UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

RICHARD CHARLES BUCHANAN,
Petitioner,

Civil No. 10-0423 GPC (NLS)

vs.

(1) ADOPTING REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION AS MODIFIED;

(2) DENYING PETITION

(3) DENYING MOTION FOR AN EVIDENTIARY HEARING

JEFFREY BEARD, Secretary¹
Respondent.

EXPAND THE RECORD

(5) GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART REQUEST FOR FACTUAL FINDINGS AND JUDICIAL NOTICE; and

APPEALABILITY

¹ In his Amended Petition, "Matthew Cate, Secretary" is named as Respondent. Matthew Cate is no longer the Secretary of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation; rather, Jeffrey Beard has recently been appointed Secretary of that agency. The Court therefore substitutes "Jeffrey Beard" as Respondent in place of "Matthew Cate." See FED. R. CIV. P. 25(d)(1) ("When a public official is a party to an action in his official capacity and during its pendency dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate and the officer's successor is automatically substituted as a party.")

I. INTRODUCTION

2 Presently before this Court is a First Amended Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus 3 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 (“Petition”), filed by Richard Charles Buchanan
4 (“Buchanan” or “Petitioner”). The matter was referred to United States Magistrate Judge
5 Nita L. Stormes, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B). Judge Stormes issued a Report 6 and Recommendation (“Report”) on September 30, 2011, which recommended that the 7 Court deny the Petition and deny Petitioner’s Motion for an Evidentiary Hearing.
8 Buchanan filed Objections to the Report on May 16, 2012. (ECF No. 112.) On June 12, 9 2012, Petitioner filed a Motion to Expand the Record. (ECF No. 117.) On April 15, 10 2013, Petitioner filed a “Motion for Leave to File Factual Determination and Judicial 11 Notice.” (ECF No. 120)

12 Having considered the Report and the Objections, as well as the material 13 submitted by the parties, the Court ADOPTS the Report as modified, DENIES the 14 Petition with prejudice, DENIES the motion for an evidentiary hearing, DENIES the 15 request to expand the record, GRANTS IN PART AND DENIES IN PART Petitioner’s 16 motion for factual determinations and judicial notice, and sua sponte DENIES a 17 certificate of appealability.

II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

19 The Court “may accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in part, the findings or 20 recommendations made by the magistrate judge.” 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). Because 21 objections were made, the Court reviews the magistrate judge’s findings and 22 recommendations de novo. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C); United States v. Reyna-Tapia, 328 23 F.3d 1114, 1121 (9th Cir. 2003) (en banc).

III. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

25 The Report accurately recounts the lengthy procedural history of Buchanan’s case, 26 and the Court therefore ADOPTS that portion of the Report in full. In short, Buchanan 27 was convicted after a jury trial of possession of a firearm by a felon (Cal. Penal Code 28 § 12021(a)(1)); transporting a controlled substance (Cal. Health and Safety Code

1 § 11379(a)); possession for sale of a controlled substance (Cal. Health and Safety Code
2 § 11378); possession of a controlled substance (Cal. Health and Safety Code 3 § 11377(a)); making a criminal threat (Cal. Penal Code § 422); assault with a semi-4 automatic firearm (Cal. Penal Code § 245(b)); and kidnaping for ransom or extortion 5 (Cal. Penal Code § 209(a)). (Lodgment No. 23, vol. 11 at 1621.) Buchanan was 6 sentenced to 45 years-to-life plus ten years in prison. (Lodgment No. 24, vol. 4 at 901-7 02.)

8 Buchanan appealed his conviction to the California Court of Appeal and the 9 California Supreme Court, both of which affirmed his conviction. (See Lodgment Nos.
10 1-10.) Buchanan also filed petitions for writ of habeas corpus in the San Diego Superior 11 Court and the California Court of Appeal, all of which were denied. (See Lodgment Nos.
12 11-15.) In addition, Buchanan filed a petition for review of the denial of his habeas 13 petitions in the California Supreme Court, which was denied. (See Lodgment Nos. 16-14 18.)

15 Buchanan filed his original petition in this Court on February 22, 2010. (ECF No.
16 1.) The Court stayed the petition on July 23, 2010. (ECF No. 26.) The Court lifted the 17 stay on October 4, 2010 (ECF No. 30) and Buchanan filed a First Amended Petition on 18 December 9, 2010. (ECF No. 40.) Respondent filed an Answer on March 9, 2011, and 19 Petitioner filed a Traverse on June 10, 2011. (ECF Nos. 51, 77.) Petitioner filed a 20 Motion for Evidentiary Hearing on September 14, 2011. (ECF No. 99.)

21 On September 30, 2011, the Magistrate Judge issued a Report recommending the 22 Petition and Motion for Evidentiary Hearing be denied. (ECF No. 101.) Petitioner filed 23 Objections to the Report on May 16, 2012. (ECF No. 112.) Buchanan also filed a 24 motion to expand the record on June 4, 2012. (ECF No. 117.) Finally, on April 15, 25 2013, he filed a request to file a motion along with a “Motion for Factual Determination 26 and Judicial Notice.” (ECF No. 120.)

1 IV. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2 The Report correctly notes that this Court is required by 28 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(1)
3 to defer to the factual findings made by the state appellate court. (See Report at 2 (citing 4 Parke v. Raley, 506 U.S. 20, 35-36 (1992) (holding findings of historical fact, including 5 inferences properly drawn from such facts, are entitled to statutory presumption of 6 correctness)); see also Sumner v. Mata, 449 U.S. 539, 547 (1981) (stating deference is 7 owed to findings of state trial and appellate courts); Tinsley v. Borg, 895 F.2d 520, 525 8 (9th Cir. 1990) (holding factual findings of state trial and appellate courts are entitled to 9 presumption of correctness on federal habeas corpus review).

10 The Report includes a summary of facts taken verbatim from the California Court 11 of Appeal’s opinion denying Buchanan’s direct appeal of his conviction. In his 12 Objections, Buchanan challenges the state court’s summary of the facts related to the 13 traffic stop. The Report quotes the appellate court, stating: “Officer Perry McIvor, a task 14 force member, was concerned Torres’ life could be in danger and contacted two patrol 15 officers to make a traffic stop.” (Report at 4.) Buchanan argues that Detective McIvor 16 was not concerned for Torres’ safety. (Obj. at 6-12.)² He states that there is “no 17 documentation, police reports, etc., supporting the theory that police concerns for 18 [Torres’] life or those of [Torres’] family members. . . were a focal point of [the] task 19 force agents’ action [on the day of the traffic stop].” (Obj. at 12.) He points to 20 transcripts of radio communications between McIvor and other officers right before the 21 stop, in which McIvor does not mention concern for Torres’ safety. (See Lodgment No.
22 12, Ex. 6 at 7-8.) In the transcript, there is discussion about basing the traffic stop on the 23 fact that the license plate of the car was “barely hanging on.” (Id. at 2.) Buchanan has 24 not overcome the presumption of correctness because there is ample evidence elsewhere 25 in the record to support the state court’s finding. McIvor testified at trial and at the 26 suppression hearing that he was worried about Torres’ safety and that he communicated

27 _____
28 ² For ease of reference, the Court will use the page numbers assigned by the Court’s electronic filing system when referring to the Objections and the Petition.

1 these concerns to fellow officers who made the stop. (See Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 2 1025; Lodgment No. 27 at 79-80, 84.) This is sufficient to support the Report’s factual 3 summary. See Parke, 506 U.S. at 35-36. To the extent Buchanan appears to argue that 4 McIvor testified untruthfully, his claim is discussed below in section V(B)(3)(a) of this 5 Order.

6 Buchanan also objects to the use of the word “business” in the statement of facts – 7 specifically, the portion which describes a recorded phone conversation during which 8 “Brooks told Buchanan he had a ‘connection’ at Donovan that helped him with business 9 in the prison and she was considering transferring to another institution because ‘Triste’
10 was threatening her and her children.” (See Report at 3.) Buchanan argues that the term 11 “business” is an inaccurate translation of the phone conversation, which was in Spanish.
12 The description of the conversation in the appellate court opinion, and quoted in the 13 Report, is an accurate summary of the trial record. The transcript of the conversation 14 states, “I have a person here, that, that, watches over the business I have here. . . And she 15 has a problem with a person outside, a guy from. . . from. . . that goes by the name of 16 Triste, some young guy.” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 21.) Buchanan has not overcome 17 the presumption of correctness afforded state court factual findings. See Parke, 506 18 U.S. at 35-36. To the extent Buchanan argues the translation was inaccurate and 19 rendered his trial fundamentally unfair, his objections are discussed in section V(B)(3)(b) 20 of this Order.

21 The Court therefore OVERRULES Petitioner’s Objections and ADOPTS the 22 factual background as recited in the Report.

23 V. DISCUSSION

24 A. AEDPA Legal Standard

25 As a preliminary matter, the Report correctly notes that the current Petition is 26 governed by the Anti-terrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (“AEDPA”), 27 and that to obtain federal habeas relief with respect to claims which have been

28 ///

1 adjudicated on their merits in state court, Petitioner must satisfy either § 2254(d)(1) or 2 § 2254(d)(2). Those sections state:

3 (d) An application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of 4 a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court 5 shall not be granted with respect to any claim that was 6 adjudicated on the merits in State court proceedings unless the 7 adjudication of the claim –

8 (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or 9 involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established 10 Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the 11 United States; or

12 (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an 13 unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the 14 evidence presented in the State court proceeding.

15 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1)-(2).

16 Buchanan does not specifically object to the standard set forth in the Report. He 17 does, however, state that pro se pleadings must be construed liberally.³ (Obj. at 13-14.)
18 “A document filed pro se is ‘to be liberally construed.’” Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S.
19 (2007) (per curiam) (quoting Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 106 (1976)) (internal 20 citations omitted). While it is true that “Pro se habeas petitioners may not be held to the 21 same technical standards as litigants represented by counsel,” see also Corjasso v. Ayers, 22 278 F.3d 874, 878 (9th Cir. 2002), this does not alter the legal standard applied to federal 23 habeas petitions under § 2254(d). Accordingly, the Court ADOPTS the legal standard 24 set forth in the Report.

25 B. Analysis

26 As the Report notes, Buchanan raises eleven claims in his Petition: (1) the 27 prosecution presented perjured testimony; (2) his car was stopped and searched in 28 violation of the Fourth Amendment; (3) the prosecution presented false evidence as to what was said on some of the wiretaps; (4) the prosecutor failed to disclose exculpatory evidence in violation of Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963); (5) the trial judge

³ To the extent Buchanan argues about the standard for evaluating Fourth Amendment claims on federal habeas (see Obj. at 13), the Court addresses those assertions in section V(B)(2) of this Order.

1 exhibited bias; (6) there was excessive security imposed on him at the trial; (7) the 2 prosecutor committed misconduct; (8) the trial court did not properly limit the scope of 3 the gang expert’s testimony; (9) trial counsel was ineffective; (10) appellate counsel was 4 ineffective; and (11) the trial court improperly imposed a $10,000 restitution fine. (Pet.
5 at 6-16, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C, ECF No. 40-1; Mem. of P. & A. Supp. Pet., ECF
6 No. 40-2; Traverse, ECF No. 77.)

7 I. Procedural Default

8 The Report concluded that because the California Supreme Court presumably 9 addressed the merits of claims one through seven, nine and eleven, those claims were not 10 procedurally defaulted. (Report at 12-13.) Buchanan does not object to this finding.
11 (See Obj. at 17-18.)

12 Buchanan raised claims one through seven, nine and eleven in a petition for 13 habeas corpus filed in the California Court of Appeal. (See Lodgment No. 12.) The 14 court denied the claims because Buchanan could have raised those issues on direct 15 appeal, but did not. The appellate court cited In re Martinez, 46 Cal. 4th 945, 956
16 (2009), In re Harris, 5 Cal. 4th 813, 829 (1993) and In re Clark, 5 Cal. 4th 750, 797-98 17 (1993). (Lodgment No. 15.) The rule applied by the appellate court is also known as the 18 “Dixon rule,” under which a “defendant desiring to bring claims in a state habeas 19 petition, must, if possible, have pursued the claims on direct appeal from his conviction.”
20 Park v. California, 202 F.3d 1146, 1151 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Dixon, 41 Cal. 2d 21 756 (1953)).

22 Buchanan next raised the same claims in a petition for review to the California 23 Supreme Court. (Lodgment No. 16.) As the Report notes, that court then ordered 24 Respondent to file a brief addressing whether Buchanan had “established a prima facie 25 case for relief, such that this court should grant the petition for review.” (Lodgment No.
26 17.) In his brief, Respondent argued that claims one through seven, nine and eleven 27 were barred under Dixon. He also argued that Buchanan had failed to establish a prima 28 facie case for relief as to the merits of the claims. (See Lodgment No. 18 at 21-24.) The

1 supreme court ultimately denied the petition for review without comment or citation of 2 authority. (Lodgment No. 20.)

3 As discussed in the Report, this case is similar to Trigeuros v. Adams, 658 F.3d
4 983, 990 (9th Cir. 2011). In that case, the state superior court denied petitioner’s habeas 5 petition as untimely. A subsequent petition was denied by the appellate court, without 6 citation. Id. at 986. Trigeuros then filed a petition with the California Supreme Court.
7 That court requested informal briefing on the merits, and the respondent filed a brief 8 addressing procedural bars as well as the merits. The California Supreme Court then 9 summarily denied the petition without comment or citation. Id. The Ninth Circuit 10 concluded that, under those circumstances, the petition had been denied on the merits 11 because “the California Supreme Court had the timeliness question before it, and did not 12 cite to cases involving a timeliness procedural bar.” Id. at 990 (citing In re Robbins, 77 13 Cal. Rptr. 2d 153, 959 P.2d at 340 n. 34 (1998)).

14 Like Trigeuros, here the state supreme court requested briefing on whether 15 Buchanan had stated a prima facie case for relief. In its answer, the government argued 16 that the claims were procedurally barred under Dixon and also that Buchanan’s claims 17 failed on the merits. The California Supreme Court’s denial did not cite Dixon or any 18 procedural bar. Thus, this Court presumes claims one through seven, nine and eleven 19 were denied on the merits. See Trigeuros, 658 F.3d at 990.

20 The Court therefore ADOPTS the Report’s conclusion that the claims are not 21 procedurally barred.⁴ Having found the claims are not procedurally defaulted, this Court 22 also adopts the Report’s finding that in addressing the merits of the claims, the 23 appropriate standard of review requires the court to determine whether the state court’s 24 denial of the claims was contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly

27 ⁴ The Report alternatively considers whether the claims would be procedurally defaulted “in the 28 event Trigueros does not apply.” (Report at 13-16.) Buchanan objects to the Report’s conclusion that, assuming Trigueros is inapplicable, the claims would be procedurally barred. (Obj. at 17-18.) This Court need not address that issue because it finds the claims are not procedurally defaulted under Trigueros.

1 established law. (Report at 16 (citing Pirtle v. Morgan, 313 F.3d 1160, 1167 (9th Cir.
2 2002)). In an abundance of caution, however, the Magistrate Judge reviewed the claims 3 de novo, the applicable standard if the claims were found to be procedurally defaulted.
4 Id. at 1167-68. (See Report at 16-17.) To the extent the Report conducts de novo
5 review of the claims, the Report is ADOPTED as MODIFIED to reflect the correct 6 deferential standard of review.

7 2. Illegal Detention of Buchanan’s Car (Claim Two)

8 In his Petition, Buchanan claims the state court erred in denying his motion to 9 suppress evidence. He argues that his Fourth Amendment rights were violated when 10 officers stopped and searched his car without a warrant or probable cause. (Pet. at 7, 11 ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 9-12, ECF No 40-1; Mem. of P. & A. Supp. Pet. at 19-41, 12 ECF No. 40-2; Traverse at 15-18, ECF No. 77.) The Report correctly set forth the 13 applicable law. The Supreme Court has held that “where the State has provided an 14 opportunity for full and fair litigation of a Fourth Amendment claim, a state prisoner may 15 not be granted federal habeas corpus relief on the ground that evidence obtained in an 16 unconstitutional search or seizure was introduced at his trial.” Stone v. Powell, 428 U.S.
17 465, 494 (1976); Woolery v. Arave, 8 F.3d 1325, 1328 (9th Cir.1993); see also 18 Ortiz-Sandoval v. Gomez, 81 F.3d 891, 899 (9th Cir. 1996) (“The relevant inquiry is 19 whether petitioner had the opportunity to litigate his claim, not whether he did, in fact, 20 do so, or even whether the claim was correctly decided.”) (citations omitted); Gordon 21 v. Duran, 895 F.2d 610, 613-14 (9th Cir. 1990) (holding that California Penal Code 22 Section 1538.5 provided opportunity in state court for “full and fair litigation” of Fourth 23 Amendment claims) (quoting Stone, 482 U.S. at 481-82)).

24 Here, the record shows that Petitioner thoroughly litigated his search and seizure 25 claim in a motion to suppress made pursuant to Penal Code section 1538.5. At the 26 hearing, his attorney cross-examined detectives and argued for suppression, and the 27 presiding judge carefully considered the motion before ruling. (Lodgment No. 27, vol.
28 3 at 71-120, 125-132.) Under California law, Petitioner could also have renewed the

1 suppression motion before trial and could have challenged the denial of the motion on 2 direct appeal, although Buchanan did not do so. See Penal Code § 1538.5(i). He did, 3 however, raise the issue in a petition for habeas corpus to the state superior, appellate 4 and supreme courts. (See Lodgment Nos. 11-13, 15-16, 20.) Thus, Petitioner was 5 afforded the full and fair opportunity for litigation contemplated by Stone. See Gordon, 6 895 F.2d at 613-14.

7 In his Objections, Buchanan asserts “no California court has provided Petitioner 8 ‘the necessary facilities and procedures and adequate inquiry.’” (Obj. at 20.) He states 9 that the superior court denied his claim because he failed to provide “all available 10 supporting evidence.” (Id.) It is true that in its order denying Buchanan’s Fourth 11 Amendment claim, the superior court noted that Buchanan had attached only select 12 portions of the suppression hearing transcript and that the claim was denied for failure 13 to provide a complete record of the proceedings, which were available to Buchanan.
14 (Lodgment 11 at 8.) But the court nonetheless went on to address the merits of 15 Buchanan’s claim at length and concluded that probable cause supported the stop. (Id.
16 at 8-10.) The court also addressed Buchanan’s assertion that McIvor testified 17 untruthfully about the circumstances leading up to the traffic stop. (See id. at 14-15.)
18 Buchanan then presented the claim to the California Court of Appeal and the California 19 Supreme Court. Thus, he was provided an opportunity to litigate his claim. See 20 Ortiz–Sandoval, 81 F.3d at 899.

21 Buchanan also argues in his Objections that his Fourth Amendment claim is not 22 precluded by Stone because he was denied effective assistance of counsel at the 23 suppression hearing. (Obj. at 13, 20.) Buchanan is correct that Stone v. Powell does not 24 bar consideration of a claim that a trial attorney rendered ineffective assistance of 25 counsel in litigating a Fourth Amendment claim. See Kimmelman v. Morrison, 477 U.S.
26 365, 375 (1986). The Magistrate Judge addressed Petitioner’s ineffective assistance of 27 counsel claim in her Report and this Court will address his Objections in section 28 V(B)(9)(d) of this Order. Accordingly, the Court OVERRULES Petitioner’s Objections

1 and ADOPTS the Report’s findings and conclusions as to claim two.

2 3. Use of Perjured or False Testimony (Claims One and Three)

3 Buchanan claims the prosecutor presented perjured or false testimony at trial. He 4 alleges that Detective McIvor made several false statements at a pretrial hearing and at 5 trial, and that the prosecutor also presented inaccurate translations of the wiretapped 6 phone calls. (Pet. at 6, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C to Pet. at 6-8, ECF No. 40-1; Mem.
7 of P. & A. Supp. Pet. at 4-18, ECF No. 40-2.) The last reasoned decision addressing 8 these claims is the superior court’s denial of Buchanan’s habeas petition. (See Lodgment 9 No. 11.) The Report reviewed the claims de novo. However, because this Court 10 concludes the claims are not procedurally defaulted, it reviews the claims to determine 11 whether the state court’s denial of them was contrary to, or an unreasonable application 12 of, clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. 362, 403 (2000); see also Lockyer
13 v. Andrade, 538 U.S. 63, 75-76 (2003). In that regard, the Report is MODIFIED.

14 The Report correctly sets forth the applicable clearly established Supreme Court 15 law. (Report at 17.) “The knowing use of perjured testimony by a prosecutor generally 16 requires that the conviction be set aside.” Killian v. Poole, 282 F.3d 1204, 1208 (9th Cir.
17 2002) (citing United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 103 (1976)). “The same result obtains 18 when the State, although not soliciting false evidence, allows it to go uncorrected when 19 it appears.” Napue v. People of the State of Illinois, 360 U.S. 264, 269 (1959).
20 However, the presentation of conflicting versions of events, without more, does not 21 constitute knowing presentation of false evidence. United States v. Geston, 299 F.3d 22 1130, 1135 (9th Cir. 2002). To prevail on such claims, three things are required: (1) the 23 testimony or evidence must be false, (2) the prosecution must have known or should 24 have known it was false, and (3) the false testimony must be material. See Hayes v.
25 Brown, 399 F.3d 972, 984 (9th Cir. 2005) (en banc) (citing United States v. Zuno-Arce, 26 339 F.3d 886, 889 (9th Cir. 2003)). To establish materiality, a petitioner must show a 27 “reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the judgment of the

1 jury.” Jackson v. Brown, 513 F.3d 1057, 1076 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting Hayes, 399 F.3d 2 at 985).

3 a. McIvor’s Statements Concerning the Stop

4 Buchanan alleges McIvor made several false statements at the suppression 5 hearing, and at trial, concerning the stop of his vehicle. The superior court addressed 6 these claims and denied them, stating:

7 [Petitioner asserts] that a detective testified to the existence of a 8 telephone conversation that never existed, fabricated the existence of a 9 hanging license plate on Petitioner’s vehicle as a pretext for the traffic stop, 10 and misrepresented circumstances surrounding the initial contact with 11 Petitioner following the traffic stop. Petitioner fails to demonstrate that the 12 telephone call referred to did not [take place]. Even if the detective was 13 mistaken regarding the existence of the call, Petitioner fails to demonstrate 14 the call is material to the defense or otherwise relevant. . . . [Furthermore,] 15 this court has already ruled that reasonable suspicion existed for the traffic 16 stop. A hanging license plate was not asserted as a basis for that stop.
17 Regarding the claim a detective misrepresented circumstances surrounding 18 the initial contact, the court need not accept Petitioner’s uncorroborated 19 statement. (In re Alvernaz (1992) 2 Cal. 4th 924 at p. 938.) Even assuming 20 the truth of Petitioner’s description of events, he fails to make a prima facie 21 showing that the detective’s testimony was improperly admitted or unfairly 22 prejudicial.

23 (Lodgment No. 11 at 14.)

24 As the Report found, McIvor testified at trial that some time before August 25, 25 2004, he learned through wiretap conversations that a person by the name “Triste”⁵ was 26 “interfering with Mexican Mafia business.” (Lodgment No. 33 at 1025.) McIvor 27 believed that “Triste” might be a person named Jesse Gutirres, who was on parole. (Id.
28 at 1026.) On August 25, 2004, McIvor learned from wiretaps that Jessica Chavez had 29 contacted Buchanan to complain about being harassed by someone named “Triste.”
30 (Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 1027.) Buchanan was upset that Triste had disobeyed a 31 direct order, and drove with another individual to Chavez’s house. (Id. at 1028.) When 32 Buchanan left Chavez’s house, McIvor believed he was headed to see Triste. Other 33 members of the surveillance team saw Buchanan and an individual later identified as 34 ⁵ “Triste” and “Torres” are the same person, and the names are used interchangeably throughout 35 the state court proceedings.

1 Parraz, arrive at a house, and go inside. Team members believed Triste was also inside
2 the house. (Id. at 1069.) Buchanan and Parraz, came out some time later with a third 3 man, who McIvor believed to be Triste. The three men got into Buchanan’s car and left.
4 (Id.)

5 While on surveillance, McIvor passed their car at some point and was able to look 6 inside. (Id. at 1032.) He saw who he believed, based on his physical appearance, to be 7 Gutirres, “reaffirming [his] belief that [he] had the right Triste.” (Id. at 1032.) He 8 testified that he was concerned for Triste’s safety based on what he knew from the 9 wiretaps. (Id. at 1068.) He told Officer Nunez the car would have to be stopped, 10 because of the threat. He testified that he also told Nunez that he believed there was a 11 “parolee at large” in the car and that, if possible, the car should be stopped without 12 disclosing the existence of the wiretaps, so as not to jeopardize the rest of the ongoing 13 investigation. (Id. at 1033-34.)

14 As an initial matter, the Magistrate Judge properly noted that to the extent 15 Petitioner claims that Officer McIvor’s purported false testimony improperly caused the 16 court to deny the suppression motion and allow the use of unlawfully seized evidence 17 at Buchanan’s trial, the claim is not cognizable on federal habeas corpus review. (Report 18 at 17 fn. 5, 26-27.) As discussed in section V(B)(2) of this order, federal habeas review 19 is unavailable as to his claim that McIvor’s purported false testimony led to the wrongful 20 denial of the motion to suppress. See Moormann v. Schiriro, 426 F.3d 1044, 1053 (9th 21 Cir. 2005) (finding that claim challenging validity of search was barred by Stone where 22 petitioner raised issue in pre-trial evidentiary hearing, but argued on habeas review that 23 state court’s factual findings were not supported by the evidence); see also Carr v.
24 Runnels, No. C 03-1369 PJH (PR), 2007 WL 133971, at *4-5 (N.D. Cal. Jan.16, 2007) 25 (holding that petitioner’s allegation that perjured testimony was offered at preliminary 26 hearing did not affect adequacy of hearing procedures for litigation of Fourth 27 Amendment claim and did not alter conclusion that Stone v. Powell applied). Therefore, 28 only statements made a trial are relevant to this Court’s inquiry.

1 The state court’s denial of Buchanan’s perjury claims was neither contrary to, nor 2 an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. First, the Report properly found 3 that Buchanan failed to show the prosecutor presented false testimony regarding when 4 McIvor advised Nunez the car needed to be pulled over. (Report at 18-19.) There was 5 some minor inconsistency in McIvor’s testimony. At the preliminary hearing McIvor 6 stated there were three people in the car when he told Nunez it needed to be stopped. At 7 the suppression hearing, McIvor testified that he told Nunez a stop would be necessary 8 when Buchanan and Parraz were on their way to pick up Triste. (Lodgment No. 27, vol.
9 3 at 81.) At trial, he testified that it was when the three were still inside the house that 10 he advised Nunez that they would need to “scoop them up.” (Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 11 at 1071.)

12 Although there were slight discrepancies between McIvor’s trial testimony and 13 that of his preliminary hearing and suppression hearing testimony, this is insufficient to 14 establish deliberate presentation of false testimony at trial. Petitioner has not established 15 that any of the testimony was a deliberate lie, nor that it was the testimony at trial, as 16 opposed to the other testimony, that was untrue. Inconsistencies in testimony alone are 17 insufficient to establish that the testimony was perjured. See United States v. Croft, 124 18 F.3d 1109,1119 (9th Cir. 1997) (“The fact that a witness may have made an earlier 19 inconsistent statement . . . does not establish that the testimony offered at trial was false); 20 Zuno-Arce, 44 F.3d at 1423 (inconsistencies between testimony at trial and retrial not 21 sufficient to establish presentation of false testimony).

22 Moreover, the Report found that even assuming the testimony was false, it was not 23 material because there was no “reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have 24 affected the judgment of the jury.” Hayes, 399 F.3d at 985. (Report at 19.) The majority 25 of evidence against Buchanan came from the wiretaps and the testimony of Jessica 26 Chavez and Torres. It is unlikely the jury’s verdict would have been affected by 27 evidence regarding when McIvor told Nunez that they would need to stop Buchanan’s

28 ///

1 car (whether he did so while Buchanan and Parazz were on their way to Triste’s house, 2 or right before the three left the house, or right after they drove away).

3 Buchanan objects to this finding, stating that the Magistrate Judge erred “in 4 interpreting and characterizing the, ‘when’ of it, in isolation, and applying Hayes
5 standard (R&R at 19) to it.” (Obj. at 22-23.) Petitioner argues that McIvor’s purported 6 false statements regarding the stop should be considered together because his testimony 7 was “all over the board.” (Id. at 23.) In particular, he points to McIvor’s trial testimony 8 about the basis for the stop and argues it is contradicted by transcripts of task force radio 9 transmissions (TAC3 talkgroup) between McIvor and other members of the task force.
10 (Id. at 25.)

11 The Magistrate Judge considered Buchanan’s claims related to the TAC3 12 talkgroup transcript and concluded that, while McIvor made no explicit mention of a 13 parolee at large, or fear for Triste’s safety on the TAC3 talkgroup recordings, this does 14 not show he testified falsely at trial. (Report at 19-21.) McIvor stated that he was in 15 communication with other officers via his San Diego police radio, the task force radio, 16 and cell phone. The TAC3 talkgroup transcript contains only task force radio 17 communications. McIvor testified that he relayed the information to Nunez about the 18 parolee at large and Triste’s safety by cell phone.⁶ (Lodgment 27, vol. 3 at 76, 80.)

19 The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable 20 application of, clearly established law. Nunez also testified at both the trial and the 21 suppression hearing that McIvor called him and told him the car needed to be stopped 22 because of concern for Triste, and that there was a parolee at large in the car. (Lodgment 23 No. 27, vol. 3 at 36. Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 970.) Nunez’s partner, Officer Joel 24 Beilstein, also corroborated the testimony. (Lodgment No. 32, vol. 8 at 892.) While 25 there is nothing in the TAC3 talkgroup transcript about McIvor being concerned for 26 Triste’s safety, this alone does not establish that McIvor gave false testimony at trial or

28 ⁶ Although not from McIvor, there is mention on the TAC3 talkgroup transcript from Agent
Desarno, of a parolee being the basis for probable cause. (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. F, Ex. 6 at 7- 9.)

1 that, even if he did, the prosecutor knew it was false. United States v. Geston, 299 F.3d
2 1130, 1135 (9th Cir. 2002) (stating that the presentation of conflicting versions of events, 3 without more, does not constitute knowing presentation of false evidence).

4 Wiretap conversations between Buchanan, Brooks, Chavez, Torres/Triste and 5 others leading up to the stop, support McIvor's testimony that there was reason to be 6 concerned for Triste's safety. Buchanan was clearly angry Torres had disobeyed a direct 7 order. (See e.g. Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 115-17.) Based on information law
8 enforcement had regarding Buchanan's status as a "Big Homie" in the Mexican Mafia, 9 it was reasonable to believe that Torres' safety was in jeopardy when Buchanan went to 10 see him. The Report properly concludes Buchanan has not shown the testimony was 11 false, or that, even assuming it was, that it was material to the outcome. See Hayes, 399
12 F.3d at 985.

13 In his Objections Buchanan also argues McIvor's reference to a hanging license 14 plate, heard on the TAC3 talkgroup recording, shows that he lied about his concern for 15 Torres' safety. (Obj. at 10.) First, as the state court noted, the hanging license plate was 16 not asserted as a basis for probable cause. (Lodgment No. 11 at 14.) Moreover, as 17 discussed in the Report, McIvor's observation about the license plate on the dispatch 18 recording does not establish he lied at trial. It was undisputed that officers were 19 attempting to find other, valid bases for the stop, such as the belief Triste was a parolee 20 at large or that the license plate was hanging down, in order to keep the existence of the 21 wiretap a secret as long as possible. (See Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 127-28; see 22 Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 1034.) In addition, that there is no mention of fear for 23 Torres' safety in the TAC3 talkgroup recordings (obj. at 11-12), does not contradict 24 McIvor's testimony. And as discussed above, the wiretap recordings of telephone 25 conversations that took place leading up to the stop, corroborate McIvor's testimony that 26 he was concerned for Torres.

27 Buchanan also argues in his Objections that the Magistrate Judge erred when she 28 failed to consider why McIvor did not immediately intervene when he learned from the

1 wiretaps of an August 21, 2004 phone conversation, that a man named “Triste” might be 2 in danger because he was harassing Chavez. (Obj. at 26.) At trial, however, McIvor 3 never testified that he was concerned for Triste’s immediate safety based on the initial 4 August 21, 2004 phone conversation between Brooks and Buchanan. Nonetheless, 5 McIvor did try to ascertain who Triste was after learning he might be interfering with 6 Mexican Mafia business. (Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 1025-26.) It was not until he 7 learned of the August 25, 2004 conversations and Buchanan’s meeting with Triste that 8 McIvor became concerned for Triste’s safety. (Id. at 1027.)

9 Next, as the Report found, the TAC3 talkgroup transcript does not prove 10 Buchanan’s claims that McIvor lied when he stated that he told Nunez the people in 11 Buchanan’s car were likely armed and they would probably kill Triste. (Report at 21-12 22.) There is evidence in the wiretap transcripts which suggests Buchanan planned to 13 be armed when he went to meet Triste. (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 1 at 134.) In a telephone 14 conversation with an associate named Corrado, Buchanan stated he was going to meet 15 Torres/Triste to talk. He added, “if he gets out of line well, uh . . . you know, anything 16 goes. . . . We are prepared, no problem, you know?” (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 1 at 1345.)
17 McIvor also knew that Triste had disobeyed a direct order from a “Big Homie” and based 18 on his experience, the consequences for that were serious injury or death. (Lodgment 19 No. 33, vol. 9 at 1086.) Thus, Buchanan has not shown McIvor’s testimony was false.
20 See Zuno-Arce, 44 F.3d at 1423. The state court’s denial of this claim was neither 21 contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of clearly established law. See Williams, 22 529 U.S. at 412-13.

23 Buchanan also argues in his Objections that McIvor never told Nunez that 24 Buchanan’s car needed to be pulled over. (Obj. at 22.) He claims that it was Agent 25 Desarno who ordered the stop. Buchanan appears to also argue that it was Desarno (not 26 McIvor) who specifically directed Nunez to initiate the stop. (See P&A in Supp. Pet. at 27 11; see also Decl. in Supp. of Mot. at 13-14, ECF No. 112.) It is true that Agent Desarno 28 was the first one on the TAC3 talkgroup transcript to state that the car needed to be

1 stopped.⁷ (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. C, Ex. 6 at 6.) As discussed above, however, 2 there is testimony from McIvor, Nunez and Beilstein that McIvor was also 3 communicating with Nunez via cell phone at around the same time.⁸ Petitioner has failed 4 to show the testimony was false. See Zuno-Arce, 44 F.3d at 1423. Even assuming, 5 however, that it was Desarno and not McIvor who initially ordered the stop, Buchanan 6 has not shown that it was material because there was no “reasonable likelihood that the 7 false testimony could have affected the judgment of the jury.” Hayes, 399 F.3d at 985.
8 Testimony about which law enforcement officer directed the stop had little, if any, 9 relevancy to the ultimate issues. To the extent Buchanan seeks to argue that it was 10 relevant to the suppression motion, that claim is foreclosed by Stone v. Powell, for the 11 reasons discussed above. As the Report concluded, the testimony of Chavez and Torres, 12 and the wiretap transcripts provided bulk of the evidence against Buchanan.

13 Buchanan also argues in his Objections that the Magistrate Judge “errs using a call 14 from Chavez to Buchanan, after the latter had left the house, to explain away McIvor’s 15 lie.” (Obj. at 20; see also Report at 23.) While it is not entirely clear, it appears 16 Buchanan is referring to McIvor’s testimony presented at the suppression hearing, but 17 not at trial. As discussed above, his claims of perjured testimony at the suppression 18 hearing lead to denial of his motion to suppress, are foreclosed by Stone v. Powell. See 19 Moormann, 426 F.3d at 1053. Even if it were not foreclosed, Buchanan would not be 20 entitled to relief. McIvor testified at that hearing that Buchanan had placed a call to 21 Chavez while inside the house with Triste. (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 102.) The 22 Report concluded that McIvor’s testimony that he knew Torres had not been harmed at 23 ⁷ Initially, while Buchanan and Parazzo were in the house with Torres, and Officer Rios asks 24 if Desarno wants to “have a unit stop ‘em when they leave from here, or do we risk the high speed 25 pursuit?” Desarno responds, “I don’t think we need to stop ‘em our S-1. I don’t think so. It’s your call 26 but I don’t think we do, I think we get ‘em ID’d. We’ve seen that car before. Hopefully we can follow 27 him to where he puts down for the night.” (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. C, Ex. 6 at 5.) It was only after 28 surveillance confirmed that the individual believed to be “Triste” was also in the vehicle with Buchanan and Parraz, that Desarno stated “We’re gonna have to stop that car.” (Id. at 6.)

⁸ Desarno testified at trial, but not as to any details regarding the stop. His testimony generally focused on the how the wiretaps were obtained, monitored and maintained. (Lodgment No. 30, vol. 6 ag 430-37.)

1 the time of the stop, was supported by a wiretap recording of Buchanan telling Chavez
2 “[he] was still with [him].” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 123.) Buchanan asserts this call 3 did not take place while they were inside the house. Wiretap recordings indicate that 4 Buchanan told Chavez that he was driving during that particular conversation. However, 5 this does not establish that McIvor testified falsely or that the prosecution knew it was 6 false. United States v. Croft, 124 F.3d 1109, 1119 (9th Cir. 1997) (stating that a witness’ 7 conflicting recollection of events does not establish that the testimony offered at trial
8 was false); see also Geston, 299 F.3d at 1135 (mere inconsistencies in the evidence do 9 not establish the knowing use of false testimony by the prosecutor). Even assuming 10 McIvor was mistaken about the timing of that call, Buchanan has not shown prejudice.
11 Torres testified that while inside the house Buchanan called Chavez, passed him the 12 phone, and Buchanan told him to tell her “it’s over. . . it’s through.” (Lodgment No. 31, 13 vol. 7 at 723-24.) Buchanan has not shown that it was material because there was no 14 “reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the judgment of the 15 jury.” Hayes, 399 F.3d at 985.

16 In his Objections, Buchanan argues that “if the judge and/or jury [had] known of 17 McIvor’s false statements they could/would have weighed in petitioner’s favor at the 18 suppression of evidence hearing and, at trial, in case.” (Obj. at 26.) Buchanan also 19 points to California Evidence Code § 780.⁹ First, as discussed above, Buchanan has not

21 ⁹ California Evidence Code § 780 states:

22 Except as otherwise provided by statute, the court or jury may consider in 23 determining the credibility of a witness any matter that has any tendency in reason to 24 prove or disprove the truthfulness of his testimony at the hearing, including but not 25 limited to any of the following:

- 26 (a) His demeanor while testifying and the manner in which he testifies.
27 (b) The character of his testimony.
28 (c) The extent of his capacity to perceive, to recollect, or to communicate any matter about which he testifies.
(d) The extent of his opportunity to perceive any matter about which he testifies.

1 shown the testimony was actually false or that, assuming it was, that the prosecutor knew 2 it was false. See Zuno-Arce, 44 F.3d at 1423. To the extent Buchanan is again arguing 3 that perjury resulted in the denial of his suppression motion, that claim is foreclosed. As 4 such, his allegations related to testimony given only at the suppression hearing (and not 5 at trial) (see Report at 22-23) are not cognizable. Moormann, 426 F.3d at 1053.
6 Moreover, nothing prevented the jury from evaluating McIvor’s credibility at trial, 7 pursuant to California Evidence Code section 780. In fact, the jury instructions included 8 language similar to section 780. (Lodgment No. 22, vol. 2 at 248-49.)

9 Finally, Buchanan argues the Magistrate Judge “errs in downplaying McIvor 10 perjury claim.” (Obj. at 20.) He argues that when viewed together, the purported 11 instances of false testimony amounted to prejudice because McIvor’s credibility would 12 have been damaged. As noted above, the state court concluded that “even assuming the 13 truth of Petitioner’s description of events, he failed to show a reasonable probability a 14 different outcome would have resulted at trial.” (Lodgment No. 11 at 15.)

15 The state court’s conclusion was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable 16 application of, clearly established law. As the Report discussed, the case more or less 17 depended on the testimony of Chavez, Torres and the wiretap recordings. Among other 18 things, Chavez testified that she had discussed her continuing problems with Torres with the hearing.

23 (h) A statement made by him that is inconsistent with any part of his testimony 24 at the hearing.

25 (i) The existence or nonexistence of any fact testified to by him.

28 Cal. Evid. Code § 780.

1 Brooks and Buchanan on August 25, 2004. She told Buchanan that Torres was 2 threatening to report Chavez's relationship with Brooks to correctional department 3 officials. (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 95-97.) Buchanan called Chavez on her cell 4 phone later that day, and at the same time, Torres called her home phone. Chavez put 5 Torres on speaker phone so Buchanan could hear what Torres was saying. Buchanan 6 yelled "Triste," followed by angry profanity. Buchanan told Chavez to hang up and that 7 he and another individual would come talk to her. Chavez knew Buchanan was a "big 8 homie" in the Mexican Mafia and she assumed Torres would be beaten for disobeying 9 his orders. (Lodgment No. 30, vol. 6 at 533-38.)

10 Eventually, Buchanan and Parraz arrived at her house. While they were there, 11 Torres called Chavez and Buchanan took the phone from her and said, "This is the Big 12 Homie. Man to man I want to talk to you." Chavez believed Torres gave Buchanan his 13 address. (Id. at 543-44.) She stated that when she did not hear from Torres later that 14 day, she was worried because she wanted him to leave her alone but she did not want 15 him killed. Finally, she got a call from Buchanan, who then put Torres on the phone.
16 Torres told her he would not bother her anymore. (Id. at 549-51.)

17 Torres testified that when he received a call from Brooks and Buchanan, telling 18 him to leave Chavez alone, he did not believe it was the Big Homie Buchanan. If he had, 19 he would not have disobeyed his direct order because he knew that if he did, he would 20 be "smoked." (Lodgment No. 31, vol. 7 at 698-702.) On August 25, 2004, Torres called 21 Chavez and she put Buchanan on the line. Buchanan asked Torres if he knew who he 22 was, and stated, "I'm the man you gave your word to." (Id. at 710.) He gave Buchanan 23 the address where he had been staying. After the call, he began to worry that this 24 probably was the Big Homie, and he was "pretty sure he was going to get smoked."
25 When Buchanan and Parraz arrived, Buchanan asked Torres if he knew "what happens 26 if you give a big homie your word and don't keep it." (Id. at 716.) At one point Parraz 27 flashed a gun and said "if your family wasn't here, I'd smoke you." (Id.) Torres stated 28 he believed he had been "green-lighted" for disobeying Buchanan. (Id. at 740.)

1 After searching Torres' pockets and establishing he did not have any money, 2 Buchanan and Parraz asked if he had any connections they could tax.¹⁰ Torres called a 3 connection and made plans with to meet him to set up a tax arrangement, hoping that by 4 doing so, Buchanan would show him leniency. (Id. at 724.) The three left to meet 5 Torres' connection.

6 This is just a brief portion of the testimony of Chavez and Torres but it illustrates 7 the case against Buchanan was dependent on them. Their testimony is corroborated by 8 the numerous wiretap conversations. As for the gun and drug possession charges, Nunez 9 testified that after the stop, Buchanan refused to stand up and kept his knees pressed 10 together as he fell out of the car. Nunez later discovered a gun in Buchanan's shorts.
11 (Id. at 989-90.) Methamphetamine was found inside a fanny pack Buchanan was 12 wearing. (Id. at 1045.) There was also videotape of Nunez handcuffing Buchanan, 13 searching him, and finding the gun. (Id. at 988-91.)

14 In sum, even considering all of the purported false statements collectively and 15 assuming they were false, Buchanan has not shown "a reasonable probability that . . . the 16 result of the proceeding would have been different." Jackson v. Brown, 513 F.3d 1057, 17 1076 (9th Cir. 2008) (emphasis omitted). Even if the jury had been convinced that 18 McIvor committed perjury with regard to some of the specifics of the stop, the result 19 would have been the same. There was more than enough evidence supporting the 20 charges and McIvor's alleged testimony about the stop of Buchanan's car would not 21 have undermined that evidence in any significant way. See Sivak v. Hardison, 658 F.3d 22 898, 914 (9th Cir. 2011). The state court's conclusion that Buchanan failed to show 23 prejudice is not contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly established law.
24 Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13.

25 Therefore, to the extent the Report reviews Buchanan's claims de novo, it is 26 MODIFIED. In all other respects, the Court OVERRULES Petitioner's Objections and 27 ¹⁰ A primary activity of the Mexican Mafia is to tax drug dealers who are forced to pay a portion 28 of their proceeds to the Mexican Mafia. (See Lodgment No. 31, vol. 7 at 723-24 see also Lodgment No.

33, vol. 9 at 1189.)

1 ADOPTS the findings and conclusions of the Report. The claim is DENIED.

2 b. Translations of Wiretap Conversations

3 Buchanan argues inaccurate translations of wiretap conversations were admitted 4 into evidence. (Pet. at 6, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 6-8, ECF No. 40-1.) As the 5 Magistrate Judge noted, Buchanan points to two specific phrases in his Petition, both of 6 which are found in the transcript of an August 21, 2004 wiretapped telephone 7 conversation between Buchanan and Brooks (“tape 776”). (Report at 24-25; see also 8 Pet. at 8, ECF No. 40.) First, in the transcript Brooks states, “I have a person that, that, 9 that, watches other the business I have there.” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 21.)
10 Buchanan claims the term “business” is an incorrect translation. Instead, he argues it 11 should read, “I have a person here that takes care of me with what I got, her issues.” (See 12 Lodgment 12, Attach. C, Ex. 17 at 9.) In the other instance referenced in the Petition, 13 the transcript reports Brooks telling Buchanan, “I wanted to talk to him first and if, if he 14 doesn’t behave all right, he’s fucked, and then I’ll let you get at him, uh, later.” 15 (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 24.) Buchanan argues the correct translation is, “if he 16 doesn’t behave then it’s like all right, I know I crapped and then I’ll let you get at him 17 later.” (See Lodgment 12, Attach. C, Ex. 17 at 9.)

18 The superior court addressed this claim and denied it, stating:

19 Petitioner fails to make a prima facie showing that the prosecution 20 deliberately falsified language included in the transcription of a tape 21 recording, which was equally available to both the prosecution and defense.
22 Portions of the tape recording were apparently barely audible or inaudible.
23 Petitioner’s claim of prosecutorial misconduct by deliberately falsifying 24 language in the transcription of the recording is speculative and conclusory, 25 and is, therefore, denied. The court also finds that the language in issue did 26 not dramatically alter the overall context of the transcribed conversation, 27 or negate the existence of other corroborating evidence. It is not reasonably 28 probable that a different trial outcome would have resulted had the language in question been excluded from the transcript presented to the jury. Any error in presented the disputed language or arguing it to the jury was harmless.

(Lodgment No. 11 at 13-14.)

As discussed in the Report, there is no question there was some dispute as to the proper translation of certain portions of the wiretapped conversations. During trial,

1 defense counsel requested review of the translations of the wiretap calls. (Lodgment No.
2 34, vol. 10 at 1311.) He gave the prosecutor two transcripts that “Mr. Buchanan was 3 concerned about which have handwritten suggestions in them.” (Id. at 1312.) The 4 prosecutor reviewed the changes and eventually, both counsel agreed to some 5 modifications, although it is not clear if and specific changes sought by Mr. Buchanan 6 were made. (Id. at 1320-21.) Buchanan points out that after his trial, the prosecution 7 stipulated to revised translations suggested by Brooks, who was representing himself in 8 a separate trial. (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. C, Ex. 18.)

9 Assuming the translations Buchanan complains about are inaccurate, Buchanan 10 has not shown the prosecutor knew or should have known. See Zuno-Arce, 339 F.3d at 11 889. The record reflects nothing more than honest disagreement about the proper 12 transcription of recorded conversations that took place in Spanish and English and were 13 often difficult to hear. (See Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 1311-21.) Moreover, Buchanan 14 has not shown the evidence was material. The altered versions offered by Buchanan do 15 not change the general context of the conversations, which was that Chavez was a 16 connection in the prison and Triste was threatening her. And as noted in the Report, 17 although Buchanan’s translation of the first phrase omits the word “business,” a few 18 seconds later, Brooks again describes Chavez as a person who “helps me out with my 19 business inside.” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 21.) Likewise, assuming Brooks’ 20 comment should have been translated, “I crapped” instead of “he’s fucked,” Petitioner 21 has not shown a reasonable likelihood the jury could have been affected. See Hayes, 399 22 F.3d at 984. In context, the general sentiment was not altered in a material way. In 23 Buchanan’s translation, Brooks is stating that he wanted to try to talk to Triste first, but 24 that if he failed to persuade Triste to leave Chavez alone, he would then ask Buchanan 25 “get at him.” (See Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 20-22.) Although the transcript admitted 26 into evidence included a more vulgar term and referred to Triste, the overall impression 27 of the statement in the context of the entire conversation is consistent. As such, 28 Buchanan has not shown a reasonable likelihood that the judgment of the jury could have

1 been affected. See Sivak v. Hardison, 658 F.3d 898, 914 (9th Cir. 2011); see also Hayes,
2 399 F.3d at 985

3 Buchanan argues in his Objections that the Magistrate Judge erred in “isolating 4 [his] claim to only two phrases.” (Obj. at 38.) In his Petition, however, the two phrases 5 addressed in the Report are the only specific inaccurate translations cited by Buchanan.
6 (See Pet. at 6.) Among the many exhibits attached to his Petition, he includes a motion 7 for a new trial filed in the state court, which lists other corrections made to the 8 transcription, which he claims were admitted at Brooks’ trial. (Pet. Attach. C, Ex. 17 at 9 9-11.) None of these additional revisions alter the meaning of the statements in any 10 significant way. For instance, in the original translation of the August 21, 2004 11 conversation between Brooks and Buchanan, Brooks states: “And if he’s like, ‘I don’t 12 give a fuck,’ if he gets tough, all right, I’ll say ‘All right, homie I’m going to have 13 [unintelligible], you know what I mean.” In that portion of the revised translation, 14 Brooks states “If [Triste] is like I don’t give a fuck and puts on a face,” he would tell 15 Torres “I’m going to have somebody get at you.” (Pet. Attach. C, Ex. 17 at 9.) The 16 revised translation does nothing to alter the overall meaning of what Brooks was saying.
17 In fact, the originally unintelligible portion, included in the revisions, is entirely 18 consistent with prosecution’s argument that Brooks was planning on talking to Torres 19 about Chavez, but if that did not work, he was going to have Buchanan speak to him.

20 Buchanan also argues in his Objections that the “Magistrate Judge’s statement that 21 the case rested almost entirely on the wiretaps and the testimony of Chavez and Torres 22 is incorrect” because of the “manipulation” of the wiretap evidence. He specifically 23 complains about the translation of a portion of a phone conversation between himself 24 and an individual named Corrado, which took place shortly before Buchanan met with 25 Torres. In the transcript, Buchanan states “I’m going to talk to him personally 26 [unintelligible]. We’ll see.” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 131.) Buchanan claims the 27 unintelligible portion should have been translated “so ain’t nothing going to happen.” 28 (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. F, Ex. 17 at 11.) Even assuming the revised translation is

1 accurate, Buchanan has not shown a reasonable likelihood that the introduction of the 2 original transcriptions could have affected the judgment of the jury. See Hayes, 399 F.3d
3 at 984. During that conversation, he also mentions that Chavez told him Torres had “25 4 guns.” Later, he states that “if he gets out of line, well. . . you know, anything goes . .
5 . . We’re prepared, no problem, you know?” The other revisions contained in the exhibit 6 are similarly insignificant, containing only minor alterations to isolated phrases and 7 adding translations for brief portions that were deemed “unintelligible” in the original 8 transcription. Even assuming the complete revised translations were presented at trial, 9 Chavez and Torres’ testimony was not inconsistent with the wiretap evidence. Buchanan 10 has not shown the result would have been different. See Jackson, 513 F.3d at 1076.
11 Having reviewed all of the revised translations carefully, the Court finds Buchanan has 12 not shown prejudice. See id.

13 Buchanan also complains the Magistrate Judge erred in pointing to a later use of 14 the term “business” in the transcript to show that the instance cited by Buchanan was not 15 prejudicial. He appears to claim that the term “business” was entirely omitted in the 16 revised translations. However, the list included in the motion for a new trial, does not 17 include corrections to later uses of the term business. (See Pet. Attach. C, Ex. 17 at 9-18 11.) And even if the term “business” was eliminated entirely, there are numerous other 19 references to Chavez as being their “connection” in the prison (Lodgment No. 21, vol.
20 1 at 21, 24); a “gold mine” (id. at 25); that she was doing them a “big ass favor” (id. at 21 63); and “working with [them]” and that Torres was “sabotaging” things with her. (Id.)
22 This supports the general theory that Chavez was considered by Brooks and Buchanan, 23 to be an asset to the Mexican Mafia. Accordingly, even assuming the translations did 24 not include the term business, Buchanan has not shown a reasonable likelihood the jury 25 verdict could have been affected. See Hayes, 399 F.3d at 984.

26 The state court’s denial of this claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable 27 application of, clearly established federal law. Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. Therefore, 28 to the extent the Report reviews Buchanan’s claims de novo, it is MODIFIED. In all

1 other respects, the Court OVERRULES Petitioner’s Objections and ADOPTS the 2 findings and conclusions of the Report. The claim is DENIED.

3 4. Prosecution’s Failure to Disclose Evidence (Claim Four)

4 In ground four, Buchanan alleges the prosecution withheld exculpatory and 5 favorable impeachment evidence, in violation of his due process rights. (Pet. at 9, ECF 6 No. 40; Traverse at 18-19, ECF No. 77.) The applicable law is summarized in the 7 Report. (Report at 27.) In short, a prosecutor’s failure to disclose favorable evidence 8 to an accused “violates due process where the evidence is material either to guilt or to 9 punishment, irrespective of the good faith or bad faith of the prosecution.” Brady v.
10 Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963). To establish that the government’s failure to turn 11 over evidence violates Brady, Buchanan must demonstrate (1) the evidence was 12 suppressed by the government either willfully or inadvertently; (2) the evidence was 13 favorable to the accused because it was either exculpatory or impeaching; and (3)
14 prejudice resulted from the failure to disclose. See Strickler v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263, 15 280-81 (1999).

16 a. Records Related to Torres

17 Buchanan argues records concerning Torres’ prison disciplinary history, mental 18 health and prison housing, and parole were withheld by the prosecution. He claims all 19 of these records could have helped impeach Torres. The superior court rejected this 20 claim, noting that records maintained by the California Department of Corrections and 21 Rehabilitation (CDCR) in the regular course of business are not available without a court 22 order, and as such they were not in the possession of the prosecutor. Moreover, the 23 defense was permitted to pursue the records by serving a subpoena duces tecum on the 24 CDCR. Finally, the superior court concluded that Buchanan failed to show prejudice.
25 (Lodgment No. 11 at 11-12.) Although the Report reviews these claims de novo, this 26 Court must determine whether the state court’s decision was contrary to, or an 27 unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13.

1 The Report properly concluded that Buchanan has not shown the prosecutor 2 suppressed these records because there is no evidence he was in possession of them. See 3 DOM § 71010.11.2 (“inmate records shall not be released to any agency or person 4 outside the Department without a court order); § 71010.8.3 (parole records are 5 maintained by the assigned parole agent). (See Report at 28, 29-30.)

6 In his Objections, Buchanan again asserts, as he does in his Petition, that the 7 prosecutors had an obligation to “turn over all information bearing on [Torres’] 8 credibility . . . including [his] criminal record, including prison records and any 9 information that bears on credibility.” (Obj. at 43.) This is merely a rehash of the same 10 speculative conclusory arguments raised in the Petition and addressed in the Report.

11 First, Buchanan has not shown the evidence would have been favorable to his 12 defense. He simply speculates that the records might have contained impeachment 13 material. See Agurs, 427 U.S. at 109-10 (holding that the mere possibility that 14 undisclosed information might have helped the defense, or might have affected the 15 outcome of the trial, is insufficient to establish materiality in the constitutional sense).
16 Here, Buchanan submits incomplete portions of some of Torres’ prison medical records, 17 which indicate that Torres was depressed and anxious at times, was on antidepressants 18 at some point during his incarceration and that he attempted suicide once in 2002.
19 (Lodgment No. 12, Attach F, Ex. 12 at 10-13.) In one report, the psychiatrist describes 20 Torres as suffering from a mood disorder but concludes it is not significant enough to 21 require “enhanced outpatient care [EOP].” (Id. at 13.) Even assuming the documents 22 contain impeachment material, Petitioner has not shown prejudice because Torres was 23 thoroughly cross-examined and impeached at trial. The jury heard testimony about his 24 significant long-term drug use, his prior crimes, parole violations, his depression and the 25 treatment he received for it in prison, as well as his placement in the EOP. (Lodgment 26 No. 32, vol. 8 at 762-85.) Therefore, Buchanan has not shown prejudice. Strickler, 527 27 U.S. at 280-81.

1 Thus, as the Report concluded, Buchanan has not established the prosecutor 2 suppressed exculpatory or impeachment material, in violation of his due process rights.
3 See id. at 281-82. As such, the state court’s denial of Petitioner’s claim was neither 4 contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. Williams, 529
5 U.S. at 412-13. To the extent the Report reviews this claim de novo, it is MODIFIED.
6 In all other respects, Petitioner’s Objections are OVERRULED and the Report’s 7 findings and conclusions as to this claim are ADOPTED in full. The claim is DENIED.

8 b. Wiretap Interview of Chavez

9 Buchanan claims the prosecutor failed to turn over wiretap evidence of interviews 10 with Chavez conducted by Detective Gutierrez. (Pet. at 9, ECF 40; Traverse at 18-19.)
11 He provides a single paged document which appears to be a portion of a transcribed 12 interview Gutierrez conducted with Chavez. Although Buchanan raised this claim in his 13 petition for habeas corpus to the superior court, it is not specifically addressed in that 14 or any other state court order denying relief. Therefore, this court must conduct an 15 independent review of the record to determine whether § 2254(d) has been satisfied. See 16 Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.

17 As the Report noted, the origin of the page submitted by Buchanan is not clear.
18 There is also nothing on the document indicating when the interview took place. It 19 depicts an exchange during which Gutierrez is asking Chavez if she knew Buchanan was 20 a Mexican Mafia member. She responds “And associ . . . yeah, a member, yeah.
21 Associate.” Gutierrez seems somewhat incredulous and states “But . . . well, everybody 22 knew he wasn’t an associate. Everybody knew he was a member. There’s a difference.”
23 (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. F, Ex. 13.) As the Report concluded, nothing in this brief 24 exchange shows Gutierrez coerced or coached Chavez. In addition, Buchanan has 25 provided no evidence to show that other tapes would provide impeachment or 26 exculpatory evidence. He merely speculates it might have been exculpatory. Buchanan 27 has not shown prejudice for the same reasons. See Downs v. Hoyt, 232 F.3d 1031 (9th 28 Cir. 2011) (finding Petitioner’s speculative claims failed to show that production of the

1 materials would have created a reasonable probability of a different result); see also 2 Stickler, 527 U.S. at 281-82. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary
3 to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 4 F.3d at 853. To the extent the Report reviews this claim de novo, it is MODIFIED. In 5 all other respects, the Court OVERRULES Petitioner’s Objections ADOPTS the Report
6 and DENIES the claim.

7 5. Judicial Bias (Claim Five)

8 In claim five, Petitioner alleges several instances of judicial bias. (Pet. at 10, ECF 9 No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 13-16, ECF No. 40-1.) The Report concluded there was no 10 judicial bias and Buchanan was not denied a fair trial. (Report at 31-44.) Buchanan does 11 not raise any specific objections to the Report’s conclusions as to ground five.

12 Buchanan raised this claim in his petition for habeas corpus to the California Court 13 of Appeal. (Lodgment No. 12.) The California Supreme Court denied Buchanan’s 14 petition for review of the denial of that petition, without comment or citation.
15 (Lodgment Nos. 19, 20.) Accordingly, because there is no reasoned state court decision 16 addressing this claim, this Court will conduct an independent review of the record to 17 determine whether the state court’s decision is contrary to, or an unreasonable 18 application of, clearly established Supreme Court law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. To 19 the extent the Report reviews the claim de novo, it is MODIFIED.

20 As the Report stated, a criminal defendant has the right to a fair and impartial 21 tribunal. In re Murchison, 349 U.S. 133, 136 (1955). To succeed on such a claim, 22 however, a petitioner must “overcome a presumption of honesty and integrity in those 23 serving as adjudicators.” Withrow v. Larkin, 421 U.S. 35, 47 (1975). A petitioner may 24 show judicial bias in one of two ways, by demonstrating the judge’s actual bias or by 25 showing that the judge had an incentive to be biased sufficiently strong to overcome the 26 presumption of judicial integrity. See Paradis v. Arave, 20 F.3d 950, 958 (9th Cir.
27 1994).

1 On habeas corpus review, the relevant inquiry is not whether the trial judge 2 committed judicial misconduct, but rather, “whether the state trial judge’s behavior 3 rendered the trial so fundamentally unfair as to violate federal due process under the 4 United States Constitution.” Duckett v. Godinez, 67 F.3d 734, 740 (9th Cir. 1995).
5 “Neither adverse rulings nor impatient remarks are generally sufficient to overcome the 6 presumption of judicial integrity, even if those remarks are ‘critical or disapproving of, 7 or even hostile to, counsel, the parties, or their cases.’” Larson v. Palmateer, 515 F.3d
8 1057, 1067 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting Liteky v. United States, 510 U.S. 540, 555 (1994).)

9 a. Shackling and Security Measures

10 Buchanan claims the trial judge was biased when he instituted heightened 11 courtroom security measures and ordered Petitioner shackled during the proceedings.
12 He also claims the judge showed bias when he refused to permit defense counsel to 13 review a report which provided the basis for the judge’s security concerns. (Pet. at 10, 14 ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 13, ECF No. 40-1.) As discussed in the Report, the judge 15 held a hearing before the trial began to consider defense counsel’s motion to limit 16 security measures and the shackling of Buchanan. (Lodgment No. 23, vol. 3 at 698-711.)
17 During the hearing, the judge stated that he had reviewed reports from the Sheriff’s 18 Department, which he ordered sealed because some information contained in them 19 “could put people at risk.” (Id. at 172.) These reports detailed Buchanan’s past history 20 of violence and escape convictions, his high rank in the Mexican Mafia prison gang, and 21 recommended the use of “unobtrusive restraints” for Buchanan, throughout the trial.
22 (Lodgment No. 12, Ex. 1 at 1-7.) One incident report contained information that 23 Buchanan had been overheard telling his cell mate that he could easily escape during 24 transport because leg chains had not been used on him. (Id. at 7.)

25 The Report noted that in making his ruling, the trial judge summarized much of 26 the information contained in the sealed reports. He stated that he based his decision on 27 Buchanan’s prior history of escape attempts, assaults with other inmates, a series of 28 confrontations with Sheriff Department staff, his classification as a “level 6 maximum

1 assaultive escape risk,” and his numerous priors. (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 169-72.)
2 He concluded that based on these findings, Buchanan should be shackled by the ankles 3 to bolts in the floor, during the trial. He noted that the chains would not be visible to 4 jurors and that they would make little noise because they would be plastic-coated chains.
5 (Id. at 171.) He also considered a request from the prosecution that the defendants not 6 be permitted to stand during the trial. The judge declined to grant that request at the 7 hearing, and noted that if he did ultimately prohibit the defendants from standing when 8 the jury entered and exited, than no one, including attorneys, would be permitted to 9 stand. (Id. at 176-77.).

10 As for other courtroom security, Sheriff Department policy required a minimum 11 of two deputies per defendant, and at the time, Buchanan was to be tried along with 12 Brooks and Parraz.¹¹ The trial judge granted a request made by Parraz’s counsel that the 13 number of armed deputies be limited to seven, two of whom would not be in the 14 courtroom. (Id. at 174.)

15 Finally, the trial judge considered a request from Parraz’s counsel that the contents 16 of the confidential reports, which the court considered during the hearing, be made 17 available to the defense. The judge stated that he was inclined to allow defense counsel 18 only to look at the documents, with the understanding that the contents “not be disclosed 19 to anyone, not investigators, not anybody.” Id. at 177. It is unclear from the record, 20 however, whether defense counsel did review the documents. Regardless, as stated 21 above, a great deal of the information in the reports was summarized by the judge on the 22 record. (Id. at 169-72.)

23 Having reviewed the reports, the judge’s sealed order, and the transcripts, the 24 Court agrees with the Report’s conclusion that nothing in the record suggests the trial 25 judge was biased. Indeed, the record reflects a judge who sought to balance the need for 26 courtroom security and the defendants’ rights to a fair trial. That the trial judge ruled

27
28 ¹¹ Brooks was ultimately severed from the case and Buchanan and Parraz were tried together.
(See Lodgment No. 29, vol. 5 at 310-11.)

1 adversely to Buchanan and the other defendants in some instances, does not suggest 2 judicial bias in this case. See Liteky, 510 U.S. at 555. The state court’s denial of the 3 claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established
4 federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. To the extent the Report reviews the claim de 5 novo, it is MODIFIED, the Court ADOPTS the Report’s finding and conclusions in all 6 other respects and DENIES the claim.

7 b. Alleged Derogatory Remarks

8 Petitioner asserts his right to a fair trial was violated when the trial judge referred 9 to the jury as “idiots” and, on another occasion, said Buchanan was “pimping” his 10 attorney. (Pet. Attach C. at 13, ECF No. 40-1.) As to Buchanan’s claim that the judge 11 referred to the jury as “idiots,” like the Magistrate Judge, this Court has reviewed the 12 record and can find no such remark. As to “pimping” remark, the Report found that the 13 comment came during discussion (which took place outside the presence of the jury) 14 regarding jury instructions, specifically related to the gun possession charge. The trial 15 judge stated that certain standard language could be removed because “we are not talking 16 about multiple firearms, right?” The prosecutor then agreed that language should be 17 removed because “[the] defense is [he was] in momentary possession or justifiable 18 possession, unless [Buchanan’s counsel] is advancing one of those.” Navarro’s defense 19 attorney then added, “momentarily slipped into his skivs.” The trial judge stated “I’m 20 surprised he hasn’t pimped you to do that.” Defense counsel responded, “Actually, he 21 has.” (Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 1352.) As stated in the Report, while the judge’s 22 comment was perhaps inappropriate, when viewed in context, it amounted to no more 23 than a poor attempt at humor with the attorneys after a long day. As discussed above, 24 “judicial remarks during the course of a trial that are critical or disapproving of, or even 25 hostile to, counsel, the parties, or their cases, ordinarily do not support a bias or partiality
26 challenge.” Liteky, 510 U.S. at 555. Buchanan has not shown that the judge’s “behavior 27 rendered the trial so fundamentally unfair as to violate federal due process.” Duckett, 28 67 F.3d at 740. The state court’s denial of this claim was neither contrary to, nor an

1 unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
2 To the extent the Report reviews the claim de novo, it is MODIFIED. The Court 3 ADOPTS the Report’s findings and conclusions in all other respects and DENIES the 4 claim.

5 c. Gang Expert Testimony

6 Buchanan claims the judge was biased against him when he allowed two gang 7 experts to testify against him at trial. (Pet. Attach. C at 13, ECF No. 40-1.) Before trial, 8 defense counsel made a motion to limit gang expert testimony. (Lodgment No. 30 at 9 346.) As noted in the Report, during the hearing, the judge asked the prosecutor whether 10 the two experts he sought to call would be testifying as to different things. (Id. at 348.)
11 The prosecutor explained that the first, Steve Contreras of the California Department of 12 Corrections and Rehabilitation, would testify more generally about the history of the 13 Mexican Mafia, his experience with the Mexican Mafia both inside and outside the 14 prison system, and the relationship between street gang members and the Mexican Mafia.
15 In addition, because Contreras also had specific knowledge regarding Brooks, he would 16 testify that he believed Brooks was a Mexican Mafia associate of Buchanan’s. The 17 second witness, Detective Mike Gutierrez of San Diego Police Department, had specific 18 knowledge of the case. He would testify about the relationship between San Diego street 19 gangs and the Mexican Mafia, and explain the predicate acts necessary to prove the gang 20 enhancement allegations against the defendants. (Id. at 349.) Both witnesses testified 21 at trial consistently with the prosecutor’s proffer. (See Lodgment No. 30, vol. 6 at 365-22 48; vol. 9 at 1177-1210.) The trial judge’s reasoned decision to permit two experts to 23 testify does not indicate bias against Buchanan. See Liteky, 510 U.S. at 555 (stating that 24 “judicial rulings alone almost never constitute [a] valid basis for a bias or partiality 25 motion”); see also People v. Hernandez, 33 Cal. 4th 1040, 1047-48 (Cal. 1997) (holding 26 the prosecution may utilize expert testimony about gang culture and habits to establish 27 the elements of a gang allegation).

28 ///

1 Buchanan has not shown that permitting the testimony of two gang experts
2 “rendered the trial so fundamentally unfair as to violate federal due process.” Duckett, 3 67 F.3d at 740. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 4 unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
5 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all
6 other respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

7 d. Disputed Wiretap Translations

8 Buchanan contends the trial judge was biased when he “turned a blind eye” to 9 disputes regarding the translation of wiretap transcripts. (Pet. Attach. C at 13-14, EFC 10 No. 40-1.) As discussed in detail in the Report, there were several discussions regarding 11 the wiretap translations over the course of the proceedings. (Report at 37-38.) During 12 trial, defense counsel requested that a few changes be made to the transcript. He 13 provided the prosecution with a copy of the proposed modified transcripts for review.
14 The judge stated, “If you can’t agree [on the modified version], you are going to have to 15 call an expert for the defense, or whoever your interpreters were that reviewed it to say 16 that they believe that’s what it says.” (Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 1311.) It appears 17 from the record that the following day, both counsel agreed to a modified version and 18 the court ordered the original transcripts collected from the jury and the modified version 19 be distributed. (Id. at 1319-20.)

20 After his conviction, Buchanan complained to the judge that defense counsel had 21 failed to submit altered transcripts of two phone calls. This claim was also presented in 22 a motion for a new trial as an ineffective assistance of counsel claim. (See Attach. C, Ex.
23 17.) The trial judge denied the motion, concluding that even if the altered transcripts had 24 been admitted, there was not a reasonable likelihood that the outcome of the trial would 25 have been different. He also found that defense counsel’s decision not to submit the 26 modified transcripts might have been a tactical decision in order to avoid a “battle of the 27 experts.” (Id. at 1679-80.)
28

1 As the Report found, there is nothing in the record to suggest that the judge was 2 biased with regard to admission of wiretap translation transcripts. He ordered transcripts
3 replaced with altered versions at the request of defense counsel. And to the extent 4 defense counsel failed to introduce modified versions of two specific phone calls, the 5 judge’s decision to deny his ineffective counsel claim was not “behavior rendered the 6 trial so fundamentally unfair as to violate federal due process.” Duckett, 67 F.3d at 740.
7 The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable
8 application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The Court 9 MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all other 10 respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

11 e. Denial of Marsden Motions

12 Petitioner alleges the judge was biased when he denied his Marsden motions.¹² 13 (Pet. Attach. C at 14-15, ECF No. 40-1.) As discussed in the Report, and upon review 14 of the sealed Marsden hearing transcripts, there is nothing to suggest the trial judge’s 15 denial of the motion was based on bias. See Liteky, 510 U.S. at 555. The state court’s 16 denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly 17 established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The Court MODIFIES the Report 18 to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all other respects, ADOPTS the 19 findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

20 f. Instructing the Jury Regarding Shackles

21 Buchanan claims the judge’s failure to admonish the jury after some members saw 22 him in shackles constituted judicial bias. (Pet. Attach C. at 15, ECF No. 40-1.) The 23 Report found that during the trial, Buchanan and Parraz reported that they had been seen 24 by one or more jurors as they were being led into the courtroom in shackles. The bailiffs, 25 however, stated that he had not seen any jurors at the time. The trial judge assured the

27 ¹² People v. Marsden, 2 Cal.3d 118 (1970) requires the trial court to give “a party an opportunity 28 to present argument or evidence in support of his contention” requesting substitution of counsel in a hearing outside the presence of the jury. This California rule substantially parallels the one prescribed by the Ninth Circuit in Hudson v. Rushen, 686 F.2d 826, 829 (9th Cir.1980). See Chavez v. Pulley, 623
F. Supp. 672, 687 n. 8 (E.D. Cal. 1985).

1 parties that he would speak to security officials and ensure that it “doesn’t happen again, 2 if it happened at all.” (Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 1214-15.) The Report properly 3 concluded that, although the judge did not admonish or instruct the jury regarding the 4 matter, this does not indicate judicial bias. Given the contradictory statements from 5 defendants and the bailiff, it was not clear whether the jurors had actually seen the 6 shackles. Moreover, to admonish the jury might have served only to highlight the matter.
7 As such, Buchanan has not established judicial bias as to this claim. See Duckett, 67
8 F.3d at 740. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 9 unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
10 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all 11 other respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

12 g. Post-Verdict Juror Contact, Severance of Co-Defendant Brooks

13 Next, Buchanan argues the judge was biased when he refused to disclose juror 14 contact information after the verdict and when he decided to sever Brooks from the case
15 and grant Brooks a continuance. (Pet. Attach. C at 15. ECF No. 40-1.) First, the Report 16 found that the trial judge considered and denied defense counsel’s post trial request to 17 disclose the names of jurors who had filled out questionnaires. He provided several 18 reasons for his decision on the record including the lack of evidence to support 19 Buchanan’s allegation that the jury panel was not representative of the community, that 20 there was no objection to the panel prior to it being sworn, and that there was no 21 evidence of systematic exclusion of a cognizable group. (See Lodgment No. 36, vol. 12 22 at 1652.) The Report properly concluded that Buchanan has failed to show evidence of 23 judicial bias. See Larson, 515 F.3d at 1067.

24 Second, Buchanan complains that the judge was biased when he severed Brooks 25 from the case and granted him a continuance. As discussed in the Report, Brooks had 26 recently begun representing himself and had asked for a continuance to interview 27 witnesses, review transcripts, and seek additional discovery. Buchanan and Parraz 28 joined the motion at the hearing. After a long discussion involving Brooks’ specific

1 requests, the judge granted the continuance as to Brooks, denied it as to Buchanan and 2 Parraz, and severed the case. (Lodgment No. 29, vol. 5 at 276-311.) He explained that 3 his decision to grant Brooks’ request for a continuance not based on any allegations of 4 newly discovered evidence alleged during the hearing, but “was only being granted so 5 Mr. Brooks can get himself up to speed and ready to try the case.” (Id. at 315.) When 6 Buchanan objected, the judge added, “as far as I’m concerned, both of you have had 7 adequate counsel throughout the case, [and] have had the discovery available.” (Id. at 8 316.) The Report properly found that, as with Buchanan’s other claims, there was no 9 evidence of bias or partiality “sufficient to overcome the presumption of judicial 10 integrity.” Larson, 515 F.3d at 1067. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither 11 contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See 12 Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this 13 claim de novo, and in all other respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and 14 DENIES the claim.

15 h. Coaching Witness

16 Petitioner claims the trial judge coached a witness during the hearing on his 17 motion to suppress evidence. He appears to claim that the judge told Detective McIvor 18 how to answer a question regarding whether officers attempted to enter the house to 19 “save Triste’s life.” The Report properly concluded there was no such coaching and that 20 the trial judge was merely explaining why a question was not argumentative and had no 21 effect on Detective McIvor’s testimony. (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 102.) As such, 22 Buchanan has not overcome the “presumption of judicial integrity.” See Larson, 515
24 unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
25 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all 26 other respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

28 ///

1 i. Speculation Regarding the Traffic Stop

2 Finally, Buchanan claims the judge made comments during the suppression 3 hearing which are evidence of judicial bias. (Pet. Attach. C at 16, ECF No. 40-1.) As 4 the Report concluded, the judge did nothing but accurately state the law. Defense 5 counsel argued that the stop was pretextual, and that the officers were simply searching 6 for any reason to pull the car over. The judge simply stated that the law permitted this 7 as long as there was probable cause to stop the car. Thus, if the information from the 8 wiretaps, known to officer's at the time, supported probable cause, it would not matter 9 if the stop was "pretextual." (Lodgment No 27, vol. 3 at 127-28.) The Report correctly 10 noted that an "officer's subjective thoughts play no role in Fourth Amendment analysis.
11 More specifically, the fact that officers acted on one rationale 'would not foreclose the 12 [government] from justifying [the search] by proving probable cause.'" United States 13 v. Ramirez, 473 F.3d 1026, 1030-31 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Florida v. Royer, 460 U.S.
14 491, 501 (1983); see also Whren v. United States, 517 U.S. 806, 811-12 (1996). Nothing 15 about the judge's comments suggest judicial bias or "behavior [which] rendered the trial 16 so fundamentally unfair as to violate federal due process." Duckett, 67 F.3d at 740.
17 Buchanan has not shown that the state court's denial of the claim was contrary to, or an 18 unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
19 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews this claim de novo, and in all 20 other respects, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions and DENIES the claim.

21 6. Courtroom Security Measures and Shackling (Claim Six)

22 In his sixth ground for relief, Buchanan argues that his right to a fair trial was 23 violated by the heightened courtroom security measures and his shackling during trial.
24 (Pet. at 11, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 17-18, ECF No. 40-1.) The Magistrate Judge 25 concluded that Buchanan failed to establish that the outcome was affected by the security 26 precautions or his shackling. (Report at 44-47.) Buchanan does not raise any specific 27 objections to the Report's conclusion regarding these claims. Because the claim is not 28 procedurally defaulted, this Court reviews the state court's last reasoned decision to 1 determine whether the denial of his claim was contrary to or an unreasonable application

2 of clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. To the extent the Report 3 reviews the claims de novo, it is MODIFIED.

4 a. Courtroom Security

5 First, with regard to courtroom security, Buchanan complains in his Petition that 6 there was a metal detector outside the courtroom, along with five to ten armed deputies.
7 He also states there were several federal agents and transportation officers from the 8 California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation in “SWAT-style” attire in the 9 courtroom. He also alleges a bomb sniffing dog was brought into the courtroom. (Pet.
10 at 11, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 17-18, ECF No. 40-1; Traverse at 19-22, ECF No.
11 77.) Finally, he claims the jury requested an armed escort from the courthouse after 12 delivering the verdict. (Pet. Attach. C at 18, ECF No. 40-1.)

13 The San Diego superior court’s order denying this claim states:

14 Prior to trial, the trial court received a memorandum for the Security 15 Deputy, Court Services Bureau, dated February 28, 2009, and incident 16 reports relating to Petitioner and Parraz. . . . Based upon the information 17 provided, the trial court issued a written Order outlining the security 18 measures authorized during the trial of Petitioner and Parraz. . . .The 19 manifest need for security precautions and restraints employed for 20 Petitioner’s trial is fully explained in [the reports and the trial judge’s 21 order]. Petitioner fails to demonstrate that the court abused its discretion 22 in this matter. (See People v. Stevens (2009) 47 Cal. 4th 625, 634, holding 23 that the use of a metal detector or magnetometer at the entrance of the 24 courtroom is not inherently prejudicial.)

25 (Lodgment No. 11 at 17-18.)

26 The Report correctly noted the standard for evaluating claims of excessive 27 courtroom security. First, a court must “look at the scene presented to jurors and 28 determine whether what they saw was so inherently prejudicial as to pose an unacceptable threat to defendant’s right to a fair trial.” Holbrook v. Flynn, 475 U.S. 560, 572 (1986). If the court concludes the measures are not inherently prejudicial, it must next consider whether jurors were actually prejudiced. Id. at 572.

There is no indication in the record as to the exact number of deputies inside and outside the courtroom but, based on the trial judge’s previous order limiting the number

1 to seven when there were three co-defendants, it seems likely there were five deputies 2 at trial (after Brooks' case was severed). (See Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 174.) There 3 is nothing in the record regarding federal agents or other law enforcement personnel, nor 4 is there any mention of a bomb sniffing dog. Even assuming there were federal agents 5 sitting in the gallery, there is no evidence the jury knew they were law enforcement.
6 Likewise, presuming there was a bomb sniffing canine used, there is no evidence the jury 7 saw it. As discussed in the Report, the Supreme Court found no inherent prejudice when 8 four uniformed troopers were present during proceedings. Id. at 569. In addition, in this 9 case the procedures were no more intrusive than those approved by the Ninth Circuit in 10 Hayes v. Ayers, 632 F.3d 500, 521-22 (9th Cir. 2011). In that case, spectators (included 11 perspective jurors) were searched with a hand-held metal detector, physically patted 12 down and had their bags searched. There were also three extra deputies assigned to the 13 courtroom and the courtroom door was locked during proceedings. See id. Accordingly, 14 the Magistrate Judge properly found that the security measures taken at Buchanan's trial 15 were not inherently prejudicial.

16 Likewise, Buchanan has failed to show actual prejudice. As discussed in the 17 Report, at the time the jurors submitted their verdicts, they sent a note to the judge 18 expressing concern that personal information from juror questionnaires might be 19 available to the defendants, and asking if "there should be any concern for [their] 20 personal safety." (Lodgment No. 23, vol. 3 at 568.) Although there is no mention of it 21 in the record, Buchanan states that the jurors asked to be escorted from the building. The 22 superior court addressed this allegation and stated "it is also speculation to attribute the 23 jurors' stated concern for personal safety to be based on anything other than the evidence 24 introduced in the case." (Lodgment No. 11 at 18.) The Report properly concluded that 25 Buchanan presented no evidence that the jurors were actually prejudiced as a result of 26 seeing the security in the courtroom. See Holbrook, 475 U.S. at 569.

27 As such, the state court's denial of Petitioner's claim was neither contrary to, nor 28 an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13.

1 To the extent the Report reviews this claim de novo, it is MODIFIED. In all other 2 respects, the Report’s findings and conclusions as to this claim are ADOPTED in full 3 and the claim is DENIED.

4 b. Shackling

5 Buchanan claims his due process rights were violated when he was seen by one 6 or more jurors in the hallway of the courthouse while being escorted in shackles. In 7 denying the claim, the San Diego superior court stated, in part:

8 To justify restraint, there must be some showing of violence or threat 9 of violence. (People v. Combs, (2004) 34 Cal. 4th 821, 837.) . . .Prejudicial 10 error does not occur simply because the defendant ‘was seen in shackles for 11 only a brief period either inside or outside the courtroom by one or more 12 jurors or veniremen.’ (People v. Tuilaepa, [(1992) 4 Cal. 4th 569, 583.]).
13 . . . As discussed, there was a manifest need for thorough security 14 precautions in this case. The jurors were undoubtedly cognizant of many of 15 these precautions. The fact that jurors may have seen Petitioner in the 16 hallway would not drastically affect their perceptions regarding the need for 17 security in this case. Petitioner fails to show that the juror’s observations 18 of him in the hallway affected his right to a fair trial. (People v. Cox (1991) 19 53 Cal. 3d 618, 652.) Any alleged error in the jurors seeing Petitioner in 20 the hallway was harmless. (People v. Allen (1986) 42 Cal. 3d 1222, 1226.)

21 (Lodgment No. 11 at 17-19.)

22 The Report identifies the clearly established law regarding shackling. “A criminal 23 defendant has a constitutional right to be free of shackles and handcuffs in the presence 24 of the jury” and “[w]hen a defendant has been unconstitutionally shackled, the court 25 must determine whether the defendant was prejudiced.” Williams v. Woodford, 384 F.3d 26 567, 591 (9th Cir. 2004). However, the Ninth Circuit has made clear that if “the jury 27 never saw the defendant’s shackles in the courtroom, . . . the shackles did not prejudice 28 the defendant’s right to a fair trial.” Williams, 384 F.3d at 592 (citing Castillo v. Stainer, 997 F.2d 669, 699 (9th Cir. 1993), amended by 997 F.2d 669 (9th Cir. 1993)). In addition, “[a] jury’s brief or inadvertent glimpse of a defendant in physical restraints outside of the courtroom does not warrant habeas relief unless the petitioner makes an affirmative showing of prejudice.” Id. (citing Castillo, 983 F.2d at 148 (finding no prejudice when members of the jury pool saw the defendant in shackles in the court corridor)).

1 As discussed above, Buchanan’s ankles were shackled and chained to the floor 2 during trial, but this was concealed from the jurors with skirt around the defense table.
3 (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 172.) There is no evidence jurors saw Petitioner shackled
4 at any time during the course of the proceedings. As the state court and Magistrate Judge 5 both found, even assuming some jurors got a glimpse of Buchanan being transported to 6 the courtroom while shackled on one occasion, this alone does not amount to a due 7 process violation or prejudice. See Castillo, 983 F.2d at 1148. In sum, Petitioner has 8 not shown the state court’s denial this claim was contrary to, nor an unreasonable 9 application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. The Court 10 ADOPTS the findings and conclusions of the Report and MODIFIES the Report only 11 to the extent it reviewed the claim de novo. The claim is DENIED.

12 7. Prosecutorial Misconduct (Claim 7)

13 Buchanan raises ten instances of prosecutorial misconduct in his Petition. (Pet.
14 at 12, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 19-23, ECF No. 40-1.) Buchanan does not raise any 15 specific objections to the Report’s conclusions as to claim seven. As discussed in the 16 Report, it is clearly established that “the touchstone of due process analysis in cases of 17 alleged prosecutorial misconduct is the fairness of the trial, not the culpability of the 18 prosecutor.” Smith v. Phillips, 455 U.S. 209, 219 (1982). A prosecutor commits 19 misconduct when his or her actions “so infect. . . the trial with unfairness as to make the 20 resulting conviction a denial of due process.” Darden v. Wainwright, 477 U.S. 169, 181 21 (1986) (quoting Donnelly v. DeChristoforo, 416 U.S. 637, 643 (1974)). “Moreover, the 22 appropriate standard of review for such a claim on writ of habeas corpus is ‘the narrow 23 one of due process, and not the broad exercise of supervisory power.’” Id. (quoting 24 Donnelly, 416 U.S. at 642). In order to show prosecutorial misconduct for failure to turn 25 over exculpatory evidence, a petitioner must demonstrate (1) the evidence was 26 suppressed by the government either willfully or inadvertently; (2) the evidence was 27 favorable to the accused because it was either exculpatory or impeaching; and (3) 28 prejudice resulted from the failure to disclose. See Strickler, 527 U.S. at 280-81.

1 a. Torres' Parole Record

2 Buchanan claims the prosecution provided an outdated parole detail record for 3 Torres in order to conceal the fact that Detective McIvor knew “Triste” was Torres, 4 before the stop on August 25, 2004. He claims a more recent parole detail record would 5 have shown Torres often went by the moniker “Triste.” (Pet. at 12, ECF No. 40; Pet.
6 Attach. C at 19, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court order does include discussion of this 7 specific claim.

8 As the Report concluded, Buchanan has not shown that the prosecutor was in 9 possession of parole records indicating Torres’ also went by “Triste.” As discussed 10 above in section V(B)(4)(a) of this Order, such records may only be released to a party 11 with a court order. Moreover, Buchanan merely speculates that such reports would, in 12 fact, include information that “Triste” was Torres’ moniker. Accordingly, Petitioner has 13 not shown the prosecutor withheld evidence, or that the report contained exculpatory or 14 impeachment evidence. See Strickler, 527 U.S. at 281-82. Buchanan also has not shown 15 prejudice. Even assuming such a parole detail report contains information on Torres’ 16 moniker, there is nothing to suggest that McIvor had that information before Buchanan’s 17 arrest. See id. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 18 unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The 19 Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS the 20 findings and conclusions in all other respects and DENIES the claim.

21 b. Coaching and Coercing Witnesses

22 Buchanan claims the prosecutor committed misconduct by coercing and 23 intimidating witnesses and coaching their testimony. (Pet. Attach. C at 19, ECF No. 40-24 1.) The state court rejected the claim as “speculative and conclusory,” stating that 25 Buchanan made only “general allegations, but cites no specific instances, where a 26 witness’s testimony was improperly coerced or influenced by law enforcement.”
27 (Lodgment No. 11 at 15.) In the Report, the Magistrate Judge thoroughly summarizes 28 each of the exhibits Buchanan points to as support for his claim. (Report at 50-52.)

1 First, a narrative report from FBI Agent Ann Murphy contains information that is 2 entirely consistent with Torres' trial testimony concerning events leading up to and right 3 after police stopped the car he was riding in with Buchanan and Parraz. (Lodgment No.
4 12, Attach. F, Ex. 9.) There is nothing in this report to suggest Torres was being coached 5 or coerced.

6 Second, Buchanan points to a portion of a transcript of an interview of an 7 individual named George Presson, by FBI Agents Murphy and Desarno, and Detective 8 McIvor. At one point, Desarno encourages Presson to cooperate and states that "if you 9 try to play both sides, you're playing with fire on both sides." (Lodgment No. 12, 10 Attach. F, Ex. 10 at 3.) The court has reviewed the transcript and finds nothing 11 suggesting coercion. As the Report concluded, it is not even clear how the interview is 12 relevant to Buchanan's case.

13 Finally, Buchanan again points to the alleged excerpt of an interview between 14 Chavez and Detective Gutierrez discussed above in section V(B)(4)(b) of this Order. In 15 sum, Buchanan provides nothing more than conclusory allegations to support his claim.
16 James v. Borg, 24 F.3d 20, 26 (9th Cir. 1994) ("Conclusory allegations which are not 17 supported by a statement of specific facts do not warrant habeas relief.") As such, the 18 state court's denial was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly 19 established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report
20 to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS the findings and conclusions in all 21 other respects and DENIES the claim.

22 c. Withholding Evidence of Torres' Relationship with FBI

23 Buchanan appears to claim that the prosecution withheld evidence that the FBI 24 recruited Torres. (Pet. Attach. C at 20, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court did not 25 specifically address this claim in its order. As the Report found, Buchanan offers 26 nothing but "conclusory allegations which are not supported by a statement of specific 27 facts." See James, 24 F.3d at 26. As such, the state court's denial was neither contrary 28 to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Himes, 336 F.3d 853.

1 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS 2 the findings and conclusions in all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

3 d. Withholding Witness Interview Recordings, and Torres' Medical, and 4 Parole Records

5 Buchanan argues the prosecutor withheld evidence, including interviews with 6 Chavez, other witness recordings, and Torres' medical, psychiatric and parole records.
7 (Pet. Attach. C at 20-21, ECF No. 40-1.) This assertion is merely a rehash of the 8 argument raised in claim four and discussed in section V(B)(4)(a) of this Order.
9 Accordingly, the Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it addresses the claim de 10 novo, and ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

11 e. Failure to Verify Wiretap Translations

12 Next, Buchanan alleges the prosecutor committed misconduct when he implied 13 he would be presenting a Spanish language expert as a witness at trial, and failed to do 14 so. (Attach. C at 21, ECF No. 40-1.) The state court concluded Buchanan "failed to 15 make a prima facie case for prosecutorial misconduct." (Lodgment No. 11 at 16.) As 16 discussed above, there was some dispute about the accuracy of the translations. At one 17 point during pre-trial hearings, Brooks complained about the translations and the trial 18 judge noted that he would be free to call his own expert to challenge the accuracy of the 19 transcriptions. (Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 299.) The prosecutor also mentioned that 20 Brooks could cross-examine their language expert. (Id. at 393.) At trial, no language 21 expert was called by either side. The prosecutor and Buchanan's defense counsel, 22 however, did stipulate to some modifications to the original translations. (Lodgment 23 No. 34, vol. 10 at 1321-22.) As the Report found, the prosecutor was not required to 24 present a language witness, even if he previously indicated he might. See United States 25 v. Bond, 552 F.3d 1092, 1097 (9th Cir. 2009). As such, the state court's denial was 26 neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See
27 Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews

28 ///

1 the claim de novo and ADOPTS the findings and conclusions in all other respects. The 2 claim is DENIED.

3 f. Witness Intimidation

4 Petitioner claims FBI Agent Desarno intimidated defense witnesses and prevented 5 them from speaking to defense investigators. (Pet. Attach. C at 22, ECF No. 40-1.) The 6 superior court concluded Buchanan failed to present specific evidence to support his 7 allegations, and denied the claim as “vague and conclusory.” (Lodgment No. 11 at 16.)
8 As the Report concluded, the only mention of this in the record is a statement by defense 9 counsel, during a pre-trial hearing on Brooks’ motion for a continuance, when counsel 10 alleged that his defense investigator was having difficulty getting witnesses to talk to 11 him because Desarno had told cooperating witnesses not to talk to the defense.
12 (Lodgment No. 29, vol. 5 at 304-05.) As the Report found, this claim lacks factual 13 support, and Petitioner fails to assert that the alleged intimidation was prejudicial to his 14 case. See James, 24 F.3d at 26. Petitioner also fails to show that the alleged 15 constitutional violations arising from the purported intimidation had a “substantial or 16 injurious effect or influence in determining the jury’s verdict.” See Brecht, 507 U.S. at 17 631 n.7. The state court’s denial of this claim was neither contrary to nor an 18 unreasonable application of clearly established federal law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 19 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, 20 and ADOPTS the findings and conclusions in all other respects. The claim is DENIED.

21 g. Misrepresentations During Closing Argument

22 Petitioner claims the prosecutor used “known falsehoods” in closing argument to 23 the jury when he stated: “Is there ever a reference to [Mr. Brooks] caring about Ms.
24 Chavez? Is there ever a reference to ‘I personally like her. We want to help her out’?
25 No.” (Pet. Attach C. at 22, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court order does not address 26 this claim specifically. As such, the court must conduct an independent review of the 27 record to determine whether Buchanan has satisfied § 2254(d). See Himes, 336 F.3d at 28 853. In his Petition, Buchanan claims the prosecutor’s statement is contradicted by

1 wiretap conversations which make it clear that Brooks was in love with Chavez. (Pet.
2 Attach C. at 22, ECF No. 40-1.) As discussed in the Report, the prosecutor did argue 3 during closing that Brooks' relationship with Chavez was cultivated because it could be 4 beneficial to the Mexican Mafia. (Lodgment No. 35, vol. at 1491.) This is a reasonable 5 inference based on evidence presented at trial.¹³ See Duckett, 67 F.3d at 742; See also 6 Ceja v. Stewart, 97 F.3d 1246, 1253 (9th Cir. 1996). Moreover, Buchanan fails to point 7 to any portion of the record which shows the prosecution misrepresented the evidence.
8 See James, 24 F.3d at 26. The state court's denial of this claim was neither contrary to 9 nor an unreasonable application of clearly established federal law. See Himes, 336 F.3d
10 at 853. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, 11 and ADOPTS the findings and conclusions in all other respects. The claim is DENIED.

12 h. Buchanan's Cell Phone

13 Petitioner argues the prosecutor improperly used the fact that he had a cell phone, 14 which a police informant had provided him, as evidence that he was a drug dealer. (Pet.
15 Attach. C, 22-23, ECF No. 40-1.)¹⁴ Because there is no reasoned state court decision 16 addressing this claim, the court must conduct an independent review of the record to 17 determine whether Buchanan has satisfied § 2254(d). See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853.
18 During McIvor's testimony, the prosecutor asked, "The presence of the money, the scale, 19 the methamphetamine and the pay and owe slip, in your opinion, does that indicate 20 whether or not the narcotics possessed by Mr. Buchanan were possessed for sale?" 21 McIvor responded, "Yes. Just the mere amount of methamphetamine, to me, in my

22 ¹³ There was evidence on the wiretaps that Brooks and Buchanan saw Chavez as an asset, calling 23 her their "connection" in the prison (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 21, 24); a "gold mine" (id. at 25); stating 24 that she was doing them a "big ass favor" (id. at 63); and "working with [them]." (Id.)

25 ¹⁴ The superior court interpreted this as a claim of entrapment and denied it because officers did 26 nothing to encourage Petitioner to commit crimes he would not have otherwise committed. (Lodgment 27 No. 11 at 16-17.) The entrapment defense "is not of a constitutional dimension." United States v.
28 Russell, 411 U.S. 423, 430-33. It is a court-created limitation on governmental activity. United States
v. Emmert, 829 F.2d 805, 808 n. 1 (9th Cir. 1987). Accordingly, an alleged misapplication of law relating to entrapment does not raise a cognizable federal constitutional claim. Noble v. Harrison, 491
F. Supp.2d 950, 961 n. 7 (C.D. Cal. 2007) (citing Benson v. Carter, 396 F.2d 319, 322 (9th Cir. 1968)).
As such, to the extent Petitioner is attempting to assert an entrapment claim, it is not cognizable on federal habeas review.

1 experience, would show that [it is] possessed for sales. The scale, the pay and owe and 2 the money, the cell phone are just items that would just go on to enforce what I 3 believed.” (Lodgment No. 33, vol. 9 at 1054.)

4 Nothing in the excerpts of the record Buchanan points to for support, suggest the 5 prosecutor presented evidence or argument at trial that Buchanan’s possession of a cell 6 phone alone was evidence he was a drug dealer. McIvor simply testified that the phone 7 was one of many items found along with the drugs, which, when viewed in context, 8 supported his conclusion that based on the amount of drugs, the methamphetamine was 9 intended for sale. Buchanan has not shown that his due process rights were violated by 10 prosecutorial misconduct. See Darden, 477 U.S. at 181. The state court’s denial of the 11 claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established
12 law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it 13 reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

14 i. Alleged Wiretap of Torres

15 Petitioner claims the prosecutor suppressed evidence favorable to the defense 16 when he failed to disclose that there had been a wiretap on Torres’ phone. (Pet. Attach.
17 C at 23, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court did not address this claim in its opinion.
18 Therefore, this court must conduct an independent review of the record to determine 19 whether Buchanan has satisfied § 2254(d). See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. Buchanan 20 points to a pleading in a motion filed by his defense attorney in a separate federal case, 21 which alludes to a “state wiretap on Ernesto Torres” which had been deemed “not 22 relevant the issues of the federal wiretap.” (Lodgment No. 12, Attach. F, Ex. 15 at 3.)
23 As the Report concluded, even assuming the evidence was suppressed, Buchanan has not 24 shown that it would have been exculpatory, or that he was prejudiced by its suppression.
25 See Strickler, 527 U.S. at 281-82; Benn, 283 F.3d at 1053. His speculation that there 26 might be something in the purported recordings that could be relevant to his case, is 27 insufficient to support his claim. See James, 24 F.3d at 26. The state court’s denial of 28 this claim is neither contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly established

1 Supreme Court law. Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the 2 extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES this 3 claim.

4 j. Cumulative Error

5 Petitioner claims his due process rights were violated by the cumulative effect of 6 all the alleged instances of prosecutorial misconduct. (Pet. Attach. C at 23, ECF No. 40-7 1.) The superior court did not address this allegation in his order denying habeas relief.
8 (See Lodgment No. 11.) Because the Court has determined there is no merit to the 9 prosecutorial misconduct claims Buchanan has alleged, it follows there was no 10 cumulative error. Jackson v. Brown, 513 F.3d 1057, 1085 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting 11 Whelchel v. Washington, 232 F.3d 1197, 1212 (9th Cir. 2000)). Accordingly, the state 12 court's silent denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application 13 of clearly established law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. Petitioner is not entitled to relief
14 for his cumulative error claim. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it 15 reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS the Reports finding and conclusions and DENIES 16 the claim.

17 8. Admission of Gang Expert Testimony (Claim Eight)

18 In his eighth ground for relief, Buchanan argues the trial court improperly 19 permitted gang expert testimony at his trial. (Pet. at 13, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 20 24, ECF No. 40-1.) Petitioner also claims defense counsel was ineffective for failing to 21 object to the testimony. As the Report noted, the last reasoned state court decision to 22 address this claim was that of the California Court of Appeal, in its opinion denying 23 Buchanan's direct appeal. See Ylst, 501 U.S. at 805-06. The state court analyzed 24 Buchanan's claim at length. It is included in the Magistrate Judge's Report and this 25 Court will not repeat it here. (See Report at 57-60.) In sum, the state court concluded 26 that the experts' opinion testimony that Buchanan committed crimes against Torres for 27 the benefit of the Mexican Mafia was based on evidence presented at trial, was 28 admissible. The Court found that neither expert had given testimony that established an

1 element of any crime. Finally, the court concluded that the experts' testimony was not 2 improperly based on "incompetent hearsay." (See Lodgment No. 7 at 11-20.)

3 The Report thoroughly reviewed the expert testimony and found the state court 4 properly concluded that both experts' testimony was probative to both the gang 5 allegations and the substantive crimes charged against Buchanan. (Report at 60-64.)
6 Moreover, the Report concludes that neither witness was permitted to testify to "ultimate 7 facts," but rather they offered their opinions based on their expertise as to whether the 8 crimes had been committed for the benefit of the Mexican Mafia. (Report at 63-64.)
9 Finally, the Report rejects Buchanan's ineffective assistance of counsel claim, 10 concluding he had not shown counsel's failure to object was unreasonable or prejudicial 11 under Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687-89. (Report at 64.) Buchanan does not object to these 12 findings. (See generally, Obj.) Having reviewed the state court's decision and the 13 Report de novo, this Court ADOPTS the Report's findings and conclusions as to this 14 claim in their entirety. The claim is DENIED.

15 9. *Ineffective Assistance of Counsel (Claim Nine)

16 In claim nine, Buchanan raises fifteen instances of ineffective assistance of 17 counsel. The Report properly notes that as to Buchanan's first three sub-claims, the last 18 reasoned state court decision, to which this Court must defer, is the California Court of 19 Appeal's opinion denying Buchanan's claims on direct appeal. See Ylst, 501 U.S. at 805-20 06. As for the remaining sub-claims, the last reasoned decision addressing the remaining 21 claims is that of the superior court's order denying habeas relief. (See Lodgment No.
22 11.) As such, the Court must determine whether the state court's denial was contrary to, 23 or an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 24 412-13. The Court therefore MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews these claims 25 de novo.

26 As discussed in the Report, it is clearly established that to prevail on a claim of 27 ineffective assistance of trial counsel in federal court, Petitioner must first establish that 28 trial counsel's performance fell below an objective standard of reasonableness.

1 Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687 (1984). “This requires a showing that 2 counsel made errors so serious that counsel was not functioning as the ‘counsel’
3 guaranteed the defendant by the Sixth Amendment.” Id. Judicial scrutiny of counsel’s 4 performance must be “highly deferential.” Id. at 689. Second, he must show counsel’s
5 deficient performance prejudiced the defense. Under Strickland, there must be a 6 “reasonable probability that, but for counsel’s unprofessional errors, the result of the 7 proceeding would have been different.” Strickland, 466 U.S. at 694-95. A reasonable 8 probability is a probability “sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome.” Id. at 9 694-95; see also Fretwell v. Lockhart, 506 U.S. 364, 372 (1993).

10 A “doubly” deferential judicial review is appropriate in analyzing ineffective 11 assistance of counsel claims under § 2254. See Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. ___, 131 12 S.Ct. 770, 788 (2011); Premo v. Moore, 562 U.S. ___, 131 S.Ct. 733, 740 (2011) (same).
13 On federal habeas review, “the question is not whether counsel’s actions were 14 reasonable, [but] whether there is any reasonable argument that counsel satisfied 15 Strickland’s deferential standard.” Richter, 131 S.Ct. at 788. The court need not address 16 the performance prong if the claim can be resolved on the ground of lack of sufficient 17 prejudice. Strickland, 466 U.S. at 697.

18 a. Failure to Object to Admission of Wiretapped Phone Conversations

19 Buchanan argues defense counsel should have objected to the admission of 20 wiretapped telephone conversations, or sought to have them redacted, pursuant to 21 California Evidence Code section 352 because they were irrelevant and unduly 22 prejudicial. (Pet. at 14, ECF No. 40.) Buchanan does not make specific objections to 23 the Report’s conclusion as to this claim.

24 The Report reviewed the state court’s opinion denying this claim and concluded 25 that Buchanan was not entitled to relief. (Report at 66-67.) As noted in the Report, a 26 failure to object cannot be deficient performance or prejudicial under Strickland when 27 there is no reasonable likelihood that the objection was meritorious. See, e.g. Sanders, 28 21 F. 3d at 1456 (Strickland does not require that trial counsel make futile objections).

1 In short, because the tapes were clearly relevant to establish the elements of the charges
2 against Buchanan, it was neither deficient performance nor prejudicial for defense 3 counsel to refrain from making a futile objection to their admission. Strickland, 466 U.S.
4 at 689. Accordingly, the state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 5 unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13.
6 This Court ADOPTS the Report’s findings and recommendations, and DENIES the 7 claim.

8 b. Failure to Object to Chavez’s Testimony About Gang Terminology

9 Petitioner claims counsel was ineffective for failing to object to Chavez’s 10 testimony about certain terms used by Brooks and Buchanan. Specifically, he argues 11 counsel should have objected to Chavez’s testimony that “black” referred to heroin and 12 that referring to someone as having a “green light” on them meant that person could be 13 assaulted. Finally, he claims Chavez should have prevented from testifying about 14 whether other guards at Donovan prison were assisting the Mexican Mafia. (Pet. at 14; 15 Lodgment No. 1 at 72-74.)

16 As correctly noted by the Magistrate Judge, the state court concluded that 17 Buchanan’s claim failed because any objection to Chavez’s testimony regarding gang 18 terminology would have been futile and additionally, that there was no undue prejudice 19 as a result of the testimony. (See Lodgment No. 7 at 28-29.) The Report properly 20 concluded that Buchanan has not established prejudice by any failure to object. See 21 Strickland, 466 U.S. at 689. Several other witnesses, including both the prosecution’s 22 gang experts, Torres, and a defense expert testified that “green light” meant the Mexican 23 Mafia had authorized an assault on a person. In addition, Chavez testified that she had 24 no personal knowledge about other guards assisting the Mexican Mafia. (Lodgment No.
25 30, vol. 6 at 520-21.) As such, her testimony was not unduly prejudicial. Buchanan 26 makes no objection to the Report’s discussion of this claim. Having carefully reviewed 27 the Report de novo review, the Court finds the state court’s denial of the claim was 28 nether contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law.

1 See Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. Thus, the Court ADOPTS the Report’s findings and 2 conclusions and DENIES the claim.

3 c. Failure to Object to Chavez’s Testimony About Rape

4 Buchanan argues trial counsel should have objected to Chavez’s testimony about 5 being raped by Torres because it was irrelevant and unduly prejudicial. (Lodgment No.
6 1 at 74-75.) As the Report concluded, the state court properly found that the evidence 7 of Chavez’s rape by Torres (and her delay in reporting it to authorities) was damaging 8 to the credibility of both witnesses. Buchanan offers no specific objections to this 9 conclusion.

10 The Report properly concluded that Buchanan has not shown defense counsel’s 11 performance was deficient or that he was prejudiced as a result. See Richter, 131 S.Ct.
12 at 788; see also Strickland, 466 U.S. at 690. As such, the appellate court did not commit 13 an unreasonable application of clearly established law in denying Petitioner’s claim of 14 ineffective assistance of counsel on these grounds. See 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d); see also 15 Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. The Court ADOPTS the Report in full, and DENIES this 16 claim.

17 d. Failure to Obtain TAC3 Talkgroup Dispatch Tapes

18 Buchanan argues trial counsel was ineffective when he failed to “acquire and/or...
19 use” dispatch recordings (TAC3 talkgroup) related to the stop of his car. (Pet. at 14, 20 Lodgment No. 40, ECF 40; Pet. Attach. C at 30; ECF No. 40-1.) He asserts that, had 21 defense counsel obtained the TAC3 talkgroup recordings and presented them at his 22 motion to suppress hearing, the motion would have been successful.

23 Buchanan raised this in his petition for habeas corpus filed in superior court.
24 (Lodgment No. 13.) In denying the claim, the court found Buchanan failed to “identify 25 the existence of information that impeached the credibility of the detective’s testimony.
26 . . . and he failed to show defense counsel’s examination of the detective fell below 27 objectively reasonable levels, or that [he] was prejudiced.” (Lodgment No. 11 at 21.) 28

1 The Report concluded that Buchanan has not established prejudice because the 2 TAC talkgroup transcripts do not contradict McIvor’s testimony or nullify the probable 3 cause the officers had to stop Buchanan’s car, specifically, their belief that Triste’s life 4 was in danger. (See Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 128-29.) “[I]n order to show prejudice 5 when a suppression issue provides the basis for an ineffectiveness claim, the petitioner 6 must show that he would have prevailed on the suppression motion, and that there is a 7 reasonable probability that the successful motion would have affected the outcome.”
8 Bailey v. Newland, 263 F.3d 1022, 1029 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Kimmelman, 477 U.S.
9 at 375.)

10 In his Objections, Petitioner again argues that if defense counsel had shown that 11 McIvor’s statements at the hearing were false “by impeaching McIvor using the dispatch 12 tape . . . taken together, these may very well have tipped the scale in Petitioner’s favor” 13 and the motion would have been denied. (Obj. at 40-41.) These arguments are simply 14 a rehash of the claims raised in the Petition and addressed in the Report. As discussed 15 above in section V(B)(a) of this Order, although the TAC3 talkgroup transcript does not 16 specifically corroborate all of McIvor’s testimony, it does not establish that McIvor 17 testified falsely. McIvor stated that he relayed the information regarding the threat to 18 Triste and the parolee at large to Nunez via cell phone. This testimony was corroborated 19 by Officer Nunez and Officer Bilstein. And there was ample evidence to support 20 probable cause based on McIvor’s concern for Torres’ safety. Even assuming defense 21 counsel could have pointed to minor inconsistencies between McIvor’s testimony and 22 wiretap recordings of Buchanan’s phone conversations that day (such as his statement 23 that Buchanan ordered Torres to stay where he was, and inconsistency about whether 24 Petitioner called Chavez from inside the house (see Obj. at 39)), the state court 25 reasonably concluded that Buchanan could not establish prejudice, in light of all the 26 other evidence presented at the hearing. Bailey, 263 F.3d at 1029.

27 In his Objections, Buchanan points to the transcript of his Marsden hearing (which 28 was held immediately after the motion to suppress was denied), as support. (Obj. at 23.)

1 There, he argued that defense counsel should be relieved because he was inadequately 2 prepared. Among other things, Buchanan cited defense counsel’s failure to use the 3 dispatch tapes at the hearing to show McIvor was lying. (Lodgment No. 37 at 196-97.)
4 In response, defense counsel stated that he had not gone into the tapes because “the other 5 people and what they said to one another, unless it could be connected to McIvor and 6 somehow it went into his calculus of stopping the car. . . I think it was irrelevant. . . I 7 felt it was just going to frustrate and distract the court in trying to focus on the key issue, 8 which is was there probable cause for McIvor to do the stop.” (Id. at 207.) At the end 9 of the hearing, the following exchange took place:

10 BUCHANAN: Wouldn’t it have been possibly helpful for you to have 11 seen that he lied or was mixed up about his facts?

12 COURT: It could have been, but I’m not sure it would have been 13 shown in this particular hearing. I’m going to deny the 14 motion.

14 (Lodgment No. 27 at 208-09.)

15 Nothing in the Marsden hearing transcript suggests defense counsel’s performance 16 was deficient or that Buchanan was prejudiced as a result. Defense counsel considered 17 the tapes and made a reasonable tactical decision not to use them at the hearing, because 18 they did not directly contradict McIvor’s testimony regarding probable cause. Moreover, 19 as the Report found, even if the tapes had been used, the result of the hearing would not 20 have been different. There was probable cause based on the belief that Triste’s life was 21 in danger. This belief was supported by the wiretap conversations and the observations 22 made by McIvor.¹⁵ (Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 128.) An objectively reasonable stop
25

26 ¹⁵ Among other things, McIvor knew Buchanan was a “Big Homie” in the Mexican Mafia, and 27 that “Triste” had disobeyed a direct order from Buchanan. It was clear Buchanan was angry with Triste.
28 Just before Buchanan went to meet with Chavez, and then Triste, he was heard on the wiretaps yelling at Triste through Chavez’s phone “Well, fuck you, Triste! . . . I’m not fucking around either, punk. . .
. Fucking sleazy, Sleazy ass Bitch.” (Lodgment No. 21, vol. 1 at 116-17.)

1 is not rendered illegal merely because the officer has an improper subjective motivation 2 at the time of the stop.¹⁶ Whren v. United States, 517 U.S. 806, 810 (1996).

3 The state court's denial of this claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable 4 application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13; see also 5 Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. To the extent the Report reviews this claim de novo, it is 6 MODIFIED. In all other respects, Petitioner's Objections are OVERRULED and the 7 Report is ADOPTED.

8 e. Failure to Adequately Investigate the Accuracy of Translations

9 Petitioner argues counsel was ineffective in failing to adequately investigate the 10 accuracy of the translations of the wiretapped phone calls. (Pet. Attach. C at 30-31, ECF 11 No. 40-1.) The superior court reviewed this claim and found that Buchanan had not 12 shown prejudice because the outcome would not have been different had Buchanan's 13 version of the transcribed recordings been presented at trial. (Lodgment No. 11 at 21.)

14 As discussed above in section V(B)(2)(b) of this Order, Buchanan has not shown 15 he was prejudiced by the purportedly inaccurate translations. Therefore, even assuming 16 the revised translations had been presented at trial by defense counsel, Buchanan has not 17 shown that the result of the proceedings would have been different. See Strickland, 466 18 U.S. at 687. As such, the state court's denial of the claim was not contrary to, or an 19 unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13
20 The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claims de novo, 21 OVERRULES Petitioner's Objections and ADOPTS the Report in other respects. The 22 claim is DENIED.

23 f. Failure to Adequately Investigate Records Related to Torres

24 ¹⁶ At the hearing, the judge stated:

25 I have to consider whether or not they had P.C. to stop this car. And let's say that 26 there had been no discussion of pretext, no discussion of a parolee at large, only the 27 discussion that it appeared based on the wire taps that Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Brooks, Mr.
28 Parraz were conspiring to take care of this other guy. This other guy gets in the car.
How could they not have topped the car?

(Lodgment No. 27, vol. 3 at 128.)

1 Buchanan argues trial counsel failed to adequately investigate Torres' prison
2 disciplinary records, mental health records and parole records. (Pet. Attach. C at 30-31, 3 ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court order addressed this claim and concluded that 4 Buchanan failed to "make a prima facie showing that counsel's performance fell below 5 the objectively reasonable levels. . . [and also] failed to make a prima facie showing of 6 prejudice. (Lodgment No. 11 at 22.) As discussed above in section V(B)(4)(a) of this 7 Order, Petitioner has not shown that these records would have been favorable to his 8 defense. He merely speculates that these documents could have contained relevant 9 impeachment evidence. See James, 24 F.3d 26 ("Conclusory allegations which are not 10 supported by a statement of specific facts do not warrant habeas relief.")

11 In addition, he has not shown he was prejudiced by any failure to introduce this 12 evidence. Buchanan argues in his Objections that defense counsel's failure to obtain an 13 updated parole detail record, and all other "information bearing on Torres' credibility .
14 . .including [his] his prison record" was prejudicial because Torres was the prosecution's 15 "star witness." (See Obj. at 43-44.) These arguments are just a rehash of those presented 16 in the Petition and addressed in the Report. As discussed above, Torres was impeached 17 at length with his prior criminal history, his violent behavior and obsession with Chavez, 18 evidence of his mental health issues, and extensive drug use. (See Lodgment No. 32, vol.
19 8 at 762-85; see also Lodgment No. 35, vol. 11 at 1414-17.) As such, even assuming 20 defense counsel presented additional evidence from Torres' parole records and mental 21 health records, Buchanan has not established that the result of the proceeding would 22 have been different. See Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687. Accordingly, the Court 23 MODIFIES the report to the extent it reviews the claims de novo, OVERRULES
24 Petitioner's Objections, ADOPTS the Report's findings and conclusions and DENIES 25 the claim.

1 g. Failure to Make an Adequate Record Regarding Shackles

2 Buchanan argues counsel failed to make a sufficient record that the jury saw 3 Buchanan in shackles while being transported to the courtroom. (Pet. Attach. C at 31, 4 ECF No. 40-1.) There is no reasoned state court decision addressing this claim. As 5 discussed above in sections V(B)(5)(a) and V(B)(6) of this Order, at one point during the 6 trial, Parraz’s attorney informed that court that Buchanan and Parraz believed that they 7 had been seen by a juror while they were shackled and being escorted to court by the 8 bailiff. (Lodgment No. 34, vol. 10 at 1214-15.) The bailiff, however, told the court no 9 jurors had seen the defendants being transported. The judge noted that he would talk to 10 security personnel in an effort to ensure that “something like that doesn’t happen again, 11 if it happened at all.” (Id. at 1215.)

12 As the Report properly concluded, it would be reasonable for an attorney to elect 13 not to have the jurors questioned on the incident, so as to avoid drawing even more 14 attention to the matter. Second, it was not even established that the a juror had actually 15 seen Buchanan in restraints. As such, Buchanan has not shown defense counsel’s 16 performance was deficient, or that he was prejudiced as a result. See Strickland, 466 17 U.S. at 687. The state court’s denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 18 unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The 19 Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in 20 all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

21 h. Failure to Obtain Buchanan’s Gang Validation Packet

22 Buchanan argues trial counsel was ineffective for failing to acquire his original 23 gang validation packet from the California Department of Corrections and 24 Rehabilitation. (Pet. Attach. C at 31, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court denied this 25 claim, concluding that even assuming counsel’s performance was unreasonable, 26 Buchanan had not established prejudice, particularly in light of the numerous wiretapped 27 recordings indicating he was a “Big Homie” in the Mexican Mafia. (Lodgment No. 11 28 at 20.) Buchanan does not raise any specific objection to the Report’s conclusion as to

1 this claim. As the Magistrate Judge noted, Buchanan has not shown how the 2 information would have helped his case. Moreover, it is not unreasonable for trial 3 counsel to elect not to seek out evidence which would seemingly support the allegations 4 that Buchanan was a high ranking member of the Mexican Mafia. Buchanan has not 5 shown defense counsel's performance was deficient, or that he was prejudiced as a 6 result. See Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687. The state court's denial of the claim was neither 7 contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. The Court
8 MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all
9 other respects, and DENIES the claim.

10 i. Failure to Hire Spanish Language Expert

11 Petitioner claims defense counsel was ineffective in failing to have an investigator 12 named Esteban Hernandez review the wiretap translations for accuracy. (Pet. Attach. C 13 at 31-32, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court denied this claim, concluding that 14 Petitioner had not shown prejudice because even if the revised translations had been 15 introduced, it was not reasonably probable that the result would be different. (Lodgment 16 No. 11 at 21.) As discussed above in section V(B)(3)(b) of this Order, Buchanan has not 17 shown the purported inaccuracies affected the outcome of his trial. Even if the revised 18 transcripts had been introduced by defense counsel, there is no reasonable probability 19 that the outcome would have been different. Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687. The state 20 court's denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, 21 clearly established law. See Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the 22 Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and 23 DENIES the claim.

24 j. Failure to Call Methamphetamine Expert

25 Petitioner argues defense counsel was ineffective in failing to call Dr. Matthew 26 Carroll to testify that a person who used methamphetamine as frequently as Torres would 27 probably be "susceptible to paranoia and hallucinations." (Pet. Attach. C at 32, ECF No.
28 40-1.) The superior court concluded that even assuming the Dr. Carroll was willing to 1 testify, Buchanan had not shown prejudice “in light of all the evidence regarding 2 Petitioner’s motive and intent in confronting Torres about Chavez.” (Lodgment No. 11 3 at 20-21.) Buchanan does to raise any specific objection to the Report’s conclusion as 4 to this claim.

5 As the Magistrate Judge noted, defense counsel called another expert, Dr. Greg 6 Michel, to testify about the effect of methamphetamine use on a person’s perception of 7 reality. (Lodgment No. 35, vol. 11 at 1404-11.) He stated that use similar to Torres’
8 could result in paranoia and confusion. (Id. at 1414, 1417.) In light of Dr. Michel’s 9 testimony, Buchanan fails to show that counsel’s performance was deficient performance 10 or that he was prejudiced as a result of not calling Dr. Carroll to testify as to essentially 11 the same thing. See Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687. The state court’s denial of the claim 12 was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See
13 Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews
14 the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

15 k. Failure to Ask Buchanan to Testify

16 Buchanan claims trial counsel was ineffective in failing to ask him to testify in his 17 own defense, specifically that the guns and drugs found in his possession did not belong 18 to him. (Attach. C at 32, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court denied this claim, stating: 19 “Petitioner complains he was not asked if he wanted to testify to present a defense of 20 “justifiable possession” of a pistol and drugs. . . . Petitioner fails to make a prima facie 21 showing that counsel’s performance fell below and objectively reasonable levels. . .
22 [and] Petitioner fails to make a prima facie showing of prejudice.” (Lodgment No. 11 23 at 22.) Buchanan does not raise any specific objection to the Report’s conclusion as to 24 this claim.

25 As the Report properly stated, the decision whether to have a defendant testify is 26 a tactical one, afforded great deference under Strickland. Matylinsky v. Budge, 577 F.3d 27 1083, 1097 (9th Cir. 2009). Had he testified, Buchanan would have been subject to 28 cross-examination during which the jury would hear about his numerous prior

1 convictions. Based on this alone, Petitioner can not establish counsel’s performance was 2 unreasonable or that he was prejudiced as a result. See Richter, 131 S. Ct. at 788; see
3 also Matylinsky, 577 F.3d at 1097 (finding no prejudice in defense counsel’s decision 4 not to call defendant, where the defendant would have been “subjected to damning 5 cross-examination on his prior convictions”). The state court’s denial of the claim was 6 neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law. See
7 Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews
8 the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

9 l. Failure to Introduce Transcripts of Voice Mail Messages

10 Petitioner next argues that defense counsel was ineffective in failing to use 11 wiretaps of voice mail messages Torres left for Chavez in order to impeach Torres at 12 trial. (Pet. Attach. C at 33, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court denied this claim, stating 13 Buchanan failed to establish that defense counsel’s performance was deficient, or that 14 he was prejudiced as a result. (Lodgment No. 11 at 22.) Buchanan does not make any 15 specific objection to the Report’s findings and conclusions as to this claim.

16 As the Report notes, the jury did hear one of the recordings Buchanan references, 17 which was introduced by the prosecution. (Lodgment No. 31, vol. 7 at 705-06.)
18 Buchanan has not shown defense counsel was unreasonable in declining to introduce the 19 other recording, which contained references to Buchanan as “Big Homie” and in which 20 Torres tells Chavez that Buchanan had ordered him to leave Chavez alone. See Richter, 21 131 S. Ct. at 788. The second recording was similar to the first, and Buchanan has not 22 established he was prejudiced by defense counsel’s failure to introduce it. The jury had 23 already heard evidence of Torres’ obsession with Chavez, his threatening behavior 24 toward her, and his general temperament on August 25, 2004. The Report properly 25 concludes that Buchanan has not shown how introduction of the tape would have 26 changed the outcome of the trial. See Strickland, 466 U.S. at 687. The state court’s 27 denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly 28 established law. Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13. The Court MODIFIES the Report to the

1 extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all other respects, and DENIES the 2 claim.

3 m. Failure to Call A Stalking Expert

4 Buchanan claims defense counsel should have called a stalking expert and 5 presented other additional evidence that Torres was mentally unstable. (Pet. Attach. C 6 at 33, ECF No. 40-1.) The superior court denied this claim, concluding Buchanan had 7 failed to establish counsel’s performance was deficient, or that he was prejudiced as a 8 result. (Lodgment No. 11 at 22.) As discussed above in section V(B)(4)(a), Torres was 9 impeached at trial with evidence of his mental instability, his obsessive and violent 10 behavior toward Chavez, his drug use, and other prior bad acts. (See Lodgment No. 32, 11 vol. 8 at 762-85.) Defense counsel’s failure to introduce additional evidence to impeach 12 Torres was neither deficient performance nor prejudicial. Strickland, 466 U.S. at 694.
13 Buchanan is not entitled to relief. Williams, 423 U.S. at 412-13. The Court
14 MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in all 15 other respects, and DENIES the claim.

16 n. Cumulative Effect

17 Finally, Buchanan claims he was deprived his right to effective of assistance of 18 counsel by the cumulative effect of trial counsel’s errors. (Pet. Attach. C at 33-35, ECF 19 No. 40-1.) As the Report concluded, because the Court has determined there is no merit 20 to the ineffective assistance of counsel claims Buchanan has alleged, it follows there was 21 no cumulative error. Jackson, 513 F.3d at 1085 (quoting Whelchel, 232 F.3d at 1212).
22 Accordingly, the state court’s silent denial of the claim was neither contrary to, nor an 23 unreasonable application of clearly established law. See Himes, 336 F.3d at 853. The 24 Court MODIFIES the Report to the extent it reviews the claim de novo, ADOPTS it in 25 all other respects, and DENIES the claim.

26 10. Ineffective Assistance of Appellate Counsel (Claim Ten)

27 Petitioner argues he received ineffective assistance of appellate counsel due to his 28 failure to raise one through seven and eleven in state court. (Pet. at 15, ECF No. 40; Pet.

1 Pet. Attach. C at 36-37, ECF No. 40-1.) The last reasoned state court decision
2 addressing this claim is that of the California Court of Appeal which denied it. The court 3 “adopt[ed] the analysis” of the superior court’s order on the merits of the claims and 4 concluded that Buchanan had not shown prejudice, based on the superior court’s denial 5 of the claims. (Lodgment No. 12 at 2.) Buchanan raises no specific objection to the 6 Report’s findings and conclusions as to this claim.

7 The Report properly stated that it is clearly established that “[t]he proper standard 8 for evaluating [a] claim that appellate counsel was ineffective . . . is that enunciated in 9 Strickland.” Smith v. Robbins, 528 U.S. 259, 285 (2000) (citing Smith v. Murray, 477 10 U.S. 527, 535-36 (1986)). A petitioner must first show that his appellate counsel’s 11 performance fell below an objective standard of reasonableness. Strickland, 466 U.S.
12 at 688. Specifically, Buchanan must show that counsel “unreasonably failed to discover 13 nonfrivolous issues and to file a merits brief raising them.” Smith, 528 U.S. at 285. He 14 must then show he was prejudiced by counsel’s errors. Strickland, 466 U.S. at 694. To 15 establish prejudice, he must demonstrate that he would have prevailed on appeal absent 16 counsel’s errors. Smith, 528 U.S. at 285. Because there is no merit to any of the claims 17 Buchanan argues should have been raised by appellate counsel, as discussed in sections 18 V(B)(1)-(B)(7) and V(B)(11) of this Order, Buchanan has not shown there is a 19 reasonable probability that he would have prevailed on those claims had they been 20 raised. Smith, 428 U.S. at 285. Therefore, the state court’s denial of this claim was 21 neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable application of, clearly established law.
22 Williams, 529 U.S. at 412-13. The Court ADOPTS the findings and conclusions of the 23 Report in full and DENIES the claim.

24 11. Restitution Fine (Claim Eleven)

25 In his final claim, Buchanan argues the trial court improperly imposed a $10,000 26 restitution fine, in violation of this Eighth Amendment and due process rights. (Pet. at 27 16, ECF No. 40; Pet. Attach. C at 39-40.) The San Diego Superior Court denied this 28 claim under state law, concluding Buchanan had not presented a compelling and

1 extraordinary reason for deleting the restitution fine. (Lodgment No. 11 at 22, citing Cal.
2 Penal Code §1202.4(c)). Because this Court has concluded this claim is not procedurally 3 defaulted, the Report is MODIFIED to the extent it reviews the claim de novo.

4 The Report properly notes that to the extent Buchanan’s challenge is based on 5 state law, it is not cognizable. (Report at 84 n. 13 citing Estelle v. McGuire, 502 U.S. 62, 6 67-68 (1991). It goes on to conclude the fine is not “grossly disproportionate” under 7 Eighth Amendment principles. Buchanan does not object to this portion of the Report.
8 (See generally, Obj.) This Court ADOPTS as MODIFIED the Report to the extent it 9 suggests Buchanan’s Eighth Amendment claim is cognizable under federal habeas 10 corpus. The Ninth Circuit has held that federal inmates cannot challenge a restitution 11 order under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 because “restitution” does not affect the duration of a 12 prisoner’s custody. See United States v. Theile, 314 F.3d 399, 400 (9th Cir. 2002) 13 (holding that “[c]laims or other types of relief, such as relief from a restitution order, 14 cannot be brought in a § 2255 motion, whether or not the motion also contains 15 cognizable claims for release from custody”); see also Flores v. Hickman, 533 F.
16 Supp.2d 1068, 1085 (C.D. Cal. 2008) (applying Thiele to petition filed by state prisoner 17 under 28 U.S.C. § 2254). Accordingly, Buchanan is not entitled to relief. The Court 18 ADOPTS the Report as MODIFIED.

19 VI. EVIDENTIARY HEARING REQUEST

20 Buchanan requests an evidentiary hearing, alleging he is entitled to a hearing to 21 resolve his claims. (See Mot. for Evid. Hrg., ECF No. 99; see also Traverse at 33, ECF 22 No. 77.) The Report concluded he was not entitled to a hearing pursuant to Cullen v.
23 Pinholster, 563 U.S. ___, 131 S.Ct. 1388, 1402 (2011). There, the Supreme Court held 24 that where habeas claims have been decided on their merits in state court, a federal 25 court’s review under 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1) – whether the state court determination was 26 contrary to or an unreasonable application of established federal law – must be confined 27 to the record that was before the state court. Pinholster, 131 S.Ct. at 1398. The Court 28 specifically found that the district court should not have held an evidentiary hearing

1 regarding Pinholster’s claims of ineffective assistance of counsel until after the district
2 court determined that the petition survived review under section 2254(d)(1). Id. at 1398;
3 see also Gonzalez v. Wong, 667 F.3d 965, 979 (9th Cir. 2011).

4 In his Objections, Buchanan states that “sufficient factual basis exists in the trial 5 transcripts and other records before the court to resolve the merits of Petitioner’s claims, 6 in Petitioner’s favor. If not, an evidentiary hearing is requested.” (Obj. at 16.)
7 However, under Pinholster, Petitioner can only proceed to develop additional evidence 8 in federal court if § 2254(d) is satisfied, and it has not been here for all the reasons 9 discussed above. Id. at 1402. Therefore, the Court ADOPTS the Report’s findings and 10 conclusions and DENIES Buchanan’s motion for an evidentiary hearing.

11 VII. MOTION TO EXPAND THE RECORD

12 Buchanan has also filed a motion to expand the record pursuant to Rule 7 of the 13 Rules Governing § 2254 cases. (Mot. to Expand Rec., ECF No. 117.) In it he seeks several 14 items, including the complete transcripts from the state court proceedings related to 15 Rodney Brooks’ case, records related to the “alleged threat” on Triste’s life, wiretap 16 evidence supporting McIvor’s testimony regarding the stop, records related to a 17 purported “state wiretap upon Ernesto Torres,” and up to date parole detail record for 18 Torres, surveillance tape of his car arriving at Chavez’s house, Torres’ prison records, 19 phone interviews of Chavez by Detective Gutierrez, and “all declarations previously 20 filed, in pro se . . . and any answers under oath by Petitioner to written interrogatories 21 propounded by the judge, that may be deemed necessary.” (Id. at 3-5.) Many of these 22 requests are also included in Petitioner’s Objections to the Report.

23 The Court has discretion under Rule 7(b) of the habeas rules to order expansion 24 of the record for good cause shown. See Rule 7(b), Rules foll. 28 U.S.C. § 2254; but see 25 Cooper-Smith v. Palmateer, 397 F.3d 1236, 1241 (9th Cir. 2005) (holding that the 26 provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 2244(e)(2) which restrict the ability of the Court to hold 27 evidentiary hearings applies to Rule 7). Under Pinholster, however, the Court is limited 28 to facts presented to the state court. Pinholster, 131 S.Ct. at 1398; see also e.g.,

1 Runnigeagle v. Ryan, 686 F.3d 758, 773-74 (9th Cir. 2012) (concluding that, under 2 Pinholster, petitioner was not entitled to discovery); Peraza v. Campbell, 462 Fed. Appx.
3 700, 701 (9th Cir. 2011) (“In summary, to the extent Peraza seeks to expand the record 4 through discovery and an evidentiary hearing, beyond what was presented to the state 5 court, we conclude that such relief is precluded by Pinholster.”). Because Petitioner has 6 not satisfied § 2254(d) for the reasons discussed above, Buchanan’s request to expand 7 the record is DENIED. See Pinholster, 131 S.Ct. At 1398.

8 VIII.MOTION FOR FACTUAL DETERMINATION AND JUDICIAL NOTICE

9 On April 15, 2013, Petitioner submitted a request to file a motion “Motion for 10 Specific Factual Determination,” in which he explained that he attempted to submit the 11 attached motion on November 14, 2012. When he became concerned that the Court had 12 not received the motion, he made several attempts to get verification from prison 13 officials that he had submitted it for mailing. (Mot. at 3-4, 10, ECF No. 120.) He was 14 unsuccessful in obtaining information from the prison legal mail logs, because the log 15 for that day could not be located. (Id. at 5, 10.) Having reviewed Petitioner’s declaration 16 and supporting documents, the Court finds good cause to GRANT Petitioner’s request 17 that the motion be filed and orders it be dated nunc pro tunc to November 14, 2012, 18 under the mailbox rule. See Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266, 275-76 (1988) (holding a 19 pro se prisoner filing is dated from the date the prisoner delivers it to the prison 20 authorities).

21 In the motion, Buchanan asks the Court to “make specific factual determination, 22 in the interest of justice, of claims raised by Petitioner in grounds one, two, and three” 23 of his Petition. He also asks this Court to take judicial notice of his federal conviction
24 in Case No. 05cr0199 BEN, which he is currently challenging in Case No. 10cv1135 25 BEN. He claims that the same “prosecution team members” were involved in his federal 26 trial and that this Court should make factual findings which could affect the proceedings 27 in that case.

28

1 First, the majority of the allegations presented in Buchanan’s request for “factual 2 determinations” are simply a rehash of arguments already made in Buchanan’s Petition 3 and Objections – namely, the prosecutor presented false testimony about the 4 circumstances of the car stop, the transcripts of wiretap phone conversations were 5 improperly translated, trial counsel was ineffective, and the prosecutor withheld 6 evidence. (See Decl. in Supp. of Motion at 11-14.) All of these allegations were 7 presented in the Petition and have been considered and discussed above.

8 To the extent Petitioner raises factual allegations and arguments in his motion for 9 the first time, the Court need not consider them. See United States v. Howell, 231 F.3d 10 615, 621 (9th Cir. 2000) (A district court may decline to consider new arguments raised 11 for the first time in Objections to the Magistrate Judge’s Report and Recommendation.).
12 Nonetheless, the Court has fully reviewed and considered all the allegations contained 13 in Buchanan’s motion. As discussed above, this must Court defer to a state court’s 14 factual findings and presumes those findings are correct unless a petitioner can rebut that 15 presumption by clear and convincing evidence. See Moses v. Payne, 555 F.3d 742, 746 16 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(1)). For all the reasons discussed above in 17 this Order, Petitioner has failed to rebut the presumption of correctness. The motion for 18 factual determinations is DENIED.

19 Buchanan’s request for judicial notice is granted in part and denied in part. A 20 district court “may take notice of proceedings in other courts, both within and without 21 the federal judicial system, if those proceedings have a direct relation to matters at 22 issue.” See Bias v. Moynihan, 508 F.3d 1212, 1225 (9th Cir. 2007)). However, a court 23 may not take judicial notice of the veracity of any arguments or facts presented in the 24 documents subject to judicial notice. See Wyatt v. Terhune, 315 F.3d 1108, 1114 n. 5 25 (9th Cir. 2003) (factual findings in one case ordinarily are not admissible for their truth 26 in another case through judicial notice). To the extent Buchanan merely seeks for this 27 Court to take judicial notice of the fact that he currently has another petition pending 28 before this Court, stemming from a separate conviction in federal court, his request is

1 GRANTED. To the extent he seeks to have this Court take judicial notice of any 2 arguments contained in documents filed in that case, or any other facts related to that 3 case, his request is DENIED.

4 IX. CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY

5 Under AEDPA, a state prisoner seeking to appeal a district court’s denial of a 6 habeas petition must obtain a certificate of appealability. 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(1)(A).
7 The district court may issue a certificate of appealability if the petitioner has made a 8 substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right.” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). To 9 satisfy this standard, a petitioner must show that “reasonable jurists would find the 10 district court’s assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong.” Slack v.
11 McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484 (2000). In this case, Petitioner has not made a substantial 12 showing of the denial of a constitutional right. Accordingly, the Court sua sponte
13 DENIES a certificate of appealability.

14 X.CONCLUSION

15 For all of the foregoing reasons, the Court OVERRULES Petitioner’s Objections 16 and ADOPTS the Report as MODIFIED, and DENIES the Petition and Petitioner’s 17 motion for an evidentiary hearing. In addition, the Court DENIES Petitioner’s motion 18 to expand the record. The request for leave to file a motion for factual determination and 19 judicial notice is GRANTED and Clerk is directed to file the motion, nunc pro tunc, to 20 November 14, 2012. The request for factual determination is DENIED, and the request 21 for judicial notice is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part. The Court DENIES a 22 certificate of appealability.

23 IT IS SO ORDERED.

25 DATED: May 29, 2013

26
27 HON. GONZALO P. CURIEL
28 United States District Judge
