

1 removed the action to this Court.

2 On May 24, 2012, the Court granted in part a motion filed by MSSB to compel 3 arbitration of Simmons' claims. (ECF No. 37). The Court stayed the case and 4 compelled arbitration as to the non-statutory claims, and declined to compel arbitration 5 of the claims for discrimination in violation of Title VII and FEHA.

6 On March 5, 2013, MSSB filed the Motion for Summary Judgment, accompanied 7 by declarations and exhibits. (ECF No. 65, 76). MSSB moves for summary judgment 8 on Simmons' remaining Title VII and FEHA claims. MSSB contends that the 9 undisputed facts show Simmons was terminated for repeatedly demonstrating "poor 10 judgment" and for undermining "the inclusive working environment MSSB expected 11 him to foster, despite repeated counseling." (ECF No. 65-1 at 7).

12 On April 29, 2013, Simmons filed an opposition to the Motion for Summary 13 Judgment (ECF No. 78), along with declarations and exhibits. (ECF Nos. 78, 79, 82-1, 14 84).<sup>1</sup> Simmons contends that he has come forth with evidence creating a genuine issue 15 of material fact as to whether the instances of "poor judgment" raised by MSSB are 16 merely pretext for religious discrimination.

17 On May 9, 2013, MSSB filed a reply. (ECF No. 90).<sup>2</sup>

18 On July 12, 2013, the Court held oral argument. (ECF Nos. 96, 98).<sup>3</sup>

22
23 <sup>1</sup>On April 30, 2013, Simmons filed a Motion for Leave to File Under Seal certain 24 portions of the exhibits filed on April 29, 2013. (ECF No. 81). On May 6, 2013, MSSB filed a non-opposition. (ECF No. 89). Accordingly, the Motion to File Under Seal (ECF No. 81) is hereby GRANTED.

25 <sup>2</sup>MSSB also filed evidentiary objections pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil 26 Procedure 26(a)(2)(A)(i) and 37(c)(1). (ECF No. 90-2). On May 10, 2013, Simmons filed a response to the objections. (ECF No. 91).

27 <sup>3</sup>On July 12, 2013, after oral argument, Simmons filed a supplemental declaration 28 with additional evidence. (ECF No. 97). On July 24, 2013, MSSB filed a response to Simmons' newly submitted evidence, along with additional evidence of its own. (ECF
No. 99).

1 BACKGROUND FACTS

2 Simmons is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 3 commonly known as the Mormon Church, and a twenty-six year veteran in the finance 4 industry. (Simmons Decl. ¶¶ 1, 4-5; ECF No. 78-4 at 1). In late 2007, Simmons left 5 his position with Merrill Lynch in Washington, D.C. to become District Manager of 6 Morgan Stanley’s Southern California Region.<sup>4</sup> Id. ¶ 6.

7 I. Morgan Stanley Smith Barney, LLC

8 On June 1, 2009, Morgan Stanley’s Global Wealth Management Group joined 9 forces with Citigroup’s Smith Barney Division, creating the retail brokerage firm 10 MSSB. (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 2, ECF No. 76 at 277). “MSSB branch offices are managed 11 by Branch Managers.... Branch Managers are overseen by Complex Managers....
12 Complex Managers report to Regional Directors.... Each Regional Director reports to 13 a Division Director.” Id. “An individual holding the functional Regional Director title 14 can also hold the corporate title of Executive Director of Managing Director.... To be 15 elevated from Executive Director to Managing Director, the [Regional Director] must 16 be nominated by his or her Divisional Director....” (Id. ¶ 6; see also Saperstein Dep. at 17 175-76, ECF No. 84 at 15-16).

18 II. Mid-2009: Simmons interviewed for Regional Director position

19 In mid-2009, Doug Kentfield (“Kentfield”) became the Divisional Director for 20 MSSB’s Western Division – and Simmons’ immediate supervisor. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 21 9-10, ECF No. 78-4 at 2. Shortly thereafter, Kentfield asked Simmons if he was 22 interested in a Regional Director (“RD”) position with MSSB. (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 4, 23 ECF No. 65-3 at 2). Simmons expressed interest and Kentfield interviewed him. Id.
24 Simmons testified in his deposition that the following occurred during his interview:
25 Kentfield asked him, ““how many children do you have?,”” and Simmons told him 26 ““six””; Kentfield responded: ““Six kids. Oh, my God. Are you Mormon or Catholic?””;

27
28 <sup>4</sup>The “District Manager” position for which Simmons was hired “was a precursor to the Regional Director position in the current organizational structure.” (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 5, ECF No. 27 at 278).

1 upon telling Kentfield he is Mormon, “the topic changed” and “so did [Kentfield’s]
2 demeanor.... [T]he temperament or the mood chang[ed] ... from conversational 3 questions and dialogue to fairly terse, fairly rapid, and the interview didn’t go a lot – 4 much longer.” (Simmons Dep. at 65-67, ECF No. 84 at 25-28).

5 Kentfield interviewed several other managers for the position, ultimately 6 selecting Bill Lee, from Smith Barney. (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 4, ECF No. 65-3 at 2; 7 Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 5, ECF No. 76 at 278). Although Kentfield had input in the process, 8 a group of senior executives in New York made the final hiring decisions for RD 9 positions. (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 4, ECF No. 65-3 at 2).

10 III. June 2009: Simmons reassigned as Divisional Business Development Officer

11 In June 2009, the same group of MSSB executives in New York that reassigned 12 Bill Lee as an RD offered Simmons a position as Divisional Business Development 13 Officer (“DBDO”). Id. Simmons was told by Kentfield and Rick Skae, also a 14 Divisional Director, that this was a lateral move and would not affect his compensation 15 or benefits. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 11, ECF No. 78-4 at 2). Simmons accepted the DBDO 16 position. Id.

17 Simmons testified in his deposition that, during his time as DBDO, Kentfield 18 made “derogatory statements” about his religion “on several occasions.” (Simmons 19 Dep. at 69, ECF No. 84 at 28). As a Mormon, Simmons does not drink alcohol.
20 (Simmons Decl. ¶ 2, ECF No. 78-4 at 1). Simmons testified that, during the summer 21 of 2009, the following incident took place at a New York hotel in the presence of other 22 MSSB executives:

23 [T]here were drinks before dinner, there was dinner. We returned to the 24 hotel lobby, and [Kentfield] said, come on. Let’s all go have drinks.

25 And I said – I said to him, hey, Doug. I’m going to run upstairs to call my 26 wife and kids, and that’s when he made the comment[:]... ‘Well, God 27 knows there’s enough of them. And plus you don’t drink anyway.’...

28 You would have to be a Mormon and be asked how many wives you had to understand what a sensitive topic that would be.

(Simmons Dep. at 71-72, ECF No. 84 at 28). Simmons testified that he told Rick Skae

1 about the comment, and that Skae responded: “That’s messed up.” Id. at 76. Simmons 2 testified: “That type of scenario of an uncomfortable parting at night repeated itself over 3 again every time we got together as a group. It was a common type of feeling.” Id.
4 Simmons testified that, when he “would be ... separating from the group,” others in the 5 presence of Kentfield would joke “about not drinking[,] how many wives[,] hah, hah, 6 hah,” and that “the talk, the banter, the jokes were not cut off by [Kentfield].” Id. at 89.
7 Simmons testified that he “would explain to people ... how offensive that is to me,” and 8 that the jokes nevertheless “intensified.” Id. at 93.

9 IV. December 2009: Simmons reassigned as Executive RD

10 Simmons stated in his declaration that he was informed by “Rick Skae and 11 another high level management executive” in December 2009 that he had been 12 reassigned to Executive RD following a “meeting and decision by MSSB Management, 13 including Andy Saperstein, ... Kentfield, Rick Skae, Bill McMahon, and Charlie 14 Johnston.” (Simmons Decl. ¶ 14, ECF No. 78-4 at 3). Kentfield stated in his 15 declaration: “I made the decision to promote Mr. Simmons to [RD] ... [while I] was 16 aware that Mr. Simmons is Mormon.” (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 6, ECF No. 65-3 at 3).
17 Simmons’ compensation remained the same, and he reported directly to Kentfield. (Id.
18 ¶ 16; Simmons Decl. ¶ 14, ECF No. 78-4 at 3).

19 As an Executive RD, Simmons’ compensation “consisted of a salary, which was 20 paid monthly, and an annual bonus based on performance. The other nineteen Regional 21 Directors were compensated in the same way.” (Simmons Decl. ¶ 45, ECF No. 78-4 22 at 7). The base salary for Managing RDs is roughly double the base salary of Executive 23 RDs. (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 7, ECF No. 76 at 279). “To be elevated from Executive 24 Director to Managing Director, the RD must be nominated by his or her Divisional 25 Director....” (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 6, ECF No. 76 at 277). Saperstein made the “ultimate 26 decision” with respect to the performance bonuses. (Id. ¶ 8; Undisputed Fact (“UF”) 27 No. 95).

28 Simmons stated in his declaration that Kentfield continued to make “many 1 discriminatory comments about [his] religion” after he was reassigned as Executive RD.

2 (Simmons Decl. ¶ 17, ECF No. 78-4 at 3). Simmons stated that “[t]he frequency and 3 intensity of these comments increased over time and the majority and harshest 4 comments came after my reassignment to the Regional Director position.” Id.

5 V. February and March 2010: Complaints regarding Simmons’ comments

6 In March 2010, Simmons gave a presentation on “individual greatness,” in which 7 he referenced numerous historical, sports and religious figures, including Mormon 8 prophet David O. McKay. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 30, ECF No. 78-4 at 5). Susan Dixon, 9 another MSSB employee, testified in her deposition that she complained about 10 Simmons’ reference to McKay and that she resigned in part because of the presentation.
11 (Id. ¶ 31; Dixon Dep. at 29-30, 34-36, ECF No. 76 at 10-14).

12 In April 2010, Kentfield and Beth Fehmel, a MSSB human resources manager, 13 counseled Simmons and instructed him to limit the sports, historical, and religious 14 references in his speeches. (Simmons Dep. at 155-56, ECF No. 76 at 132-33). Simmons 15 testified in his deposition that Kentfield told him, without Fehmel present, that “[y]ou 16 can never fucking talk about your fucking religion again at this firm because everybody 17 hates your fucking religion.” (Id. at 161-64; Simmons Decl. ¶ 17, ECF No. 78-4 at 3).
18 Simmons testified that the incident is “seared into my memory.” Id. In his deposition, 19 Kentfield denied making those remarks. (Kentfield Dep. at 46, ECF No. 76 at 37).
20 Simmons received no written reprimand regarding this matter. (Simmons Dep. at 164, 21 ECF No. 76 at 138).

22 VI. Summer 2010: Comments regarding Simmons’ religion

23 Simmons testified in his deposition that, at a dinner with 20-30 MSSB employees 24 during summer of 2010, Jim Tracy, a MSSB executive and “good friend” of 25 Kentfield’s, made the following remarks upon learning that Simmons was Mormon: 26 “[W]hat a disaster. My father-in-law is a Mormon. It’s a disaster. Does Doug 27 [Kentfield] know you’re a Mormon?” (Id. at 95-97, ECF No. 84 at 39-40). Simmons 28 testified that when he “said yes,” Tracy responded: “[W]ell, I’ll bet he didn’t when he

1 hired you.” Id. at 97.

2 VII. August 2010: Ferrante/Wilson matter

3 In August 2010, Kentfield told Simmons about an ongoing human resources 4 investigation into Michael Ferrante and Scott Wilson — MSSB employees and friends 5 of Simmons. (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 10, ECF No. 65-3 at 3). Ferrante was suspected of 6 having a sexual relationship with a subordinate female employee and sending sexually 7 suggestive e-mails about the relationship to Wilson. (Id. ¶ 10; Simmons Dep. at 173-74, 8 ECF No. 76 at 146-47). Simmons requested, and was permitted, to sit in on Wilson’s 9 human resources interview. Id. at 179. At the conclusion of the investigation, Kentfield 10 told Simmons that Ferrante and Wilson had to go. Id. at 194-96. Simmons disagreed 11 at first, but ultimately agreed to fire them. Id. Simmons cried while telling Ferrante and 12 Wilson they were fired, and told Ferrante shortly afterwards to “keep your chin up.”
13 Id. at 200-01.

14 In September 2010, Kentfield counseled Simmons about his “poor judgment” in 15 his handling of the Ferrante and Wilson matter. (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 12, ECF No. 65-3 16 at 4). Kentfield criticized Simmons for “being soft” with Ferrante and for sitting in on 17 Wilson’s human resources interview. (Simmons Dep. at 213, ECF No. 76 at 166).
18 Kentfield felt Simmons has “exposed the firm to risk.” (Id.; Kentfield Decl. ¶ 11, ECF 19 No. 65-3 at 4). Simmons received no written reprimand. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 33, ECF 20 No. 78-4 at 6).

21 VIII. 2010 mid-year performance review

22 In August 2010, Kentfield drafted a mid-year review of Simmons’ performance 23 as Executive RD, concluding that he “sometimes meets expectations.” (Def. Ex. A, 24 ECF No. 65-3 at 13). Kentfield’s comments stated in part:

25 John is results oriented and has maintained a strong focus on achieving 26 key firm objectives. John works hard to effectively motivate his employees challenging them to achieve and surpass their stated goals....

27 John continues to demonstrate challenges regarding his judgment in both 28 business and personnel matters.... When problems have been identified, John has worked to effectively address individual performance issues....

1 Id. at 12-13. Kentfield discussed the review with Simmons, but Simmons did not 2 receive a copy. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 36, ECF No. 78-4 at 6).

3 IX. September 2010: Decision not to promote Simmons

4 On September 14, 2010, Fehmel sent an e-mail to Ritzcovan which stated: “Dana, 5 Doug [Kentfield] verified that he will NOT be looking to promote John Simmons to 6 MD - shocker.” (Pl. Ex. 16, ECF No. 97 at 5).

7 X. 2010 year-end performance review

8 In January 2011, Kentfield drafted Simmons’ 2010 year-end review, concluding 9 that Simmons “meets expectations.” (Def. Ex. B, ECF No. 65-3 at 17). Kentfield’s 10 comments stated in part:

11 John is strongly results oriented. He is very focused on achieving the 12 goals established for his region and demonstrates the competitive drive to 13 outperform his peers. John has worked to build a strong management team 14 and a culture focused on both performance and teamwork....

15 John and I have had several meetings to address specific developmental 16 issues over the course of the year. While John may not always agree, he 17 has worked diligently to address my issues of concern. John has a strong 18 competitive drive, the experience and skill set to be a very effective 19 Regional Director. I’m concerned about the lapses of judgment John 20 occasionally demonstrates and will be working closely with him to help 21 him improve his decision making process going forward.

22 Id. at 15-16. Kentfield discussed the review with Simmons, but Simmons did not 23 receive a copy. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 36, ECF No. 78-4 at 6). During the meeting, 24 Kentfield commented positively on Simmons’ job performance, and noted that the 25 overall review would have been better had it not been for the Ferrante/Wilson and 26 Dixon matters. (Simmons Dep. at 243-44, ECF No. 76 at 175-76).

27 XI. Early 2011: Las Vegas branch office meeting

28 In late 2010 or early 2011, Jeff Branch, a Complex Manager for MSSB, told Simmons that he wanted to hold a meeting over dinner with a group of financial advisors reporting to Doug Ireland, MSSB’s Las Vegas Branch Manager. (Simmons Dep. at 331-33, ECF No. 76 at 200-202). Branch told Simmons that he did not want to invite Ireland to the meeting. Id. at 330-31. Simmons testified in his deposition that he had reservations about excluding Ireland, told Branch to inform Ireland, and otherwise

1 approved the meeting. Id. at 332. Branch did not inform Ireland. (Id.; Kentfield Decl.
2 ¶ 13). After learning of the meeting, Ireland complained to Kentfield that the meeting 3 had undermined his ability to manage the Las Vegas branch. Id. ¶¶ 13-14. As a result, 4 Ireland was reassigned elsewhere. Id. ¶ 14.

5 On February 16, 2011, Kentfield told Simmons that he showed “poor judgment” 6 in approving the dinner, and that he was to blame for Ireland leaving Las Vegas. Id.
7 Simmons received no written reprimand.

8 XII. February 2011: Simmons sets meeting for Greg Fleming and new recruits

9 In February 2011, Simmons arranged for Greg Fleming, President of MSSB, to 10 meet with several high level recruits in New York. (Simmons Dec. ¶¶ 38-39, ECF No.
11 78-4 at 6-7; Simmons Dep. at 361-63, ECF No. 76 at 208-10). After setting the meeting, 12 Simmons arranged background checks for the recruits. Id. at 362-63. The recruits 13 ultimately met Fleming in New York “with Kentfield’s approval.” (Simmons Dec. ¶ 14 41, ECF No. 78-4 at 7). Kentfield believed Simmons exercised “poor judgment” by 15 setting up such a meeting without first having completed the background checks.
16 (Kentfield Decl. ¶ 16, ECF No. 65-3 at 5). Simmons received no written reprimand.

17 XIII. January-February 2011: Simmons complains to Kentfield and Saperstein 18 about compensation

19 “As of year-end 2010, five RDs reported to Doug Kentfield in the Western 20 Division,” including Simmons. (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 10, ECF No. 76 at 279). For the 21 year 2010, Simmons received the highest bonus ($680,000) of the five RDs reporting 22 to Kentfield, but the lowest salary. Id. The other four, who were Managing RDs and 23 who Ritzcovan stated had more experience than Simmons, earned a salary of over 24 double Simmons’ salary. (Id.; ECF No. 82-1 at 12-17).

25 [Simmons] expect[ed] [his] performance bonus for year 2010 to be paid 26 in January 2011. [Simmons] was informed by Kentfield in or about 27 January 2011 that although [his] bonus amount increased from $630,000 28 to $680,000 based on [his] superior performance, that unfortunately a large portion of the payment of those monies would be deferred, and would be paid in increments over the next year and into 2012.

(Simmons Decl. ¶ 47, ECF No. 78-4 at 7).

1 In February 2011, Simmons complained to Kentfield and Saperstein that he was 2 the only RD without the title of Managing RD. (Simmons Decl. at 325-26, ECF No.
3 194-95). In his declaration, Simmons stated that when he asked Kentfield about being 4 promoted to Managing RD, Kentfield responded, “No.” Id. at 326. On February 13, 5 2011, Saperstein sent Simmons an e-mail which stated in part: “Support for the MD 6 must come from your DD[, i.e. Kentfield].... You were not put up for nomination this 7 year.” (Pl. Ex. 15, ECF No. 82-1 at 89).

8 XIV. March 2011: MSSB terminates Simmons’ employment

9 In March 2011, “shortly after complaining to ... Kentfield and Andy Saperstein 10 about [his] disparate salary,” Simmons’ employment was terminated by Kentfield “with 11 the concurrence” of Saperstein, Fleming and human resource managers Dana Ritzcovan 12 and Rob Hampton. (Simmons Decl. ¶ 44, ECF No. 78-4 at 7; UF Nos. 84, 229).
13 Kentfield told Simmons that he had lost confidence in Simmons’ judgment. (UF No.
14 86). “Simmons has no reason to believe that Saperstein has any animus toward him
15 based on his religion, and neither Hampton nor Ritzcovan have ever said or done 16 anything indicating to Simmons that they have any ill-will towards Mormons.” (UF No.
17 85). Kentfield stated: “I understand that based on offering the severance package to Mr.
18 Simmons, that we coded [his termination] as ‘not for cause.’” (Kentfield Dep. at 32, 19 ECF No. 79 at 31; see also ECF No. 79-2 at 35-39 (“Form U5 Uniform Termination 20 Notice for Securities Industries Registration” re: Simmons’ termination, dated June 8, 21 2011)).

22 Simmons stated in his declaration that he “never received any written warning, 23 written reprimand, or written discipline while employed at MSSB regarding any job 24 performance issues.” (Simmons Decl. ¶¶ 18-19, ECF No. 78-4 at 3). During his 25 employment at MSSB, Simmons and his management team “interfaced often with the 26 MSSB Human Resources department regarding employee discipline issues.
27 [Simmons’] experience was such that MSSB had a firmly entrenched progressive 28 discipline process that provided for progressively more severe sanctions.” Id. ¶ 21.

1 Simmons' management team had "serious issues with employees that management 2 wanted to terminate but we were prohibited from doing so by HR because they required 3 us to follow steps in progressive discipline." Id. ¶ 22.

4 STANDARD OF REVIEW

5 Summary judgment is proper when the "pleadings, depositions, answers to 6 interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that 7 there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to 8 judgment as a matter of law." Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). An issue of fact is "genuine" only 9 if there is sufficient evidence for a reasonable fact finder to find for the non-moving 10 party. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248-49 (1986). A fact is 11 "material" if it may affect the outcome of the case. See id. at 248. The party moving 12 for summary judgment bears the initial burden of identifying those portions of the 13 pleadings, discovery, and affidavits that demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of 14 material fact. See Celotex Corp. v. Cattrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Once the 15 moving party meets its initial burden, the non-moving party must go beyond the 16 pleadings and, by its own evidence, "set out specific facts showing a genuine issue for 17 trial" Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e). In order to make this showing, the non-moving party must 18 "identify with reasonable particularity the evidence that precludes summary judgment." 19 Keenan v. Allan, 91 F.3d 1275, 1279 (9th Cir. 1996). "In considering a motion for 20 summary judgment, the court may not weigh the evidence or make credibility 21 determinations, and is required to draw all inferences in a light most favorable to the 22 non-moving party." Freeman v. Arpaio, 125 F.3d 732, 735 (9th Cir. 1997).

23 DISCUSSION

24 Under Title VII and FEHA,<sup>5</sup> it is unlawful for an employer or employer's agent 25 "to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with 26 respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because 27

28 <sup>5</sup>"California law under the FEHA mirrors federal law under Title VII...." Godwin v. Hunt Wesson, Inc., 150 F.3d 1217, 1219 (9th Cir. 1998).

1 of such individual’s race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.” 42 U.S.C. § 2 2000e–2(a)(1). “In responding to a summary judgment motion in a Title VII disparate 3 treatment case, a plaintiff may produce direct or circumstantial evidence demonstrating 4 that a discriminatory reason more likely than not motivated the defendant’s decision, 5 or alternatively may establish a prima facie case under the burden-shifting framework 6 set forth in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792 (1973).” 7 Dominguez-Curry v. Nev. Transp. Dep’t, 424 F.3d 1027, 1037 (9th Cir. 2005).

8 I. McDonnell Douglas

9 In this case, Simmons relies on the McDonnell Douglas analysis. “Under 10 McDonnell Douglas, a plaintiff alleging disparate treatment under Title VII must first 11 establish a prima facie case of discrimination.” Nicholson v. Hyannis Air Serv., Inc., 12 580 F.3d 1116, 1123 (9th Cir. 2009) (quotation omitted). “If the plaintiff establishes 13 a prima facie case, the burden of production shifts to the employer to articulate a 14 legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the employment decision. ... If the employer 15 offers a nondiscriminatory reason, the burden returns to the plaintiff to show that the 16 articulated reason is a pretext for discrimination.” Leong v. Potter, 347 F.3d 1117, 1124 17 (9th Cir. 2003) (citing McDonnell Douglas, 411 U.S. at 804).

18 A. Prima Facie Case

19 Simmons may establish a prima facie case of discrimination under the McDonnell 20 Douglas framework by showing that: “(1) he is a member of a protected class; (2) he 21 was qualified for his position; (3) he experienced an adverse employment action; and 22 (4) similarly situated individuals outside his protected class were treated more 23 favorably, or other circumstances surrounding the adverse employment action give rise 24 to an inference of discrimination.” Peterson v. Hewlett-Packard Co., 358 F.3d 599, 604 25 (9th Cir. 2004). “The requisite degree of proof necessary to establish a prima facie case 26 for Title VII ... claims on summary judgment is minimal and does not even need to rise 27 to the level of a preponderance of the evidence.” Wallis v. J.R. Simplot Co., 26 F.3d 28 885, 889 (9th Cir. 1994).

1 As a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and a twenty-six 2 year veteran in the finance industry, Simmons belongs to a protected class and was 3 qualified for his position at MSSB. See Christian Sci. Reading Room Jointly 4 Maintained v. City & Cnty. of San Francisco, 784 F.2d 1010, 1012 (9th Cir. 1986).
5 Simmons has provided evidence that he was employed as an “Executive RD” with a 6 base salary of less than half that of the other four “Managing RDs” in his region.
7 (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 10, ECF No. 76 at 279). Accordingly, Kentfield’s decision not to 8 promote Simmons to Managing RD constitutes an adverse employment action. (ECF 9 No. 97 at 5; Saperstein Dep. at 175-76, ECF No. 84 at 15-16); see also Fonseca v. Sysco 10 Food Servs. of Ariz., Inc., 374 F.3d 840, 847 (9th Cir. 2004) (“We define ‘adverse 11 employment action’ broadly.... We have recognized that an adverse employment action 12 exists where an employer’s action negatively affects its employee’s compensation.” 13 (collecting cases)). Simmons’ subsequent termination also constitutes an adverse 14 employment action. Finally, Simmons has provided evidence that, on several occasions, 15 he was singled out and subjected to jokes and ridicule about his religious beliefs.
16 (Simmons Dep. at 69, 71-72, 89, 83, ECF No. 84).

17 The Court finds that Simmons has come forward with sufficient evidence to 18 establish a prima facie case. See Wallis, 36 F.3d at 889. The burden shifts to MSSB to 19 articulate a legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for Simmons’ compensation and 20 termination. See McDonnell Douglas, 411 U.S. at 802.

21 B. Legitimate, Nondiscriminatory Reason

22 According to MSSB, Simmons was fired because he “repeatedly showed poor 23 judgment” and “undermined [MSSB’s] inclusive working environment.” (ECF No. 65-24 1 at 7). MSSB has produced evidence that Simmons was “repeatedly counseled” by 25 Kentfield for showing “poor judgment” in his public speaking; in his disputes with 26 other employees; and in his handling of the Ferrante/Wilson matter, the Las Vegas 27 dinner, and the Greg Fleming meeting. (Kentfield Decl. ¶¶ 7-12, ECF No. 65-3 at 3-6).
28 MSSB asserts that Simmons’ compensation was based on his job title, his length of 1 experience, and the revenues of his region.

2 The Court finds that MSSB has sufficiently articulated facially nondiscriminatory 3 reasons for Simmons' compensation and termination. See, e.g., Pottenger v. Potlach 4 Corp., 329 F.3d 740, 746 (9th Cir. 2003) (finding a legitimate nondiscriminatory reason 5 for termination where supervisor lacked confidence that employee "could make the hard 6 decisions necessary" to turn his division of the company around). Accordingly, the 7 burden shifts back to Simmons to show that these reasons are merely pretext for 8 discrimination.

9 C. Pretext

10 At this step of the McDonnell Douglas framework, "[t]he plaintiff ... must 11 produce sufficient evidence to raise a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the 12 employer's proffered nondiscriminatory reason is merely a pretext for discrimination."
13 Dominguez-Curry, 424 F.3d at 1037 (citation omitted).

14 1. Same actor inference

15 MSSB contends "it is undisputed" that Kentfield, while aware of Simmons' 16 religion, acted as the primary decision maker in both Simmons' promotion and 17 subsequent termination. MSSB contends that Simmons must therefore overcome a 18 "strong inference" that his termination was not based upon a discriminatory motive.
19 Simmons contends that the inference is inapplicable in this case because (1) he was 20 reassigned and then terminated by two distinct groups of MSSB executives, and (2) a 21 genuine issue of material fact exists as to whether Kentfield, although part of each 22 group, was actually responsible for both decisions.

23 "[W]here the same actor is responsible for both the hiring and the firing of a 24 discrimination plaintiff, and both actions occur within a short period of time, a strong 25 inference arises that there was no discriminatory motive." Bradley v. Harcourt, Brace 26 & Co., 104 F.3d 267, 270-71 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing, inter alia, Buhrmaster v. Overnite 27 Transp. Co., 61 F.3d 461, 464 (6th Cir. 1995) ("An individual who is willing to hire and 28 promote a person of a certain class is unlikely to fire them simply because they are a

1 member of that class.”), cert. denied, 516 U.S. 1078 (1996)).

2 In this case, the executives involved in reassigning Simmons as Executive RD 3 were not identical to those involved in terminating his employment. The evidence 4 shows that Kentfield, Saperstein, Skae, Bill McMahon and Charlie Johnson were 5 involved in the reassignment decision, while the termination decision was made by 6 Kentfield, Saperstein, Fleming, Ritzcovan and Hampton. While the parties agree that 7 the evidence shows Kentfield was the primary decisionmaker with respect to Simmons’ 8 termination, see UF 229; ECF No. 90 at 7, the evidence is not clear as to whether 9 Kentfield was the primary decisionmaker for Simmons’ reassignment. MSSB 10 submitted a “2009 MD Promotion Write-Up,” which shows that Simmons was 11 “[n]ominated” by both John Campbell and Kentfield in October 2009. (ECF No. 99-3 12 at 2). Kentfield stated in his declaration: “I made the decision to promote Mr. Simmons 13 to Regional Director ... [while I] was aware that Mr. Simmons is Mormon.” (Kentfield 14 Decl. ¶ 6, ECF No. 65-3 at 3). However, Kentfield also stated: “While I had input on 15 the hiring decisions for the Regional Directors ..., the final decision as to who would be 16 offered which Regional Director positions was made by a group of senior executives 17 in New York.” Id. ¶ 4. Simmons stated in his declaration that he was first made aware 18 of the reassignment decision by “Rick Skae and another high level management 19 executive,” who told him that the decision was made “as result of a management 20 meeting and decision by MSSB Management, including Andy Saperstein, Doug 21 Kentfield, Rick Skae, Bill McMahon, and Charlie Johnson.” (Simmons Decl. ¶ 14, ECF 22 No. 78-4 at 3).

23 Based upon the conflicting evidence of Kentfield’s decisionmaking role in the 24 reassignment decision, the Court cannot conclude that the “same actor” was 25 “responsible” for both actions within the meaning of the same actor inference. Bradley, 26 104 F.3d at 270; see also Juell v. Forest Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 456 F. Supp. 2d 1141 27 (E.D. Cal. 2006) (“[T]he actors involved in Plaintiff’s transfer from Denver to Phoenix 28 and in Plaintiff’s subsequent termination were not identical... The Court accordingly

1 cannot conclude that Durrett’s participation in both actions invokes the same actor
2 inference and requires heightened proof by Plaintiff.”); Pluss v. Safeway, 2006 U.S.
3 Dist. LEXIS 56013 (D. Ariz. July 25, 2006) (declining to apply the same actor inference 4 where there was no evidence that “the common employee in both actions ... was the sole 5 or primary decision maker [for plaintiff’s termination]”). The Court declines to invoke 6 the same actor inference and will not apply a heightened standard of proof for pretext.
7 See, e.g., Godwin v. Hunt Wesson, Inc., 150 F.3d 1217, 221 (9th Cir. 1998) (“Hunt 8 Wesson also disputes that Stipetic was involved in the employment decision, but this 9 dispute is for the trier of fact....”).

10                   2.       Sufficiency of Simmons’ evidence

11               Simmons contends that he has produced “significant” direct and indirect evidence 12 of pretext, including, inter alia, numerous “derogatory, ... patently clear, discriminatory, 13 insidious, [and] ugly” comments made by Kentfield. MSSB contends that Simmons 14 cannot show pretext in this case on the grounds that Kentfield’s alleged comments 15 constitute “stray remarks” unrelated to the termination or compensation decisions at 16 issue. (ECF No. 65-1 at 24-25).

17               To survive summary judgment, Simmons “must produce enough evidence to 18 allow a reasonable factfinder to conclude either: (a) that the alleged reason for 19 [Simmons’] discharge was false, or (b) that the true reason for [his] discharge was a 20 discriminatory one.” Nidds v. Schindler Elevator Corp., 113 F.3d 912, 918 (9th Cir.
21 1996); see also Zeinali v. Raytheon Co., 636 F.3d 544, 552 (9th Cir. 2011) (explaining 22 that a plaintiff can show pretext by “either directly persuading the court that a 23 discriminatory reason more likely motivated the employer or indirectly by showing that 24 the employer’s proffered explanation is unworthy of credence.”). This burden is 25 “hardly an onerous one,” Noyes, 488 F.3d at 1170, and “any indication of 26 discriminatory motive ... may suffice to raise a question that can only be resolved by a 27 fact-finder.” McGinest v. GTE Serv. Corp., 360 F.3d 1103, 1124 (9th Cir. 2004) 28 (citation omitted).

1 Direct evidence, which “proves the fact of discriminatory animus without 2 inference or presumption,” creates a triable issue as to the employer’s motives “even if 3 the evidence is not substantial.” Godwin, 150 F.3d at 1221. Direct evidence “typically 4 consists of clearly sexist, racist, or similarly discriminatory statements or actions by the 5 employer.” Coghlan v. Am. Seafoods Co., 413 F.3d 1090, 1095 (9th Cir. 2005).
6 However, where the plaintiff relies on circumstantial evidence, the evidence must be 7 “specific and substantial.” Godwin, 150 F.3d at 1222. In Godwin, female employees 8 were not invited to company hunting and fishing trips; the plaintiff’s supervisor 9 commented that he “did not want to deal with another female;” and the company’s 10 president made derogatory comments about women. Id. The plaintiff in Godwin also 11 presented indirect evidence suggesting that the employer’s proffered reason for not 12 hiring her – that the selected male applicant had a more pleasant personality – was mere 13 pretext. The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit found this combination of direct 14 and indirect evidence sufficient to raise a genuine issue of fact regarding whether the 15 employer’s proffered nondiscriminatory reason was legitimate.

16 In this case, similar to Godwin, Simmons has demonstrated an issue of fact as to 17 pretext both directly, with evidence of discriminatory animus, and indirectly, by 18 demonstrating that MSSB’s explanation may not be worthy of credence.

19 First, Simmons has provided direct evidence creating an issue of fact as to 20 whether a discriminatory reason more likely motivated MSSB. Simmons has provided 21 evidence that could, if found credible, show that Kentfield harbored animus against him 22 because he is Mormon. Simmons points to “repeated and insidious” statements that 23 Kentfield made about Simmons’ religion, including references to his “wives”, his six 24 children, and his abstinence from alcohol on religious grounds. (Simmons Dep. at 71-25 72, 76, 89, ECF No. 84 at 28). Simmons testified that Kentfield told him, shortly before 26 his termination: “You can never fucking talk about your fucking religion again at this 27 firm because everybody hates your fucking religion.” (Simmons Dep. at 161-64, ECF 28 No. 76 at 132-33). Comments such as these directly suggest the existence of bias and 1 require no inferences to find discriminatory animus. See Godwin, 150 F.3d at 1221.

2       The Court does not find that these alleged comments constitute “stray remarks” 3 unrelated to the decisional process that courts have held insufficient to establish 4 discrimination. Cf. Smith v. Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., 875 F.2d 1325, 1330 (7th 5 Cir. 1989) (noting that stray “remarks, ... when unrelated to the decisional process, are 6 insufficient to demonstrate that the employer relied on illegitimate criteria, even when 7 such statements are made by the decisionmaker in issue”); Nesbit v. Pepsico, Inc., 994 8 F.2d 703, 705 (9th Cir. 1993) (corporate officer’s statement that “we don’t necessarily 9 like grey hair” not sufficient to withstand summary judgment in age discrimination suit 10 where comment had no direct relationship to plaintiff). Kentfield stated, and MSSB 11 acknowledges, that he was the primary decisionmaker with respect to Simmons’ 12 termination. “Where a decisionmaker makes a discriminatory remark against a member 13 of the plaintiff’s class, a reasonable factfinder may conclude that discriminatory animus 14 played a role in the challenged decision.” Dominguez-Curry, 424 F.3d at 1038 (citation 15 omitted); see also Mondero v. Salt River Project, 400 F.3d 1207, 1212 (9th Cir. 2005) 16 (“An agent’s biased remarks against an employee because of his or her gender are 17 admissible to show an employer’s discriminatory animus if the agent was involved in 18 the employment decision.”). Moreover, the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit 19 “ha[s] repeatedly held that a single discriminatory comment by a plaintiff’s supervisor 20 or decisionmaker is sufficient to preclude summary judgment for the employer.” 21 Dominguez-Curry, 424 F.3d at 1039 (citing, e.g., Chuang v. Univ. of California Davis, 22 Bd. of Trustees, 225 F.3d 1115, 1128 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding that a decisionmaker’s 23 remark that “two Chinks in the pharmacology department were ‘more than enough’” 24 was “an egregious and bigoted insult ... that constitutes strong evidence of 25 discriminatory animus on the basis of national origin”); Cordova v. State Farm Ins.
26 Companies, 124 F.3d 1145, 1149 (9th Cir. 1997) (holding that an employer’s reference 27 to an employee as a “dumb Mexican” “could be proof of discrimination against 28 [plaintiff] despite their reference to another agent and their utterance after the hiring

1 decision”)).

2 Simmons also provides circumstantial evidence from which discriminatory intent 3 can be inferred. According to Simmons, when Kentfield learned of his Mormon 4 religion during his first interview for the Regional Director position, the tenor of the 5 conversation changed and the interview quickly drew to a close; Simmons was not 6 offered the job. (Simmons Dep. at 65-67, ECF No. 84 at 25-28). There is evidence that 7 Kentfield failed to intervene when he witnessed other MSSB employees joking about 8 Simmons’ religion. Id. at 89. “[An employer’s] permissive response to harassing 9 actions undertaken by coworkers and supervisors, combined with the absence of [other 10 members of plaintiff’s protected class] in the workplace, ... is circumstantial evidence 11 of pretext.” McGinest, 360 F.3d at 1123. Simmons submits the deposition transcript 12 of David Fields, a former colleague of Kentfield’s at Smith Barney, who stated that 13 Kentfield once explained to him: “[I do] not trust people who don’t drink” because “it 14 either means [they have] a drinking problem and [cannot] control it, or it mean[s] [they 15 are] overly religious. And those ‘holier than thou’s,’ I don’t trust them. They’re the first 16 ones to fuck ya.” (Fields Dep. at 32, ECF No. 76 at 26). Based on this evidence, a 17 reasonable factfinder could infer that Kentfield harbored animosity towards Simmons 18 because of Simmons’ Mormon beliefs.

19 Simmons has provided indirect evidence creating an issue of fact as to whether 20 MSSB’s explanations are worthy of credence. Simmons submits his 2010 mid-year and 21 end-year performance reviews conducted by Kentfield, which are in many ways 22 positive. (Def. Ex. A-B, ECF No. 65-3 at 10-17). Simmons stated, based on his own 23 unsuccessful attempts at firing MSSB employees, that MSSB deviated from its “firmly 24 entrenched progressive discipline process” in his case because he “never received any 25 written warning, written reprimand, or written discipline” prior to his termination.
26 (Simmons Decl. ¶ 18-22, ECF No. 78-4 at 3-4). “A plaintiff may ... raise a triable issue 27 of pretext through evidence that an employer’s deviation from established policy or 28 practice worked to her disadvantage.” Earl v. Nielsen Media Research, Inc., 658 F.3d

1 1108, 1117 (9th Cir. 2011). Simmons submits evidence showing that MSSB initially 2 classified his termination as “not for cause,” only to change that position after this 3 litigation commenced. “Fundamentally different justifications for an employer’s action 4 ... give rise to a genuine issue of fact with respect to pretext.” Pottenger, 329 F.3d at 5 740. Although Kentfield stated that Simmons’ termination was coded as “not for 6 cause” “based on ... the severance package to Mr. Simmons” (Kentfield Dep. at 32, ECF 7 No. 79 at 31), the weight to give Kentfield’s testimony is a question for the trier of fact.
8 See Payne v. Norwest Corp., 113 F.3d 1079, 1080 (9th Cir. 1997) (explaining that, 9 while “shifting explanations are acceptable when viewed in the context of other 10 surrounding events ... such weighing of the evidence is for a jury, not a judge”).

11 With respect to compensation, the evidence shows that Simmons, out of the five 12 RDs overseen by Kentfield, received the largest performance bonus for 2010 – as 13 determined by Saperstein (UF No. 95) – but the lowest base salary. (Ritzcovan Decl.
14 ¶ 10, ECF No. 76 at 279-80). Ritzcovan stated that in order for an Executive RD to be 15 promoted to Managing RD and receive the corresponding base salary increase, the 16 Executive RD’s Divisional Director, e.g. Kentfield, had to first recommend that 17 promotion to Saperstein. (Ritzcovan Decl. ¶ 6). The evidence shows that Kentfield told 18 Ritzcovan that he would “NOT” promote Simmons to Managing RD. (Pl. Ex. 16, ECF 19 No. 97 at 5).

20 Viewing all the direct and indirect evidence cumulatively, in the light most 21 favorable to Simmons and resolving all inferences in his favor, the Court concludes 22 there is a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the adverse employment 23 determinations at issue were motivated by religious bias rather than the 24 nondiscriminatory explanations proffered by MSSB. See Noyes, 488 F.3d at 1170 25 (“All of the evidence as to pretext ... is to be considered cumulatively.”).

26 II. Punitive Damages

27 MSSB moves for summary judgment on Simmons’ request for punitive damages 28 on the ground that “there is no merit to his underlying claims.” (ECF No. 65-1 at 30).

1 MSSB contends that Simmons’ allegations “amount to a few stray remarks, ... none of 2 which, when taken in context, evidence any bias against Simmons’ religion.” Id.

3 To recover punitive damages, Simmons must establish oppression, fraud or 4 malice by clear and convincing evidence. See Cal. Civ. Code § 3294(a). Viewing all 5 the evidence in the light most favorable to Simmons, the Court concludes that 6 reasonable jurors could find, by clear and convincing evidence, that Kentfield’s alleged 7 conduct was oppressive or malicious. Summary judgment on punitive damages is 8 denied.

9 III. Evidentiary Objections

10 The Court’s denial of MSSB’s Motion for Summary Judgment is not based on 11 any evidence to which MSSB filed objections. Accordingly, MSSB’s objections (ECF 12 No. 90-2) to evidence submitted by Simmons in opposition to the Motion for Summary 13 Judgment are denied as moot.

14 CONCLUSION

15 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Motion for Summary Judgment (ECF No.
16 65) filed by Defendant Morgan Stanley Smith Barney, LLC is DENIED.
