UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

SON NGUYEN,

Petitioner,

vs.

KATHY MENDOZA POWERS,
WARDEN, et al.,

Respondents.

CASE NO. 09cv1465 WQH (CAB)

ORDER

HAYES, Judge:

The matter before the Court is the Report and Recommendation (Doc. # 14) filed by Magistrate Judge Cathy Ann Bencivengo.

BACKGROUND

On July 6, 2009, Petitioner, a state prisoner proceeding pro se, initiated this action by filing the Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (the "Petition") pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254. (Doc. # 1). Petitioner challenges the decision of the Board of Parole Hearings (the "Board") denying him parole on August 14, 2007. Id.; see also Lodgment 1. Petitioner is serving a life sentence with the possibility of parole for kidnapping for the purpose of robbery, auto theft, and for using a firearm in commission of the kidnapping and the auto theft. (Lodgment 2). Petitioner alleges two grounds for relief. (Doc. # 1 at 6). Petitioner alleges (1) "[t]he Board has failed to provide some evidence to show that Petitioner is unsuitable for parole, violating his state and federal due process rights;" and (2) "[t]he Board's conclusion that petitioner

1 would pose a risk of danger [is] not supported by 'some evidence' [which] violated
2 [P]etitioner's due process rights." Id. at 6-7.

3 On December 11, 2009, the Respondent filed a Response in Opposition to the Petition.
4 (Doc. # 11). Respondent contends that the state court decisions upholding the Board's denial
5 of parole were not contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal 6 law as determined by the United States Supreme Court. Id. at 5.

7 On January 11, 2010, Petitioner filed a traverse.

8 On February 22, 2010, the Magistrate Judge issued the Report and Recommendation
9 ("R&R"), which recommends the petition be denied. (Doc. # 14). The R&R concludes that 10 the Board cited "some evidence" which supports its determination that Petitioner should not 11 be granted parole. Id. at 7-8. The R&R concludes that Petitioner received all process that was 12 due because the Board gave Petitioner a chance to be heard and explained the reasons behind
13 the denial. Id. at 7. The R&R concludes that the Board relied on a number of factors, 14 including (1) the cruel and callous manner in which Petitioner committed his crime; (2) the 15 crime involved multiple victims; (3) Petitioner's prior criminal history; (4) Petitioner's failure 16 to "upgrade vocationally or sufficiently participate in self-help programs or activities;" and 17 (5) Petitioner's failure to accept responsibility for his actions. Id. at 8 (citing Lodgment 1 at 18 75-83). The R&R concludes that, contrary to Petitioner's assertion, the Board considered
19 factors in Petitioner's favor in making its decision. Id. at 9. Those factors include Petitioner's
20 lack of a disciplinary record while incarcerated and Petitioner's prior enrollment in AA and 21 NA. Id. at 9 (citing Lodgment 1 at 79-80). The R&R concludes the Board did not rely solely 22 on "unchanging factors," such as Petitioner's prior criminal history or the nature of his offense,
23 in making its determination. Id. at 10.

24 The R&R informed the parties that any party may file an objection no later than March
25 26, 2010 and that any reply shall be filed no later than April 9, 2010. Id. On March 4, 2010,
26 Petitioner filed his objection to the R&R. (Doc. # 15). Respondent did not file any objections
27 or response to Petitioner's objection.

28 In his objection, Petitioner objects: (1) "to the Magistrate[']s standard of [r]eview;" (2)

1 to the “Magistrate’s assertion that Petitioner is not entitled to habeas relief;” (3) to the 2 “Magistrate’s assertion that ‘[t]he Parole Board gave all process that was due;” and (4) to the 3 “Magistrate’s [r]ecommendation that the petition[] be denied.” (Doc. # 15 at 1). Petitioner
4 also states he believes his case requires an evidentiary hearing. Id. at 15. Petitioner contends
5 the state court’s decision upholding the Board’s denial of parole is an unreasonable application
6 of the case law because Petitioner was a teenager heavily influenced by his peers and because
7 his crimes are not “particularly [e]gregious in comparison to similar life crimes.” Id. at 3.
8 Petitioner contends that a language barrier resulted in a misunderstanding during his 9 psychosocial assessment. Id. at 3-4. Petitioner contends the doctor misunderstood his 10 “opinion about the length of [his] confinement” and his statements about his willingness to 11 attend AA or NA meetings. Id. Petitioner attaches a declaration signed under penalty of 12 perjury stating that the doctor misunderstood his statement that he would attend AA and NA
13 meetings after his work day was over as a statement that he would “only get self-help if time
14 permitted.” Id. at 6. Petitioner seeks appointment of counsel, a hearing, and an order directing 15 the Board to allow him to have a second psychosocial assessment with a translator. Id. at 5.

16 STANDARD OF REVIEW

17 The duties of the district court in connection with the Report and Recommendation of 18 a Magistrate Judge are set forth in Rule 72(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and 28
19 U.S.C § 636(b). The district judge “must make a de novo determination of those portions of 20 the report . . . to which objection is made,” and “may accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in 21 part, the findings or recommendations made by the magistrate.” 28 U.S.C. § 636(b). The 22 district court need not review de novo those portions of a Report and Recommendation to 23 which neither party objects. Wang v. Masaitis, 416 F.3d 992, 100 n. 13 (9th Cir. 2005); United 24 States v. Reyna-Tapia, 328 F.3d 1114, 1121-22 (9th Cir. 2003) (en banc).

25 ANALYSIS

26 Petitioner objected to the standard of review applied by the Magistrate Judge. The 27 Court concludes the Magistrate Judge correctly applied the Antiterrorism and Effective Death
28 Penalty Act (“AEDPA”), which the Ninth Circuit has held is applicable to parole denials. See

1 Redd v. McGrath, 343 F.3d 1077, 1080 n. 4 (9th Cir. 2003).

2 Although Petitioner contends that two of the factors used by the Board are invalid
3 because of a language barrier, Petitioner's contention would not have any bearing on four
4 additional factors the Board relied on. As the R&R notes, the Board relied on Petitioner's
5 failure to attend AA or NA meetings while incarcerated and Petitioner's failure to "upgrade 6 vocationally and educationally," as well as the seriousness of the underlying crime and 7 Petitioner's prior record in denying Petitioner parole. See Lodgment 1 at 77-80; Doc. # 14 at 8 8-9. Even if the psychosocial assessment is based in part on misunderstandings of Petitioner's 9 future intentions and acceptance of responsibility, these other factors would amply support the 10 Board's decision under the "some evidence" standard applicable to parole denials under 11 California law. See Hayward v. Marshall, __ F.3d __, No. 06-55392, slip op. at 6330 (9th Cir.
12 April 22, 2010).

13 Petitioner's other objections all challenge the Magistrate Judge's conclusion that 14 Petitioner's claim is without merit and the petition should be denied. The Court's de novo
15 review of the record shows that the R&R correctly determined that Petitioner is not entitled to 16 a writ of habeas corpus.

17 Petitioner's request for an evidentiary hearing and for counsel are based on his assertion 18 that his Petition is "meritorious" and his lack of fluency in English. In determining whether 19 to appoint counsel for an indigent petitioner, a court must examine the petitioner's ability to 20 articulate his claims in light of the complexity of the legal issues and petitioner's likelihood 21 of success on the merits. See Weygandt v. Look, 781 F.2d 952, 954 (9th Cir. 1983). Although 22 Petitioner's lack of fluency in English may reduce his ability to articulate his claims,
23 Petitioner's claims are neither complex nor meritorious. Petitioner has presented no legal or 24 factual issues which would require the Court to conduct a hearing. The Court therefore 25 concludes that the interests of justice do not require the appointment of counsel.

26 Because the Court concludes Petitioner is not entitled to habeas relief, the Court
27 declines to grant Petitioner's request that the Court order the Board to conduct a second 28 psychosocial assessment with a translator.

1 CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY

2 A certificate of appealability must be obtained by a petitioner in order to pursue an
3 appeal from a final order in a Section 2254 habeas corpus proceeding. See 28 U.S.C. §
4 2253(c)(1)(A); Fed. R. App. P. 22(b). Pursuant to Rule 11 of the Federal Rules Governing
5 Section 2254 Cases, "[t]he district court must issue or deny a certificate of appealability when 6 it enters a final order adverse to the applicant."

7 A certificate of appealability should be issued only where the petition presents a
8 substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right. See 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). A
9 certificate should issue where the prisoner shows that jurists of reason would find it debatable
10 whether the petition states a valid claim of the denial of a constitutional right, and whether the 11 district court was correct in its procedural ruling. See Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484
12 (2000).

13 Although the Court denies Petitioner's habeas Petition, the Court finds that Petitioner
14 raised colorable, nonfrivolous, constitutional arguments which are sufficient to warrant
15 granting a certificate of appealability.

16 CONCLUSION

17 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

- 18 (1) The Report and Recommendation (Doc. # 14) is ADOPTED in its entirety.
19 (2) The Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus is DENIED.
20 (3) The Court GRANTS a certificate of appealability.
