12 CORNELL UNIVERSITY,

13 Defendant.

Case No. 07-CV-2045-BTM-JMA

Hon. Barry T. Moskowitz

PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO
DEFENDANT'S BILL OF COSTS

Hearing Date: July 8, 2008

Time: 10:00 a.m.

Place: Courtroom 15

15 Plaintiff hereby objects to the Bill of Costs filed by Defendant Cornell University on June 16 18, 2008. A Notice of Appeal was filed in the above captioned matter on June 13, 2008, with 17 jurisdiction transferred to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. The Defendant's listed expenses
18 within the Bill of Costs were entirely discretionary and/or wasteful. The decision to remove this 19 matter to the Federal Court from the San Diego Superior Court was solely a strategic decision on 20 the part of the Defendant and unnecessary to litigate the underlying matter. All expenses
21 incurred as a result should not be borne by the Plaintiff. All process and messenger service
22 expenses incurred by the Defendant were inflated with overnight Federal Express deliveries of a
23 myriad unnecessary documents rather than with the preferred and sufficient United States Postal 24 Service delivery. The Defendant's overzealous behavior in regard to this matter (See Exhibits 1
25 and 2), should not go rewarded. The Plaintiff respectfully requests the Application to the Clerk
26 to Tax costs be denied.

Excerpt from the March 17, 1983 issue of the "Cornell Chronicle":

Blotter Barton

Departments of Public Safety of Cornell have charged Kevin G. Vanginderen of 003 Winston Court Apartments with the degree burglary in connection with 10 incidents of theft, larceny and five burglaries on campus over a period of a year. Safety reported recovering some $474 worth of stolen goods from him.

Also, according to the morning reports of the department for the period March 7 through 13, there were 24 thefts on campus involving a total of $1,860 in cash and valuables. These included five wallets and one purse with contents estimated at $209. Three license plates were stolen from cars parked at various locations on campus.

Safety recovered a $1,000 computer terminal stolen from a room in Olds Hall, based on an anonymous phone call. Safety officials found the terminal and a disc phone in a parking lot in Ithaca.

Two students were referred to the Judicial Administration for walking on the hood of cars in the West Campus Parking Lot. Two automobile tires valued at a total of $240 were slashed on a car parked in front of 720 University Avenue.

Cornell U. Prevails Over Alumnus in Suit Over Digitized Material

Cornell University scored a victory this week when a federal judge dismissed a $1-million lawsuit from an alumnus who accused the university of libeling him and disseminating private information about him online. The alumnus, Kevin Vanginderen, was angered that information about his run-ins with the law as a Cornell student were easily accessible on the Web via a Google search. The information was on the Web because the university library digitizes the Cornell Chronicle, a university newspaper, and a 1983 issue of the paper detailed Mr. Vanginderen's alleged involvement in campus thefts.

Mr. Vanginderen, now a lawyer, asked Cornell to remove references to him from the digitized version of the Cornell Chronicle. The university declined.

The judge, Barry Ted Moskowitz, of the U.S. District Court in San Diego, Calif., concluded Tuesday that because the news information about Mr. Vanginderen was mostly accurate, the university did not defame him.

The judge sidestepped the larger issue raised by the case: Are college libraries obligated to expunge embarrassing and false information about someone from their digital archives? Nelson Roth, Cornell's deputy university counsel, said because the case concerned this question, the university chose to vigorously defend itself against the lawsuit. If archivists “were required to go back and fact check information readily available on the shelf, it would bring digitization to a grinding halt,” he said during a phone interview. And Anne R. Kenney, Cornell’s chief librarian, said the library has no plans to alter its digitization procedures as a result of the case. —
