is valid and enforceable, it need not and does not reach this argument.

17 D. Failure to State a Claim

18 Defendants additionally argue that the Court should dismiss this action for failure to state a 19 claim. Hypernet Mot. at 15–25; HLI/ID Mot. at 8–23. The Court also does not reach this 20 argument in light of its holding on the validity and enforceability of the forum selection clause.

21 E. Plaintiff’s Administrative Motion

22 Because the recent decision in Rostami v. Open Props, Inc., S.D.N.Y. No. 1:22-cv-03326-23 RA, submitted by Defendants on January 10, 2023, was irrelevant to the Court’s analysis of the 24 dispositive issue posed by the forum selection clause in this action, the Court DENIES AS MOOT 25 Plaintiff’s administrative motion to strike the statement of recent decision.

26 IV. CONCLUSION

27 Based on the foregoing, the Court holds that all of Plaintiff’s claims are encompassed by a

1 valid and enforceable forum selection clause requiring that any action arising out of Plaintiff's 2 purchase of future rights to Hyper Tokens be brought in the Cook Islands. The Court therefore 3 GRANTS Defendants' Motions to Dismiss under the doctrine of forum non conveniens and 4 DENIES AS MOOT Plaintiff's Administrative Motion to Strike Defendants' Statement of Recent 5 Decision. Plaintiff's Complaint is DISMISSED without leave to amend. Dismissal is without 6 prejudice for Plaintiff to re-file his claims against Defendants in the Cook Islands. A separate 7 judgment will enter, and the Clerk is directed to close the file.
