UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE
COMMISSION,

Plaintiff,

v.

LOUIS V. SCHOOLER and FIRST
FINANCIAL PLANNING
CORPORATION, dba Western
Financial Planning Corporation,

Defendants.

Case No. 3:12-cv-2164-GPC-JMA

NOTICE OF TENTATIVE RULING
ON SUA SPONTE
RECONSIDERATION OF AUGUST
16, 2013 ORDER TO RELEASE
GENERAL PARTNERSHIPS
FROM RECEIVERSHIP

On March 13, 2013, the Court issued its Preliminary Injunction Order and Order Appointing Thomas C. Hebrank Permanent Receiver (“Injunction Order”). (ECF No. 174.) The Injunction Order provides that Mr. Hebrank (“Receiver”) be appointed over defendant Western and the several general partnerships (“GPs”) that Defendants organized to hold interests in real property.

On August 16, 2013, the Court issued its Order Granting in Part and Denying in Part Defendants’ Motion to Modify Preliminary Injunction Order (“Modification Order”). (ECF No. 470.) The Modification Order provides, among other things, that

1 the GPs should be released from the receivership upon satisfaction of certain
2 conditions. (Id. at 25-27.) Defendants and the SEC each appealed the Modification
3 Order. (ECF Nos. 499, 514.)

4 On April 25, 2014, the Court issued its Order Denying Defendants’ Motion for 5 Partial Summary Judgment and Granting in Part and Denying in Part Plaintiff’s Motion
6 for Partial Summary Judgment (“Summary Judgment Order”). (ECF No. 583.) In the 7 Summary Judgment Order, the Court concluded the interests in real property that
8 Defendants sold to investors are, as a matter of law, securities in the form of investment
9 contracts. Per this conclusion, the Court found good cause to reconsider whether to 10 release the GPs from the receivership.

11 After the Court indicated it would reconsider the Modification Order, the SEC
12 moved for and was granted a stay of the parties’ cross-appeals before the Ninth Circuit.
13 (ECF No. 604.) The Ninth Circuit remanded the case to this Court for the express
14 purpose of reconsidering the Modification Order.

15 The Court specifically asked the parties to brief the following three issues: (1)
16 “how the parties’ cross-appeals to the Ninth Circuit affect the Court’s desire to 17 reconsider” the Modification Order; (2) “whether, given the Court’s conclusion that the 18 GP units are securities, the Court should reconsider its order removing the GPs from 19 the receivership”; and (3) “the need to provide investors with an opportunity to file
20 briefs and appear at the July 18, 2014 hearing.” The parties have filed opening and 21 responsive briefs on these issues. (ECF Nos. 586, 588, 589, 591.) The Court has also 22 received and considered dozens of letters from investors who are primarily concerned
23 with being granted an opportunity to be heard and with their being included in the 24 receivership. (See, e.g., ECF Nos. 611, 615.)

25 The Court now provides notice of its tentative rulings on these issues.

26 1. Effect of Parties’ Cross-Appeals

27 Because the Ninth Circuit has remanded the case “for the limited purpose of 28 permitting th[is] [C]ourt to reconsider the August 16, 2013 order,” (ECF No. 604), the

1 Court will proceed with reconsidering the Modification Order.

2 2. Reconsideration of August 16, 2013 Modification Order

3 The Court concludes the GPs should remain in the receivership for two main 4 reasons.

5 First, because the Court has concluded the GP units are—as a matter of 6 law—securities in the form of investment contracts, and because an investment contract
7 is “a contract, transaction, or scheme whereby a person invests his money in a common
8 enterprise and is led to expect profits solely from the efforts of the promoter or a third
9 party,” SEC v. W.J. Howey Co., 328 U.S. 293, 298-99 (1946) (emphasis added), it
10 follows that the GPs in this case have been found to depend on Defendants for a return
11 on their investments. See also Hocking v. Dubois, 885 F.2d 1449, 1455 (9th Cir. 1989)
12 (explaining that the Ninth Circuit has “dropped the term ‘solely’ and instead require[s]
13 that ‘the efforts by those other than the investor are the undeniably significant ones,
14 those essential managerial efforts which affect the failure or success of the 15 enterprise’”).

16 Second, because the GPs have always depended on Defendants to carry out the 17 essential functions of this enterprise, it follows that a receiver stepping into 18 Defendants’ prior role during the pendency of this litigation is appropriate to ensure 19 investors’ interests are protected. While the day-to-day operations of the GPs may be 20 uncomplicated (as the Court has previously found), it has become clear that the 21 essential functions of this enterprise require centralized management. The essential
22 functions of this enterprise include, among other activities: (1) finding raw land; (2)
23 purchasing the raw land with cash and/or seller financing; (3) organizing GPs to hold
24 the raw land; (4) selling or financing interests in the GPs to individual investors across
25 the; (5) organizing the GPs into co-tenancies to hold undivided parcels of the raw land;
26 (6) receiving and evaluating offers to buy the raw land; (7) communicating offers to 27 investors with recommendations on whether to sell the raw land; and (8) coordinating 28 decisions amongst co-tenants regarding disposition of the raw land.

1 Most co-tenancies require a unanimous vote before any action may be taken with 2 regard to an underlying property. Because each GP may consist of hundreds of 3 investors from around the country, and because each co-tenancy may consist of several
4 GPs, it is clear that hundreds, if not thousands of investors, would have to communicate
5 and collaborate before a property may, for example, be sold. On one hand, it may be 6 determined that this co-tenancy arrangement is feasible without the management and 7 guidance that Defendants have historically provided. But because Defendants have 8 always coordinated such communication and collaboration among investors, because
9 the Court has found investors depend on Defendants to do so, and because the Receiver
10 has merely stepped into the shoes of Defendants (or at least Western), the Court
11 concludes it is appropriate to keep the GPs in the receivership.

12 3. Due Process

13 Because the Court now concludes the GPs should remain in the receivership, the 14 Court finds it appropriate to give the GPs—all of which already have notice of this 15 action—an opportunity to be heard. See In re San Vicente Med. Partners Ltd., 962
16 F.2d 1402, 1407 (9th Cir. 1992).

17 The Court will set a hearing on October 3, 2014, at 1:30 p.m., at which the GPs
18 will be permitted to respond to the Court's decision to keep the GPs in the receivership.
19 Each GP will be permitted to file a single brief, not to exceed fifteen (15) pages, in 20 response to the Court's decision to keep the GPs in the receivership (briefs on behalf 21 of individual investors will not be accepted). If a GP does not wish to file a brief, but 22 does wish to appear at the October 3, 2014 hearing, the GP will be permitted to file a
23 notice of intention to appear at the hearing. All briefs and notices of intention to 24 appear must be filed with the Court and served on or before September 5, 2014. Any 25 response to the GP briefs shall be filed and served on or before September 19, 2014.
26 At the October 3, 2014 hearing, each GP will be given fifteen (15) minutes to address
