D.R. HORTON LOS ANGELES HOLDING CO., INC.,	Plaintiff,
v.
AMERICAN SAFETY INDEMNITY CO.,	Defendant.
AMERICAN SAFETY INDEMNITY CO.,	Counterclaimant
v.
D.R. HORTON LOS ANGELES HOLDING CO., INC.,	Counterdefendant

Civil No. 10cv443-WQH (BGS)

ORDER: (1) DENYING AMERICAN SAFETY INDEMNITY COMPANY'S MOTION TO COMPEL DOCUMENTS

[Doc. No. 23]

The matter before the Court is American Safety Indemnity Company's Motion to Compel Further Production of Documents. (Doc. No. 23.)

BACKGROUND

On February 26, 2010, a Complaint filed by Plaintiff D.R. Horton Los Angeles Holding Co., Inc. ("D.R. Horton") was removed from state court by Defendant American Safety Indemnity Co. ("ASIC"). (Doc. No. 1). D.R. Horton alleges that it was engaged in a real estate development project and entered into a subcontractor agreement with Ebensteiner Co. for grading work on the 1 project. Id. at 10. Ebensteiner Co. purchased insurance policies from ASIC and named D.R.

2 Horton as an additional insured and third-party beneficiary of ASIC’s obligations to Ebensteiner 3 Co. Id. at 10-11.

4 D.R. Horton alleges that several complaints and cross-complaints were filed against it 5 and it received several notices to builder which were all insured events covered by the ASIC 6 policies (“the underlying actions”). Id. at 11-12. D.R. Horton alleges that it made a timely 7 claim for benefits under the policies regarding the underlying actions but ASIC breached its duty 8 of good faith and fair dealing by failing to provide D.R. Horton with a defense, withholding or 9 delaying payments, failing to properly investigate D.R. Horton’s claims, and refusing and failing 10 to respond to D.R. Horton’s request for benefits and coverage. Id. at 12. D.R. Horton also alleges 11 that ASIC breached its contractual obligations and seeks declaratory relief “that [ASIC is] 12 obligated to defend and indemnify [D.R. Horton] under said Policies; and, [t]hat [ASIC is] 13 obligated to pay for the cost of [D.R. Horton’s] defense in [the underlying actions] and to pay 14 expenses and other settlement costs in connection with the [the underlying actions].” Id. at 14.

15 ASIC filed a counterclaim seeking a declaratory judgment determining that “there is no 16 potential coverage for Ebensteiner as a Named Insured and/or D.R. Horton as an Additional 17 Insured under [the policies] in connection with claims arising from the Underlying Actions 18 because the requirements for coverage are not satisfied . . . [and] that [one policy] is exhausted 19 relative to the Underlying Actions . . .” (Doc. No. 17 at 14.)

20 DISCUSSION

21 A. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND OF DISCOVERY DISPUTE

22 On July 22, 2010, the Court issued a Case Management Order Regulating Discovery 23 and Other Pretrial Proceedings. (Doc. No. 12.) Pursuant to that order all fact discovery was to be 24 completed no later than March 1, 2011. Id. Four months after the Court held the Case 25 Management Conference—November 23, 2010—ASIC served its Requests for Production of 26 Documents (“RFPs”). (Decl. Blau ISO Mot. to Compel; Doc. No. 23-2 at ¶ 5.) ASIC claims that 27 its RFPs seek what is often referred to as the ‘developer’s job file.’ (Doc. No. 23 at 2.)

28 ///

1 ASIC contends that this discovery is relevant to determining the timing of construction 2 of the underlying project, evaluating D.R. Horton's damages, and determining whether D.R.
3 Horton complied with its duties under the policies. Id. ASIC specifically states that this discovery
4 is "relevant to [D.R. Horton's] insurance coverage claims and ASIC's defenses." Id. Put another 5 way, ASIC's requests seek documents relevant to: (1) D.R. Horton's claim that ASIC owes it a 6 duty to defend in the underlying construction defect actions captioned: Chang O. Kim, et al. v.
7 City of Santa Clarita, D.R. Horton Los Angeles Holding Co., Inc., et al., Los Angeles Superior 8 Court Case No. BC407614, Canyon Gate Maintenance Assoc. v. City of Santa Clarita, et al., Los 9 Angeles Superior Court Case No. BC415663, and Chad Warrick, et al. v. City of Santa Clarita, et 10 al., Los Angeles Superior Court Case No. PC046442; and (2) ASIC's defenses that (a) the original 11 insured's work or resultant damage did not occur within policy periods, (b) the applicable 12 occurrence limit in one policy was exhausted, (c) the Total Prior Work exclusion precluded 13 coverage, or (d) D.R. Horton did not qualify as an additional insured

14 After receiving an extension on the deadline to respond, D.R. Horton served ASIC with 15 responses on January 14, 2011. Id. at ¶ 7. The parties exchanged correspondence in an attempt to 16 meet and confer regarding the adequacy of D.R. Horton's responses and ultimately called the 17 Court to seek assistance in resolving the discovery dispute. Id. at 3-4. On February 17, 2011, 18 D.R. Horton served amended responses to many of ASIC's RFPs. Id. at 5. D.R. Horton also 19 agreed to produce specific documents discussed during the parties' February 11, 2011 meet and 20 confer discussion. (Doc. No. 24 at 2.)

21 In the present motion ASIC contends that D.R. Horton's responses to RFP Nos. 3-8, 10, 22 and 11 remain "inadequate and evasive because [D.R. Horton] has responded by merely 23 identifying a narrow list of specific documents for which it will allow inspection." Id. at 6. ASIC 24 also seeks to compel D.R. Horton to comply with RFP No. 13. Id.

25 D.R. Horton states that it has produced all documents responsive to RFP no. 11. (Doc.
26 No. 24 at 6 (citing Decl. Blau. ISO Mot. Compel; Doc. No. 23-2, Ex. N.) In addition, D.R. Horton 27 argues that it properly responded to all of the RFPs by either raising objections or producing 28 documents. D.R. Horton's primary objection to RFP Nos. 3-8, 10 and 13 is that they seek 1 documents that are irrelevant or are not subject to discovery “because they relate to matters at 2 issue in the pending underlying litigation and may prejudice D.R. Horton’s rights and defenses in 3 that litigation.” (Doc. No. 24 at 3.) D. R. Horton also objects to RFP Nos. 3-8 and 10 because 4 ASIC’s requests are overbroad in that they ask for all documents that relate to the Canyon Gate 5 development. ASIC defined ‘relate to’ as covering:

6 All documents ‘pertaining to directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, 7 referring to, connected with, commenting on, evidencing, impinging, or 8 impacting upon, affecting, responding to, explaining, showing, describing, 9 analyzing, reflecting, or constituting.

10 Id. at 4 (citing Decl. Blau. ISO Mot. Compel, Doc. No. 23-2, Ex. A.) Finally, D.R. Horton argues 11 that it would be unduly burdensome for it to produce all documents responsive to the overbroad 12 requests. Id. at 5. D.R. Horton asserts that it would be incredibly costly to review all of the 13 documents relating to the Canyon Gate development for privilege and homeowner privacy 14 concerns and that the burden would greatly outweigh the potential benefit of the discovery. Id.

15 Notwithstanding its objections, D.R. Horton agreed to produce categories of documents 16 that ASIC specifically requested. The categories include: (1) final building inspection sign-offs 17 for the homes that are the subject of the underlying litigation; (2) an updated homeowner matrix 18 for the underlying actions; (3) the concrete subcontractor files; (4) the daily field logs for D.R.
19 Horton’s on-site employee during Ebensteiner’s work; (5) documents relating to concrete work, 20 including documents for concrete suppliers; (6) documents relating to compacting testing; (7) 21 documents relating to grading; and (8) D.R. Horton’s request for proposal for grading. (Decl.
22 Proctor ISO Opp’n; Doc. No. 24-2 at 7-8.)

23 B. LEGAL STANDARDS

24 1. Duty to Defend

25 At issue in this case and this motion is ASIC’s duty to defend, which is broader than the 26 duty to indemnify. “ ‘[A]n insurer has a duty to defend an insured if it becomes aware of, or if the 27 third party lawsuit pleads, facts giving rise to the potential for coverage under the insuring 28 agreement This duty ... is separate from and broader than the insurer’s duty to indemnify’ ‘ “[F]or an insurer, the existence of a duty to defend turns not upon the ultimate adjudication of

1 coverage under its policy of insurance, but upon those facts known by the insurer at the inception 2 of a third party lawsuit Hence, the duty ‘may exist even where coverage is in doubt and 3 ultimately does not develop.’ ” State Farm Fire & Casualty Co. v. Superior Court, 164 4 Cal.App.4th 317, 323 (2008) (internal citations omitted.). Therefore, if the complaint alleges 5 damages potentially covered by the policy, the insurer is not entitled to decline to defend until it 6 negates all facts suggesting potential coverage. Moreover, “a declaratory judgment of no 7 coverage, either by summary judgment or after trial, does not retroactively relieve the [] insurer of 8 the duty to defend. It only relieves the insurer of the obligation to continue to defend after the 9 declaration.” Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co. v. Superior Court, 23 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1781 10 (1994); see also, Fireman’s Fund Ins. Co. v. Chasson, 207 Cal.App.2d 801, 807 (1962).

11 California law provides for the insured to have its motion for summary adjudication of 12 the insurer’s duty to defend determined shortly after it files an action and even before the insurer 13 engages in discovery. Haskell, Inc. v. Superior Ct., 33 Cal.App.4th 963, 976-78 (1995); See also 14 Sleeping Well, LLC v. Travelers Indem. Co., 2011 WL 996202 *1 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 21, 2011). After 15 an insurer is found to have breached the duty to defend, the insurer would still be entitled to 16 discovery to enable it to address the issue of coverage and indemnity. But if the discovery would 17 prejudice the insured’s defense of the underlying action, a stay of certain discovery sought in the 18 coverage litigation may be necessary until the underlying cases are resolved. Sleeping Well, 2011 19 WL 996202 at *1 (citing Montrose Chem. Corp. v. Superior Ct., 6 Cal.4th 287, 301-02 (1993)).

20 2. Discovery

21 The Federal Rules allow for broad discovery in civil actions: “Parties may obtain 22 discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, that is relevant to the claim or defense of any 23 party. . . . Relevant information need not be admissible at trial if the discovery appears reasonably 24 calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). This 25 provision is liberally construed to provide wide-ranging discovery of information necessary for 26 parties to evaluate and resolve their dispute. Oakes v. Halvorsen Marine Ltd., 179 F.R.D. 281, 283 27 (C.D. Cal. 1995).

28 ///

1 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 34 governs the production and inspection of 2 documents. Fed.R.Civ.P. 34. Pursuant to Rule 34(b)(2), “the response must either state that 3 inspection and related activities will be permitted as requested or state an objection to the request, 4 including the reasons.” Rule 34(b)(2)(C) provides that “[a]n objection to part of a request must 5 specify the part and permit inspection of the rest.

6 Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(2)(C)(iii) requires the Court, on motion or on its own, to limit the 7 frequency or extent of discovery otherwise allowed by the rules if it determines that “the burden or 8 expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit, considering the needs of the case, 9 the amount of controversy, the parties’ resources, the importance of the issues at stake in the 10 action and the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues.”

11 C. ANALYSIS

12 RFP Nos. 3,4,5

13 Each of these requests seek “All documents which relate to or reflect the timing of 14 construction performed in connection with the project. . . .” Doc. No. 24-1 at 2-14. D.R. Horton 15 objected to the requests as being vague and ambiguous with respect to the terms “timing” and 16 “construction,” as well as for seeking documents not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery 17 of admissible evidence—in other words, for being overbroad. Id. Notwithstanding its objections, 18 D.R. Horton produced the contractor file for the “Project for Ebensteiner Co.,” the “building 19 inspection report cards for the homes that are the subject of the underlying litigation, the 20 contractor files for the concrete subcontractors for the foundations of the homes in the underlying
21 actions, as well as the daily field logs for D.R. Horton’s on-site employee during Ebensteiner’s 22 work.” Id. ASIC argues that D.R. Horton did not respond as required by Fed.R.Civ.P. 34(b)(2).

24 The requests as written are inherently overbroad. Notably, the requests do not limit the 25 aspect of the construction, and arguably include requests for information such as subcontractor 26 files for plumbing, electric, flooring, etc.—none of these being at issue in this case. See id. at 5.
27 The Court finds that the requests call for information that does not appear to relate to D.R.
28 Horton’s request for a ASIC to provide a defense in the underlying litigation.

2 In addition, the Court finds that D.R. Horton responded properly. D.R. Horton 3 represents that it produced all relevant and responsive documents relating to what is at issue in this 4 case. The documents it did not produce are those that were objected to for not being relevant. For 5 instance, D.R. Horton produced the building inspection report cards for the homes that are the 6 subject of the underlying litigation, the contractor files for the concrete subcontractors for the 7 foundations of the homes in the underlying actions, as well as the daily field logs for D.R.
8 Horton's on-site employee during Ebensteiner's work. Doc. No. 24-2 at 3. As such, the 9 documents produced appear to contain the information regarding the timing of construction that is 10 relevant to D.R. Horton's claims and ASIC's asserted defenses. Moreover, ASIC did not present 11 the Court with any facts or arguments to indicate that D.R. Horton's production is substantively 12 inadequate.

13 The Court finds that D.R. Horton's response is proper pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 34(b)(2) 14 and that it produced all necessary relevant documents. Accordingly, ASIC's motion to compel 15 further production to RFP Nos. 3-5 is DENIED.

16 RFP Nos. 6 and 7

17 RFP Nos. 6 and 7 seek documents and information: (1) reflecting when construction of 18 the foundations of the homes at the project commenced and (2) that reflect the date that 19 construction of tangible property commenced for each home at the project. Doc. No. 24-1 at 14-20 19. In its request, ASIC defined "the project" in accordance with how D.R. Horton referred to 21 "the project" in its Complaint. (Decl. Blau ISO Mot. to Compel; Doc. No. 23-3, Ex. A.) The 22 Complaint refers to "the project" as the entire real estate development project located in the City
23 of Santa Clarita. (Pl.'s Compl.; Doc. No. 1 at 10.)

24 D.R. Horton objected to the requests as being vague and ambiguous with respect to the 25 terms "construction," "foundation," "tangible property," and "commenced." Id. at 15, 19. D.R.
26 Horton also objected because the request was not reasonably tailored to lead to the discovery of 27 admissible evidence—put simply, the requests are overbroad. Id. D.R. Horton explains that as 28 written, the request would require production of sales information and subcontractor files for

1 subcontractors not at issue in the cases. Notwithstanding these objections, D.R. Horton produced 2 files and information relevant to the scope of this litigation—“contractor files for concrete 3 subcontractors for the foundations of the homes in the underlying actions, and the daily field logs 4 for D.R. Horton’s on-site employee during Ebensteiner’s work.” Doc. No. 24-1 at 15. These were 5 the specific subcontractor files that ASIC told D.R. Horton it wanted. (Decl. Proctor, Doc. No.
6 24-2 at 6-7.) Moreover, ASIC has not expressed to either D.R. Horton or the Court what other 7 documents it wants or how the additional documents would be relevant to this case. See Doc. No.
8 24-1 at 15-20.

9 Lastly, D.R. Horton argues that the timing of construction and when damages occurred 10 are at issue in the underlying litigation, and therefore discovery into those areas is not proper 11 under the standard set forth in Haskell. See Haskell, 33 Cal.App.4th at 978. ASIC did not 12 respond to this basis for D.R. Horton’s objection.

13 Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(2)(C)(iii) requires the Court to limit the extent of discovery “if the 14 burden or expense of the proposed discovery outweighs its likely benefit, considering the needs of 15 the case. . .and the importance of the discovery in resolving the issues.” Because it appears that 16 D.R. Horton produced all files relevant to this coverage litigation and ASIC has not explained 17 what other documents and information it is looking for, after balancing the burden and expense of 18 the additional discovery against what is at issue in this case, the Court finds that D.R. Horton 19 adequately responded to RFP Nos. 6 and 7.

20 For all of the reasons stated, ASIC’s motion to compel further production to RFP Nos. 6 21 and 7 is DENIED.

22 RFP No. 8

23 ASIC’s request seeks: “All documents which relate to the date that each subcontractor 24 utilized by you in connection with the project first performed work in connection with the 25 project.” Doc. No. 24-1 at 23. Notwithstanding an objection that the request is overbroad, as well 26 as vague and ambiguous with respect to the terms “utilized” and “work,” D.R. Horton produced its 27 “contractor file(s) for the Project for Ebensteiner Co.” Id. D. R. Horton also produced “the 28 building inspection report cards for the homes that are the subject of the underlying litigation, the

1 contractor files for the concrete subcontractors for the foundations of the homes in the underlying
2 actions as well as the daily field logs for D.R. Horton’s on-site employee during Ebensteiner’s 3 work.” Doc. No. 24-2 at 8.

4 In this litigation D.R. Horton argues that ASIC is obligated to defend it in the 5 underlying construction lawsuits because Ebensteiner Co. listed D.R. Horton as an additional 6 insured on the relevant policies. Thus, it appears that Ebensteiner Co.—the named insured—is the 7 only relevant subcontractor with respect to ASIC’s duty to defend D.R. Horton. Requests for 8 documents relating to other subcontractors are not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery 9 of admissible evidence. ASIC has not presented any facts or argument to indicate that D.R.
10 Horton did not produce documents that are relevant to the issues in this litigation. In addition, 11 D.R. Horton agreed to produce every specific category of documents ASIC identified during the 12 meet and confer process. (Decl. Proctor, Doc. NO. 24-2 at 6-8.) Accordingly, D.R. Horton 13 produced what is relevant and responsive, therefore, ASIC’s motion to compel further production 14 to RFP No. 8 is DENIED.

15 RFP No. 10

16 RFP No. 10 seeks: “All documents which reflect the date that construction of each 17 home at issue in the underlying actions was completed.” Doc. No. 24-1 at 27.

18 D.R. Horton produced or made available for inspection the notices of completion and 19 grant deeds for the homes at issue, the building inspection report cards for each home, as well as 20 documents produced by those homeowners in the underlying litigation. Id. at 28. ASIC argues 21 that D.R. Horton has “outright refused” to comply with the request, however, it appears that D.R.
22 Horton responded more than adequately by producing documents and information that establish 23 the dates of completion. Id. ASIC has not offered any facts or argument to indicate that the 24 documents produced do not contain information reflecting the date that construction of each home 25 at issue was completed. Therefore, the Court has no basis to believe that D.R. Horton’s 26 production is in anyway inadequate.

27 For the foregoing reasons, ASIC’s motion to compel further production to RFP No. 10 28 is DENIED.

2 RFP No. 11

3 Request No. 11 seeks: “All documents which relate to or reflect the timing of 4 construction performed in connection with the project after the final tract map was approved.”
5 Doc. No. 24-1 at 6.

6 D.R. Horton responded to the request by producing all responsive non-privileged 7 documents in its custody, possession, or control. Doc. No. 24-1 at 31. ASIC does not offer the 8 Court any information to indicate that D.R. Horton did not fully comply with the request. D.R.
9 Horton’s amended response specifically states that it “has complied with this request. . . .” Doc.
10 No. 24-1 at 31. Thus, ASIC’s motion to compel further production to RFP No. 11 is DENIED.

11 RFP No. 13

12 ASIC’s request seeks: “All documents which relate to your tender of the underlying 13 actions to any insurer(s).” (Doc. No. 24-1 at 33.) D.R. Horton served its objection to the request, 14 stating that it is not properly within the scope of discovery because it is not reasonably calculated 15 to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Id. D.R. Horton points out, correctly, that 16 ASIC’s duty to defend is independent of any defense duty any other insurer might have. Id.; see 17 also Hartford Accident & Indem. Co. v. Superior Ct., 29 Cal. App.4th 435, 441 (1994) (“[E]ach 18 insurer’s defense and indemnification liabilities, if any, are several and depend on the terms and 19 conditions of the policy of each, neither being liable for the policy obligations owed by the other.”
20 (emphasis in original)). Regardless of whether D.R. Horton tendered letters to other carriers, 21 ASIC’s duty to defend is based on whether the facts stated in the underlying complaints, or 22 otherwise known by the insurer at the time the claim was tendered for defense, suggest a claim 23 potentially covered by the policy. In support of its motion to compel production, ASIC argues that 24 relevance is an improper objection and that the identification of other insurance which may apply 25 to the underlying actions is relevant and discoverable. Id. ASIC, however, does not explain how 26 the identification of other insurance is relevant at this stage in the case or would be relevant absent 27 a claim for contribution.

28 D.R. Horton also objects to the request because it seeks communications protected by

1 the attorney-client privilege. Id. D.R. Horton refers the Court to State Farm Fire & Casualty Co.
2 v. Superior Ct., 216 Cal. App. 3d 1222, 1227 (1989), which states that “[w]here statements are 3 given [to] the insurance adjuster for the purpose of defending against the liability claims, they are 4 protected from third party discovery by the attorney-client privilege.” (citing Soltani-Rastegar v.
5 Superior Court, 208 Cal.App.3d 424, 425 (1989)). ASIC has not provided the Court with any 6 basis to find that D.R. Horton’s communications with other insurance adjusters is not protected by 7 the attorney-client privilege. Accordingly, the motion to compel with respect to RFP No. 13 is 8 DENIED without prejudice.

9 CONCLUSION

10 For all of the reasons stated above, the Court denies ASIC’s motion to compel.
